An exploration of the phenomenon of the Uncanny as it has been represented in literature, the graphic arts, and film. Material is principally drawn from four eras: the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, the nineteenth century, and the twentieth century. Artists range from Holbein and Bosch to Kafka and Hitchcock. Formerly HU 410

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 927 - Detective Film and Fiction

An examination of the genre known as hard-boiled detective fiction as it developed in literature and then was extended by feature films. Among the authors to be considered are Dashiell Hammett, Raymond Chandler, and Ross MacDonald; among the films are The Maltese Falcon, The Big Sleep, and The Long Goodbye. Formerly HU 412

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 930 - Shakespeare

The dramatic works of the supreme writer of the English Renaissance: Shakespeare. A selection of his comedies, histories, tragedies, and romances are read. Focuses on the plays not only as literary accomplishments but also as theatrical performances existing in three-dimensional space. Concerned with both the parameters of the original Renaissance stage and with modern translations and transformations of the plays. Formerly HU 411

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 951 - American Playwrights

A study of the American theater in the past 75 years, looking at the works of such authors as O'Neill, Miller, Williams, Albee, and Shepard. Theater trips as well as showings of filmed plays. Formerly HU 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 953 - Art of Song Lyric

A study of how contemporary song lyrics developed from the tradition of lyric poetry and folk ballads. Line-by-line analysis of famous lyric poems from literary history. Popular songs of the past 50 years are used in the discussion of the problems and challenges of putting words to music, with special attention paid to Bob Dylan. Other artists include Billie Holiday, Simon and Garfunkel, the Mamas and the Papas, the Rolling Stones, Led Zeppelin, and Stevie Wonder. There is a substantial writing requirement: students may elect to study poetry, librettos, or song lyrics or to write original song lyrics of their own. Formerly HU 417

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 955 - Dante in the Modern World

Dante's Divine Comedy has been highly influential on art, music, and drama from its own time to the present. The shaping power of the poet's journey, his search for answers to ultimate questions, his quest for order and its reflection in his art continue to inspire reactions from fellow artists. The course considers a number of works reflecting this influence in several media: drama (Beckett, Sartre, Brecht), poetry (Baudelaire), music (Liszt, Puccini, Zandonai), and the visual arts. We concentrate on the Inferno, but also consider the Paradiso and Purgatorio. Formerly HU 495

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 961 - Avant Garde Cinema

An examination of the arts of experimental film and video. The exploration of mental states, visual metaphors, process, and non-traditional forms and structures are central to the course. In addition, the focus is on the co-existence of avant-garde film and video with their commercial counterparts. Also examines film and video language in relation to other art languages. Formerly HU 344

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 963 - American Film Genres

A course, the content of which varies each time it is offered, that considers various film genres and styles in American cinema, such as comedy, film noir, the Western, the musical, and the American independent film. Formerly HU 349

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 964 - Electronic Video

The course traces the history of video as an art form from the early 1960s to the present. Basic film concepts are reviewed in their application to emerging new electronic formats. Video art is examined in all of its aspects as computer art, installation, and sculpture. The survey explores the variety of styles, genres, and forms that constitute the distinctive achievement of American video art. The videotapes and documentation of artists' projects are examined and placed within the social and cultural context in which they were produced. The market forces and the political/psychological systems shaping the audience and creating an increasingly problematic role for artists are an important consideration. Formerly HU 351

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 965 - Literature and Film: From Text to Screen

Explores the conceptual and the technical leap between the written text and its transformation to a cinematic text on the screen. The students examine what happens to plot, characterization, bound and free description when a narrative text is converted to an audio-visual presentation. In certain examples, the transformation of narrative structure is from the novel to the screenplay to the finished film. Students gain insights into the relationships between written and filmed dialogue, between written description and cinematic mise-en-scene, between the novel's omniscient narrator and the film's voice-over. Formerly HU 413

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 966 - Becoming an Artist

Texts by Mann, Rilke, Joyce, and Cather are used to explore the idea of artistic vocation in the modern era, leading to exploration in the fields of poetry, sculpture, painting, music, and opera.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 973 - Advanced Playwriting

A follow-up to Playwriting. Students further develop their writing and revising skills. In addition, the class analyzes selected contemporary plays, and write playwrights' critiques of modern theatrical practices. Students complete a polished one-act or radio drama.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LALL 873

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 975 - Advanced Fiction Writing Workshop

A follow-up to the Fiction Writing Workshop. Students produce, critique, read, and revise short stories in a more inviting intensive environment. Goals are to hone critical skills, develop and refine students' individual voices, and provide a portfolio of finished pieces.

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

LAPI 811 - Art Nouveau and Aestheticism

Many threads of social, political, cultural, technological, architectural, crafts, and art history are drawn together to explore the foundations of Art Nouveau and Aestheticism and their manifestations in Europe and the United States.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 820 - Rome From Julius Ceasar Through Nero

This course is a study of the transition of Rome from a Republic to an Empire, focusing on the Julio-Claudian line, which began with Julius Ceasar and ended with Nero. This course examines the historical background and the religious, social, and economic issues that facilitated such a transition. Accompanying the transition was a flourishing of poetry, due in part to the patronage system and in part to increased literacy of the Roman people. Economic prosperity among the upper classes led to an increased demand for architecture, visual arts (painting and sculpture), and public entertainment (theater, music and dance, spectacles, gladiatorial combats). At the same time, the division among the social classes became even more dramatic, and government censorship and intrusion into private life emerged as major concerns under Augustus. Through the use of primary sources, class handouts, and independent study, students are encouraged to investigate the transition from Republic to Empire and to explore possible parallels in contemporary U.S. history.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 821 - The Apocalyptic Age: 1850 – 1914

An examination of the apocalyptic themes in the context of modern intellectual and artistic developments in the West at the turn of the twentieth-century. Connections are drawn between religious interpretations of the Apocalypse and the apocalyptic motifs in modern art and literature.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 822 - Age of Reason, Age of Satire: 1750 - 1800

An examination of the cultural history of England in the last half of the eighteenth-century, focusing on two preoccupations of the day: rationalism and satire. The class introduces philosophic and political documents that justified the American and French Revolutions, and then turns to satire in fiction in the visual arts. The term closes with a discussion of the twentieth-century satire and rationalism, our legacy from the Enlightenment and Revolutionary periods

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 823 - Victorian England: Dr. Jekyll or Mr. Hyde?

This course is a study of the two faces of Victorian England: (1) the respectable and highly moralistic image reflected in much of the art as well as in social and cultural norms and (2) the underbelly of violence and perversion, reflected not only in the decadent artists of the 1890s but also in the social underworld of Jack the Ripper and the increasing population of prostitutes. The course also examines the historical background and the political, social, and economic issues that made such a dichotomy virtually inevitable. Artists who understood this dichotomy, in varying terms, are emphasized: Stevenson, Tennyson, Browning, the Pre-Raphaelites, Gilbert and Sullivan, Wilde, and Beardsley. Through reading, lectures, class discussion, and independent study students investigate the two faces of Victorian England and explore possible parallels in contemporary U.S. society.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 831 - Chartres Cathedral: Politics, Society, and the Arts 12th - 13th Century France

A consideration of the architecture, sculpture, stained glass, illuminated manuscripts, costume and liturgical vessels, and music that contributed to Chartres Cathedral, the major gothic monument of the 12th - 13th century France. At the end of the course, we consider the work presently being done to configure a sacred space in New York to honor the 9/11 site.

Prerequisites: LACR 102

LAPI 832 - Bodily and Spiritual Love: The Language of Love in the Late Middle Ages

An investigation of the language of erotic and religious love in the rich art and thought of the late Middle Ages. Resources include painting, book illumination, music, spiritual literature, theology, philosophy.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 834 - Age of the Medici: 1375 - 1800

This course is a study of Florence in the Renaissance in the context of other Italian city-states and covers the period from the republican regime at the end of the fourteenth century to the Medici's total assumption of power with a ducal title (1375 - 1532). The course examines the pursuing of humanistic studies by a large part of citizenry that sustained the republican ideology of that society; Florence political and societal evolution from a republic to an autocratic regime; the flourishing arts and sciences, particularly under the first dynasty of the Medici. It also investigates the reasons why, despite the erosion of political freedom, intellectual and artistic creativity enjoyed one of the most brilliant seasons in human history. In conclusion, the study of Florence's political evolution in the Renaissance leads to consideration on the fragility of free government and civil liberties in the present world. In our investigation we make use of primary sources and modern scholarship.

Prerequisites: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 920 - Berlin: The 1920s

The twentieth century saw a cultural shift of nearly seismic proportions from communal sources of identity to an apparent freedom to invent the self, from work ethic to consumer values, from traditional word-based forms of expression to a visual culture. The artists and writers of Weimar, Germany were among the first to register these revolutionary social changes and to articulate the tensions they continue to generate. The course emphasizes film, photographic and graphic arts, and performance from Berlin. Examples include works by Bertolt Brecht, Fritz Lang, and John Heartfield. The course connects the past to the present by comparing issue-based art of the 1920s with cultural critiques by contemporary media artists.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: HU 103B or LACR 210; LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 923 - The Age of Apartheid

By focusing on the apartheid era of South Africa, this interdisciplinary course explores critical issues of the twentieth century, such as racism, economic exploitation, urbanization, and political protest. We use South African theater, literature, and music to understand the culture that gave them birth, and read original sources written by leaders such as Ghandi, De Klerk, and Mandela. Formerly HU 276

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 924 - Existential Paris: 1938 - 1959

An examination of the central ideas and creative works associated with Parisian Existentialism and the way in which they both shaped, and were shaped by, the cultural period in which they emerged: Nazi-occupied Paris, the liberated Paris after World War II, and the Cold War. Other artistic productions not specifically linked with existentialism but which emerged during its period of ascendance are also explored.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 925 - New York in the 1950s

This course investigates the arts centered in 1950s New York (with an emphasis on jazz, literature, and painting) in the context of a decade characterized by rising consumerism, conformity, corporate capitalism, and emerging popular arts that would re-shape American culture from then on. This is also the decade of Red Scare paranoia, A-bomb anxiety, Cold War blues, and deep doubts about the American Dream.

In addition to the assigned readings, papers, and discussions, students pursue their own interests in the decade through individual projects in the second half of the course. As a supplement to the course, a number of special screening of films important to the decade are shown several times during the term. Students are expected to see and complete exercises on at least three of the films.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 926 - Les Amis de Paris: 1904-1913

This course examines the friendship and work of a select group of artists living in Paris between 1904 and 1913. Studying the biographical and interpersonal layers of their relationships and artwork provides new insight into the legacy of these masters. The literature of Gertrude Stein, Apollinaire, and others, the visual art of Picasso, Matisse and the Cubists, as well as other materials and mediums contribute to understanding how this particular circle of friends cultivated the artistic and intellectual leaps that created Modernism. Interdisciplinary methods for creating cultural models are explored.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 927 - Becoming Modern: 1900 - 1914

An exploration of the innovations in the arts in the first decade and a half of the twentieth century when becoming Modern was the challenge facing every artist. The results were works that called into question almost every previous assumption about the arts. This was a period also characterized by radical changes in technology, in science, in philosophy, and in politics. This course investigates a wide range of material in order to bring some clarity to the elusive term "modern." In addition to the assigned readings, papers, and discussions, students pursue their own interests in the decade through independent study "side trips" in the second half of the course.

Prerequisites: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 928 - Franco's Spain: An Open Wound

This course begins with an exploration of the historical, social, political, and religious factors that led to the Spanish Civil War and the dictatorship of Franco. Its emphasis then shifts to the effect of Franco's victory on Spanish art and on the art of Republican sympathizers from other countries. Included are the three major Spanish painters of the period (Picasso, Dali, and Miro), the major playwright of the period (Garcia Lorca), the major poets of the period (Unamuno, Cernuda, Machado, Jimenez, de Biedma, Montalban), and prominent sympathizers from the U.S. (Ernest Hemingway, Langston Hughes). Also addressed are the yet unresolved issues of Basque separatism and Catalan independence – issues that Franco exacerbated with violent suppression. Two films from the 21st century – Manuel Gutierrez Aragon's Visionarios and Miguel Courois' El Lobo – offer insight into the aftermath of Franco's dictatorship and how its effects still haunt Spanish culture.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 811 - Introduction to Philosophy

A course specifically tailored to students with no experience in reading philosophy. Several basic issues in philosophy are considered, including freedom, God, morality, death, mind, appearance, and reality. In addition to brief readings of primary sources, we read discussions of these issues plus innovative fiction illustrating salient points. Formerly HU 274

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 812 - Introduction to Chinese Philosophy

This course explores three basic elements of Chinese philosophy: Taoism, Confucianism, and Buddhism. We study and analyze such questions as “What is the tao?”, “Does Confucianism necessarily mean conformity?”, and “How does Buddhist thinking ‘fit’ with contemporary Western and Westernized society?” Students examine these and other related themes through primary source readings and later commentaries. This course has a particular focus on developing a deep understanding of the meanings and interpretations of these Chinese ways of thinking. Formerly HU 309

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 813 - Greek Philosophy

We examine fragments from pre-Socratic philosophers, following which we consider the writings of Plato, including three or four dialogues and the Republic. Finally, we read selections from Aristotle's writings on physics, the soul, and aesthetics. Formerly HU 370

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 831 - Introduction to the Bible

The main themes of the Bible are explored from a modern, critical, nondenominational point of view. No knowledge of the Bible is assumed. Using historical and literary analysis, continuities as well as differences between the Hebrew and Christian testaments are examined. Formerly HU 268

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 832 - Introduction to World Religion

An exploration of world religious traditions originating in Africa, the Americas, China, India, Japan, and the Middle East. Religions are studied in their historical and cultural context, including their development in various times and places, and their beliefs regarding the cosmos, society, the self, and good and evil. Formerly HU 292

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 841 - Comparative Religion: Religions of Asia

A study of the world's Asian religions through their historical development, beliefs, sacred literature, and the works of contemporary writers. The course discusses Hinduism, Buddhism, and Taoism. Formerly HU 466

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 842 - Comparative Religions: Religions in America

A historical study of beliefs and practices of various religious groups that have shaped American culture, including Mormons, Jehovah's Witnesses, Christian Scientists, Scientologists and others. We discuss traditional main-line groups as well as newer movements, and pay special attention to ethnic and racial minorities, as well as to women in American religion. Formerly HU 467

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 850 - Introduction to Aesthetics

An introduction to the philosophy of art. After a brief examination of analytic philosophical methods and the history of aesthetics, we consider some of the fundamental problems in aesthetics, such as the intention of the artist, the physical object/aesthetic object distinction, and the nature and comparison of different kinds of media. The relationship between language and art are central to the course. Formerly HU 270

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 851 - Arts Criticism

A writing course designed to promote understanding and interpretation of the arts across a multidisciplinary spectrum and to provide students with the basic tools of critical analysis. Group discussion and selected readings. Formerly HU 323

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 853 - Ethics

The history of ethics and the fundamental ethical problems that have concerned philosophers for the past 2,500 years. The study begins with Plato and Aristotle and extends to the contemporary analytic philosophy, phenomenology, and existentialism. Problems include the “is/ought” distinction, the ultimate objective of life, religious issues, human rights, justice, and welfare. Formerly HU 373

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 855 - Style in Art

A seminar exploring the question of style in the literary, visual, and performing arts as well as in craft and applied arts (including film, industrial design, and the fashion industry). We consider theories about organicism and periodicity in style, as they relate to tradition, trends, social and economic conditions, and evolving cultural norms. Themes include: ateliers and authorship; historic “revivals,” changing standards of beauty and form; and stylistic phases in the careers of major writers, artists, and composers. The aim of the course is to develop a practical, descriptive vocabulary for the analysis of artistic style. Formerly HU 395

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 861 - Understanding Music

What makes a phenomenon musical? What are people doing when they make or listen to music? Can musical understanding be fully grasped through listening? These and similar questions represent an effort to find something that lies at the core of our humanity, and that may be in danger of being lost. We start from the simple assumption that, in order to find something, we must try to grasp what is essential about it. Ranging between the hows and whys of music, the course explores the origins of human music-making, the psychology of aural awareness, the strategies of organized musical expression, and the construction of musical meaning in relation to culture. Formerly HU 259

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 862 - Dance & Expressive Culture

Dance is woven into the mythology, theater, music, poetry, and literature of many cultures. The course considers dance as it has influenced and has been influenced by these forms of creative expression in the Western World. Formerly HU 293

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 911 - Contemporary Philosophy

An examination of some of the problems occupying today's philosophers and the strategies they have devised to address them. Formerly HU 474

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 912 - Vienna and Berlin: 1890-1925

At the beginning of the twentieth century, Vienna and Berlin were important centers during one of the richest periods in cultural and artistic history of the Western world. Much of the science and art of this century were given their focus and thrust by the men of genius working in these two cities. In this course, students study the works of Einstein, Freud, Mahler, Schoenberg, Wittgenstein, Kafka, and the German Expressionists. This is an inter-disciplinary course involving the visual, musical, and literary arts, as well as philosophy. Formerly HU 492

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 913 - Continental Philosophy and Existentialism

Continental philosophy examined as a Western alternative to the analytic method. Following some historical background, the concentration is on the works of Jean-Paul Sartre; readings from both his philosophic works and his literary works. Formerly HU 372

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 932 - Eastern Religions

This course explores the following religions: Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Shintoism. Each is studied in its historical and cultural context, including its development into various forms over the years and in different places, and its beliefs regarding views of the cosmos, society, the self, and good and evil. In addition to a text, students read from the literature of each religion. Formerly HU 367

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 933 - Introduction to Zen Buddhism

An examination of the Zen understanding of being human: the problem of human existence Zen seeks to resolve, the liberation it claims to achieve, the meaning of the satori or "Awakening" which Zen claims is the basis of this liberation, the Zen koan as the meaning through which the Awakening is attained, the art that results from Awakening, and the possible contributions of Zen to the contemporary spiritual, philosophic, and artistic situation in the West.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 950 - Aesthetics Seminar

Advanced philosophic problems related to works of art and discourse about works of art. The analytic method of philosophic inquiry is reviewed and the philosophy of Wittgenstein and other 20th century philosophers interested in the philosophy of language is discussed. Language of Art by Nelson Goodman is also examined. Formerly HU 478

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 951 - Art, Media and Society

A seminar exploring the identity crisis of the modern artist in the period since the industrial revolution and the rise of the middle class. Conflicts or collaborations between the fine arts and commercialism, including mass media and new technology, from Romanticism and the arts and crafts movement to Pop Art and the Web. Issues of authorship, production, quality, and permanence. Who determines taste, and why? Does high art have a future? Formerly HU 498

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 961 - Opera and Politics

Throughout the history of its civilization, whether at court or in public theaters, opera has exhibited a magnetic pull on artists and audiences attracted to the exploration of political themes. This course examines operatic instantiations of the conflict between social conformity and personal freedom, the hedonistic abuse of power, the glorification of past achievements in order to deflect attention from present impotence, the retreat from political disillusionment, and idealized interior worlds. General commentary on musical, formal, and dramatic elements characteristic of historical periods alternates with closer analysis of specific works. Formerly HU 294

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 962 - Diaghilev and the Ballet Russe

This course investigates the role of the impresario Serge Diaghilev and his Ballets Russes in shaping the course of music and dance ca. 1909-1929. Special emphasis is placed on the relationships between various artists, dancers, choreographers, and writers including Michel Fokine, Alexandre Benois, Pablo Picasso, Jean Cocteau, Vaslav Nijinsky, Tamara Karsavina, George Balanchine, Leon Bakst, Leonide Massine, and others. Works studied include Igor Stravinsky's Firebird, Petrushka, Rite of Spring, Les Noces, and Chloe; Erik Satie's Parade; Manuel de Falla's The Three-Cornered Hat; Darius Milhaud's Le Train bleu; Francis Poulenc's Les Biches; Serge Prokofiev's Chout The Buffoon; and Constant Lambert's Romeo and Juliet. In addition, excerpts from other Diaghilev ballets are introduced. The course focuses on activities in Paris. Formerly HU 449

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 972 - Women and Sex Roles

An introduction to the history of women and to theories of gender. An interdisciplinary course combining history, literature, and the visual arts. Slide lectures on images of women in art, myth, and religions, from ancient times to modern. Economic and historical factors affecting how women have lived. Definitions of masculinity and femininity. The nature-nurture debate over hormonal differences. Formerly HU 497

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 801 - Fundamentals of College Mathematics

An introduction to the fundamental mathematical principles and operations used in undergraduate courses in the physical and social sciences. Topics include sets, logic, probability, statistics, number theory, algebra, and geometry. Meets with LACR 226. Formerly HU 282A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 802 - Calculus

An introduction to calculus with the emphasis on the applications of differential and integral calculus to the physical and social sciences. Formerly HU 282B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102, LASM 801 Students with equivalent college-level mathematics, or precollege advanced algebra and geometry should request special permission.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 803 - Probability

This class introduces some of the most fundamental ideas in classical probability. Polling techniques, casino gambling, weather forecasting, and lotteries are a few areas in which the principles of probability directly influence our lives. Modern science depends upon probability to build mathematical descriptions of the real world. This course explores the concepts of probability in an intuitive and accessible way, understandable to beginners. Topics include sample spaces, counting, conditional probability, and the concept of independence, game theory, random variables, and the law of large numbers. Formerly HU 283

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 810 - Life Sciences

Life forms in the context of current adaptations and evolutionary history. Special emphasis is placed on an exploration of evolutionary relationships, ecological specialization, and the dynamic relationships of organisms in an integrated ecosystem. Formerly HU 285A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 811 - Contemporary Issues in Life Sciences

Each semester this course explores one area of current research in the life sciences by focusing on three significant issues in the current scientific literature. Students participate in a series of semi-independent inquiry activities. For each research issue, student teams complete a “challenge” that demonstrates their ability to understand, collect, interpret and apply appropriate information in order to propose solutions and to convince classmates of the success of their approaches. Formerly HU 289

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 830 - Physical Sciences

An investigation of astronomy, geology, and other physical sciences, including the origin of the universe and solar system and the nature of physical science, matter, and energy. This course provides a background for understanding the problems of the impact of science on human values. Formerly HU 285B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 831 - Physics

An introductory college physics course. The first semester covers kinematics, dynamics, energy structural analysis, and waves; the second semester concentrates on a study of light, electricity, and magnetism. Both semesters include the frequent references to architecture, design, and the fine arts. A background in algebra is required. Formerly HU 481A

LASM 913 - Urban Wildlife

An examination of the ways in which humans and other animals interact in shared and contiguous environments based on semi-independent field studies carried out by students on selected species. After an introduction to common species and a short period of directed study, teams of students plan, carry out, and analyze one short-term (4-week) study of one species of their choice that inhabits urban Philadelphia. Formerly HU 381

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 914 - Human Genetics

Explores the fundamentals of genetics through the study of our own species, Homo Sapiens. Introduces the students to the study of inheritance and how molecular, physiological, environmental, and behavioral mechanisms affect the measurable characteristics of humans around the world. Topics include genetic diseases and unusual physical characteristics among others. Using local resources, students engage in problem-solving activities in comparative biology. Formerly HU 386

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 915 - Perception

The structure and function of the senses of vision, audition, olfaction, gustation, touch, temperature, kinesthesia, time, and the brain and nervous system are considered as they relate to perception. Formerly HU 388

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 916 - Evolution in Modern Perspective

Evolution is the unifying theoretical foundation of all the life sciences. This course explores the mechanisms that produce evolution, and their meaning for our current knowledge in biology, conservation, medicine, agriculture, and related sciences. Students also consider the effect(s) that society's awareness of evolution has had on social institutions such as law, literature, politics, and education. Formerly HU 389

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 917 - Brain and Behavior

This course is an introduction to the organization of the brain and nervous system and to their interactions with other body systems that produce observable behavior. Topics include brain structure and function, neurological changes over the life cycle, and the effects of malfunctions. Students learn about specific brain structures and how they contribute to or produce specific behavioral characteristics. We explore the neurochemistry of drug addiction, degenerative diseases, and psycho-active drugs, as well as other current topics of interest. Formerly HU 485

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 921 - Dynamic Anatomy

The structure of the body as it relates to form (size, shape, and proportion) and support (posture, position, and movement). In-depth exploration of the location, orientation, and actions of the major muscle groups, joints, and bones, and how they differ by gender through the life cycle. Formerly HU 281

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 931 - Concepts of Modern Physics

This course surveys important concepts in twentieth century physics, including chaos theory, cosmology, quantum mechanics, and relativity. Without mathematics, we examine the tumultuous changes that have taken place in the scientific view of space, time, and physical reality. Formerly HU 385

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 932 - Pseudoscience in Contemporary Society

The methods and issues of contemporary science. Explores how scientific information is used in society through an examination of scientific, near-scientific and pseudoscientific claims, including strange creatures like Bigfoot and the Loch Ness monster, miracle cures for diseases, and paranormal phenomena. The question of how funding might affect scientific research is also examined. Formerly HU 286

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 951 - Technology, Culture and Society

This course explores the complex relationship among technology, cultural paradigms, and popular consciousness. We study and analyze such questions as “What is technology?”, “Does technology necessarily imply progress?”, and “How does technology define reality?” Students examine these and other related themes through readings and other media. Formerly HU 396

LASS 810 - Modern American History

A study of contemporary developments, values, and issues as a product of 20th century phenomena. The course seeks to understand the dramatic changes that have occurred in American society over the last 50 years. Formerly HU 264

LASS 817 - The Culture of the Italian Renaissance

A comprehensive study of the political and social conditions in Italy from the end of the 14th until the middle of the sixteenth century that led to the artistic and philosophical flowering known as the Renaissance. Not only are the contributions of the larger states of Milan, Venice, and Florence be explored, but also the princely courts of Mantua, Ferrara, and Urbino. Reading Machiavelli's The Prince and portions of Castiglione's The Courtier is an essential part of the course. Formerly HU 263

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 820 - Individual & Society

Examines the concepts of "individual" and "society" and how they are related under modern social conditions. It treats society and social institutions as fundamental realities and considers the ways in which social forces affect individual personality and identity. It provides an introduction to the perspective of sociology as distinct from that of psychology. Topics include socialization, social solidarity, morality, authority, deviance, individualism, and freedom. Formerly HU 162

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 821 - American Civilization I

An in-depth study of the origins of American society with an emphasis on the particular political, social, and cultural patterns that shaped the course of American development. The first semester surveys the process of settlement, colonial societies, independence, the growth of the egalitarian spirit, and the Civil War. Formerly HU 362A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 822 - American Civilization II

This course studies the American society in the modern period. From the perspective of today, the course examines the legacy of Reconstruction, the Industrial Revolution, the Reform Movements, the World Wars, and the Cold War. The factors in the past that have shaped contemporary society are stressed. Formerly HU 362B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 823 - Modern Culture

An exploration of various aspects of the condition of culture in modern society. Topics include the nature and rise of mass or popular culture and its relationship to high culture, advertising, and the cultural critique of capitalism, modernism and the avant-garde in the arts, the intellectual's role in society, and the relationship between culture and politics. As this is a course in sociology, the connection between culture and society are emphasized in every instance. Formerly HU 363

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 831 - Money Matters

Explores issues in economics and business by working out from the roles and interests of individual agents and groups. We look at economic dynamics in artistic and cultural work in the present, and at different historical moments, to explore further the nature of these relationships and their meanings. Students are exposed to economic and business discourse, provided with a broad and intensive understanding of economic and business language and logic, given experience in the application of these concepts to the issues in their field of interest, and provide a foundation for thinking through the economic and ethical dimensions of their work. Formerly HU 272

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 850 - Introduction to Cultural Anthropology

The nature and variation in human cultures and various explanations of these differences (i.e., symbolic, functional, and historical). This survey of culture in Western and non-Western societies considers a number of special topics such as language and society; cultural identity and the arts; gender; marriage and family; and social ranking power relations. The impact of globalization, tourism, and cultural change is also considered. Formerly HU 267

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 851 - Human Origins and Primates

An anthropological perspective on evolution, biology, ecology, and behavior of nonhuman primates from prosimians to great apes. Students are introduced to the principles of evolution and adaptive trends. The course focuses on the successful terrestrial species of Old World monkeys and the apes – the gibbon, orangutan, gorilla, and chimpanzee. Comparisons are made among nonhuman primates and our own species regarding diet, locomotion, tool use and manufacture, modes of communication, social behavior and social systems, motherhood and child care, aggression, “cultural” behavior and recent trends in nonhuman primate behavior studies. Films are an important part of the course. Formerly HU 260A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 852 - Human Evolution

An introduction to human biological and cultural evolution, a survey of the major evolutionary stages in hominid evolution, an introduction to Paleolithic technologies, and a comparison of contemporary Stone Age societies with Paleolithic populations. Formerly HU 260B

Prerequisites & Notes

rerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 853 - Observing Humans

Presents several different social science frameworks and seeks to uncover what can be learned about human behavior by people-watching. Students choose places for brief weekly observation and use their own art skills to document what they see. Formerly HU 261

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 861 - Introduction to Folklore

Introduces folklore genres and the history of folklore study. Sacred objects, fairy tales, songs, parodies, and legends are analyzed and presented in class. Formerly HU 265

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 871 - Child & Adolescent Psychology

This course is developmentally oriented and focuses on Erikson's psychosocial stages of life from birth to adolescence. Major topics include pregnancy, the birth process, and the physical, intellectual, emotional, and social development of the child. Family life and parent-child relationships are also examined, with particular attention given to the impact of our social institutions upon parents and children. Formerly HU 181A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Education, Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 872 - Adult Psychology

This course is developmentally oriented and focuses upon Erikson's psychosocial crises from adolescence to death. Major topics include career choice, human sexuality, love, marriage, values, mental health and mental illness, aging, and death. Formerly HU 181B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 873 - Personality & Creativity

Through readings of works of major theorists on the nature of personality and on creativity, the course poses two major questions: "What do major theorists have to say about the human personality?" and "What do major theorists have to say about what it means to be a creative person?" There are a number of ways of answering these questions and it is not the purpose of the course to choose the "best" answer, but rather, to put the student in a better position to make his or her own decision. Formerly HU 374

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 874 - Psychology of Touch

In this course the students learn about the role the sense of touch plays in early physical development and in the development of perceptual and cognitive skills. The last part of the course is devoted to the aesthetic dimension of touch and the significance of early tactile stimulation for the visual and performing arts. Formerly HU 378

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 875 - Social Psychology

A survey of major social problems today and an analysis of society's resistance to implementing the necessary painful solutions. Students study the current status of major social institutions and their increasing failure to meet and satisfy human needs. Some of the other areas that are studied are mental health and mental illness, human values, love and marriage, dreams, and preventative programs. Formerly HU 382

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 876 - Psychology of Creativity

The course examines the problems involved in defining and attempting to measure creativity. The course is developmentally oriented, focusing on relationships between creativity and normal growth and development, and intelligence and personality. Problems that the artist encounters with productivity are explored, as well as the values of society toward creativity and the artist. Formerly HU 480

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 911 - Renaissance and Reformation: 1400-1648

The intellectual and cultural explosion that heralded the modern era in Western civilization. Political, economic, philosophical, religious, and cultural developments. Formerly HU 360A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 912 - Age of Science & Enlightenment: 1648-1815

The dramatic intellectual revolution of the age of science and the applications of the revolution to every province of the human experience. The Enlightenment and the French Revolution, which are parts of the transformation of Europe, are studied from the perspective of their consequences for the modern world. Formerly HU 360B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 914 - Holocaust

The Holocaust is a watershed event in modern history. This traumatic episode left indelible marks on Western society, probably for generations to come. It was caused by factors that still exist in the world. This course examines the history that led to the Holocaust, and will attempt to help students understand what happened and what meaning it has for us today. Formerly HU 464

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 922 - Politics and the Media

This course analyzes how political and social forces interact with the American community and how that interaction affects government structure and policy. Factors such as population profiles, "suburbanites," elite groups, public opinion, party organization, elections, and reform movements are studied. Formerly HU 359

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 923 - Sociology of Art

An examination of the relationships that exist between art and society. The course focuses on the social influences that shape the creation and reception of artistic works. Topics include the social role of the artist; art as a socially organized form of work; the social institutions of artistic production, transmission, and audience reception; and the understanding of art in terms of its social content. Formerly HU 364

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 924 - Sociology of Politics

This course studies the interaction of political, social, economic, technological, and cultural forces in American society with their resultant impact on the political system. A brief introduction to political science is incorporated early in the semester. Factors such as population profiles, "suburbanites," elite groups, party organization, elections and reform movements are considered. Formerly HU 368

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 925 - Mass Media and the Arts

The purpose of this course is to develop an understanding of mass media and popular culture, primarily in the United States since the 1890s. Various forms of mass media are defined and the shared techniques by which these forms seek to communicate are analyzed. Finally, the values, both aesthetic and social, embodied in both these media and popular culture are examined in relation to social and economic change. Formerly HU 390

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 931 - The City

A study of the city in history, the forces that shaped its development, and the impact the city has had on history. The American city from the 17th century to the present is used as the model for this study. Formerly HU 366

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 932 - The American Suburbs

The modern suburb has had a tremendous impact upon the history, culture, politics, and art of American society. In this course we investigate the historical development of the American suburb as well as its modern form. Looking at the suburb as a cultural phenomenon, we explore both the stereotype of the suburbs as well as its more complex reality. We also examine works of fiction, photography, painting, film-making, architecture, and design that have emerged out of this strange and familiar landscape. Formerly HU 371

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 933 - American Social Values

This course attempts to understand the nature and meaning of American society at the highest level of generality through an examination of some of its central value orientations. These include individualism, equality, achievement, activism, practicality, progress, materialism, freedom, democracy, and secular rationalism. The origin and meaning of some of these orientations are developed as well as their consequences both for the quality of American society as a whole and for the character of individuals trying to live their lives in it today. Formerly HU 462

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 951 - Islam: Religion & Culture

This course examines Islamic culture as it is refracted in various religious and literary texts by Muslims from Arabia, Iran (Persia), India as well as North America. The course begins with discussion of the centrality of prophecy and scripture in Islam, followed by a perusal of Islamic theology and mysticism, and ends with a sampling of primarily literary prose and poetry pieces that provide insights into the multifarious facets of Islamic civilization. Formerly HU 361

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 952 - Afro-American Culture

A survey of some of the most important Afro-American contributions to American culture, with special attention to the 20th century and to the arts. Among those whose work is discussed are W. E. B. DuBois, Duke Ellington, Langston Hughes and Paul Robeson. Formerly HU 393

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 953 - Middle Eastern Art and Culture

An introduction to the art and culture of the Middle East through the perspective of anthropology and art history. This course examines design, symbol, and techniques of Middle Eastern art, particularly painting, architecture, ceramics, glassware, textiles, and metal work. These arts are examined in their social, cultural, and historical context, which includes: the role of the artist and craftsman in the Middle Eastern society, the influence of Islam on ritual and symbol, the influence of environment on materials and architecture, urban-rural traditions, trade patterns and market organization, diffusion of design and materials. Formerly HU 463

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 955 - Cultural Ecology

A review of the various cultural adaptations found in different environments such as deserts, grasslands, circumpolar regions, tropical and temperate forests, islands, and high-altitude and urban areas. These adaptations include hunting and gathering, fishing, and agriculture (shifting, irrigated, and industrial). The attitude toward the environment, population growth, and the use of labor, technology, energy, and other resources are considered. Formerly HU 369

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 972 - Personality & Adjustment

The study of personality, the patterns of behavior and predispositions that determine how a person perceives, thinks, feels, and acts. The inner life of men and women, the quality of their character, their adjustment to their social milieu, and their potentialities for self-fulfillment are all explored. Special attention is given to adjustment problems of artists in work and in love. Formerly HU 383

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 973 - Abnormal Psychology

Human development and abnormal psychology: ego defenses, emotional disorders, therapeutic theories, and treatment techniques. Clinical diagnosis and classification of mental disorders. Formerly HU 384

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 974 - Theories of Personality

Introduces the study of personality and how patterns of behavior, interaction, perception and response are understood by a broad variety of theorists. Questions of nature vs. nurture, whether the past impacts the present, and what defines mental health are discussed. Psychodynamic, cognitive, humanistic, and behavioral approaches are compared and contrasted. Formerly HU 483

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LASS 871 or LASS 872; and one additional course from: LASS 871, LASS 872, LASS 873, LASS 874, LASS 875, LASS 876, LASS 972, LASS 973, LASS 975, or MMDI 353 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

LASS 975 - Educational Psychology

An introduction to educational psychology for potential educators. The basic principles of learning theory and education are presented and critically examined. Using a psychosocial orientation, the developmental stages of the human life cycle are explored, as well as the needs of a variety of special populations, e.g., those with learning disabilities or physical disabilities. Considerable attention is given to increasing awareness and understanding of communication, group dynamics, and organizational behavior. Formerly HU 484

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAAN 101 - Freshman Animation

An introduction to the basics of animation, with an emphasis on the development of storytelling capabilities. Inventive studio projects explore production techniques used both in experimental and character animation. In addition, an historical overview is provided through film screenings and group discussion. Formerly PF 127

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Foundation majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MAAN 201 - Introduction to Animation I

Through a series of drawn exercises concentrating on timing, movement, and weight, the student acquires a basic understanding of animation principles. Sound is introduced for the final project, which consists of a short animated film with a complete soundtrack. Formerly PF 212A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 or MMDI 101 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 202 - Introduction to Animation II

Students are introduced to under-the-camera animation using varied mediums such as puppets, cut-outs, and painting-on-glass. Special attention is given to non-narrative approaches to animation. A final project is created using one or more of the techniques explored during the semester. Formerly PF 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 or MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 211 - Character Layout and Design

Designing characters, backgrounds, pans, and creative camera moves for the animated scene. Design styles and techniques are explored for their potential in developing a wide range of character types, traits, moods, personalities, and attitudes. Students learn to lay out scenes around character action, work with camera fields, deal with issues of composition and perspective, and to create moods through layout. A final project requires the development of an "Animator's Bible," a production workbook for the student's personal film portfolio. Formerly PF 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 231 - Introduction to Computer Animation

This introductory course develops the student's understanding of digital movement and imaging through animation exercises using a variety of 2D software programs on the PC platform. No previous computer experience is required. Formerly PF 216

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 232 - 2-D Computer Animation

Using both raster- and vector-based programs, students explore how to build 2D animation sequences in the computer and how to translate hand-drawn animation into digitally composited animated pieces. Traditional animation principles are expanded upon and reinforced using 2D computer graphics and editing programs. Digital imagery and sound are integrated in class assignments designed to explore a wide variety of 2D styles. Formerly PF 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 301 - Junior Animation Workshop I

This course focuses on the creation of a personal, 1.5 minute animated piece, starting from initial conception and ending with final output to digital or film media. Stages in the production cycle include storyboarding, animatics, animation, inking and painting, sound image editing, and final output. Formerly PF 312A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 302 - Junior Animation Workshop II

The first half of this course is devoted to the creation of a short client-based project. The second half involves an interdisciplinary group project aimed at refining students' knowledge of animation movement design. Formerly PF 312B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 301 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 314 - Sound Design and Technology

A hands-on exploration of various technical materials and procedures that complement the animator's production skills, including video editing, analog and digital sound recording, mixing and processing, digital soundtrack preparation, and green screen compositioning techniques. Formerly PF 325

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 320 - Selected Topics in Animation

An exploration of media used in animation. The content of each course offering reflects the professional interests of the instructor. Topics have included clay and puppet animation, character layout and design, and experimental techniques. Formerly PF 328

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only. May be taken four times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 321 - Clay and Puppet Animation

The technique of animating handmade three-dimensional characters. Topics include puppet construction (clay and mixed media), set design and construction, and lighting. The history of puppet animation is also studied through film screenings and lectures, with a special emphasis on European filmmakers and nonverbal storytelling. Formerly PF 330

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 or MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only. May be taken four times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 331 - 3-D Computer Animation

Using industry-standard 3D computer software, students learn basic modeling, texturing, lighting, movement, and rendering techniques. This course prepares students for further 3D computer coursework and allow them to utilize 3D software in the development and creation of their Junior and Senior thesis work. Formerly PF 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 332 - Advanced 3D Modeling and Texturing

This course is designed to further develop 3D computer animation modeling, texturing, lighting, and rendering skills. Using industry-standard software, students explore and develop 3D skills with both photo-realistic and stylized graphic approaches to image creation and manipulation. Formerly PF 337

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 331

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 333 - Advanced 3D Character Animation

This course is designed to deeply increase students' 3D computer character animation knowledge. Using industry-standard software, students build character models and skeletons, attach the models to the skeletons, and move the resulting 3D computer characters through a series of exercises as they explore and refine 3D character animation skills. Formerly PF 338

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 331

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 341 - Moving Art: Animation Theory and Production

The aesthetics of animation and how the design and structural elements of frame-by-frame filmmaking have evolved over time. Analytical, production, and historical approaches are brought to bear in the study of animation principles and their development over time. Formerly PF 327

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 401 - Senior Animation Workshop

Directed independent production of a short film project in an idiom of the student's choosing; additional production of a visual portfolio and reel.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 302 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 402 - Senior Animation Workshop

Directed independent production of a short film project in an idiom of the student's choosing; additional production of a visual portfolio and reel.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MAAN 401 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MACR 304 - Image and Performance

For artists and performers of all disciplines. An intensive cross-disciplinary workshop in which the students create their own short performance works using fusions of video, animation, dance, motion, and sound to explore the interactions between visual media and the performing arts. Formerly PF 331

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MACR 304X - Image and Performance

Meets with MACR 304. For artists and performers of all disciplines. An intensive cross-disciplinary workshop in which the students create their own short performance works using fusions of video, animation, dance, motion, and sound to explore the interactions between visual media and the performing arts. Formerly PF 331X

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: DACR 153, THMD 161, MUPF 864, MUPF 872 or MUPF 874 Open to majors in the College of Performing Arts only. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MACR 443 - Time: A Multidisciplinary Seminar

The concept of Time considered from a multidisciplinary perspective, drawing on readings in philosophy, literature, psychology, sociology, and film theory. Relevant works in film and video are screened. Students are responsible for a final term paper that interrelates two or more of the readings with one of the screened works. Formerly PF 424

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 or MAAN 302

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MACR 490 - Media Arts Undergraduate Independent Study

Independent Study offers a matriculated undergraduate student the opportunity to initiate individual research or advanced projects that are beyond the limits of the standard curriculum, with limited supervision. Independent Study is available to Junior and Senior undergraduate students who have a minimum 2.5 GPA. Independent Study cannot fulfill major requirements. Independent Study may serve as free, studio, and liberal arts electives, depending on the topic of investigation. Students cannot apply more than 12 total credits of independent study towards their degree requirements. Click here for registration process.

MACR 499 - Internship

Internship program in which the student, working closely with the Media Arts Department internship advisor, is placed in one of several professional situations. Placements include assisting in professional studios, practice in biomedical photography laboratories, and working for commercial and non-profit galleries, among others. Placements in film and animation are sponsored by local independent production houses and television stations, design firms, and free-lance artists; students of film may assist in location shooting, set production, editing, casting, scripting, and a myriad of other practical tasks. Formerly PF 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202, MAPH 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

MAFL 101 - Freshman Film

A short survey of film and video production, with an emphasis on the artistic possibilities of this medium. Topics cover elements of narrative, the poetics of film (early historical experiments, dream form, and visionary film), the documentary idiom (propaganda, social analysis), video as an art form and kinetic design in the commercial sector. Students write two short papers and prepare a treatment for a work in film or video. Studio assignments concentrate on storyboard development and group shooting projects. Formerly PF 128

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Foundation majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MAFL 102 - Video: Strategies and Tactics

Building on the skills and concepts introduced in Time/Motion, this course introduces the student to the creative and expressive possibilities of film and video. The course surveys a variety of approaches to film from narrative to documentary to experimental, fosters more critical viewing habits, and provides the student with basic production skills in digital video and audio.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 FNDP 151 FNDP 161 FNDP 171 Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3cr, 3 hrs.

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 202 - Introduction to Film/Digital Video

This course offers an introduction to the basic practices of digital video editing and further creative exploration of the art of moving images. Students perform timing, staging, and blocking exercises to develop a feel for direction, experiment with more advanced film strategies, learn to edit digital video, and investigate relationships between sound and image. A final project integrates these explorations creatively. Formerly PF 210B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 211 - Creative Sound

Exploration of the creative use of sound as a primary artistic medium. Topics include sound and hearing, microphones and recording, tape editing and manipulation, sound aesthetics and production styles, voice and narration, signal processing and sound manipulation, and production formats. Through audio production projects, students gain insights into new ways of using sound, both on its own and with other media. Formerly PF 218

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Digital Fine Arts minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 301 - Junior Cinema Production I

Film production class emphasizing independent filmmaking techniques and concepts. Students explore cinematic ideas through structured and personal filmmaking assignments that emphasize keen visual thinking, story development, and an understanding of film form and film language. Students are taught professional lighting, 16mm sync sound camera technologies, editing and soundtrack strategies, and laboratory procedures. Students also view and analyze significant films. Formerly PF 310A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 302 - Junior Cinema Production II

Film production class emphasizing independent filmmaking techniques and concepts. Students explore cinematic ideas through structured and personal filmmaking assignments that emphasize keen visual thinking, story development, and an understanding of film form and film language. Students are taught professional lighting, 16mm sync sound camera technologies, editing and soundtrack strategies, and laboratory procedures. Students also view and analyze significant films. Formerly PF 310B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 301 Open to Film/Digital Video majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 320 - Film Forum: Selected Topics

Concentrated study of a particular area of film, video, or animation. Courses deal with specific issues and have included: film theory; seminars in sound and installation; studies in Japanese media; the history of video art; and the history of animation. Formerly PF 324

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 331 - Experiments in Advanced Digital Video

An intermediate-level course in digital audio and video production. In the context of screenings and readings drawn from the history of experimental media, students learn to use various digital and optical strategies to approach a variety of thematic issues. This course is a venue for the production of short, aesthetically energized works for a variety of screening environments, and encourages collaboration with Dance and Music majors. Formerly PF 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 401 - Senior Cinema Production I

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311 or MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 402 - Senior Cinema Production II

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 401 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 460 - Professional Practices in Film/Digital Video

A series of mini seminars in various aspects of professional film and video production. Topics to be addressed include: studio operations, advanced sound recording, sound mixing, and gaffer and grip responsibilities. Independent producers are brought in to conduct workshops on topics of interest. This course supplements, but does not replace, Media Arts required courses. Formerly PF 423

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video majors; and Film/Animation majors.

MAPH 101 - Freshman Photography

An introduction to fundamental techniques used in black-and-white photography, including camera operation, developing, and printing. Lectures and presentations on the technical aspects of photography as well as the creative and conceptual aspects related to the field. Demonstrations on the production of photograms and pinhole images, the use of the copy stand and slide film, mural printing, and a brief description of different camera formats. Formerly PF 125

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Foundation majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 202 - Introduction to Photography II

While consolidating the student's control of the medium, this course introduces the student to a departure from normative photographic rendering, techniques, and modes of expression and form. Strong emphasis on manipulation of materials, including traditional photographic methods as well as an introduction to computer-manipulation. Formerly PF 211B

Prerequisite: MAPH 282, MAPH 201 or MAPH 221 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 211 - Color Concepts

Introduction to methods of color shooting and printing, leading to an exploration of the technical and creative possibilities of color in photography. Processes covered include negative and transparency films, filtration, chemical printing, and digital color controls with Photoshop. Formerly PF 217

Priority enrollment to Photography majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not open to Foundation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 221 - Introduction to Documentary Photography

Introduces students to documentary photography as it exists in the digital age. Topics covered include the history of documentary photography, 35mm camera operation, digital camera operation, and the ethical, legal, and strategic issues of contemporary journalism. Students create documentary photographic projects utilizing both traditional and digital photographic techniques. Formerly PF 220

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 152 or MMDI 101 Priority enrollment to Communication majors. Not open to Photography majors.
Not open to Foundation majors.

MAPH 281 - Portfolio Documentation

The use of photography to create a portfolio of artwork, exhibitions, and installations is necessary for artists in all visual media. Students learn how to photograph two- and three-dimensional artwork in a studio setting and on location. Instruction addresses a wide range of issues including: artificial and natural lighting, film-based and digital camera operation, image processing techniques, and output options. By participating in lectures, demonstrations, field trips and shooting assignments, students acquire the skills necessary to create a coherent visual portfolio of their work. Formerly PF 203

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 112 or FNDP 152 Not open to Photography majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MAPH 282 - Photography for Illustrators

This course introduces Illustration majors to the fundamental techniques used in black-and-white photography, including camera operation, developing, and printing, as well as photographic digital imaging. Emphasis is placed on film selection and lighting for both the studio and environmental shooting. The fundamentals of Photoshop are employed for digital image manipulation. Lectures and projects are designed to provide the tools necessary for illustrators who wish to use photography in their work. Formerly PF 209

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Photography majors. Priority enrollment to Illustration majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 301 - Junior Photography Workshop

Exploration of photographic imagery through a series of problems aimed at personal vision and creative growth.
Formerly PF 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 302 - Junior Photography Workshop

Exploration of photographic imagery through a series of problems aimed at personal vision and creative growth.
Formerly PF 311B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 301

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 303 - Basic Photography Studio I

Familiarizes the student with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography. Entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. Deals exclusively with black-and-white materials, sheet film exposure, hand processing, and printing large-format negatives. Formerly PF 313A

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 304 - Basic Photography Studio II

Continuation of MAPH 303. This course furthers the students' familiarization with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography and entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. This semester covers the introduction of color transparency films and strobe lighting. Formerly PF 313B

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. Formerly PF 315

Prerequisites & Notes

MAPH 312 - Advanced Digital Photo Workshop

The study of advanced photo imaging techniques. Through a series of problem-solving assignments, students are expected to develop strong digital shooting, scanning, color management, and printing skills as well as competency in advanced Photoshop techniques. A final portfolio of a series of creative images is a course requirement. Formerly PF 333

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAPH 320 - Selected Topics in Photography

Study of one or more various media, methods, or problems in still photography to be offered according to the instructor's interests and students' requests. Topics include: portraiture, documentary photography, digital imaging, color manipulation, photographic illustration, and photo-based mixed media. Formerly PF 323

MAPH 321 - Surface Altered Photographs

A concentration on the fundamental ideas and techniques for altering the surface of photographic prints, the emphasis is on one-of-a-kind prints, mixed media, and nontraditional materials. Techniques and materials covered include: traditional hand-coloring (oil paint, watercolor, acrylic, pastel, pencil, liquid dyes), toning and bleaching, graphic arts film, Polaroid transfer, photocopier transfer lifts, liquid emulsion, tin-types, and the preparation and painting of digital prints. Assignments, a research paper, slide lectures, and critiques center on creative possibilities, technical proficiency, and the development of increasingly more personalized visual and photographic statements. Formerly PF 334

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 322 - Photojournalism

This course covers basic photojournalism with a focus on the picture story. Choice of subject depends on the students' individual style of photography and their point of view. The class is built on an intensive shooting schedule emphasizing photographic composition, regular feedback, and the use of appropriate equipment. The class covers selecting story ideas, picture editing, writing captions and preparing text-blocks to accompany photographs, and business aspects of the field such as how and where to sell or publish work. Formerly PF 335

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 323 - Fashion and Editorial Portrait Photography

This course explores the real world of fashion and editorial photography. Students learn to present both themselves and their work professionally. They visit professional studios and, on occasion, collaborate with art directors. They learn to interpret and execute assignments dealing with deadlines and other restrictions posed by commissions. Photographers, art directors, and studio assistants are invited into the class. Emphasis is placed on expanding and maintaining personal vision in a commercially oriented context. Formerly PF 336

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 341 - Critical Issues in Photography

Concentrated study of the concepts of photographic criticism. Extensive reading, writing, and discussion of contemporary photographic literature, exhibitions, and trends is required. The course is an in-depth examination of the photographic medium from an historical and critical viewpoint. The course requires field trips to galleries and museums, and attendance at visiting lecture events to place current trends in photography in a critical context. Formerly PF 415A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 301 Open to Media Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 401 - Senior Photography Workshop

Continuation of Junior Photography Workshop. Students work on long-term individual projects or solve short-term problems to develop technical, aesthetic, and conceptual mastery of the medium. Formerly PF 411A

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 402 - Senior Photography Workshop

Continuation of Junior Photography Workshop. Students work on long-term individual projects or solve short-term problems to develop technical, aesthetic, and conceptual mastery of the medium. Formerly PF 411B

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 442 - Contemporary Issues in Photography

Analysis and study of contemporary photographic practices and trends. Extensive reading, writing, and discussion with attention to current showings and exhibitions is required. The course requires field trips to galleries and museums, and attendance at visiting lecture events to place current trends in photography in a larger historical and critical context, and to assist students in placing their own work within the cannon of photographic expression. Formerly PF 415B

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 460 - Professional Practices

Study of the practice of professional photography, with attention to various career opportunities, portfolio presentation, business practices, professional ethics, photographic law, and personal objectives. A variety of professional guests visit the course. Formerly PF 413

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

MMDI 102 - Motion Graphics Studio

Motion graphics can be found in a wide range of media: broadcast, Web, animation, and film to name a few. This course allows students to explore the elements of time and space to convey messages and meaning through type, image, and sound for the screen. Individual creativity is stressed as well as the understanding and use of an industry-standard software for developing motion graphics. Both collaborative and individual exercises and assignments are given. Formerly MM 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 101

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

MMDI 150 - Information Concepts

Emphasis is on the importance of organizing and communicating information in a digital world. Students acquire a basic understanding of how computers operate and communicate with each other, as well as an understanding of the evolution of the personal computer and the industries that have spun out of this technology. Student assignments include readings, database projects, and written analyses. Formerly MM 130

MMDI 200 - Introduction to Multimedia

An introduction to the basic software environments for digital interactivity. After concentrating on creating nonlinear texts, students investigate the integration of other media elements. Subjects include the use of buttons, screen navigation, transitions, basic scripting, and controlling sound and video. Formerly MM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Multimedia majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 201 - Visual Concepts Studio

Visual problem solving in a digital environment. A project-based visual art/design studio that builds on skills developed in Visual Concepts II. This course allows students the time to concentrate on and refine the visual communications aspects of their craft through three fully realized pieces. Projects are assigned by the instructor, and conceived of and developed by the students. Projects may include: titling design and animation, visual interface design, graphic design, CD packaging design, poster and postcard design, digital painting and drawing, etc. Formerly MM 210

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 102

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 220 - Documentation and Presentation

In this course, students learn how to document their work for professional presentation. It focuses on issues relating to digital documentation and includes skills such as saving projects, cross platform presentation, making digital skills, editing trailers of videos and using a copy stand. Students document previously completed multimedia work and then present that work. Guest speakers augment classroom lectures and activities. Formerly MM 250

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

MMDI 231 - Dynamic Web Development

Creating dynamic Web solutions is an essential aspect of Web development today. In this course, students build upon existing concepts learned in Intro to Interactive Programming. The focus is on client and server side programming and relational database design for the Web. Examples of dynamic Web applications include context management systems, custom audio and video players, and e-commerce solutions.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 131

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

MMDI 242 - Digital Storytelling

This class explores how visual and aural languages complement the verbal while providing instruction in the use of multimedia software. After collecting old photographs, movies, tape recordings, and meaningful objects, students create stories associated with them in digital form. Formerly MM 231

MMDI 245 - Writing for Games

A writing laboratory that allows students to develop competency in writing rule-based procedural description as well evocative storylines for games and user/play scenarios. Special emphasis is placed on the difference in writing required between game types (chance, puzzles, and strategies) as well as game genres such as role-playing, twitch, and games of perfect information. Formerly MM 240

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 250 - Survey of Multimedia

Examines the chronological evolution of digital technology and its inevitable application by the aesthetic community. Beginning with the development of digital technology in the mid-1940s, the course discusses the convergence of the scientific, military, and political environments that spawned the employment of digital technology, including the path that led to the digital dominance over analog. Includes the enhancement, exploitation, and embracing of digital technology by the corporate and aesthetic communities, the invention of the personal computer and its ancillary products, and the application of digital technologies in fields as diverse as medicine, communications, manufacturing, cognitive psychology, and in particular, the arts. Pioneers in all fields are identified and examined. Formerly MM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 301 - Interactive Sound and Video

The course deals with the experience of producing complete multimedia installation works in a project-based environment – focussing on Interactive sound and video. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Authoring environments used include but are not limited to MAX MSP, Isadora, and Macromedia Director. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 310

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 302 - Multimedia Studio II

The experience of producing complete multimedia works in a project-based environment. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Programming environments used include, but are not limited to, HTML, Lingo, and Java Script. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 311

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 305 - Game Design Thesis

Students complete a fully marketable game prototype. Students and instructors examine how the gaming industry functions as well as research and develop an individual work. Special attention is paid to preparing to enter the field. Students must have completed Game Design minor requirements. Formerly MM 344

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Minor.

MMDI 315 - Advanced Interface Seminar

A seminar course that builds on Introduction to Interface Design. Focuses on the issues involved in creating user interfaces in today's development platforms (hardware, software, input devices, cell phones, etc.). Lectures, discussions, readings, research, and writing constitute the body of this course. In addition to current interface trends, the process of developing the interfaces of tomorrow is addressed. Formerly MM 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 320 - Business Seminar

In this course, students build on the skills learned in Documentation and Presentation. Students construct a digital portfolio of work that they have completed. They also create resumes, curriculum vitae, and project proposals. As part of this class, they participate in a mock interview for a job, go on an informational interview for an internship/job, and do a presentation in the form of their Multimedia Junior Review. Formerly MM 350

Prerequisite: MMDI 220 Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits).

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

MMDI 330 - E-Music Thesis Project

A culminating course for students in the E-Music minor in which they develop an application. Students develop a proposal for an application and carry the idea through research implementation, execution, and presentation. With the consent of the instructor, projects may be the work of one student or that of a group of students, be in a variety of shapes, and in a variety of media. Students must have completed E-Music minor requirements. Formerly MM 370

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of other Minor courses.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 335 - Programming for Games

An introduction to programming for interactive game environments. Students learn techniques and theory through exercises and applications that they construct. The programming language studied can change each semester and may include: FlashAction Scripting, Advanced Lingo for Games, C++, or Java. Formerly MM 341

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 353 - Psychology of Human/Computer Interaction

Students explore the ways humans perceive interacting with computers. How do humans treat computers? Why? Should we interact with them the same way we do with other humans? The reasons behind why some computer interfaces work and some do not is discussed in depth. Should computers be able to perceive our emotions? Or should computers themselves have emotions? The final for this course allows students to take part in designing an original interface solution. Formerly MM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 354 - Game Play

A lecture-based focus on the human behavior in the how and why of play and creativity. Course material examines the relationship between creativity and play, the effects of reward and punishment, cultural notions of play, and the integration of play with design play. Students examine the differences between informed and uninformed play as well as the phenomenon of flow. Formerly MM 342

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 401 - Senior Studio I

Studio course that makes use of all the students' previous instruction. One self-directed project is completed each semester. Students are expected to be prepared on the first day of each semester with a proposal that includes, but is not limited to, a schedule, map, research, executive summary, and supporting documentation. Projects can be collaborative or individual. Students are encouraged to try both over the course of the year. Formerly MM 410

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 320

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 402 - Senior Studio II

Studio course that makes use of all the students' previous instruction. One self-directed project is completed each semester. Students are expected to be prepared on the first day of each semester with a proposal that includes, but is not limited to, a schedule, map, research, executive summary, and supporting documentation. Projects can be collaborative or individual. Students are encouraged to try both over the course of the year. Formerly MM 411

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 320

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 405 - Innovative Interfaces

The notion of the digital environment transcends the concept of the computer as we know it. These addresses and environments, although supported by digital technology, are non-computer-like in many respects. Building them calls for changes in the choice of interaction devices (using touch, voice, gestures, and possibly just user's intent as a basis for interaction), shape and size of computers (no boxes, but interactive surfaces), their location (floor, wall, pocket), as well as change in content structure. Using cross-disciplinary data from cognitive and computer sciences and social psychology, the students in this research/studio course focus primarily on the design and development of innovative ways of interacting with digital technology. Formerly MM 440

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 420 - Exhibition and Promotion

In this course, students continue to build necessary professional and business skills. Students learn about promoting their work, writing business plans, applying for grants, ownership and patent issues, writing press releases, printing promotional materials, and getting into art/design shown. Students promote and exhibit their senior project to be completed in MMDI 401 or MMDI 402. Formerly MM 450

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 320

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

MMDI 421 - Issues in Multimedia Seminar I

These courses serve as vehicles for discussion of current topics in multimedia. Special attention is paid to the discussion of emerging technologies and criteria for evaluating their effectiveness, appropriate use, and potential. Ethical issues surrounding new media are discussed. Formerly MM 470

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits). May be taken three times for credit .

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

MMDI 422 - Issues in Multimedia Seminar II

These courses serve as vehicles for discussion of current topics in multimedia. Special attention is paid to the discussion of emerging technologies and criteria for evaluating their effectiveness, appropriate use, and potential. Ethical issues surrounding new media are discussed. Formerly MM 471

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits). May be taken three times for credit .

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

MMDI 425 - Special Projects in Multimedia

This seminar is designed to give students direct contact with their soon-to-be peers in the various multimedia industries. The multimedia industries that may be covered include but are not limited to: fine art, interface design, installation art, game design, and electronic music. Timely and relevant issues concerning the craft, thought, and professional expectations of a multimedia artist/designer are the content of this course. Topics related to the multimedia industries in general and the instructor's specific industry experience are discussed. Readings, discussion, and a practical presentation or project make up the body of this course. Formerly MM 472

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits). May be taken three times for credit .

MMDI 490 - Multimedia Undergraduate Independent Study

Independent Study offers a matriculated undergraduate student the opportunity to initiate individual research or advanced projects that are beyond the limits of the standard curriculum, with limited supervision. Independent Study is available to Junior and Senior undergraduate students who have a minimum 2.5 GPA. Independent Study cannot fulfill major requirements. Independent Study may serve as free, studio, and liberal arts electives, depending on the topic of investigation. Students cannot apply more than 12 total credits of independent study towards their degree requirements. Click here for registration process.

MMDI 499 - Multimedia Internship

Students are placed with regional companies to expose them to a professional work environment in the fields of multimedia, Web design and information management. Formerly MM 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits). May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 600 - Museology

Introduction to the social and cultural theory underlying museum practice. The museum is studied as a dynamic institution. Its structure and functions are examined in the context of political, economic, and social change. A seminar/lecture course, students study the writings of the founders of modern museum theory focusing on the development of museums and their service to the public, learning as a central focus of contemporary museums, and the shift from private to public support and responsibility for museums. Formerly MS 600

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs. Priority enrollment to Museum Studies.

MSEM 601 - Museum Seminar: The Museum Society

Lecture/seminar course exploring the history, organization, and operation of the museum as a cultural/educational institution, an economic entity, and a management enterprise. Visiting lecturers bring a wide range of knowledge and practices from their respective institutions and consultancies to provide the student with insight into the differences between museums of different types, sizes, and missions. The course provides students with an overall understanding of the museum as an institution and an introduction to the many roles played by museum professionals. Offered in the evening. Formerly MS 501

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 602 - Museum Seminar: The Exhibition and Educational Programming

Lecture/seminar course exploring the philosophy and history of museum exhibitions and the development of the museum exhibition discipline. Visiting lecturers bring a wide range of knowledge and practices from their respective professional disciplines and provide insight into museum exhibition practice. Provides students with an overall understanding of the role exhibitions can and do play in public institutions. Offered in the evening. Formerly MS 502

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 603 - The Museum Audience

Lecture into practice course focusing on the visitor experience through museum communications and learning. Designed to identify the characteristics of the museum visitor, the ways in which visitors experience museum exhibitions, cognitive and affective behavior, the relationship of museum exhibitions and educational programming, and the impact of institutions and visitor studies on the planning and design of institutions, museum exhibitions, and environments. Formerly MS 508

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 610 - Museum Exhibition Design Studio

The primary vehicle for exploring and developing museum exhibition planning, design, project organization, and presentation skills/techniques. This studio focuses on the foundations of museum exhibition development and design: space planning, color, light, informal education, communication, content, interaction, and crafting experiences.

Formerly MS 610A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

MSEM 611 - Museum Exhibition Design Studio

The primary vehicle for exploring and developing museum exhibition planning, design, project organization, and presentation skills/ techniques. This studio focuses on the foundations of museum exhibition development and design: space planning, color, light, informal education, communication, content, interaction, and crafting experiences, with the addition of project management, model making, group dynamics. Formerly MS 610B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 610 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

MSEM 614 - Museum Graphics

Writing, design, and production of museum graphic components. Graphic Design is defined as any visual information communicated through word and image. Formerly MS 620A

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: GREM 601 Open to Museum Studies majors only. Computer literacy required.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 615 - Museum Lighting

A lecture/demonstration/workshop course dealing with the manipulation of light and color in the built environment, specifically museums. Formerly MS 620B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 616 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 616 - Exhibition Materials and Methods

This course gives students an in-depth acquaintance with exhibit fabrication/construction processes, techniques, methods and materials, how to research and specify appropriate materials, and how to use those materials in the best way. Formerly MS 623A

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: MSEM 610 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 617 - Exhibition Materials and Methods

Demonstration/studio course directed at the problems of exhibit production, organization of drawings and packages, clear communication to suppliers of materials and services, and the use of Mac-based CAD (computer aided design), specifically Vectorworks. Formerly MS 623B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 616 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 621 - Media for Museum Communication

Computer literacy, familiarity with Macintosh operating system required. A laboratory/ workshop course on utilization of appropriate technological media, with emphasis on the creation of visitor interaction. Formerly MS 622

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 614 or GREM 610 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 630 - Museum Education Practicum

This course is designed to develop the practiced insight and skills needed as a professional in a museum environment working with all age groups. It provides opportunities for preliminary observations and experience with professional museum educators and directors led by a professor who conducts the seminar in conjunction with the museum visits and guest speakers. Through this process students develop dynamic teaching techniques that explore and interpret information, concepts, and cultural values that a museum collection communicates. Hands-on techniques and experiences with curriculum development and methodology help students prepare for their research and internship. Formerly MS 510

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Education majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 631 - Educational Programming for Museums and Alternative Sites

Prepares museum educators for the development of educational programs and plans for diverse types of museums and alternative learning sites. Exposes students to current issues and trends in museum education such as interdisciplinary and integrated learning, and issues of diversity. Methods of interpreting works of art, artifacts, and collections are studied. Extensive, "theory into practice" component provides students with the opportunity to apply theory to actual permanent collection and temporary exhibition projects at area museums. Formerly MS 615

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 603, MSEM 630 Priority enrollment to Museum Education majors. Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 641 - Museum Governance: Legal Issues, Ethics and Museums

Legal status of the museum and its obligations to the public, governance, staffing, and policy-making as a nonprofit organization. Establishing collections policies, laws, regulations, conventions, and codes that affect acquisitions, deaccessions, loans, and collections care. The case study method is used to examine the issues, the law, and the decisions that affect today's museums. State, federal, and international legislation, common law, and the applications of administrative law in museums are examined. Examines the complex relations of museums and museum professionals with trustees, collectors, donors, dealers, outside interest groups, and artists. Formerly MS 602

Prerequisite: MSEM 601 or MSEM 600 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 642 - Development, Fundraising, and Grantsmanship

An introduction to the development process as it relates to fundraising and, more specifically, grants writing. This course addresses the changing nature of funding for museums today, and sources of funds. In a lecture/workshop setting, students learn current techniques for formulating institutional funding requests under the guidance of an instructor and visiting experts in the museum field. Students acquire professional knowledge of museum practices in development and revenue generation; skills in developing a strategic fundraising plan and preliminary case statement plan, and carrying out its elements for specific institutions and for specific funding objectives. Formerly MS 650

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 643 - Collection Management and Computer Applications in Museums

Students acquire the skills and knowledge necessary to develop, implement, and supervise collections management projects. Emphasizes data processing applications related to collections management, documentation, and other museum functions, including collections administration, loan requests, rights and reproductions, exhibition planning and design, publications, collections security, and project management. Topics include multimedia and digital imaging, graphics, and database development and processing standards. Instruction in computer languages, database development and use, and digital imaging. Word processing experience and access to a computer are expected. Database management experience is helpful. General level of computer experience expected. Formerly MS 651

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 600 Open to Museum Studies majors only. Computer literacy required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 644 - Video, Film and Technology for Museum Interpretation

Students become familiar with important historical, philosophical, and site-based interpretive uses for media in museum settings through a practicum that includes analysis of media (video, film, and technology) in transferring knowledge and information in the museum environment. Relates to the artistic, historical, and content techniques of a variety of moving image and multimedia approaches. Research, planning, supervision, outsourcing, and execution of media pieces for museum environments are explored. Computer literacy is expected. Formerly MS 619

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs. Computer literacy required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 646 - Publications, Public Relations and Marketing

Organizational principles and practices as they relate to the processes of public relations and museum communication (primarily print media). Topics include public relations, interpretive and informational publications, advertising, identity, audience development, and marketing. Addresses the use and creation of publications, marketing plans, institution and exhibition-based public relations, the creation of effective identity programs, and audience development through membership and outreach programs. In a workshop setting, students learn to create effective publications and print media, and discuss Web-based communication. Students work under the guidance of a university professor and visiting experts in the museum field. Formerly MS 621

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 614 Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 690 - Graduate Museum Project

A culminating research project concerning museum studies, management, and education. The project is completed in one semester and includes the study of research in the field, a team project with the Museum Exhibition Planning and Design, and Museum Communication programs, and an individual project related to the student's main area of interest within the museum education profession. This course provides preparatory research for the culminating museum internship. Formerly MS 648

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Education majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 695 - Museum Internship: Museum Education

Taken in a cooperating museum, the internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional museum educator. It is intended to provide practical on-site experience in which the intern is integrated into the museum staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. A University professor also observes, advises, and assesses the student during the internship. Formerly MS 658

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Education majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3-6 cr

MSEM 702 - Issues in Museums Seminar

Presents and discusses current political and social issues, which may unexpectedly, sometimes problematically, affect museum practice, particularly in the public areas of exhibition, programming, and publications. Recent examples would include controversial exhibits, legal, gender, race, cultural, and religious issues impacting museums; and the public right to participate in the museum experience as an active contributor. Museum scholars, specialists, and university faculty offer in-depth examination of current topics. Students complete projects designed to develop professional ability to deal with emerging debates in the museum profession and the knowledge of the impact of politics and the mass culture on museum policies and practices. Formerly MS 601

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 601 or MSEM 600 Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 711 - Museum Exhibition Design Studio

The primary vehicle for exploring and developing museum exhibition planning, design, project organization, project management, and presentation skills/techniques. This course focuses on the exhibition in its tangible/ physical form, taking concept into reality. Documentation, construction documents, schedules, budgets, and specifications are the deliverables. Formerly MS 710

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 601, MSEM 611 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

MSEM 716 - Advanced Exhibition Materials and Technology

Formerly MS 624

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 780 - Thesis Research

Examines the principle approaches to research. The nature of appropriate research methods for selected thesis topics; the approaches and benefits of various methodologies; and the steps in research design. Students identify a research problem, design a study, collect and analyze data, compile, interpret and report results. Formerly MS 740

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 781 - Thesis Development

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests. Formerly MS 749A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 611 or MSEM 780 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 1.5-6 cr

MSEM 782 - Thesis Development

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests. Formerly MS 749B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 781 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 1.5-6 cr

MSEM 783 - Thesis Development: Communication

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 780

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 784 - Thesis: Communication

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 783

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 795 - Museum Internship

A supervised practicum in a cooperating museum, gallery, or design firm. The internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional. Provides practical on-site experience, in which the intern is integrated into the professional staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. Formerly MS 759

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUCP 141 - Calligraphy

Professional methods of musical score and part preparation, both in the traditional way with paper and pen, and with computer programs. An elective for all majors. Formerly MU 121

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUCP 321 - Beginning Composition

Formerly MU 302

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUSC 204, MUSC 206 Open to majors in the School of Music only. Not open to Composition majors.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUCP 322 - Analysis and Composition of Contemporary Music

An examination of compositional techniques used in pop songs, jingles, soundtracks, and underscores for radio, TV, records, films, shows, and industrials. Students investigate the ways in which music serves to enhance the overall goals of the product or project. Musical analysis serves to demonstrate how each style is created. Students produce their own musical compositions in each media context. Formerly MU 308A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUSC 204, MUSC 206 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUCP 323 - Analysis & Composition of Commercial Music

Continuation of MUCP 322. Formerly MU 308B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUCP 322 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUCP 325 - Fundamentals Film & Video Scoring

Formerly MU 325

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUCP 331, MUCP 361 Open to Composition majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUCP 331 - Jazz Arranging I

A functional approach to ensemble scoring including score analysis, combo arranging, arranging for mixed instrumentation, musical settings for vocalists, string writing, writing for pop recording, and special techniques for multi-track recording. Formerly MU 315A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUCP 361 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUCP 332 - Jazz Arranging II

A functional approach to ensemble scoring including score analysis, combo arranging, arranging for mixed instrumentation, musical settings for vocalists, string writing, writing for pop recording, and special techniques for multi-track recording. Formerly MU 315B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUCP 361 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUCP 361 - Orchestration I

An introduction to instrumentation, designed to acquaint the student with ranges, transpositions, and characteristics of individual instruments and voices. Aural and score analysis provide the basis for understanding vocal and instrumental treatments in small and large ensembles. Written orchestrations are required. Formerly MU 317A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUSC 203, MUSC 205 Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUCP 362 - Orchestration II

Primarily intended for composers, this course presents an analytical history of orchestration. Coursework culminates in a large project that is scored and critiqued. Composers are encouraged to orchestrate their own compositions. Formerly MU 317B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUCP 361 Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUCP 441 - Form and Analysis

This course serves as a continuation of the theory work that Freshman Instrumental, Vocal, and Composition majors have done in the first year. It is designed to enhance basic classical theory skills; to prepare them for graduate-level theory work; and to prepare them to meet the requirements on the theory portions of the teacher certification examination. The emphasis is upon small and large harmonic forms, and forms built upon ostinati principles. The literature used for study is drawn from all musical periods. Harmony, rhythm, melody and timbre are discussed as they relate to specific compositions. Formerly MU 408

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUCP 624 - Composing for Performers

A dual emphasis — on acoustic instruments and on technologies — exposes students to a variety of professional composing situations, including large jazz ensembles, fusion, acoustic/electronic hybrids, films, videos, musical theater, and jingle writing. Techniques using MIDI, MAX, and electronic composition are explored. Faculty and guest composers present workshops on their own approaches. Students learn to use the recording studio as an instrument and use notation software for score and part preparation. Student works are rehearsed and performed by graduate and advanced undergraduate ensembles. Formerly MU 624

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUCP 631 - Graduate Arranging

Emphasis is on effective writing in various contemporary styles and building on basic arranging skills, with a focus on specific arranging techniques such as writing for the rhythm section, horn voicings, sax solo, and contemporary fusion

styles. Arrangements are studied in score format and aurally, and then techniques are applied to student projects. Formerly MU 622

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUCP 641 - Advanced Transcription and Analysis

Accurate notation, transcription fluency, and recognition of theoretical concepts are developed through a regime of continual and rigorous assignments, all designed to further advance skills in ear training and theory. Projects begin with single line melodies in varying instrumental registers and progress through advanced rhythms and chord progressions to complete arrangements and compositions. Sources include bass lines, synthesizer sequences, pop recordings, jazz improvisations, and drum solos. Students learn techniques and performance practices of varying styles and periods, and then perform transcribed parts and solos. Formerly MU 617

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUED 110 - Brass Instruments

Students learn basic breathing, embouchure, sound-production, and fingerings for standard band and orchestra brass instruments, appropriate repertoire and pedagogy, and diagnosing typical problems of beginning performers. The performance emphasis is on cornet/trumpet, and horn and trombone, with euphonium and tuba being assigned to brass and bass majors.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 111 - Flute & Double Reed Instrument

Students learn basic breathing, embouchure, sound-production, and fingerings for flute, appropriate repertoire and pedagogy, and diagnosis of typical problems of beginning performers. The performance emphasis in this course is on flute, with an introduction to oboe and bassoon.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 112 - Folk and Social Instruments

Students learn basic techniques for guitar and other selected folk and social instruments, appropriate repertoire and pedagogy, and diagnosis of typical problems of beginning performers.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 113 - Percussion Instruments

Students learn basic drum - performing techniques and an overview of all pitched and non-pitched standard band and orchestra percussion section instruments, appropriate repertoire and pedagogy, and diagnosis of typical problems of beginning performers. The performance emphasis of this course is on drum set, with timpani and mallet percussion being assigned to percussion majors.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 114 - Single Reed Instruments

Students learn basic breathing, embouchure, sound-production, and fingerings for standard band and orchestra woodwind instruments, appropriate repertoire and pedagogy, and diagnosis of typical problems of beginning performers. The performance emphasis in this course is on clarinet and saxophone.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 115 - String Instruments

Students learn basic bowing techniques, hand positions, and fingerings for standard orchestral instruments, appropriate repertoire and pedagogy, and diagnosis of typical problems of beginning performers. The performance emphasis of this course is on violin and electric bass, with viola and cello being assigned to bass majors.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 320 - Music Pedagogy I - Private Lessons

Pedagogical and practical aspects relative to teaching private lessons. Students study the components of lessons, various pedagogical approaches, the interpersonal nature of private instruction, repertoire selection, diagnosis of problems, and administrative issues that are part of both private lessons and developing and managing a studio.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MULS 212 or MULS 222 or MULS 232

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 321 - Music Pedagogy II – Improvisation

The pedagogy of teaching improvisation to students of all ages, including an evaluation of literature available for various levels of difficulty.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 232

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUED 400 - Psychology of Music Teaching & Learning

This course covers major theories and developments associated with music cognition and child development in physical, emotional, and psychological terms; and principles supported by psychological observation and investigation that appear to possess import for the teaching/ learning endeavor in music. Emphasis is placed on the application of learning theories to practical considerations of teaching, including motivation, learning sequence, student-teacher interaction, and classroom management. Developmental theories, like those of Piaget and Erikson, and current research in cognitive science, are explored with attention to selecting learning experiences in the music and art classrooms.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUED 401 - Music and Special Children

This course consists of readings, discussions, guest speakers, classroom observations, and simulated teaching to help students define and examine various types of disabilities; develop a background on special education practices and laws in America; develop an appreciation of the needs of handicapped persons in general society, in education, and in music education; and guide music education students in developing goals and objectives, adapting lessons and preparing meaningful lesson plans for special students in the music classroom. Participation in class discussion — based on assigned reading, a written/verbal presentation on a specific disability, field observations, and two written examinations provide the basis for evaluating student achievement.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUED 430 - Rehearsal Techniques - Jazz Ensemble

Appropriate rehearsal techniques are studied along with rehearsal planning, score study and analysis, repertoire evaluation, selection, interpretation and preparation, performance aspects such as tuning, balancing, phrasing, and teaching improvisation in the rehearsal setting. Special topics include starting and building jazz programs, and jazz for younger students.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MULS 212, MULS 222 or MULS 232

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUED 431 - Basic Conducting

An introduction to a basic repertoire of conducting patterns and gestures, providing students with a hands-on laboratory conducting experience, and giving them opportunities to utilize their music theory analytical and aural skills. Through lectures, laboratory activities, and assignments, students are introduced to the technical skills used in conducting, are provided with opportunities to explore and implement them, and develop assessment strategies to improve their conducting.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUSC 204, MUSC 206

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUED 520 - Music Pedagogy III: Pre-K to Grade 4

Study of pedagogical issues and approaches for music instruction in classroom music settings for children from pre-kindergarten through grade 4. Topics include goal setting and lesson planning, selection of age-appropriate materials and methods, and assessment of learning.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Teaching in Music Education only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUED 521 - Music Pedagogy IV: Grades 5 to 8

Study of pedagogical issues and approaches for music instruction in classroom music in grades 5-8. Topics include goal setting and lesson planning, selection of age-appropriate materials and methods, and assessment of learning, as well as the development of advanced skills in functional piano, and writing/arranging for classroom ensembles. Particular emphasis is placed on the use of technology (i.e., Smart Music, Yamaha MIS etc.) and social instruments in the music classroom. This is a TI:ME Level II course.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Teaching in Music Education only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUED 522 - Music Pedagogy V: Grades 9 - 12

Study of pedagogical issues and approaches for music instruction in classroom music in grades 9-12. Topics include goal setting and lesson planning, selection of age-appropriate materials and methods, and assessment of learning. Particular emphasis is placed on the use of technology (i.e., Finale, etc.) in the music classroom and teaching composition and music theory at the secondary school level, as well as digital/audio recording. This is a TI:ME Level II course.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Teaching in Music Education only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUED 523 - Music Pedagogy VI Vocal/Choral

Study of pedagogical issues and approaches for music instruction in vocal/choral music. Topics include voice theory, vocal production, teaching methods, and instructional materials in K-12 settings. The physiology of the voice is studied with reference to principles of choral singing. Special problems of the child and adolescent are considered.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Teaching in Music Education only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUED 530 - Alternative Ensembles

Students develop performance and rehearsal skills in alternative ensembles for use in school such as bucket drums, hand bells, samba percussion, and steel pans. Two to three ensembles are covered in any given semester. Age-appropriate rehearsal techniques are emphasized, along with rehearsal planning, appropriate repertoire, equipment selection and maintenance, and composing and arranging for such ensembles.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: THST 321 Open to Musical Theater majors only.

Credits: 2 cr, 3.5 hrs

THST 330 - Design Technology Seminar

This seminar-style class is designed as a forum for considering challenges and concepts facing advanced design and technology students. Course deals with advanced design concepts and applications in the various theatrical fora, including dance, opera, ballet, and musical theater. Solutions are sought through the collaborative process with costume, lighting, scene design, and theater tech students arriving at conceptual treatments and visualizations. Formerly TH 429

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THPD 264 Open to Theater Design Technology majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 331 - Theater Design V: Sound Design

Fundamental procedures for sound creation and reproduction, with emphasis on the function and practice of theatrical sound design. Lectures, discussions, demonstrations, and projects investigating the problems of sound design for the stage, including sound production, modification, amplification, balance, instrumentation, character of sound, media, equipment control, planning and rigging in stage space, and working with stage management to set cues for the live performances.

THST 341 - Acting on Camera

Designed for acting students who want to gain knowledge and experience in acting for film and television, the primary market in the entertainment industry. Sessions give each participant a hands-on experience in acting for the camera. The actors are able to see and evaluate each other's film work during a special screening session at the end of the course. Formerly TH 330

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 202 Open to Acting majors only.

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

THST 343 - Oral Interpretation

The course examines the elements of form and structure in various kinds of literature, and applies that analysis to the craft of the performance. Studies begin with fairy tales, investigate modern and contemporary retellings of fairy tales, and continue with modern and contemporary short stories. The techniques of oral interpretation — different than those used in a studio acting class — focus on the meaning of literature via suggestive vocal dexterity and subtlety of revelation, rather than explicit action. Students are required to write papers analyzing the literature they choose to perform. Formerly TH 325

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THPD 120 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

Credits: 2 cr, 4 hrs

THST 344 - Audition Techniques

This course focuses on the skills necessary to audition successfully for theater, film, and television. Topics include cold readings, monologues, television commercials, and dealing with agents and casting directors. Formerly TH 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 361 or THST 302 Open to Acting and Applied Theater Arts majors only.

Credits: 2 cr, 3 hrs

THST 361 - Fundamentals of Directing

An overview of the directorial process. Discusses the various facets of a director's job, especially in the early phases of a production, e.g. working with the actor, casting, table work and rehearsal, and culminates with each student directing a scene of his/her own. The emphasis is on empowering the students as theater practitioners, within the rehearsal process, by introducing them to the basic problems encountered by the stage director, with whom all theater participants work. Formerly TH 317

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: THST 231, THPD 261 or THST 301 Open to Acting, Applied Theater and Theater Design and Technology majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 371 - Rehearsal & Performance I

Preparation and presentation of faculty-directed works in progress or in major production projects. In addition, each student prepares and presents a performance journal. Formerly TH 313A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 202 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary

THST 372 - Rehearsal & Performance II

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary

THST 380 - Fundamentals of Acting II

Designed specifically for Voice, Dance and Applied Theater Arts majors from the Schools of Music, Dance and Theater who have been admitted into the Musical Theater Minor. This second course in the sequence is devoted primarily to technical training in which actors gain a sense of conversational reality, strengthening their imaginations, responsiveness, spontaneity and range of emotions. The course serves as a foundation for training in acting that complements studies in musical theater technique.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 280 w/ grade of B or better Open to students enrolled in the Musical Theater minor only.

Credits: 2 cr, 4 hrs

THST 401 - Acting Studio: Verse Drama I

Integrated voice and performance work on period scenes and monologues. Material to be covered includes Greek and Restoration. Formerly TH 423

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 302 Instructor permission required.

Credits: 4 cr, 7 hrs

THST 402 - Acting Studio: Verse Drama II

Continues the student's training in the most advanced level of period-style work. Increased attention to voice work is supported by the use of texts from Greek to Restoration. Exploration of comic techniques, heightened behavior, and emotional support. Formerly TH 424

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 401 Instructor permission required.

Credits: 4 cr, 7 hrs

THST 440 - New Play Workshop

This workshop explores the collaborative relationship between the playwright, director, and actor in the practical creation of a new work. Within a supportive environment that encourages risk and exploration, the new work is developed through dramaturgical investigation, class discussion and critiques by the instructor, and results in an informal reading of the piece. Formerly TH 412

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 361 Priority enrollment to Applied Theater Arts majors. Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 441 - Stage to Video Production

Project work both behind and in front of the camera. Each actor works on a monologue or scene chosen in consultation with the instructor to make his/her work in front of a camera compelling, secure, and believable. ATA students deal with Production Assistant responsibilities, such as continuity, assisting directing, etc. Student assignments may vary according to strengths and interests. Special benefit: students can use excerpts from the workshop for a "video audition" commonly required by today's casting directors, agents, and film/TV directors. Formerly TH 430

Prerequisite: THST 341 May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 2 cr, 3 hrs

THST 443 - Acting for Film I

For acting students who want to gain advanced knowledge and experience in acting for film and television. The primary goal of the class is to bring out each actor's natural talent, which is often the most "marketable" in the film and television industry. Each actor works on a monologue or scene — chosen in consultation with the instructor — to make his/her work in front of a camera compelling, secure, and believable. Special video sessions give each participant a valuable, hands-on experience in acting for the camera. The actors are also able to see and evaluate each other's film work during a special screening session at the end of the course. The actors use excerpts from their monologue/scene for a "video audition" commonly required by today's Casting Directors, Actor's Agents, and Film/TV Directors. Formerly TH 400A

Prerequisite: THST 341 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 444 - Acting for Film II

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 445 - Scene Study in American Playwrights

This Senior acting studio focuses on American master playwrights of the twentieth century: O'Neil, Miller, Albee, Williams, Shepard, etc. Scenes are chosen to give students the opportunity to explore fully the emotional lives of characters and learn how to become more expressive and imaginative in their acting choices. The work of this course demands the complete investment of the actor through transformation of self into character in these heightened, highly theatrical texts. Improvisation and exercises may also be included in the work sessions. Formerly TH 425

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 301 Open to Acting, Applied Theater Arts and Musical Theater majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

THST 461 - Directing Studio

A thorough investigation of the directing vocabulary, exercises in space and composition, exploration of scripts from the director's point of view, and practical experience with ground plans. The student is asked to demonstrate his/her understanding of blocking values and textual analysis by conceptualizing and then staging simple scenes. Introduces the basics of acting coaching and is coordinated with script analysis and dramatic criticism. Formerly TH 417

Prerequisites & Notes

The policies stated herein apply to all matriculated UArts undergraduate and graduate students unless otherwise noted.

The Office of the Registrar maintains the official academic record for each student and is responsible for certifying completion of requirements for graduation. Students who are formally admitted to the University, have paid all applicable tuition and fees, and have a program of courses approved by the required advisor(s) are allowed to register. All students are advised to obtain a copy of their curriculum requirements as soon as possible after admission to the University and to check them against their transcripts after each term. This can be done through the MyUArts Portal. Please note that course and program transactions and changes become official only when properly processed through the Office of the Registrar.

Directory Information

The following is considered directory information at the University of the Arts and will be made available to the general public unless the student submits a petition to the Office of the Registrar requesting to withhold this information prior to the end of the last day of registration.

- Name
- Address
- Telephone number
- E-mail address
- Major field of study
- Dates of attendance
- Current enrollment status (full-time/part-time)
- Class standing
- Last institution attended
- Participation in officially recognized activities
- Receipt or non-receipt of a degree
- Academic awards received (Dean's list, honor roll)

Under the provisions of the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 students have the right to withhold disclosure of directory information.

Please consider carefully the consequences of withholding directory information. Should you decide not to release directory information, all requests for such information from the University of the Arts will be refused. For example, organizations such as potential employers, scholarship agencies, members of the press, loan agencies, educational organizations and others will not be given access to the student's directory information, and will not be able to contact the student. Opting out of directory information may mean that you will miss out on valuable employment, educational, cultural and other opportunities. Additionally, the University cannot notify your hometown newspaper about awards and honors you receive (e.g., Dean's list).

To Request Directory Information to be Withheld

A signed petition from the student is required to process this request. Once processed directory information will not be released until a signed petition to rescind the request is received or until after the student has deceased.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)

In 1974, the Congress of the United States enacted the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, Public Law 93-380, as amended, setting out requirements designed to protect the privacy of students. Specifically, the statute governs 1) access to records maintained by certain educational institutions and agencies, and 2) the release of such records. In brief, the statute provides that such institutions must provide students access to official records directly related to themselves and an opportunity for a hearing to challenge such records; that institutions must obtain the written consent of the student before releasing personally identifiable data from records to other-than-specified exceptions; and that students must be notified of these rights.

1. Student Rights. As such, all students of The University of the Arts have the following rights with regard to educational records maintained by the University:
 - A. The right to review educational records that are maintained by the University.
These records generally include all records of a personally identifiable nature; however, they exclude the financial records of parents and confidential letters and statements of recommendation received prior to June 1, 1975.
 - B. The right to inspect and review records.
Such requests may be made by completing an "Access Request for Educational Records," which is available in the Office of the Registrar. Upon receipt of a request an appointment will be made to review records within 45 days.
 - C. The right to appeal misinformation in the files.
If a student believes any information in the file is inaccurate or misleading, that individual may request, in writing, the custodian of the record to amend, delete, or otherwise modify the objectionable material. If said request is denied, the student may request that a hearing be held to further pursue the request. At this hearing, the student may be represented by a person of his or her choice, if so desired. If after the hearing the request to amend is again denied by the University, the student has the right to place in the file a statement or other explanatory document, provided that such statements or documents relate solely to the disputed information.
 - D. The right to appeal violation of rights.
If a student believes that any of his or her rights hereunder have been violated by the University, he or she should make such facts known to the Dean of Students in writing. If the Dean of Students does not resolve the matter and the student still feels that his or her rights have been violated, he or she may so inform the Department of Education in writing.
 - E. The right to file a complaint with the US Department of Education.
Students have the right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the University to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the Office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20202-5920

- F. The right to select a physician or other appropriate professional, at personal expense, to review records on a student's behalf, that have been created or maintained by a physician, psychiatrist, psychologist, or other recognized professional or paraprofessional while an individual has been a student at the University, filed with The University.

2. Definitions

- A. The Educational Record maintained by the University will consist of:
1. Directory information as noted above
 2. Application for admission
 3. Applicant's secondary school records
 4. Cumulative University of the Arts records of grades, credits, grade-point average, and academic actions
 5. Correspondence (or copies thereof) re: admission, enrollment, registration, probation
 6. Student petitions
 7. Disciplinary actions
 8. Departmental appraisals and evaluations of student progress
- B. The Educational Records do not include:
1. Parents' and students' confidential financial documents
 2. Counseling psychologists' files
 3. Health Office files
 4. Faculty and staff memoranda/files retained for personal/professional use
- C. Educational Records are maintained by the following:
1. Office of the Registrar
 2. Office of the Dean of Students
 3. Financial Aid Office
 4. Finance Office
 5. Office of Continuing Studies
- D. A dependent student is defined as one who is declared a dependent by his or her parents for income-tax purposes.
- E. A student is defined as a person who attends or has attended the University. Persons who have applied to but who have not attended the University as an enrolled student are not covered under FERPA.

3. University Rights & Responsibilities.

- A. The University may not generally release any information outside the University that is maintained in educational records without prior consent or waiver. However, the University does have the right to release the following information:
1. Name
 2. Address
 3. Email address
 4. Telephone listing
 5. Date and place of birth
 6. Major field of study
 7. Participation in officially recognized activities
 8. Dates of attendance
 9. Degrees and awards received
 10. The most recent previous educational institution attended by the student.
 11. Enrollment status.

If a student does not wish any of this information made public, either in a directory of students or in any other manner, the student must inform the Office of the Registrar no later than the end of the third week of classes each semester of the information not to be released.

- B. The University may disclose FERPA-related information without consent to school officials when there is a legitimate educational interest. A school official is a person employed by the University in an administrative, supervisory, academic, or research or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); or a person or company with whom the University has contracted (such as an attorney, auditor, or collection agent). A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an educational record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility.
 - C. While release of information from educational records to outside parties requires the student's explicit consent, the following exceptions do not require the student's consent:
 - 1. Compilation of general enrollment data for reports required by U.S. Government and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania authorities;
 - 2. Participatory information-sharing with educational service associations such as the College Scholarship Service and the American Council on Education;
 - 3. Information about an individual student in the event of a personal emergency that is judged to threaten the health and/or safety of that student;
 - 4. Compliance with judicial orders and lawfully issued subpoenas;
 - 5. Reference by appropriate University of the Arts faculty and professional staff.
 - 6. In cases of violent crime, the results of any disciplinary proceeding conducted by the University against an accused student to the alleged victim.
 - 7. Any release of information as outlined above that identifies an individual student and requires that student's consent will be recorded in his or her permanent record.
 - E. The University reserves the right to inform parents/guardians of dependent students where it deems appropriate-specifically when it has cause to believe that a student's status at the University may be in jeopardy due to disciplinary reasons.
 - F. Requests for the records of a deceased student must be accompanied by a notarized statement from the executor of the estate of the deceased approving the release of records. Requests concerning students who have long been deceased will be evaluated by the University based on legitimate educational interest.
4. Directory Information The University of the Arts has determined that the following information will be considered "directory information" and may release it without prior consent from the student:
- Name
 - Address
 - Telephone listing
 - Email address
 - Date and place of birth
 - Major field of study
 - Participation in officially recognized activities
 - Dates of attendance
 - Enrollment status
 - Degrees and awards received
 - Last institution attended

Verification of Enrollment

Students often need to send additional information concerning their enrollment to insurance companies, loan services, scholarship programs, and other outside parties. The student can either request an enrollment verification in writing or through the MyUArts Portal. Any request for verification of enrollment beyond the directory information listed above must be made in writing and signed by the student wishing to release the information. The request for verification must state exactly which information the student wants released and who is authorized to receive it. There is no fee for this service. The Office of the Registrar will verify enrollment for a future semester only after the student has registered in classes and has been cleared by the Student Billing Office. Normal service for other verifications of enrollment is three to five working days from the time the request is received. For immediate service (24 hours/7 days per week) - Enrollment verification requests may be made via to the National Student Clearing House secure Website to make your request. There is a small fee for each request made of $2.50. The Website address is:

<http://www.studentclearinghouse.org>.

Transcript Request Procedures

"Unofficial" transcripts may be viewed and printed through the MyUArts portal or obtained from the Office of the Registrar at no charge.

Students may request an "official" transcript by completing a transcript request form (available in the Office of the Registrar) or via the MyUArts Portal by providing the following information:

- Name under which the student attended the University or any predecessor institutions
- Current address and telephone number
- Social Security number
- Date of birth
- Last date of attendance
- Major/Degree program
- Address where transcript is to be sent
- Signature Transcripts will not be released without the original signature of the requesting student.

Fees:

Official transcripts are subject to a $5 fee, with the following exceptions for special services:

- $10 fee for faxed requests, which must include a credit card number, expiration date, and an authorizing signature. The University accepts Visa or MasterCard payments.
- $12 fee for emergency service that will be processed within one day of receipt of request and sent via U.S. Mail.
- $30 fee for overnight service for distribution only in the U.S. The transcript request will be processed within one day and sent via FedEx overnight service.
- $40 fee for International service that will be processed within one day and sent via DHL.
- Transcripts will not be processed if there is a financial hold on the student's account. Please allow three to five working days to complete requests.

Academic Progress and Student Responsibility

Each student is responsible for observing all regulations in the UArts Course Catalog that may affect academic progress, financial obligations, relationships with University authorities, transferability of credits, acceptance of credits for graduation, and eligibility to graduate, as well as:

- Knowing regulations regarding withdrawals, refund deadlines, program changes, and academic policy.
- Registering each semester in accord with the posted schedule (see Academic Calendar). Failure to register will result in a late registration fee.
- Meeting any financial or academic requirements that have caused a hold to be placed on their student record.
A student cannot officially register until clearance has been obtained from the Student Billing Office.

Academic advising at the University is designed to assist students in directing and completing their degree programs by providing guidance through contact with informed advisors and information available in various UArts publications. Students are expected to refer to the University Course Catalog and course bulletins for information on policies, procedures, and deadlines. Students are assigned a faculty advisor in their department and when in doubt about any College or University regulation should seek advice from their academic advisor or the Office of the Registrar.

Academic Grievance Procedure including requests for a Change of Grade

Students who have a concern or grievance regarding any academic matter, other than actions taken by the Academic Review Committee, may use the following process to address those concerns. If the concern or grievance is directly related to actions taken by the Academic Review Committee, please submit a letter of grievance directly to the Office of the Provost.

Grievances must be submitted no later than the end of the seventh week of the semester following the one in which the cause of the grievance occurred. This deadline has been set to allow time for the resolution of incomplete grades from the previous semester in accordance with the policies noted elsewhere in this catalog. Please also note that requests for a change of grade for graduated students must adhere to the guidelines noted at the end of this section.

Please note that a student may request the assistance of any staff member of the University at any stage of the grievance process.

1. Students who have a concern or grievance regarding an academic matter are encouraged to discuss their concern directly with the instructor.
2. If they are not comfortable presenting their concern in person, or are not satisfied with the outcome of the discussion, they should submit their grievance in writing to the instructor, and send a copy to the chair/director of the department in which the instructor teaches, and the dean of the college.
3. The instructor must respond, in writing, to the student within 20 business days from the date in which a grievance is received. In the case of a grievance filed during winter, spring, or summer breaks, the clock will stop until the first day of the regular academic calendar. The department Chair or Director is available for consultation by either the student or the faculty member, and must be copied on the instructor's response. The chair/director has the right to forward the concern to the Office of the Dean should he/she conclude that either the student or instructor's concerns warrant further review or intervention.
4. If the student believes that his/her concern requires further attention, he/she may submit the matter in writing to the Office of the Dean of the college in which the course is offered, or to the Office of the Dean of Liberal Arts when applicable.
5. The Dean/Director of Liberal Arts must either rule on the case or charge an Academic Grievance Committee within 10 business days. If the Office of the Dean/Director of Liberal Arts does not wish to rule on the matter, he/she may convene an Academic Grievance Committee or similar committee to review the concern. The composition of the Academic Grievance Committee is determined by the Dean/Dean of Liberal Arts.
6. As a last resort, the Office of the Dean/Director and/or the student may forward concerns to the Office of the Provost for final resolution.

Change of Grade

An instructor may change a grade only if an error occurred in computing or recording the final grade, or if re-evaluation of previously submitted work is warranted. Extra work, beyond that required of other class members during the period when the class met, or work handed in after the completion of the course, may not be offered as reasons for a grade change.

In exceptional circumstances, a student may be granted an Incomplete, which is posted to the transcript as an "I." Once the work for the course has been completed, a Change of Grade Form must be submitted to the Office of the Registrar in order to convert the "I" to the earned grade. Please refer to the section of this catalog titled "Grade of Incomplete" for more information.

If a student questions the correctness of a grade, the student should address his/her concern in accordance with the Academic Grievance Procedures listed above. Any change of a final grade may be made only by the course instructor, who must personally submit the signed Change of Grade form, including the signature of the academic dean, to the Office of the Registrar no later than the end of the semester following the one in which the grade was given.

Please note that graduated students who wish to seek a change of grade or file an academic grievance must do so no later than three days after the last grades required to fulfill degree requirements are posted.

Academic Review

Undergraduate Grade-Point Average Requirements

Undergraduate students who maintain a minimum 2.0 cumulative and semester grade-point average (GPA) are considered to be in good standing. In some programs students must also satisfy minimum grade requirements in major coursework. (Please refer to the department sections of this catalog for more specific information on minimum grade requirements for certain majors.)

Students who have taken Incompletes will not be evaluated by the Academic Review Committee until the seventh week of the following semester, when final grades are due. Please note that, as a result, financial aid for the semester in progress may be adversely affected.

Graduate Grade-Point Average Requirements

A minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 is required for good standing and for graduation for graduate students. If a student is unable to achieve a semester or cumulative GPA of 3.0, he or she will be placed on probation. If a 3.0 GPA and/or other conditions are not attained by the following semester, the student may be dismissed from the program. While on Probation, a student will be ineligible to hold a graduate assistantship or to receive a University supplemental grant-in-aid or scholarship.

Undergraduate and Graduate Academic Review Policies

Students who fail to meet these minimum requirements will be reviewed by the Academic Review Committee (ARC). The Committee evaluates the records of such students, determines their academic status, gives benchmarks for progress in order to assist their return to good standing, and, when appropriate, dismisses students, according to University policy. It is the duty of the Committee to determine appropriate forms of censure for any student who is considered by the committee to be in academic jeopardy. The determination of academic jeopardy may be made as necessary and determined by the ARC on a case-by-case basis. Inadequate progress in the pursuit of degree requirements and multiple non-sequential semesters on probation are criteria for additional censure.

Academic Dishonesty

The University of the Arts does not condone any form of academic dishonesty, including cheating on exams, plagiarism, or similar types of behavior. Lack of knowledge of citation procedures, for example, is an unacceptable explanation for plagiarism, as is having studied together for remarkably similar papers submitted by two students. Penalties for any form of academic dishonesty may include a reprimand, a failing grade or non-credit for a particular assignment, a failing grade in the course, disciplinary probation, suspension, dismissal, and/or expulsion.

If an instructor suspects a student of any form of plagiarism or academic dishonesty, the instructor may address the issue directly with the student. The instructor shall determine an appropriate course of action after meeting with the student and may impose penalties, which include repeating the project, resubmitting the paper, failing the project or paper, or failing the course. The department chair or director must be notified in writing when the student receives a failing grade in the course as a result of academic dishonesty on the student's part.

Both the instructor and the student have the right to forward the case, in the form of a written complaint, to the chair or director of the department. (If the instructor is also the chair or director of the department, the case goes directly to the Office of the Dean, and to the Provost if the instructor is one of the academic deans.) If the instructor considers the act of dishonesty serious enough to warrant a more serious penalty, he/she must forward the case to the next level, i.e., the department chair or director, or the Dean of the College or the Provost.

If the student or instructor chooses to appeal the decision made by the chair or director, the student or instructor may forward the case to the Dean of the College. A request for such an appeal must be submitted in writing. The Dean has the right to assemble a committee to address the case, or when suspension or expulsion may result, to forward the case to the Dean of Students.

If the student seeks a further appeal, the case may be brought to the Provost, who has the right to assemble a committee to review the case. Please note that the Provost's decision is the final and binding decision in such cases and no further appeal will be entertained.

Academic Censure

Probation

The Academic Review Committee (ARC) places students who are no longer in good standing on Probation, in accordance with University policy. The Committee can also place additional requirements on students to encourage adequate progress towards completion of the degree and improved academic performance. These additional requirements may include repeating courses, meeting with advisors, limiting the number of credits taken in a given semester, tutoring, and/or counseling. Students placed on Probation will receive a letter from the dean's office of their college on advisement from the Academic Review Committee, in which the terms and conditions of the Committee's decision are explained.

While undergraduate students may be placed on probation three times prior to dismissal, the ARC may reduce the number of semesters that precede dismissal each time the semester GPA is below 1.5, or when the student fails to fulfill the requirements previously set by the ARC, or when the ARC determines that the student is in sufficient academic jeopardy to warrant additional censure.

Dismissal

The Academic Review Committee may also dismiss students:

1. After three semesters on Probation
2. After a single semester GPA below 1.0
3. After continued failure to fulfill academic probationary requirements specified by the Academic Review Committee

Students who are being dismissed will receive a Letter of Dismissal from the Office of the Dean of their college. Guidelines for appeal of a dismissal, in the event of extenuating circumstances, are described in the Letter of Dismissal. Any student whose appeal of dismissal is upheld and who is permitted to enroll will automatically be placed on Probation until the stated conditions are met, and will not be eligible to appeal future dismissals.

Academic Censure and Financial Aid

Academic censure imposed by the Academic Review Committee may have financial aid ramifications, including but not limited to the loss of financial aid after two consecutive semesters on Probation, (or as the result of not completing the minimum number of credits per year). Please refer to the Financial Aid section of this catalog for more specific information.

Disciplinary Dismissals

In addition to Academic Dismissal, the University may dismiss students for disciplinary reasons. In such cases, students will automatically receive the grade of "W" for all classes in which they were enrolled at the time of dismissal. For more information on disciplinary action, please refer to the Student Code of Conduct section in this catalog.

Appeals

Students who are dismissed may make an appeal to the Academic Review Committee regarding the dismissal. In order to request a hearing for an Appeal by the Academic Review Committee, students must contact the Dean's office of their college by the date indicated in the Letter of Dismissal. Students must also deliver a written request for an appeal to the Committee at the time of the hearing, and will be notified of the Committee's decision at the completion of the hearing.

Students who wish to contest the outcome of the Appeal, or who wish to file a grievance regarding the Academic Review proceedings, should write a letter directly to the Office of the Provost.

Automobiles

Students living in the University's residence halls are not permitted to maintain vehicles (except bicycles) on campus. Any resident student found to be maintaining a vehicle (except a bicycle) on campus will be subject to disciplinary action. Students with disabilities may request parking from the Office of Disability Services.

Counseling Services

Brian Hainstock, Director
bhainstock@uarts.edu
Gershman Hall, Rm. 308
215-717-6614

The Counseling Center at UArts provides individualized personal counseling and referrals to other professionals. Counseling Services encourages students who were receiving treatment prior to their arrival in Philadelphia to establish a relationship with a counselor on or near campus to provide a more immediate level of care and help to monitor symptoms and medications. All counseling conversations and records are confidential except in cases of emergency.

Disability Services

Neila Douglas, Director
ndouglas@uarts.edu
215-717-6616

The University of the Arts is committed to providing equal educational opportunities and full participation for students with disabilities. Students who would like to access services must self-identify and provide appropriate verification of their disability showing that it currently substantially limits a major life activity. The University determines eligibility for appropriate and reasonable accommodations of either an academic or personal nature on an individual basis. The University of the Arts follows the documentation guidelines established by the Educational Testing Service.

Health Services

Suzanne Scott, Director
sscott@uarts.edu
Anderson Hall, Mezzanine and Terra, Rm. 401
215-717-6230

The University's Health Services office is open Monday through Friday and staffed with a registered nurse. The office renders first aid, treats minor illnesses, provides wellness/disease prevention counseling, and refers students to other professionals within the area. Jefferson Family Medicine Associates (JFMA) provides medical services free of charge for students with a referral from Health Services. Besides treating acute and chronic illnesses, JFMA also provides services for drug abuse, sexually transmitted diseases, birth control and mental health. Students will be charged for specialists, X-rays, laboratory work, ambulance service, and emergency room visits; therefore, students are required to have adequate health insurance either through their own insurance company or through a plan offered by Academic HealthPlans and billed through UArts.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania requires that all colleges and universities screen first-time students for immunizations. Therefore, entering students must schedule a physical exam, have a physician fill out and sign the University of the Arts Health Information Form, and return it to Health Services. Students are also required by Pennsylvania law to fill out the Meningitis Waiver Form. The University is not able to allow students to complete registration, move into University housing, or attend classes without proper health information filed with Health Services.

In the event of an emergency after office hours, JFMA physicians are on call and may be reached at 215-955-7190. JFMA is located at 9th and Chestnut Streets.

School Closings

In the event of inclement weather, UArts emergency closings can be monitored through the following mechanisms:

- Call the University's recorded hotline (215) 717-6996, and follow necessary prompts, dialing "5" to receive the latest closing information on a pre-recorded message. This is the most effective option for additional news on weekend and/or evening closings.
- Tune to NBC-10 TV where school opening delays or closings are aired beginning at 5:00 a.m. and throughout morning programming. Information aired on NBC will be displayed on the bottom of the television screen by school name. You can also check school closing/delay information online by accessing <http://www.nbc10.com/closings/>.
- Tune to KYW-News Radio 1060AM, and listen for the UArts closing number - 116, which is announced twice every hour. In addition to this, information is listed online at: www.kyw1060.com.
- KYW-TV 3 also lists the schools by name across the bottom of the television screen during morning programming.

Please refer to the Academic Calendar for scheduled school closings and holidays. Regularly observed holidays include New Year's Day, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, Memorial Day, the 4th of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and the following day, and Christmas.

Sexual Harassment and Other Prohibited Harassment

The University of the Arts is committed to maintaining an environment in which students, faculty, and staff can pursue academic, artistic, and professional excellence. This environment can be secured only through mutual respect and unconstrained academic and professional interchange among faculty, staff, and students. Faculty, staff, and students of the University are entitled to participate in and obtain the benefits of University programs, activities, and employment without being discriminated against on the basis of their sex, race, religion, creed, age, ethnicity, national origin, pregnancy, disability, sexual orientation, or military status. The University regards any act of sexual harassment or harassment because of race, religion, creed, age, ethnicity, national origin, pregnancy, disability, sexual orientation, or military status to be a violation of the standards of conduct required of all persons associated with the institution. The prohibition against sexual harassment and other forms of harassment applies to all interactions occurring on campus, in University facilities, or within the context of University-related activities. The rights defined by this policy apply to all faculty, staff, and students of the University, and the obligations are binding on all faculty and staff as part of their employment, regardless of tenure or years of service, and all students, regardless of academic status. Harassment constitutes a serious offense and the University will take all necessary disciplinary actions to eradicate it from the University. Those who commit harassment prohibited by this policy are subject to the full range of discipline, up to and including immediate dismissal from the University faculty or employment, or expulsion from the University, as appropriate. The prohibitions set forth in this policy include acts of retaliation against members of the University community who have filed complaints under this policy.

What is Harassment/Sexual Harassment?

Harassment can take many forms, and is not necessarily sexual in nature. It may be, but is not limited to, unwelcome physical contact, intimidation, words, messages and sometimes even jokes and pranks. Keys to determining whether conduct is harassment include (i) whether it is unwelcome or unwanted; (ii) whether it is of the type that a reasonable, objective person would find offensive, hostile, or abusive; and (iii) whether the harassment is based on a protected status such as gender, race, or religion. The term "sexual harassment" has a special meaning and refers to unwanted sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when: (1) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment, advancement, or success at the University; (2) submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for decisions affecting such individual; or (3) such conduct has the purpose or effect of creating an intimidating, hostile, offensive, or abusive working or educational environment, or otherwise unreasonably interferes with an individual's terms and conditions of employment or enrollment as a student. Sexual harassment also may include:

- unwanted physical contact or conduct of any kind, including sexual touching, lewd gestures, or flirtation;
- unwelcome sexual advances or propositions;
- requests for sexual favors;
- verbal abuse, threats, or jokes of a sexual nature;
- demeaning, insulting, intimidating, or sexually suggestive comments about an individual or his or her dress or body;
- the display in the workplace of demeaning, insulting, intimidating, or sexually suggestive objects, words, or pictures, including nude photographs;
- the broadcast, publication, communication, or electronic mailing of demeaning, insulting, intimidating, or sexually suggestive written or recorded messages or images.

Although these examples of conduct may constitute harassment, it must be stressed that some of the types of conduct outlined above do not always rise to the level of prohibited harassment. Each situation must be evaluated in context. Similarly offensive conduct directed at an individual because of his or her race, religion, creed, age, sexual orientation, national origin, pregnancy, disability, or military status also may constitute prohibited harassment.

Staff/Student Interaction -Additional Prohibitions

In addition to the general prohibitions against harassment of any type, the University imposes an obligation on its staff members with regard to their interactions with students. No staff member may ask for a date, make a sexual advance to a student, or in any other way become romantically or sexually involved with a student. This rule is for the protection of students, staff, and the University. If a staff member has any doubt or question about whether his or her relationship with a student violates this policy, the staff member should refrain from further interaction with the student and contact the Director of Personnel Services for advice. A staff member may not use, in any way, his or her status as a staff member to intimidate a student or advance a personal or sexual relationship.

Procedures for Reporting Sexual Harassment

A student, employee or faculty member who feels that he or she has been the victim of harassment, must promptly report, either orally or in writing, the harassment to the (i) the Director of Personnel Services, who also serves as the Equal Opportunity Officer for the University, or (ii) the Provost when the alleged harassing party is a member of the faculty; or (iii) the Dean of Students when the alleged harassing party is a student. The matter should be reported as soon as possible after the conduct has occurred, so that it can receive prompt and appropriate attention. If, for any reason, the student, employee, or faculty member is uncomfortable discussing such matters with one of the above officials, he or she must promptly report the matter to the President, or if they are unavailable, to the most senior available administrator. In the event that a complaint of harassment -- formal or informal, written or oral, from the alleged victim or otherwise -- is made to an administrator, faculty member, or staff supervisor other than those specifically identified above, that administrator, faculty member or staff supervisor must: (a) inform the person making the complaint that the matter will be referred to the Director of Personnel Services; (b) ask the person making the complaint to write down the conduct or event(s) believed to be harassment, or record the complaint and obtain the alleged victim's agreement that the record is accurate; and (c) promptly report, either orally or in writing, such complaint to the Director of Personnel Services. Every University administrator, faculty member, and staff supervisor has a duty to maintain a workplace/educational environment free of any form of harassment.

Investigation Process

In the event of any report, orally or in writing, of harassment, a prompt inquiry will be made to determine whether any harassment has occurred. If a preliminary inquiry into the matter indicates there may be validity to the charges, then the University will promptly proceed with a formal, thorough, and impartial investigation. If such a formal investigation proceeds, interviews and/or statements will be obtained from all available involved parties, including the accuser, the accused, and witnesses, if any. If applicable, documents and other evidence will be reviewed. During the investigation, intermediate measures- such as scheduling changes to avoid contact between the parties -- may be taken to ensure that further harassment does not occur. The investigator(s), upon completion of the factual investigation, will reach factual conclusions, summarize them in writing, and report them to the Director of Personnel Services. Based upon the factual investigation and conclusions, and any other information that becomes available, the Provost, Dean of Students, or

Director of Personnel, in consultation with the investigator(s), will reach a conclusion as to whether harassment occurred.

Remedial and Disciplinary Measures

If harassment is found, the University will take immediate steps to stop the harassment, implement appropriate corrective and disciplinary action, and initiate any necessary preventive measures to ensure the harassment does not occur again. Even if the University concludes that harassment did not occur, or that it is unable to determine one way or the other what occurred due to the lack of verifiable or credible evidence, the University may take disciplinary or preventive measures, such as training and monitoring, to ensure harassment does not occur in the future. Within 14 days of the complaint to one of the above officers (or after a longer period, if needed), the Director of Personnel Services, in conjunction with the Provost, or the Dean of Students, as applicable, has the authority, after investigation, to resolve the matter with or without the imposition of sanctions. A written record of the complaint, any investigation, and the resolution of the complaint will be kept in a confidential file in the Director of Personnel Service's office. Any conclusion from the inquiry or investigation will be communicated to both the accuser and the accused, stressing the confidentiality and anti-retaliation provisions outlined in this policy. The accuser and the accused shall have the right to review the written factual findings and conclusions of the investigator.

Further Review

If the complaining party or the accused party is not satisfied with the resolution of the matter, he or she may request a meeting with the President within seven days of being informed of the proposed resolution. The complaining party and the named harassing party have the right to appear before the President, or the President's designated representative for the matter, to provide information and to answer questions. The Provost may provide additional information relating to the investigation and alleged harassment. At the conclusion of any such review, the President shall either affirm the prior conclusion or recommend alternative action. A written determination will be issued, and both the complaining party and the accused will be informed of this decision. No further University review is available. If a recommendation for dismissal is not upheld after exhaustion of the tenured faculty appeal process, the President shall nonetheless take remedial actions, including disciplinary actions short of dismissal, which are reasonably calculated to prevent any future harassment. Such actions are not subject to further review.

Retaliation Prohibited

Retaliation or reprisal of any kind against anyone reporting allegations of harassment, or cooperating in an investigation of such a report, is strictly prohibited. Such retaliation shall be considered a serious violation of this policy and shall be punishable by discipline up to and including termination, regardless of whether the charge of harassment is substantiated. Examples of prohibited retaliation include: threatening reprisals against the employee or student who complained or cooperated in the investigation; unfairly changing the evaluations, assignments, or working conditions of such a student or employee; or otherwise continuing any harassment against such person. If an employee or student is found to have intentionally lied about a claim of harassment, or brought the claim in bad faith, knowing that the allegation is false, then that employee or student may be subject to discipline.

Questions Regarding the Harassment Policy and Procedure

All questions regarding this Policy and Procedure should be directed to the Director of Personnel Services or to the Dean of Students.

Smoking Policy

The University of the Arts maintains a smoke-free environment. Smoking is permitted only out of doors.

Solicitation

In an effort to assure a productive and harmonious work environment, persons not employed by The University of the Arts may not make solicitations or distribute literature at the University at any time for any purpose.

The University recognizes that students and alumni may have interests in events and organizations outside the University. However, students and alumni may not make solicitations or distribute literature concerning these activities on the University campus or by electronic mail.

Student Assistance General Provisions

In accordance with the Higher Education Amendments of 1998, The University of the Arts has available, upon request, information regarding academic programs, financial assistance, and institutional policies and statistics. This information may be found in the University's catalog.

The Student Assistance General Provisions report includes information on the following:

- Accreditation
- Current degree programs including related facilities and faculty
- Tuition, fees, and other estimated expenses
- Withdrawal and refund policies
- Description of financial aid programs, including eligibility, award criteria, and application procedures, as well as students' rights and responsibilities upon receiving financial assistance (such as continued eligibility, exit counseling, and options for payment deferral)
- Requirements for the return of Title IV grant or loan assistance
- Services available for students with disabilities
- Graduation rate

In addition, each October, the Public Safety Department publishes an annual report on the University's security policies and crime statistics, which is available to all current and prospective students and employees.

To request a copy of the Student Assistance General Provisions report, please contact the Office of the Provost, The University of the Arts, 320 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19102.

Substance Abuse Policy

The members of The University of the Arts community and their health and safety are of paramount concern. The University will not tolerate drug and alcohol abuse, as it imperils the health and well-being of its faculty, staff, and students, and threatens the operation of its educational programs.

The use, possession, or distribution of illegal drugs and abuse of other controlled substances, in or out of class, or on University premises is inconsistent with law-abiding behavior expected of all students, and may result in discipline, up to and including expulsion.

The University prohibits the illegal and/or unauthorized manufacture, sale, or delivery, holding, offering for sale, possession, or use of any controlled substance as defined under the Pennsylvania Controlled Substance, Drug, Device and Cosmetic Act, 35 P.S. Section 780-102, the Uniform Controlled Substances Act, the Uniform Narcotic Drug Act, or the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. Section 301 et seq., on University property.

Such controlled substances for the purposes of this policy shall include but not be limited to alcoholic beverages, narcotics, hypnotics, sedatives, tranquilizers, stimulants, hallucinogens, and other similar known or habit-forming drugs and/or chemicals as defined under the aforesaid laws.

University Guidelines for Responsible Computing

The University of the Arts provides access to computing and information resources, telephones, and other equipment and resources for students, faculty, staff, and other authorized users in support of the University's mission of teaching, creative exploration, research, and public service. Computing resources include host computer systems, University-sponsored computers and workstations, peripherals, software, electronic files, the UArts network, email services and the My UArts Portal. Proper use demonstrates respect for intellectual property, ownership of data, systems security mechanisms, and each individual's rights to privacy and to freedom from intimidation, harassment, and unwanted annoyance.

Recognizing the value of such resources to our educational and artistic mission, the University has made substantial investment in such resources and equipment and expects them to be used only for University purposes in accordance with University rules, policies, and directives. No University resources or equipment may be used improperly by any faculty, student, or staff member, or for personal gain or profit.

Under the auspices of the Chief Financial and Administrative Officer, (CFAO), all University computer systems, including user files, may be monitored and/or confiscated at any time should any portion of the system be threatened, or its integrity, security, or proper use be in question, or for any reason, at the sole discretion of the CFAO. Members of the University community should understand that all computer files and communications are subject to review, and should not expect such files and communications to be private.

All users of the University's information and technology resources are expected:

1. to respect the rights of others and not use such resources to threaten, endanger, harass, intimidate, or insult others, or to engage in unlawful, defamatory, or obscene activity;
2. to abide by all applicable licenses, copyrights, patents, intellectual property rights, contracts, security agreements, University policies, and other restrictions; and
3. to use such resources solely for University-related activities and purposes;
4. to behave responsibly with respect to these resources at all times, respecting the integrity and security of these resources;
5. to respect the rights and property of others, including the right of privacy and confidentiality, the freedom of thought, inquiry, and expression.

The University reserves the right to restrict or rescind computing privileges, or the use of any other University facilities or resources, in accordance with this and other applicable University policies when the user has exhibited inappropriate behavior in the use of such resources. Other discipline and remedial measures may be appropriate, as set forth in other applicable University policies.

The same policies and laws that govern faculty and student publications in traditional media are applicable to publications in computer media. With few exceptions, Web pages, electronic mail, and electronic files may not contain copyrighted material without the approval of the owner of the copyright. Likewise, theft or misuse of private property-whether it be tangible or intellectual property-is prohibited.

Examples of Inappropriate Behavior

This policy covers all types of inappropriate behavior. The following types of activities are selected examples of behaviors that are unethical, unlawful, and/or inappropriate.

- Attempting to alter system, hardware, software, or account configuration
- Accessing or monitoring another individual's accounts, files, software, electronic mail, or computer resources without the permission of the owner
- Misrepresenting one's own identity, role, or the identity of any other person in any type of electronic communication
- Intentionally or negligently revealing passwords or permitting another to use one's personal account
- Altering, or destroying communications, or intentionally compromising the security of electronic information passing through the UArts network
- Misrepresenting or implying that the content of a personal home page constitutes the views or policies of the University, or altering the University's official Website or related pages without prior authorization in writing
- Misusing the University's computing resources so as to reduce their efficiency or to affect access to the detriment of other users
- Producing chain letters or broadcasting messages to individuals or lists of users, or producing any communication that interferes with the work of others
- Breaching or attempting to breach computer security systems, with or without malicious intent.
- Engaging in any activity that might be harmful to systems, the network or to any stored information such as creating or propagating viruses, worms, Trojan horses, or other rogue programs, disrupting services, or damaging files
- Wasting system resources or overloading the UArts network with extra data
- Violating copyright and/or software license agreements
- Using computing resources for commercial or profit-making purposes without the written authorization of the University
- Downloading or posting to University computers, or transporting across University networks, material that is illegal, proprietary, in violation of University contractual agreements, or in violation of University policy
- Violating local, state or federal laws

The University considers any violation of these regulations to be a serious offense. Violations may result in revocation or restriction of computer privileges; disciplinary action as outlined by the Student Judicial System, the Faculty and Staff Handbooks, and other University policies and procedures; or a referral to local, state, and/or federal authorities.

Privacy and Email

Both the nature of email and the character of The University of the Arts environment make email less private than users may anticipate. The privacy of email messages may be compromised by the fact they must routinely pass through numerous computers and are sometimes seen by system administrators in the course of maintaining these systems, redirecting lost mail, or by assistants routinely screening colleagues' mail.

Email Monitoring and Disclosure

The University of the Arts does not routinely monitor or inspect email. Nonetheless, email is subject to a number of laws, policies, and practices that apply to the disclosure and protection of The University of the Arts' records. Examples include but are not limited to the Federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act; University personnel policies; disclosure pursuant to litigation; and other provisions of The University Guidelines for Responsible Computing.

The University of the Arts may access email accounts to satisfy a legal obligation or to ensure proper operation of the electronic mail facilities, and it reserves the right to take appropriate investigatory and/or disciplinary action.

University of the Arts Email Policy

Students are responsible for regularly reading and responding to email sent by the University faculty, staff, and administration to the students' UArts email account for the entirety of the time they are enrolled at the University. Students are also required to use their UArts email account for all email correspondence with the University's faculty, staff and administration. Therefore, the University's offices and faculty will only accept email when sent via the student's UArts email account.

Each student is assigned an email account upon enrolling, and is responsible for activating their account by the first day of classes of their first semester of attendance. Students can activate their email account online through the University Portal. A letter containing the user account and pin number will be mailed to the student's home residence before the start of classes. The portal URL address is <https://myuarts.uarts.edu>. Email and Portal support can be obtained by visiting Network Services in Room 250 in Hamilton Hall, via telephone at 215-717-6997, or by emailing portalsupport@uarts.edu.

Students are also expected to regularly check the My UArts Portal for University-related announcements and notifications. The portal is the primary source for student information, which includes grades, class schedules, transcripts, degree audits, and GPAs. Please note that information such as this is no longer mailed to students via U.S. mail, except upon request. Access to the portal, including student email, is available in the open computer labs on campus.

Email and portal accounts remain active for enrolled students and students on approved hiatus and will not be terminated unless the student is withdrawn from the University. The accounts for students who graduate from the University will remain active for one year from the graduation date, however, those interested in keeping their accounts beyond this time period can call the Development office at 215-717-6140 to make appropriate arrangements.

Workplace Violence

The University is committed to maintaining a safe working, learning, and living environment for all members of the University community.

Threats, acts of aggression, and violence are unacceptable in the University community. Any such threat or violent act, regardless of intent, will be considered serious misconduct and may be the basis for disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal.

In addition, the University prohibits the possession of firearms, explosives, and other dangerous weapons on campus and at University functions off-campus.

The College of Art and Design is a comprehensive visual arts college offering a full range of undergraduate and graduate programs in fine arts, crafts, design, media arts, art education, and museum communication and education. All programs are dedicated to the development of the individual artistic spirit and vision within each student; the study of the historical and contemporary precedents that have shaped our culture; and the full range of analog and digital methods and processes that give form to the visual arts.

Major Areas of Study

The College offers coursework toward the BFA, BS, MFA, MA, MAT, or MID degree with major programs in:

Bachelor of Fine Arts

- Animation
- Crafts (Ceramics, Fibers, Metals, and Wood)
- Film/Animation
- Film/Digital Video
- Graphic Design
- Illustration
- Painting and Drawing
- Photography
- Printmaking/Book Arts
- Sculpture

Bachelor of Science

- Industrial Design

The College also offers the following graduate degree programs:

Master of Art

- Art Education
- Museum Communication
- Museum Education
- Master of Art in Teaching

Master of Fine Arts

- Visual Arts Master of Fine Arts Book Arts/Printmaking
- Ceramics
- Museum Exhibition Planning and Design
- Painting
- Sculpture

Master of Industrial Design

These special undergraduate and graduate programs are also offered:

- Special concentration in Art Therapy
- Pre-certification program in Art Education
- Post-baccalaureate certificate program in Crafts

Class Size and Structure

Each department is unique, with its own curriculum and structure, but in every department, classes are small and informal. Faculty advisors and the generous student/faculty ratio assure close individual attention and assistance throughout a course of study.

One of the important teaching modes in the college is the critique, or "crit," an evaluation of student work by the instructor with the participation of the class. Given informally to the class or individual as often as once a class, crits have proven to be an invaluable method for the development of critical thinking and self-awareness, which are major educational goals in our programs.

Credit-Hour Ratio

In general, credit is earned at the ratio of one credit for two class-contact hours in studio courses. Please refer to the course descriptions for specific information.

PCA Diploma Holders Seeking a UArts Bachelor's Degree

Diploma graduates of the Philadelphia College of Art may apply credits earned for the diploma toward the University's baccalaureate requirements. For additional information and to apply, contact the Office of the Registrar.

Exhibition Program

The Exhibition Program showcases major contemporary exhibitions related to the University's diverse academic curricula in design, crafts, and the fine arts.

Over the years, the Rosenwald-Wolf Gallery, the University's primary exhibition space, has attracted national and international artists to the campus. Artists who have had one-person exhibitions in the gallery include Vito Acconci, Siah Armajani, Alice Aycock, Willie Cole, Gregory Crewdsen, Rosalyn Drexler, Richard Fleishner, April Gornik, Lois Greenfield, Alex Grey, John Hejduk, Daniel Jackson, Maira Kalman, Barbara Kasten, Mel Kendrick, Jon Kessler, Donald Lipski, Henry Moore, Ree Morton, Robert Motherwell, Thomas Nozkowski, Jack Pierson, Irving Penn, Anne and Patrick Poirer, Yvonne Rainer, Judith Shea, Pat Steir, Lenore Tawney, Paul Thek, George Trakas, and Lebbeus Woods. In addition, the gallery has presented notable historic exhibitions of design: Philippe Apeloig, Geoffrey Beene, Alexei Brodovich, Czech Cubism, Charles Eames, Frogdesign, Keith Goddard, Daniel Jackson, Memphis, Milano and Samuel Yellin.

Additional exhibition spaces in Dorrance Hamilton Hall Galleries, the Solmssen Court Gallery, and the Window on Broad furnish opportunities for faculty, alumni, students, and regional talents. Nearly every department also launches its own series of exhibits.

The galleries in Media Arts, The Mednick and 1401, the Painting/ Drawing Gallery, the Printmaking Gallery, the Richard C. von Hess Illustration Gallery, and the Ceramics/Sculpture Gallery all show work of emerging and established artists. Student-run invitational and juried exhibitions in Gallery One give students the experience of installing shows. Museum Exhibition Planning and Design MFA students gain experience and skills from their practical work in the galleries. Highlights of the year are the Annual Student Show, a featured Commencement event, the Student Scholarship Exhibition, and Senior Student and Master of Fine Arts exhibitions.

Special Facilities

Anderson Hall is a nine-story visual arts facility that houses a spacious gallery, studios, classrooms, and a library designed with a feeling of openness. Through the combination of Anderson Hall, Dorrance Hamilton Hall, and the Terra Building, the University provides a wealth of modern studios, shops, labs, equipment, galleries, and libraries to support the making of art.

The variety of studios and equipment is extensive, ranging from woodworking and metal shops, printmaking and computerized typesetting shops, to fine arts, crafts and design studios, and photo, film, and digital imaging labs. Four large kilns enhance ceramic-making capabilities and a forge has been built for sculpture. A large weaving shop is complete with dozens of looms and a dyeing room. A 19th century carriage house was converted into a skylit figure-modeling studio for sculpture students.

Digital 3D Scanning and Printing Equipment

Students in Crafts, Industrial Design, Sculpture and other departments have access to equipment for digital 3D. Several computer labs are equipped with 3D CAD (computer aided design) software with which digital models may be created. Scanning is used to create digital 3D models from physical objects. The scanned models may be manipulated (scaled, refined, altered) and/or combined with the digital models created in 3D CAD programs. The centerpiece of our digital 3D facility is the Envisiontec Perfactory 3D printer. It automatically constructs physical models made of methacrylate (a plastic material) from the digital CAD models. The Perfactory prints single objects as large as 7.5" x 6" x 9" and larger objects may be built in sections. The plastic models are used by design students as prototypes for visualization, testing, and presentation. Jewelry, crafts, and sculpture students create artwork to be printed out. The plastic may be used as the final product, or it may be painted, combined with other materials, transformed into other materials using molding and casting techniques, or transformed into metal through investment casting or electroforming.

Digital Technology/Electronic Media

Advances in digital technologies have established the computer as an essential tool for creative work. Artists, designers, and performers will increasingly be responsible for the development of new digital media. These advances are creating a wealth of job opportunities for individuals with creative talent that is unparalleled in the history of the arts.

Since 1981, The University of the Arts has been a leader in the field of computer-mediated art and design education in the Northeast region. The University has carefully integrated new media technologies into traditional fields of study within art and design disciplines. Additionally, the Electronic Media Department offers studio elective courses in computer concepts, virtual sculpture, digital multimedia, and electronic media production, at introductory, intermediate, and advanced levels for all students regardless of their major. UArts remains dedicated to continuing this leadership role of preparing students for career opportunities in traditional and electronic media.

Typography/Imaging Lab

The Imaging Lab is a fully equipped pre-press and output facility that accommodates Book Arts, The Borowsky Center for Publication Arts, Graphic Design, Illustration, Media Arts, and Printmaking, among many other departments. We have a traditional darkroom with three copy cameras, two enlargers, and one contact frame. Non-silver classes do all their darkroom work in this facility. The output center houses a Dolev 400 image-setter, film processor, Cannon CLC 1110 color fiery printer, Epson Stylus V4800 Pro, HP large-format six color printer, and four Macintosh workstations. We process film and color output for student work and departmental needs. Students are able to work in the lab under technicians and learn the workings of pre-press and high-end digital output. Imaging workshops are held with classes in the lab, as well as one-on-one consultations with students in the final stages of creative digital work for critiques, portfolios, and thesis exhibitions.

Media Arts Studios

The Media Arts Department (photography/film/digital video/ animation) provides students with high-end equipment and studios modeled after professional environments. Media Arts houses two Master Series Oxberry animation stands, as used by Disney and other professional firms, to film animation drawings, which enable students to produce professional-quality work. In addition, Media Arts digital facilities include three AVID digital video editing systems, a state-of-the-art Windows XP Professional computer animation lab, and a 16-station closed-loop color-calibrated digital imaging computer lab. Media Arts also houses two animation shooting studios, a specially built and acoustically isolated film shooting studio, two fully equipped digital sound studios, five flatbed film editors, as well as video editing, a Casablanca editing system, splicers, synchronizers, and projectors.

Other Media Arts facilities include state-of-the-art high-ventilation darkrooms with 55 4x5 enlargers, a black-and-white RC print processor, a color darkroom with 14 individual stations and a 32" RA four-color print processor, and four photography shooting studios with all the essential equipment for studio photography.

The Media Arts Equipment Room serves student needs by checking out animation, film, and photography equipment, including lights, cameras, tripods, animation discs, and sound equipment for digital photography, two Olympus E-300 digital SLR cameras with 14-45mm and 50-150mm lenses are available to students. The Equipment Room is open seven days a week and offers extended hours on weekdays.

Digital Imaging Lab

The Media Arts Department Digital Imaging Lab is a unique facility built to support high-resolution digital imaging and digital video. The lab has 16 Apple Macintosh G5 computers, equipped with two gbs of RAM, dual high-capacity hard drives, dual Color Calibrated Display monitors for each cpu. Each station has an Epson 2450 FireWire flatbed scanner, and an Wacom Intuos 9x12 tablet. There are a number of Polaroid, Nikon and Minolta Film Scanners, and an Imacon 626 Film scanner. For output, there are a number of devices including a Tektronix Phaser 780 color laser printer, a Fuji Pictography 3500 Digital Printer, a Xante Tabloid Laser Printer, a Polaroid Pro-Palette 8045 8K film recorder, and a Hewlett-Packard 5000PS wide-format digital inkjet printer, with both dye- and pigment-based inks and an Epson 4000 Pro 2200, and 2000P Printers. The lab also has two Pro-Tools XP systems, five Panasonic DV1000 digital video decks and three Sony DSR-40 digital video decks and a sign Video Firewire 12 pt. patchbay. The lab is managed by an Apple G5 OSX server and an Xraid server, with more than 2.5 terrabytes of storage to facilitate the requirements of a modern digital workflow. The lab is available to students majoring in a Media Arts program, or enrolled in specifically designated Media Arts courses.

Computer Animation Lab

The Media Arts Department Computer Animation Lab is a lab designed solely for computer animation. It features 16 IBM Dual Intel XEON processor workstations running Windows XP Professional, with SoftImage XSI 3.0, Maya for 3-D animation, and Adobe Premiere, After Effects, Illustrator, and Photoshop for 2-D work. Digital Audio is handled by Sound Forge and Pro-Tools, and there is also a Macintosh OS X system for FireWire output to the Sony DSR-40 Digital Video Deck. Each system is designed specifically for animation, and has a Wacom Tablet, a dedicated FireWire scanner, CD-RW drives, and a DVD and RW drive. Digital output is handled by three DPS Perception systems, a Sony Beta deck, a Panasonic SVHS deck, a Sony Digital Video Deck, and a DVD burner. The lab also has a Tektronix

Phaser 780 color laser printer for output of animation stills. The lab is managed by a dedicated IBM Fibre Channel server running Windows 2003, and an Apple dual G5 X serve, with 5.6 terrabytes of storage.

Digital Audio Sound Studios

The Media Arts Department houses two state-of-the-art Digital Audio Sound Studios. They are based around two Pro-Tools 24 Mix-TDM systems, each with a Mackie 16x8x2 Mixing Console, a Tascam 234 4-track Cassette Recorder, a Tascam 122 Stereo Cassette recorder, two Neutrik 48 pt. patch bays, a Yamaha SPX900 Sound Processor, an Apple Macintosh G4 with a 17-inch monitor, DVD-RAM, FireWire CD-RW Drive, Tascam DA60 DAT recorder, and a USD Sync Controller. Both rooms can record from the Film Studio, or an Isolation Booth with microphones, foldback, and direct instrument connection.

The facilities also include three AVID Express Deluxe (v.5.7) suites running Windows 2000 Professional on Compaq W8000 2.8ghz, 512 RAM Computer Systems with Dual Stream Uncompressed video, Meridien III Board Set, Son Beta UVW01800 video deck, JVC BR-5800 SVHS video deck, mackie mixer, and dual 21-inch Sony Trinitron Monitors, complemented by three Final Cut Pro video editing Workstations. Two Apple XServe Dual Processor systems, and one Dual Processor Apple G4 system. Each suite includes DigiDesign ProTools 001 software and Hardware, Sony DSR 11 DV Decks, and 20-inch flat panel displays.

Media Arts Department Dub Room

The Media Arts Dub Room allows conversion of audio and video media to differing formats. The following components are supported through track-mounted patch bays for dupes of conversion. Sony Beta UVW-1800 video deck, JVC BR-5800 SVHS video deck, Mackie 12 channel mixer, Elmo TRV-16 Film Transfer unit, Otari 1/4-inch halftrack studio editing deck, Tascam 122 Stereo Cassette Deck, Yamaha DVD Player, Panasonic AGW3 Multi-Standard VHS deck, Tascam DA60 Studio DAT recorder, Tascam MD1 Minidisk deck, Technicx Turntable, Magnasync 16 mm magnetic film recorder, Nagra 4.2 tape deck, two Sony UMatic 3/4-inch video decks, a Sony DVD-R VX500 deck, and a Tascam Patch Bay.

Borowsky Center for Publication Arts

The Borowsky Center for Publication Arts is a unique educational arm of the University providing students, staff, faculty, and visiting artists a resource to explore the creative potential inherent in the offset lithographic printing medium. The Center enables qualified users to experience the complete graphic arts process from initial conceptualization through production, while maintaining the highest printing standards. The Center is equipped with a Heidelberg Kora 19 x 25 offset press, a Dos horizontal camera, a darkroom for shooting and developing negatives, and platemaking and stripping facilities. Staffed with a master printer and student assistants, the Borowsky Center produces a wide variety of printed material including posters, catalogs, brochures, announcements, limited edition prints and artists' books. The Center's Fact Sheet, which includes all procedures for project submittal, is available in the CAD Dean's office.

College of Art and Design Undergraduate Programs

All Freshman students enter the 18-credit Foundation core program that includes courses in drawing, two-dimensional design, three-dimensional design, and time-motion studies. The Foundation program introduces the basic language and processes of the visual arts and prepares the students for entry into a major department. Through Freshman elective course offerings, students are introduced to major course options and opportunities offered by the College of Art and Design.

In the Sophomore year, students select a major from one of the following departments:

- Crafts: Ceramics, Fibers, Metals, Wood
- Fine Arts: Painting and Drawing, Printmaking/Book Arts, Sculpture
- Graphic Design
- Illustration
- Industrial Design
- Media Arts: Animation, Film/Digital Video, Photography

The major program is augmented by required and elective courses in other departments in CAD, CPA, and CMAC to encourage an awareness of the productive interaction that can occur between the many disciplines available at the University. Alternative career opportunities are often developed by students stimulated by courses outside their major.

The college currently offers three concentrations and seven minor programs that can augment or complement the student's major course of study.

Many departments offer internships and practicums to study off-campus during the Junior and Senior years. Frequent field trips to museums, galleries, artists' studios, and design studios in Philadelphia, New York, and Washington, D.C., supplement their regular work in studios and workshops.

Academic Advising

Academic advising at the University is designed to provide maximum information and assistance to students from the time they enter the Foundation program in their Freshman year until they complete their final semester as Seniors.

In the Foundation year, each student is assigned to a Foundation section with its own advisor. Each student is required to meet with the advisor at least once each semester and is encouraged to seek out the advisor as soon as any difficulties begin to occur.

At the end of the Foundation year, when the student selects and enters one of the major departments, the student is assigned to a faculty member who teaches in that department. This faculty member serves as that student's advisor for the next three years. Each student meets with his or her advisor at least once a semester to discuss the student's academic program.

In addition, there are two formalized advising sessions:

1. Second semester, Freshman year: When students enter a major department, the advisor meets in small groups (four to five students) to orient them to collegiate and departmental academic requirements and standards, departmental expectations, elective options and opportunities, program strategies, two-year planning, and office hours.
2. Second semester, Junior year: Individual meetings to review progress, plan final year (both semesters), and review graduation requirements. Students may request a degree audit from the Office of the Registrar at any time.

Transcript copies of student records are supplied on request to faculty advisors by the Registrar following the recording of grades each semester.

BFA Degree Requirements: Credit Distribution by Category

The student is ultimately responsible for completion of all course requirements for the degree program in which he/she is enrolled. The College requires a minimum of 123 credits for graduation (126 for the BS in Industrial Design). A student carrying an average of 15.5 credits per semester would be making normal academic progress toward graduation.

The general credit structure for the BFA is as follows:

Courses	Credits
Foundation	18
Major department credits	42
Elective	21
Liberal Arts	42
Total credits	123

Electives

Elective studio credits may be completed in any department at the College of Art and Design, the College of Media and Communication, or the College of Performing Arts.

- Students are required to take at least nine credits of studio elective courses outside of their major program.
- Major studio departments may require up to six credits of the 21-credit elective requirement in another studio major, and/or Liberal Arts.
- Students may select up to six credits of Liberal Arts courses to be used towards the 21-credit elective requirement, as long as the department has not also required the allocation of six credits of Liberal Arts from the 21-credit elective requirement.

Minimum Grade Requirements

The professional orientation and preparation of the College of Art and Design's undergraduate major degree programs require students to achieve beyond the University's minimum academic standards.

Students must achieve a grade of "C" or better in all College of Art and Design major course requirements and any required courses in other departments, including a discipline history if applicable.

Students who receive a grade of "C-" or lower in a required major course must repeat the course. The degree requirement for that student will be increased by the number of credits that must be repeated.

Students who receive "C-" or lower grades in major courses are required to schedule an appointment with the chair of their department during the first week of classes of the semester immediately following the semester in which the "C-" or lower grade was received. After advising with the chair, students must adjust their schedule accordingly during the Drop/Add period.

A student who receives more than one grade of "C-" or lower in required major courses in a given semester will be reviewed by the Academic Review Committee and placed on academic censure, even if the student's GPA is above 2.0.

An excessive number of grades of "C-" or lower in major coursework may result in dismissal. Students who are unable to achieve minimum grades in major coursework are advised to speak with their advisor and consider transferring to another major.

The Art Therapy and Education concentrations are special courses of study that are offered in conjunction with the studio major programs. Interested students should refer to the program requirements of those concentrations.

Every student must have the approval of his or her department to proceed to the next level of coursework. Advising is a shared responsibility between the department and the student. Each must remain informed about the student's progress toward graduation. Finally, the student's petition to graduate must be approved by the department advisor or chairperson in consultation with his/her faculty.

Minors/Concentrations

The University offers minors and concentrations for students who wish to focus on a specific discipline through organized electives. Please note that minors are offered by all three colleges at UArts. Please refer to the other college sections of this catalog for additional information about offerings, eligibility, prerequisites, and course requirements. You may also contact the departments directly for additional information.

Students wishing to include a minor as part of their undergraduate program should be advised that it is not always possible to complete a minor, and there are no penalties for starting a minor and not completing it. Students are not permitted to continue pursuit of the minor once all degree requirements have been met. All University minors are governed by the following guidelines:

1. Students must meet eligibility requirements, which may include a satisfactory grade-point average, prerequisites, and departmental portfolio review.
2. Intent to complete a minor is declared by filing the completed Minor Declaration Form with the Office of the Registrar. The forms are available in the Office of the Registrar.
3. A student may not major and minor in the same program, except where indicated.
4. Courses applied to the minor may only be applied towards elective requirements.
5. All minors require a minimum of 15 credits, with the exception of E-Music for Music majors. Generally, no substitutions to the minor requirements are allowed. In exceptional situations where substitutions are granted, they must have the approval of both the major and minor program advisors.
6. The requirements of the minor must be completed prior to graduation.
7. A student pursuing a minor may be required to complete more than the minimum number of credits required to complete the undergraduate degree in order to also complete the minor.
8. Minors are available only to undergraduate students.

Internships

Crafts, Fine Arts, Media Arts, Illustration, and Design sponsor an internship course open to all CAD students regardless of their majors. Internships are voluntary and valuable. They reinforce and expand classroom theory and practice and allow the student to test possible career choices and get a feel for the workplace. Students applying for an internship must meet the following eligibility requirements: Junior or Senior level in a BS or BFA program, a 2.5 cumulative grade-point average and be registered for no more than 18 credits, including those from the Internship during the semester. No more than six Internship credits may be credited toward a BS or BFA degree.

Each participating department has an Internship Faculty Advisor who is responsible for coordinating the internships, placing students with workplace sponsors, advising students on course requirements, and deciding on the final pass/fail grades.

Students who are interested in pursuing an internship may obtain Internship information from their faculty advisor, the Career Services Office, or the Dean's Office in CAD. Students sign up for internships during the registration process. The internship course is graded on a pass/fail basis and carries three academic credits. For further information please see the Internship section of the Academic Policies and Procedures section of this catalog, and the course descriptions in the back of this catalog.

Foreign and Summer Study Programs

Foreign and summer studies are available through a number of programs hosted by other institutions. Interested students should meet with the chair of their major department to discuss the appropriate program, timing, and feasibility of off-campus study. Those who choose to participate should contact the Registrar and Financial Aid Office for advising on transfer of credit and financing.

Cooperative Program with Philadelphia University

An agreement between The University of the Arts and Philadelphia University (formerly Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science) permits a limited number of students in each institution to register for a maximum of three undergraduate credits per semester at the sister institution without the payment of additional tuition.

Students are limited to a total of six undergraduate exchange credits during their four-year enrollment at the home institution. Registration is available on a selective basis for qualified students and is restricted to courses not offered at the home institution.

Interested students should contact the Office of the Registrar at 215-717-6420 for additional information and registration materials.

Association of Independent Colleges of Art and Design (AICAD) Mobility Program

The College of Art and Design at The University of the Arts is a member of the Association of Independent Colleges of Art and Design (AICAD). Students in good standing may spend a semester as a guest at another participating member institution. Students remain matriculated at The University of the Arts, and with their advisor's prior approval will receive full credit for work done at one of the following cooperating institutions:

Art Academy of Cincinnati
Art Institute of Boston
Atlanta College of Art
California College of the Arts
Cleveland Institute of Art
College for Creative Studies

Columbus College of Art and Design
Cooper Union School of Art
Corcoran School of Art
Kansas City Art Institute
Laguna College of Art and Design
Lyme Academy College of Fine Arts
Maine College of Art
Maryland Institute, College of Art
Massachusetts College of Art
Memphis College of Art
Milwaukee Institute of Art and Design
Minneapolis College of Art and Design
Montserrat College of Art
Moore College of Art and Design
Oregon College of Art and Craft
Otis College of Art and Design
Pacific Northwest College of Art
Parsons School of Design
Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts
Pratt Institute
Rhode Island School of Design
Ringling School of Art and Design
San Francisco Art Institute
School of the Art Institute of Chicago
School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston

AICAD International Affiliates

Alberta College of Art and Design
Emily Carr Institute of Art and Design
Nova Scotia College of Art and Design
Ontario College of Art and Design

Students apply through their home institutions, which are responsible for the selection of participants. For further information, contact the Office of the Dean, 215-717-6120.

College of Art and Design Graduate Programs

Jamer Hunt

jhunt@uarts.edu
Graduate Coordinator
215-717-6250

Graduate study in the College of Art and Design provides intensive professional preparation in a stimulating multi-arts environment. A select range of specialized graduate degrees in Fine Arts, Design, and Visual Arts Education features focused curricula, small classes, dedicated faculty, and access to outstanding facilities and resources.

All programs address interarts and/or interdisciplinary issues through both studio activity and the University Seminars on "Structure and Metaphor," and "Art and Society," which bring students together from all graduate programs at the College of Art and Design. Additionally, all MFA students take the University Seminar on "Criticism."

A University of the Arts education extends beyond the classroom and studio. Through partnerships, workshops, residencies, internships, and symposia, students engage the larger art, design, and education communities and interact with some of today's most important artists, designers, and educators in a broad range of disciplines.

The College of Art and Design offers these graduate programs: Master of Fine Arts degrees in Book Arts/Printmaking, Museum Exhibition Planning and Design; low-residency summer Master of Fine Arts degrees in Ceramics, Painting, or Sculpture; Master of Industrial Design; Master of Arts in Art Education; Master of Arts in Museum Communication; Master of Arts in Museum Education; Master of Arts in Teaching in Visual Arts.

CAD Policies for Graduate Students.

Please refer to the Academic Policies and Procedures section of this catalog for a full listing of policies that pertain to all UArts graduate students.

Graduate Thesis Requirements

CAD graduate programs require each graduate student to meet specific thesis requirements. The requirements may include a thesis exhibition or project, and should be successfully completed once the student has fulfilled all other program requirements. Students must submit two copies of their thesis to their program director in order to qualify for the degree. One copy of the thesis remains with the department and one is submitted to the Greenfield Library.

Leave of Absence for Summer MFA

SUMFA students are limited to one off-semester leave of absence between the first and third summers. If a longer leave of absence is necessary, the student will be asked to take a full year's leave of absence.

Summer Graduate Electives Policy

Students wishing to complete studio or liberal arts electives during University summer sessions may review pre-approved summer course offerings in the spring with their program advisor and may register for these courses only after obtaining approval and the signature of the CAD Graduate Coordinator. A maximum of six credits is transferable to the graduate curriculum.

Transfer Credit

Studio courses must be 300-level for graduate credit. Two hundred-level courses may be taken with justification from the director and written approval from the Graduate Coordinator. Art Education Competency may be taken as an independent study.

Changing Graduate Programs

Students enrolled in a CAD graduate program wishing to change degree programs must apply through the Office of the Registrar by completing an Application to Change Programs. A change of program is not automatic and occurs only when the applicant meets the acceptance requirements of the program to which they wish to transfer.

Graduate Seminars

The graduate seminar serves as a lively, interdisciplinary forum that brings together students engaged in discreet graduate programs to examine relationships between contemporary visual culture and historic ideas about art and design. Recognizing Philadelphia as a setting and laboratory for the development of collaborative projects and career initiatives, students in the seminar can discuss and apply ideas being explored in their own fields of study in order to identify and cultivate connections between and beyond their respective areas of study.

In practice, graduate seminar study emphasizes the development of writing, research, and critical skills to aid students in the communication and documentation of their work and ideas — both in the major, as it pertains to their specific explorations, and in the wider contemporary context of art and design issues. The seminar experience offers students the opportunity to develop presentation skills by maximizing the use of multimedia applications for presentations of their research results.

Each graduate program in The College of Art and Design offers a selection of seminars designed to inform the direction of the major curriculum. Seminar course listings, Structure and Metaphor, Art and Society, and Criticism are described in the course descriptions, and are listed as part of each graduate program's curriculum.

Animation - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

WRIT 251 and WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema I and II are required of all Animation majors. WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema II can be counted as a studio elective, or liberal arts course.

ILUS 285 - Drawing for Animators

Focuses on introducing and developing the skills and disciplines needed for good figurative animation drawing. The primary issues of anatomical figure drawing with a strong emphasis on the structure and solidity of the figure, good proportions, and specific movement and gesture as they relate to the model. Topics also covered: two-dimensional versus three-dimensional ways of translating form; how perspective and viewpoint are used with the figure and their effect on scale; exaggerated foreshortening techniques; diagrammatic and expressive line quality; facial expressions; hand and foot studies; capturing movement through gesture; and introduction to animal drawing for animation. Formerly IL 205

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Animation and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

(fulfills 3 credits of elective requirements)

MAAN 201 - Introduction to Animation I

Through a series of drawn exercises concentrating on timing, movement, and weight, the student acquires a basic understanding of animation principles. Sound is introduced for the final project, which consists of a short animated film with a complete soundtrack. Formerly PF 212A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 or MMDI 101 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

WRIT 251 and WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema I and II are required of all Animation majors. WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema II can be counted as a studio elective, or liberal arts course.

MAAN 202 - Introduction to Animation II

Students are introduced to under-the-camera animation using varied mediums such as puppets, cut-outs, and painting-on-glass. Special attention is given to non-narrative approaches to animation. A final project is created using one or more of the techniques explored during the semester. Formerly PF 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 or MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 231 - Introduction to Computer Animation

This introductory course develops the student's understanding of digital movement and imaging through animation exercises using a variety of 2D software programs on the PC platform. No previous computer experience is required. Formerly PF 216

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

MAFL 202 - Introduction to Film/Digital Video

This course offers an introduction to the basic practices of digital video editing and further creative exploration of the art of moving images. Students perform timing, staging, and blocking exercises to develop a feel for direction, experiment with more advanced film strategies, learn to edit digital video, and investigate relationships between sound and image. A final project integrates these explorations creatively. Formerly PF 210B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 252 - Narrative Cinema II

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 252

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Junior Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

MAAN 301 - Junior Animation Workshop I

This course focuses on the creation of a personal, 1.5 minute animated piece, starting from initial conception and ending with final output to digital or film media. Stages in the production cycle include storyboarding, animatics, animation, inking and painting, sound image editing, and final output. Formerly PF 312A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 314 - Sound Design and Technology

A hands-on exploration of various technical materials and procedures that complement the animator's production skills, including video editing, analog and digital sound recording, mixing and processing, digital soundtrack preparation, and green screen compositioning techniques. Formerly PF 325

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

MAAN 232 - 2-D Computer Animation

Using both raster- and vector-based programs, students explore how to build 2D animation sequences in the computer and how to translate hand-drawn animation into digitally composited animated pieces. Traditional animation principles are expanded upon and reinforced using 2D computer graphics and editing programs. Digital imagery and sound are integrated in class assignments designed to explore a wide variety of 2D styles. Formerly PF 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 331 - 3-D Computer Animation

Using industry-standard 3D computer software, students learn basic modeling, texturing, lighting, movement, and rendering techniques. This course prepares students for further 3D computer coursework and allow them to utilize 3D software in the development and creation of their Junior and Senior thesis work. Formerly PF 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

MAAN 302 - Junior Animation Workshop II

The first half of this course is devoted to the creation of a short client-based project. The second half involves an interdisciplinary group project aimed at refining students' knowledge of animation movement design. Formerly PF 312B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 301 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 341 - Moving Art: Animation Theory and Production

The aesthetics of animation and how the design and structural elements of frame-by-frame filmmaking have evolved over time. Analytical, production, and historical approaches are brought to bear in the study of animation principles and their development over time. Formerly PF 327

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

MAAN 401 - Senior Animation Workshop

Directed independent production of a short film project in an idiom of the student's choosing; additional production of a visual portfolio and reel.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 302 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

MACR 443 - Time: A Multidisciplinary Seminar

The concept of Time considered from a multidisciplinary perspective, drawing on readings in philosophy, literature, psychology, sociology, and film theory. Relevant works in film and video are screened. Students are responsible for a final term paper that interrelates two or more of the readings with one of the screened works. Formerly PF 424

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 or MAAN 302

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr
- MAAN 402 Sr. Animation Workshop Credits: 3 cr

MAFL 320 - Film Forum: Selected Topics

Concentrated study of a particular area of film, video, or animation. Courses deal with specific issues and have included: film theory; seminars in sound and installation; studies in Japanese media; the history of video art; and the history of animation. Formerly PF 324

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Liberal Arts Distribution

Note all Liberal Arts courses are 3 credits.

- Liberal Arts Electives Credits: 15 cr

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. - LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

Art Education - Master of Arts

Program Total Credits: 36

Fall Credits: 12

AEDU 509 is required of students who do not pass the Art Education Department Writing Proficiency Exam. The exam must be taken and passed with a score of 80% or higher in the first semester of enrollment and it does not fulfill any credit requirements for the MA. If a student must take AEDU 509, his/her semester will include a total of 14 credits.

AEDU 509 - Professional Writing Intensive

This course is required for students entering all art education programs (pre-certification, MAT, MA, MA+EM) who have not passed the Art Education Department writing proficiency exam. It addresses the use of effective and cogent written communication for the teacher, artist, and administrator to classes, groups, or clients. Formerly AE 599

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

AEDU 606 - Research in Education: Methods and Trends

A graduate education seminar on principal approaches to research for art and museum education. The course examines types of research, applications and recent studies for their methodologies and findings, grant writing, and assessment techniques. Formerly AE 606

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate Art Education and Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. (May be taken to satisfy Aesthetics and Art Criticism co-requisites for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 691

This course also counts toward the liberal arts core of the bachelor's degree

AEDU 533 - Art and Inclusionary Education

This course is designed to provide the full scope of methodologies, techniques and innovative strategies needed to teach special education students effectively. Using the arts as a means for adapting to diverse learning methods, the K-12 classroom is regarded as a dynamic setting for inclusionary learning. The impact of special needs art education is further realized through direct school and community engagement: programs and national as well as local organizations are made available to assist in developing field placements. Arranged field placement opportunities include a broad range of community resources. Formerly AE 533

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

AEDU 541 - Program Design & Methods: Elementary

Through review of current literature, lectures, discussion, field observation, and miniteaching, students explore various educational philosophies and develop and implement effective classroom curricula based on prevailing theories of learning and child development. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 547

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 201 Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

This course has a required field placement.

AEDU 543 - Aesthetics and Art Criticism

This course is designed to develop skills, techniques, and strategies for integrating developmentally appropriate aesthetics and art criticism activities in the K-12 classroom. Using prevailing theories of learning, teaching, and child development, students will design puzzle cases, activities, and curricula that promote the philosophical investigation and interpretation of art and aesthetic objects. Formerly AE 549

Prerequisites & Notes

AETH 301 - Introduction to Art Therapy

Introduces students to key concepts and dimensions of the art therapy profession. Course content addresses the different orientations and approaches that comprise this discipline, as well as the diverse populations that are served. Art Therapists who work within a wide range of settings are invited to present to the class to balance the theoretical with the practical. Formerly AT 300

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LASS 871, LASS 872

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 973 - Abnormal Psychology

Human development and abnormal psychology: ego defenses, emotional disorders, therapeutic theories, and treatment techniques. Clinical diagnosis and classification of mental disorders. Formerly HU 384

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 6

AETH 302 - Social and Group Process

Introduces students to a basic understanding of social groups, group behaviors, group therapy and group art therapy. The class helps students to better identify their own role as well as that of others within a group setting. Experiential art tasks are used to underscore course material and exemplify group dynamics. Formerly AT 301

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AETH 301

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AETH 304 - Theories and Techniques of Art Therapy with Children and Adolescents

Introduces students to the use of art therapy with children and adolescents, including the different arenas where art therapists work with children, as well as the various approaches that are utilized. Normal child development, as evidenced in artwork, serves as the foundation for understanding key concepts. Indicators of emotional, cognitive, and behavioral difficulties, as seen in art productions, are also presented. Formerly AT 304

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LASS 973, AETH 301

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 9

Fall Credits: 6

AETH 303 - Theories and Techniques of Art Therapy with Adults

This course explores the practice of art therapy with adults as demonstrated through the use of case material from a variety of clinical populations. Overviews of diagnostic indicators as seen in artwork are presented. Issues of long- and short-term treatment are addressed, as well as a rich variety of interventions that are at the art therapists' disposal. Formerly AT 305

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AETH 304

- Liberal Arts Courses Credits: 12 cr

Book Arts Minor

This minor emphasizes the development of skills related to designing and creating books, incorporating both type and imagery. Instruction in image-making in multiples through printmaking processes, basic typesetting techniques, and introductory bookbinding methods are studied. Fine Arts-Printmaking majors may not declare a Book Arts minor.

FAPR 233 - Bookbinding Methods

A workshop class familiarizing the student with the characteristics and handling qualities of materials used in various book structures. Structures covered include pamphlet binding, multi-signature books, clamshell boxes, portfolios, accordion structures, and oriental binding. Emphasis is placed upon both the use of conservationally sound materials and the use of these structures as vehicles for the student's creative expression. Formerly PR 223

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 234 - Book Arts: Structures

Historical book forms serve as models as well as a departure point for innovative new work. Students are made familiar with traditional binding techniques, encouraged to explore new applications and to experiment by combining images and text into unique book structures. Among the sculptures presented are signature binding, Japanese binding, accordion structure, pop-up structures, and tunnel books. May serve as a follow-up course for those who have completed PR Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. Formerly PR 224

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 304 - Book Arts: Concept and Structure

An opportunity to explore the integration of type and relief image in unique and editioned book structures. Hands-on experience in dealing with composition (metal) type and computer typesetting is on an intermediate level. Methods of relief printing are explored and cultivated. Wood engraving, photopolymer relief, color reduction printing, and related traditional and contemporary methods of multiple image making are pursued. Special emphasis on development of a personal visual language. Formerly PR 307

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits). Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 434 - Book Production

This advanced course focuses on the development and production of a printed book or portfolio of works: design and formatting of a publication including investigation of sequence, page design, and binding possibilities; hands-on experience in the preparation of images for press production, pre-press techniques; and assisting the Master Printer in the printing. All work is produced in the Borowsky Center for Publication Arts, the University's state-of-the-art offset lithography facility. Students may choose to collaborate on projects or work independently. Formerly PR 425

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the College of Art and Design only. Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits). May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5-3 cr

Select one of the following two:

FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

or

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one of the following two:

FAPR 323 - Intro to Offset Lithography

Students are offered a hands-on course that develops skills in image preparation and printing techniques using offset lithography. An emphasis is placed on personal imagery where both hand-drawn and photographic methods of image making are investigated. Formerly PR 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 1.5-3 cr
or

FAPR 411 - Digital Printmaking

This course offers the students an opportunity for continued investigation within the various printmaking processes. Photoshop is introduced and emphasis will be on using the computer as an imagemaking tool within the context of printmaking. The emphasis is on the integration of idea and process. Graduate students may register for this course under GRPR 633. Formerly PR 412

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors; Book Arts and Digital Fine Arts minors. Computer literacy required. May be taken twice for credit.

GRFA 611 - Independent Studio I

Intended to assist students in establishing independent production in their major discipline while acquiring the ability to integrate studio production with the demands of off-campus life. At the conclusion of Summer I and subsequently, Winter Critique I, the student and faculty mentor agree on a plan of work to be pursued during the off-campus semester, which is a continuation of work begun in the previous semester. The students are required to propose a direction for their investigations and have access to off-campus studio space in which to carry out the proposal. Enrollment in the Independent Studio requires a commitment of 150 hours, equivalent to 10 hours of studio activity per week during the 15-week off-campus semester. The studio mentor meets with the student five times during the semester at three-week intervals, reviewing the student's progress for a 1/2 hour session. The first meeting may take place at the mentor's studio. The last meeting is the final critique of the semester, which takes place at the Winter Critique held at the University. Formerly FA 691

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRCR 611, GRPT 611 or GRSC 611 Corequisite: GRFA 621 Open to majors in the Summer MFA program only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 10 hrs

GRFA 621 - Independent Writing Project I

The Independent Writing Project is a corequisite of the Independent Studio I and II, and is intended to inform the student's ongoing Independent Studio investigations undertaken during the fall and spring off-campus semesters. The student proposes an area of research intended as a continued examination of topics introduced during the previous summer seminars, Structure and Metaphor or Art and Society. The student is encouraged to explore through writing the range of issues emanating from seminar reading and discussion and the relationship of these external influences to the development of themes and directions being explored in the studio work. Formerly FA 695

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRAD 650 or GRAD 651 Open to majors in the Summer MFA program only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Spring I Credits: 4.5

GRFA 612 - Independent Studio II

Intended to assist students in establishing independent production in their major discipline while acquiring the ability to integrate studio production with the demands of off-campus life. At the conclusion of Summer I and subsequently, Winter Critique I, the student and faculty mentor agree on a plan of work to be pursued during the off-campus semester, which is a continuation of work begun in the previous semester. Fall II Credits: 4.5

GRFA 781 - Thesis Writing Project I

The Thesis Writing Project is a corequisite of Thesis Preparation I and II, and takes place during the fall and spring off-campus semesters. Research for the Thesis Writing Project is intended to inform the student's second-year Independent Studio activity, which focuses on identifying and developing potential directions for the thesis exhibition and written thesis. The student is expected to consider issues raised during the previous summer's seminar that are particularly relevant to the more focused direction of their studio work. The student independently formulates a proposal and bibliography for a formal paper to be based upon the more developed direction of their work. The range of issues considered for further investigation may include aesthetic, conceptual, technical, or visual culture issues as well as the relationship of the major work to other disciplines. Formerly FA 781

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRFA 622 Corequisite: GRFA 783 Open to majors in the Summer MFA program only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GRFA 783 - Thesis Preparation I

Following the successful completion of Summer II and the MFA Candidacy Review, the student is declared a candidate by the graduate faculty and may begin independently producing a body of work intended for eventual presentation in a thesis exhibition following the successful completion of Summer III. In consultation with the studio mentor, the student submits Thesis Preparation Plan I, identifying and describing a direction of investigation to be undertaken during the fall semester. The student is expected to identify specific issues to be addressed: intended focus of the work, considerations of technique, materials, scale, location, etc. The student must propose a personal timetable for accomplishing the thesis and identify the sources that will be used in preparation for the exhibition. Enrollment in Thesis Preparation I and II requires a commitment of 150 hours, equivalent to 10 hours of studio activity per week during the 15-week off-campus semester. Formerly FA 793

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the Summer MFA program only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

Spring II Credits: 4.5

GRFA 782 - Thesis Writing Project II

The Thesis Writing Project is a corequisite of Thesis Preparation I and II, and takes place during the fall and spring off-campus semesters. Research for the Thesis Writing Project is intended to inform the student's second-year Independent Studio activity, which focuses on identifying and developing potential directions for the thesis exhibition and written thesis. The student is expected to consider issues raised during the previous summer's seminar that are particularly relevant to the more focused direction of their studio work. The student independently formulates a proposal and bibliography for a formal paper to be based upon the more developed direction of their work. Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate students in the College of Art and Design only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRFA 740 - Professional Practices

This course is designed to familiarize students with methods, practices, and professional standards in preparation for the Thesis Exhibition and eventual entry into the visual arts professions. Formerly FA 612

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the Summer MFA program only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fall III Credits: 6

GRFA 785 - MFA Thesis Exhibition

The MFA degree certifies that the artist has attained a high level of competence and independent judgment in the discipline and is qualified to stand with his/her mentors as a master artist. The thesis exhibition and accompanying written statement are intended to serve as a demonstration of this mastery. During the final semester, criticism-based research is undertaken as a continuation of the summer seminar in Criticism and is intended to assist the MFA candidate in completing the written component of the thesis requirements. Formerly FA 795

Prerequisite: GRCR 711, GRPT 711 or GRSC 711. Open to majors in the Summer MFA program only.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

GRLA 631 - American Art Since 1945

(See course description under LAAH 831.) In order to receive graduate credit, graduate students are expected to exceed undergraduate course expectations by applying the skills and competencies outlined in the syllabus to graduate-level concepts that typically relate to their major program of study. In this regard, graduate students taking this graduate elective are required to meet with the instructor prior to the start of class to determine and outline the nature of the requirements to be met. Formerly HU 648

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 831 - American Art Since 1945

In 1945, World War II ended and the focus of modern art shifted from Paris to New York City. The course begins with Abstract Expressionism; studies other major American styles, such as pop art and minimalism; and concludes with post-modernist development such as performance and decoration by artists. Graduate students may register for this course under GRLA 631. Formerly HU 448A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 832 - European Art Since 1945

Art since World War II has been dominated by the New York market and by the issue of abstraction; in Europe, however, artists continued to use the human figure as a vehicle for social and ethical concerns, and, more recently, their engagement has become a model for younger artists in both Europe and America. The course will look at crafts and book arts as well as fine arts; it will also make use of plays and films. Formerly HU 448B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 970 - Major Artists

The course concentrates on a single artist or a group of related artists. Among the artists who have come under this intense investigation have been Donatello, Michelangelo, Rembrandt, and Picasso. The course has been designed to give students an in-depth knowledge of one artist's life and art or the artists of a single school. Formerly HU 456

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Repeatable for credit.

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

CRFT 401 - Projects III

Student selects a topic and produces a body of work for the crafts Senior thesis exhibition. Part of this course is Senior Seminar, a forum for the discussion of ideas and issues through student participation, guest lecturers, and professional offerings. The modern craft aesthetic is examined in terms of late nineteenth- and twentieth-century ideas and issues. Emphasis on the interdependency of all the arts with an eye to the unique contribution of crafts ideology and practice. Topical discussions encourage students to find contemporary relevancy and validity in an analysis of historical precedents. Other topics include: making an artist's presentation, resume preparation, writing an artist's statement, recordkeeping and taxes, grant writing, and career opportunities. Particular attention to the style and survival techniques of contemporaries working in craft media. Formerly CR 400A

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Media-Specific Course Offerings:

Ceramics

CRCM 211 - Introduction to Throwing

Beginning studio work using the throwing process and related glazing and firing techniques. Problems are given with an emphasis on developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 212 - Introduction to Throwing

Beginning studio work using the throwing process and related glazing and firing techniques. Problems are given with an emphasis on developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 213 - Introduction to Handbuilding

Beginning studio work with clay using the handbuilding processes of slab, coil pinch, and pressing form molds, plus related glazing and firing techniques. Problems given emphasize developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 212A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 214 - Introduction to Handbuilding

Beginning studio work with clay using the handbuilding processes of slab, coil pinch, and pressing form molds, plus related glazing and firing techniques. Problems given emphasize developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 311 - Advanced Throwing

Concentration on resolving conceptual and formal issues as they relate to individual exploration on the wheel. Problems encourage uniqueness and challenge abilities. Typical issues include usage and symbolic function, serial production, the table, and site-oriented applications, and medium to large-scale use of materials. All problems stress practical as well as aesthetic resourcefulness with clay on the wheel. Senior Craft majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 370A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CRCM 211, CRCM 212 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 312 - Advanced Throwing

Concentration on resolving conceptual and formal issues as they relate to individual exploration on the wheel. Problems encourage uniqueness and challenge abilities. Typical issues include usage and symbolic function, serial production, the table, and site-oriented applications, and medium to large-scale use of materials. All problems stress practical as well as aesthetic resourcefulness with clay on the wheel. Senior Craft majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 370B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CRCM 211, CRCM 212 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 313 - Advanced Ceramics

Concentration on resolving conceptual and formal issues as they relate to individual exploration. Problems encourage uniqueness and challenge abilities. Typical issues include usage and symbolic function, production, and site-oriented applications, and medium to large-scale use of materials. All problems stress practical as well as aesthetic resourcefulness. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 371A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRCM 211, CRCM 212, CRCM 213, CRCM 214 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Fibers

CRFB 211 - Introduction to Fibers: Mixed Media

An introduction to both traditional and experimental uses of materials and structural processes in the fabric media. Assignments focus on the exploration of two- and three-dimensional forms in preparation for versatile approaches to the fibers media. A range of off-loom mixed media techniques are covered. Formerly CR 221A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRFB 212 - Introduction to Color and the Loom

Students explore the potential of two- and three-dimensional forms in preparation for versatile approaches to the fibers media. Loom, woven structures, tapestry, and woven color are covered. Formerly CR 221B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRFB 222 - Introduction to Constructed Surface

Through a series of developmental assignments, students are provided with a solid technical and conceptual base in the fabric media. Non-loom constructions, color, and multifiber dye techniques are covered. Formerly CR 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRFB 311 - Advanced Fibers Mixed Media

Through a series of developmental assignments with a conceptual emphasis and by using acquired knowledge from previous semesters, students are encouraged to explore forms that reveal the inherent physical qualities and potential image-making possibilities of fabric. Loom-woven and mixed-media fabric techniques are used as appropriate, depending on the student's interest in the development of a diverse range of two-dimensional constructions, sculptural forms, costume, etc. Formerly CR 322A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRFB 211, CRFB 212, CRFB 222 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRFB 312 - Advanced Fibers Mixed Media

Loom-woven and mixed-media fabric techniques are used as appropriate, depending on the student's interest in the development of a diverse range of two-dimensional constructions, sculptural forms, costume, etc. Formerly CR 322B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRFB 211, CRFB 212, CRFB 222 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Metals and Jewelry

CRMT 211 - Introduction to Jewelry

An exploration of notions of jewelry and body adornment as a means of personal expression. Projects range from precious jewelry making to adornment that extends into performance. Basic goldsmithing skills are taught as essential, while three-dimensional sketching and experimentation in mixed media are encouraged. Successful integration of design, material, and process is the goal. Projects provide students with broad exposure to the many possibilities inherent in jewelry and ornament as related to the human form. Formerly CR 241A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 212 - Introduction to Jewelry

An exploration of notions of jewelry and body adornment as a means of personal expression. Projects range from precious jewelry making to adornment that extends into performance. Basic goldsmithing skills are taught as essential, while three-dimensional sketching and experimentation in mixed media are encouraged. Successful integration of design, material, and process is the goal. Projects provide students with broad exposure to the many possibilities inherent in jewelry and ornament as related to the human form. Formerly CR 241B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 221 - Introduction to Metalsmithing

Metal is an extremely versatile material; though hard and durable, it is quite malleable and easily worked. This course covers direct working of metal. Sheet, wire, bar, and rod are given form by hammering, seaming, and bending, etc. The majority of work is done in bronze, brass and copper, though steel, stainless steel, aluminum, and precious metals may be used as well. Contemporary issues addressed include the object as sculpture, process as a source material, the importance of surface and detail, and functional objects made by artists. Formerly CR 242

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 311 - Advanced Jewelry/Metals

Builds upon a basic grounding in jewelry concepts and techniques. Lectures, technical demonstrations, and conceptual projects vary from year to year so that students retaking the course will not find it redundant. The goals of the course are to increase awareness and understanding of jewelry as a component of our culture, aid the student in the development of a personal aesthetic, and develop thinking and problem-solving abilities. More experienced students are encouraged to focus on one specialized area of the jewelry field. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Craft Projects III. Formerly CR 380A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRMT 211, CRMT 212, CRMT 221 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 312 - Advanced Jewelry/Metals

Builds upon a basic grounding in jewelry concepts and techniques. Lectures, technical demonstrations, and conceptual projects vary from year to year so that students retaking the course will not find it redundant. The goals of the course are to increase awareness and understanding of jewelry as a component of our culture, aid the student in the development of a personal aesthetic, and develop thinking and problem-solving abilities. More experienced students are encouraged to focus on one specialized area of the jewelry field. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Craft Projects III. Formerly CR 380B

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRMT 211, CRMT 212, CRMT 221 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 321 - Advanced Metals

Builds upon a basic grounding in metalsmithing skills. Technical demonstrations and conceptual projects vary from year to year so that students retaking the course will not find it redundant. The goals of the course are to increase awareness of metal's possibilities, increase metalworking skill, aid in the development of a personal aesthetic, and develop thinking and problem-solving abilities. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 381A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRMT 211, CRMT 212, CRMT 221 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 322 - Advanced Metals

Builds upon a basic grounding in metalsmithing skills. Technical demonstrations and conceptual projects vary from year to year so that students retaking the course will not find it redundant. The goals of the course are to increase awareness of metal's possibilities, increase metalworking skill, aid in the development of a personal aesthetic, and develop thinking and problem-solving abilities. Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRMT 211, CRMT 212, CRMT 221 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Wood

CRWD 211 - Introduction to Woodworking

Introduction to basic woodworking skills and processes, including sharpening and setting up hand tools and machinery, theory of solid wood joinery, and construction. In addition to building technical skills, emphasis is on contemporary and historical furniture design issues. Formerly CR 261A

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 212 - Introduction to Woodworking

Introduction to basic woodworking skills and processes, including sharpening and setting up hand tools and machinery, theory of solid wood joinery, and construction. In addition to building technical skills, emphasis is on contemporary and historical furniture design issues. Formerly CR 261B

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 221 - Introduction to Furniture

This course presents a series of design problems emphasizing exploration of ideas through drawing and model making. Historic and contemporary examples are studied. Fundamental joinery techniques are covered, but the emphasis is on design exploration, imagination, and inventiveness. Students provide their own materials and some hand tools. Formerly CR 285

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 311 - Advanced Wood

Covers tools, joinery, methods, and materials. Content progresses with increasing complexity, involving machining, hand tools, finishing, and surface treatments. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 386

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRWD 211, CRWD 212 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken four times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 321 - Advanced Furniture

Continuation of CRWD 223 (Introduction to Furniture) involving more complex design projects, combinations of objects, and advanced model making and finishing techniques. Emphasis on imagination, inventiveness, and depth of content. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 385A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CRWD 221 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 322 - Advanced Furniture

Continuation of CRWD 223 (Introduction to Furniture) involving more complex design projects, combinations of objects, and advanced model making and finishing techniques. Emphasis on imagination, inventiveness, and depth of content. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 385B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CRWD 221 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Note:

Electives must include at least nine studio credits outside of the Crafts offerings.

Digital Fine Arts Concentration

This concentration is designed for students grounded in traditional two- and three-dimensional art and design principles who wish to incorporate digital tools and technology to create highly personalized artistic statements. While conceptually and procedurally digitally based, the digital fine arts concentration provides for physical output in two-, three- and four-dimensional realms as well as combined formats. Working closely with advisors, the student selects 15 credits from categories I and II, with a six-credit minimum in each category.

Requirements for the Minor

I. Imaging, Interactivity, and Sound Options:

EMDI 210 - Digital Multimedia

The elements of digital multimedia production techniques address the integration and creation of digital media for websites and alternative delivery processes such as podcasting. This course involves hands-on production experience as well as perspective on developments in this rapidly growing field through the readings and lectures. Students create projects involving digital imagery, video and sound, and animation. The first half of the semester is dedicated to creating video pieces utilizing either digital video or animating still imagery. Creation of effective sound tracks will be an important part of this process. The second half of the semester is dedicated to creating a website and utilizing compressed digital video on the Web. Software to be utilized include Photo to Movie, iMovie, Audacity, Garageband, iDVD, and Dreamweaver. There is considerable emphasis on new utilizations of digital media such as podcasts and VODcasts (video on demand) and cell phone multimedia. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 610. Formerly EM 210

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAAN 231 - Introduction to Computer Animation

This introductory course develops the student's understanding of digital movement and imaging through animation exercises using a variety of 2D software programs on the PC platform. No previous computer experience is required. Formerly PF 216

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 211 - Creative Sound

Exploration of the creative use of sound as a primary artistic medium. Topics include sound and hearing, microphones and recording, tape editing and manipulation, sound aesthetics and production styles, voice and narration, signal processing and sound manipulation, and production formats. Through audio production projects, students gain insights into new ways of using sound, both on its own and with other media. Formerly PF 218

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Digital Fine Arts minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. Formerly PF 315

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MUSC 163 - Aural Concepts

For non-music majors. An introduction to the use of music and sound components of multimedia and their potential for enhancing communication. Recognizing the special background and needs of the non-music major student, the course examines the production of musical sound, basic notation and theory practices, and an in-depth overview of disparate musical styles illustrating the variety and depth of musical thought from around the world and its potential relationship to the visual image. Formerly MU 149A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the School of Music. Priority enrollment to Multimedia majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 460 - Introduction to MIDI and Electronic Technology

A detailed "hands-on" examination of the use of computers in the present-day composition environment. The course includes the uses of a computer, the language of MIDI, sequencing, audio sampling, analog, digital, and other forms of synthesis, and a survey of currently available music software. Strategies and technology of scoring and synchronizing to the visual image is emphasized through a final project. No prior computer or synthesis experience is needed.

Formerly MU 415A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Music and Multimedia majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

II. Digital Expression and Output Alternatives:

FAPR 411 - Digital Printmaking

This course offers the students an opportunity for continued investigation within the various printmaking processes. Photoshop is introduced and emphasis will be on using the computer as an imagemaking tool within the context of printmaking. The emphasis is on the integration of idea and process. Graduate students may register for this course under GRPR 633. Formerly PR 412

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors; Book Arts and Digital Fine Arts minors. Computer literacy required. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 434 - Book Production

This advanced course focuses on the development and production of a printed book or portfolio of works: design and formatting of a publication including investigation of sequence, page design, and binding possibilities; hands-on experience in the preparation of images for press production, pre-press techniques; and assisting the Master Printer in the printing. All work is produced in the Borowsky Center for Publication Arts, the University's state-of-the-art offset lithography facility. Students may choose to collaborate on projects or work independently. Formerly PR 425

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the College of Art and Design only. Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits). May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5-3 cr

MAFL 331 - Experiments in Advanced Digital Video

An intermediate-level course in digital audio and video production. In the context of screenings and readings drawn from the history of experimental media, students learn to use various digital and optical strategies to approach a variety of thematic issues. This course is a venue for the production of short, aesthetically energized works for a variety of screening environments, and encourages collaboration with Dance and Music majors. Formerly PF 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Figurative Illustration Minor

The focus of this minor is on work with the figure in space. Old master and traditional drawing and painting techniques are demonstrated and utilized as the student concentrates on the development of skills related to figurative drawing and painting. Illustration majors may not declare a Figurative Illustration minor.

ILUS 201 - Pictorial Foundation

Introduction to drawing and painting skills as they relate to illustration. Objective visual perception, clarity in drawing, and technical facility are stressed. Students are exposed to visual communications, strategies, and design concepts through exposure to art history and the field of contemporary illustration. Formerly IL 200A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 202 - Pictorial Foundation

Introduction to drawing and painting skills as they relate to illustration. Objective visual perception, clarity in drawing, and technical facility are stressed. Students are exposed to visual communications, strategies, and design concepts through exposure to art history and the field of contemporary illustration. Formerly IL 200B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: ILUS 201 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

ILUS 211 - Figure Anatomy

Focus on the investigation and application of line, plane, mass, light and shade, shadow, perspective, anatomy, and proportion as they relate to figure drawing. Weekly sessions include a lecture, demonstrations from the skeleton, and drawing from life. Formerly IL 202A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors. May be taken twice for credit.

ILUS 212 - Figure Anatomy

Focus on the investigation and application of line, plane, mass, light and shade, shadow, perspective, anatomy, and proportion as they relate to figure drawing. Weekly sessions include a lecture, demonstrations from the skeleton, and drawing from life. Formerly IL 202B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 211 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 312 - Figure Utilization

Studies of the figure in narrative contexts are explored, as is work from single and grouped models, nude and costumed. Concentration is on developing compositions and concepts from different and often combined resources. Drawing and painting techniques are utilized. Formerly IL 303

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 321 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Film/Animation - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Sophomore Year Credits: 33

Fall Credits: 18

WRIT 251 and WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema I and II are required of all Film/Animation majors as part of the total Liberal Arts distribution.

ILUS 285 - Drawing for Animators

Focuses on introducing and developing the skills and disciplines needed for good figurative animation drawing. The primary issues of anatomical figure drawing with a strong emphasis on the structure and solidity of the figure, good proportions, and specific movement and gesture as they relate to the model. Topics also covered: two-dimensional versus three-dimensional ways of translating form; how perspective and viewpoint are used with the figure and their effect on scale; exaggerated foreshortening techniques; diagrammatic and expressive live quality; facial expressions; hand and foot studies; capturing movement through gesture; and introduction to animal drawing for animation. Formerly IL 205

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Animation and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

MAAN 201 - Introduction to Animation I

Through a series of drawn exercises concentrating on timing, movement, and weight, the student acquires a basic understanding of animation principles. Sound is introduced for the final project, which consists of a short animated film with a complete soundtrack. Formerly PF 212A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 or MMDI 101 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

WRIT 251 and WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema I and II are required of all Film/Animation majors as part of the total Liberal Arts distribution.

MAAN 202 - Introduction to Animation II

Students are introduced to under-the-camera animation using varied mediums such as puppets, cut-outs, and painting-on-glass. Special attention is given to non-narrative approaches to animation. A final project is created using one or more of the techniques explored during the semester. Formerly PF 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 or MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 231 - Introduction to Computer Animation

This introductory course develops the student's understanding of digital movement and imaging through animation exercises using a variety of 2D software programs on the PC platform. No previous computer experience is required. Formerly PF 216

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 202 - Introduction to Film/Digital Video

This course offers an introduction to the basic practices of digital video editing and further creative exploration of the art of moving images. Students perform timing, staging, and blocking exercises to develop a feel for direction, experiment with more advanced film strategies, learn to edit digital video, and investigate relationships between sound and image. A final project integrates these explorations creatively. Formerly PF 210B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 252 - Narrative Cinema II

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 252

MAAN 301 - Junior Animation Workshop I

This course focuses on the creation of a personal, 1.5 minute animated piece, starting from initial conception and ending with final output to digital or film media. Stages in the production cycle include storyboarding, animatics, animation, inking and painting, sound image editing, and final output. Formerly PF 312A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 301 - Junior Cinema Production I

Film production class emphasizing independent filmmaking techniques and concepts. Students explore cinematic ideas through structured and personal filmmaking assignments that emphasize keen visual thinking, story development, and an understanding of film form and film language. Students are taught professional lighting, 16mm sync sound camera technologies, editing and soundtrack strategies, and laboratory procedures. Students also view and analyze significant films. Formerly PF 310A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

MAAN 232 - 2-D Computer Animation

Using both raster- and vector-based programs, students explore how to build 2D animation sequences in the computer and how to translate hand-drawn animation into digitally composited animated pieces. Traditional animation principles are expanded upon and reinforced using 2D computer graphics and editing programs. Digital imagery and sound are integrated in class assignments designed to explore a wide variety of 2D styles. Formerly PF 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 331 - 3-D Computer Animation

Using industry-standard 3D computer software, students learn basic modeling, texturing, lighting, movement, and rendering techniques. This course prepares students for further 3D computer coursework and allow them to utilize 3D software in the development and creation of their Junior and Senior thesis work. Formerly PF 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 18

- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

MAAN 302 - Junior Animation Workshop II

The first half of this course is devoted to the creation of a short client-based project. The second half involves an interdisciplinary group project aimed at refining students' knowledge of animation movement design. Formerly PF 312B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 301 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 341 - Moving Art: Animation Theory and Production

The aesthetics of animation and how the design and structural elements of frame-by-frame filmmaking have evolved over time. Analytical, production, and historical approaches are brought to bear in the study of animation principles and their development over time. Formerly PF 327

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 302 - Junior Cinema Production II

Film production class emphasizing independent filmmaking techniques and concepts. Students explore cinematic ideas through structured and personal filmmaking assignments that emphasize keen visual thinking, story development, and an understanding of film form and film language. Students are taught professional lighting, 16mm sync sound camera technologies, editing and soundtrack strategies, and laboratory procedures. Students also view and analyze significant films. Formerly PF 310B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 301 Open to Film/Digital Video majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 331 - Experiments in Advanced Digital Video

An intermediate-level course in digital audio and video production. In the context of screenings and readings drawn from the history of experimental media, students learn to use various digital and optical strategies to approach a variety of thematic issues. This course is a venue for the production of short, aesthetically energized works for a variety of screening environments, and encourages collaboration with Dance and Music majors. Formerly PF 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 33

Fall Credits: 18

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr
- MAAN 401 Sr. Animation Workshop I Credits: 3 cr

MAFL 401 - Senior Cinema Production I

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311 or MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

MACR 443 - Time: A Multidisciplinary Seminar

The concept of Time considered from a multidisciplinary perspective, drawing on readings in philosophy, literature, psychology, sociology, and film theory. Relevant works in film and video are screened. Students are responsible for a final term paper that interrelates two or more of the readings with one of the screened works. Formerly PF 424

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 or MAAN 302

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr
- MAAN 402 Sr. Animation Workshop II Credits: 3 cr

MACR 499 - Internship

Internship program in which the student, working closely with the Media Arts Department internship advisor, is placed in one of several professional situations. Placements include assisting in professional studios, practice in biomedical photography laboratories, and working for commercial and non-profit galleries, among others. Placements in film and animation are sponsored by local independent production houses and television stations, design firms, and free-lance artists; students of film may assist in location shooting, set production, editing, casting, scripting, and a myriad of other practical tasks. Formerly PF 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202, MAPH 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 320 - Film Forum: Selected Topics

Concentrated study of a particular area of film, video, or animation. Courses deal with specific issues and have included: film theory; seminars in sound and installation; studies in Japanese media; the history of video art; and the history of animation. Formerly PF 324

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 402 - Senior Cinema Production II

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 401 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Liberal Arts Distribution

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

MAAN 202 - Introduction to Animation II

Students are introduced to under-the-camera animation using varied mediums such as puppets, cut-outs, and painting-on-glass. Special attention is given to non-narrative approaches to animation. A final project is created using one or more of the techniques explored during the semester. Formerly PF 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 or MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 202 - Introduction to Film/Digital Video

This course offers an introduction to the basic practices of digital video editing and further creative exploration of the art of moving images. Students perform timing, staging, and blocking exercises to develop a feel for direction, experiment with more advanced film strategies, learn to edit digital video, and investigate relationships between sound and image. A final project integrates these explorations creatively. Formerly PF 210B

Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 331 - Experiments in Advanced Digital Video

An intermediate-level course in digital audio and video production. In the context of screenings and readings drawn from the history of experimental media, students learn to use various digital and optical strategies to approach a variety of thematic issues. This course is a venue for the production of short, aesthetically energized works for a variety of screening environments, and encourages collaboration with Dance and Music majors. Formerly PF 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Foundation Program

The full-time Freshman student is typically scheduled for 16.5 credits each semester, usually as follows:

Foundation Year Credits: 33

Foundation students are eligible to select any College of Art and Design major program regardless of the Foundation sequence they attend.

FOUNDATION

Fall Credits: 16.5

Students entering the Foundation program through midyear admission will enroll in these courses for the spring semester.

- Elective Credits: 1.5 cr

FNDP 111 - Drawing

Drawing is approached as a process by which the student examines and investigates the visual world. Line, mark, and shape are among the drawing elements emphasized in the first semester. With these tools, students examine the form and structure of various subjects while they improve their manual skills, strengthen their vision, and begin to define their drawing vocabulary. Graphite and charcoal pencils and a range of appropriate papers are the most frequently used materials. Historical precedents are discussed, master works analyzed, and relevant practical information – including the elements of spatial representation – is assimilated into the flow of class assignments. Focus is on the challenges and rewards of developing perceptual skills. Formerly FP 110

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 151 - Two-Dimensional Design Principles

The fundamental principles and language of the visual arts within the two-dimensional plane, The first semester defines and investigates the visual elements of point, line, shape, pattern and value. These fundamental elements are analyzed as independent units and brought together supporting and animating one another in a variety of formats. The investigation of compositional forces, interactions of shape with format, historic origins, mathematical structures, time-based and sequential concepts are explored. Perceptual abilities and hand skills are developed using a variety of traditional and digital media. Examination of principles of movement in two-dimensional space using animated imagery and digital animation software is incorporated. The discovery of the power of the underlying fundamentals and their application defines the more complex subject of this class. Formerly FNDP 121

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 161 - Three-Dimensional Design/Time Motion

An introduction to the fundamental principles of three-dimensional and time-based work. Concepts of space, movement, mass, volume, the qualities and properties of materials as well as kinetic works are explored using traditional and digital processes. As the semester progresses the construction of three-dimensional objects emphasizing serial and sequential concepts combines with the use of video for motion capture and other means of exploring fundamental time-based works. The course emphasis is on processes of thinking and planning, thoughtful articulation of form, principles of perception and an appreciation and refinement of acuity in regards to static and kinetic forms. Formerly FNDP 131.

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Elective Credits: 1.5 cr
Select three of the following four:

FNDP 112 - Drawing

Building on the sensibilities, skills, and information of FNDP 111, students refine their perceptual abilities, utilize new media such as charcoal and inks, and develop additional drawing strategies. Students undertake the analysis of complex natural objects, sculpt volume with line and tone, encounter the challenge of drawing the human figure, and meet other situations that demand the assimilation of new information and the application of advanced skills. Controlling proportion, building volume, engaging the illusion of space, while at the same time developing the desired quality of light and illumination are the descriptive goals of the semester. Faculty bring skills, projects, and information developed in the two- and three-dimensional classes into the service of drawing. Formerly FP 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 152 - Two-Dimensional Design

This course builds on the projects and skills established in FNDP 151. The majority of FNDP 152 is devoted to the introduction and extended study of color. With color comes additional visual enrichment, light and luminosity, a specialized language and the necessity to mature manual skills and control new media and concepts. The major works of the semester are based in the use of acrylic paints and require skills of mixing and application. Other color mediums such as collage, pastels, water colors and oil sticks are also explored. Color theories are discussed, projects requiring tinting, shading and toning clarify these basic concepts and master works of color are studied. Ideas developed in the class are shared with the other Foundation courses and skills from 3D and Drawing are imported to support current 2D projects. As the semester progresses, representational and non-representational form is developed as students work to integrate past experience, refine their skills of observation, expand the study of visual forces and explore more complex principles of organization. Instructor permission required. Formerly FNDP 122

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 151 Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 162 - Three-Dimensional Design

Building on the skills, language, and sensibilities of FNDP 161, the second semester undertakes more complex projects. Some projects often involve the combining of several materials and require the assembly of multiple parts. The semester builds in complexity, exploring the challenges of scale and engaging time and movement as part of their conception. The introduction of environmental works, setting in place new principles of three-dimensional organization, researching the order in nature and taking up the challenge of representation in three dimensions are some of the arenas in which students work. Faculty relate works and share principles with either the two dimensional, drawing, or time motion classes and attempt to harvest skills and sensibilities developed in those classes into the service of projects in Three-Dimensional Design. Formerly FNDP 132

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 161 Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 171 - Time and Motion

Building on the concepts and sensibilities of FNDP 151 Two-Dimensional Design Principles and FNDP 161 Three-Dimensional Design/Time Motion, students undertake an expanded exploration of time-based art. Students develop works that explore mechanical and digital animation devices, kinetics, and the cinematic language. Projects that focus on the controlled movement of objects, the positioning of the viewer and the use of sound prepare the students for the development of increasingly complex narrative works. Students experiment with a variety of materials and media.

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 201 - Design Systems

An intensive laboratory where the formal aspects of composition, organic and geometric form, color, symbolic drawing, craftsmanship, and the processes of conceptualizing are investigated. All of the assignments are founded on directed goals and playful investigation to train the student in the areas of selection, set theory, and visual logic. Formerly GD 213A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 203 - Letterform Design

The analysis and development of letterforms. The norms of weight, proportion, character width, and alphabetic relationships are developed perceptually, by hand. This course stresses the inherent optical relationships that exist in the construction of typefaces derived from the Latin alphabet. Formerly GD 210

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101 MMDI 102. Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 221 - Descriptive Drawing

A freehand drawing course that teaches the student to consciously observe, analyze, understand, and represent the underlying structure and form of manmade and natural objects. Logical representation and problem-solving is emphasized. A visual vocabulary of line, shape, value, texture, and their spatial organization is developed so that drawing can be used as a method of research and invention. Formerly GD 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 1.5 cr

EMDI 201 - Electronic Media/Production I

Addresses the development of foundation computer skills in image scanning technology, desktop publishing, digital photographic technologies, and basic output procedures. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 601. Formerly EM 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 202 - Design Systems

A continuation of Design Systems GDES 201. Further investigation of the visual language of design, culminating in a basic communication problem. Formerly GD 213B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 201 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 212 - Typography Fundamentals

The course addresses the basic formal language of typography and the application of typographic principles to frame basic communication messages. Typographic investigations are achieved by both manual and digital means. Formerly GD 212

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 222 - Descriptive Drawing

A continuation of Descriptive Drawing GDES 221. A freehand, analytical drawing course that concentrates on organic form and objects from nature. Formal composition and visual vocabulary of line, shape, value, texture, and spatial organization are stressed. Drawing skills are developed to sketch and research visual concepts, as well as to use the medium for the invention of original images in upper-level courses. Formerly GD 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 221 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

EMDI 202 - Electronic Media/Production II

An extension of EMDI 201. Addresses the development of advanced computer skills in image scanning, technology, desktop publishing, pre-press production, color, output technology, and digital photographic technologies. Special attention is given to comparative study of output technologies and the translation of the on-screen image to offset lithography. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Formerly EM 202

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 201 Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 301 - Communications Studio

Developing an understanding of visual relationships and how to use them to create visual impact and clarity while solving communications problems. Invention, intuition, and discovery are combined with logical thought and thorough preliminary research. Special attention is given to refining the student's perceptual abilities, hand skills, and the integration of various media. Coursework is completed using both traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator, basic image scanning, and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 201. Formerly GD 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 201 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 311 - Typographic Systems

This course investigates and defines the principles of typography in a communication context. Directed research based upon typographic norms addresses the issues of informational hierarchies achievable through visual form and structure as well as the editorial and expressive potentials of typography. Coursework is completed both using traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 202. Working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: EMDI 201, GDES 212

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 854 - History of Communication Design

A survey of two-dimensional design in the West, with particular attention to developments in the twentieth century. Formerly HU 254

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 1.5 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

EMDI 203 - Digital Interactive Techniques

Addresses the development of computer skills in digital time-based software and cyberspace software. Special attention is given to interactivity and theories of informational architecture. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems in both individual and group projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Formerly EM 203

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 202 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 302 - Communications Studio

A continuation of GDES 301, concentrating on the development of color, sensitivity, perceptual abilities, and hand skills within a communications context. A working process that develops invention through logical thought and intuition is applied to communication problems. Coursework is completed using both traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator, basic image scanning, and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 203. Formerly GD 311B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 301 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 312 - Typographic Systems

This course is an extension and continuation of Typographic Systems GDES 311. The course addresses the typographic principles of the grid, text typography, text hierarchies, and image integration, all within the context of a multipage format. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign, image scanning, and basic knowledge of Photoshop or be concurrently enrolled in Electronic Media/Production II EMDI 312 to gain admission to this course. Additional working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306B

EMDI 204 - Advanced Digital Interactive Techniques

An intensive studio in the advanced development of authoring and scripting skills in digital time-based software and cyberspace software. Special attention is given to interactivity, theories of informational architecture, and interface design. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems in both individual and group projects. All software is standard in current graphic design industry practice. Formerly EM 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 203 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 401 - Design Studio

A wide-ranging exploration of the connections between image and text, and symbolic and narrative imagery. These studies are supported by inquiries into semiotics, information theory, and research methodology. This course uses both traditional and computer technologies within a thorough research process. Preliminary research and definition of a self-generated degree project is undertaken by Graphic Design majors in this course. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly GD 411A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 302 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 403 - Problem Solving

Develops approaches to solving communications problems of diverse character and increasingly practical application. It assumes a high level of formal competence and places special emphasis on working within technical and time constraints by developing clear and concise thought patterns. This course uses both traditional and computer technologies within a thorough research process. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, Adobe Photoshop, Macromedia Director, Macromedia Flash, and Macromedia Dreamweaver. Formerly GD 412A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 302 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

GDES 402 - Design Studio: Senior Project

A self-generated degree project involving research, proposals, complete design formulation, and final presentation. Topics are reviewed by a panel of faculty in Graphic Design; and the students are reviewed by an outside critic midway through the preliminary stages of development. This course uses both traditional and computer technologies within a thorough research process. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly GD 411B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 401 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 404 - Problem Solving

A continuation of Problem Solving GDES 403. This course develops approaches to solving communications problems of broad scope and increasingly practical application. Students work within technical and time constraints while developing clear and concise thought patterns. The course assumes a high level of formal competence and places special emphasis on the development of unified visual and conceptual relationships across various formats and scale. Both traditional and computer technologies are used within a thorough research process. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, Adobe Photoshop, Macromedia Director, Macromedia Flash, and Macromedia Dreamweaver. Formerly GD 412B

Prerequisites & Notes

LAAH 854 - History of Communication Design

A survey of two-dimensional design in the West, with particular attention to developments in the twentieth century. Formerly HU 254

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

ILUS 201 - Pictorial Foundation

Introduction to drawing and painting skills as they relate to illustration. Objective visual perception, clarity in drawing, and technical facility are stressed. Students are exposed to visual communications, strategies, and design concepts through exposure to art history and the field of contemporary illustration. Formerly IL 200A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 211 - Figure Anatomy

Focus on the investigation and application of line, plane, mass, light and shade, shadow, perspective, anatomy, and proportion as they relate to figure drawing. Weekly sessions include a lecture, demonstrations from the skeleton, and drawing from life. Formerly IL 202A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 220 - Typography

Beginning studies in the form, use, nomenclature, and history of typography. Individual letters, word formations, text arrangements, and the application of type to simple communication exercises. Use of Macintosh computer for generating type and industry-accepted software is used. Formerly IL 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Focus on the investigation and application of line, plane, mass, light and shade, shadow, perspective, anatomy, and proportion as they relate to figure drawing. Weekly sessions include a lecture, demonstrations from the skeleton, and drawing from life. Formerly IL 202B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 211 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 282 - Photography for Illustrators

This course introduces Illustration majors to the fundamental techniques used in black-and-white photography, including camera operation, developing, and printing, as well as photographic digital imaging. Emphasis is placed on film selection and lighting for both the studio and environmental shooting. The fundamentals of Photoshop are employed for digital image manipulation. Lectures and projects are designed to provide the tools necessary for illustrators who wish to use photography in their work. Formerly PF 209

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Photography majors. Priority enrollment to Illustration majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

ILUS 301 - Illustration Methods

The development of narrative imagery, pictorial illusion, and space, and their combined potential for communication. Procedures focus on developing visual awareness, personal imagery, and conceptual directions. Direct drawing situations and photographic reference (existing or student-produced) also serve as source material for pictorial development. Various media and technical procedures are explored. Assignments and lectures focus on the requirements of applied illustration. Formerly IL 300A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 202 Corequisite: ILUS 321 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 320 - Design Methods

Within the context of design/illustration projects, a basic understanding of how artwork is reproduced in commercial print media. Emphasis is on the relationship between electronic media and production techniques. Specific programs utilized include: Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly IL 301

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 220 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors. Junior/Senior preferred.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 321 - Figurative Communication

Emphasis on working from life. The course focuses on the use of the figure and or still life objects to communicate concepts in the figurative context. Drawing and painting media are explored. Formerly IL 302

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 212 Corequisite: ILUS 301 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 301 Corequisite: ILUS 321 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 312 - Figure Utilization

Studies of the figure in narrative contexts are explored, as is work from single and grouped models, nude and costumed. Concentration is on developing compositions and concepts from different and often combined resources. Drawing and painting techniques are utilized. Formerly IL 303

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 321 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 322 - Sequential Format

Course focuses on sequential formats. Potential areas of inquiry: brochures, direct-mail pieces, simple animations, slide presentations, multipage spreads, and identity programs. Formerly IL 304

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 320 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 401 - Illustration

Assignments revolve around specific areas of illustration—advertising, book, documentary, editorial, and institutional. Emphasis is on communication, personal viewpoint, and focused technique that are practical and relevant, to professional needs and demands. A senior thesis project, the William H. Ely Illustration Exhibition, is incorporated into the late Fall and early Spring semesters. Formerly IL 400A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 302 Corequisite: ILUS 441 Open to Illustration majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 441 - Senior Portfolio

Development of a portfolio based on the student's personal interests, abilities and target markets. Students focus on a traditional, digital or design illustration orientation and develop, over the year, a working portfolio for presentation at the end of the spring term. In addition, the course offers instruction in marketing and promotion, business practices and procedures, resume writing, taxes, and small business requirements as they relate to artists. The course culminates in The University of the Arts' Portfolio Day at the Society of Illustrators in New York at the end of the semester. Formerly IL 403A

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

IDES 201 - Studio 1: Projects Studio

A conceptual and practical understanding of design and three-dimensional problem-solving processes. This studio is taught in a collaborative manner, with two instructors conducting projects individually or as a team in order to provide focused instruction and integrated experiences covering a wide range of subjects including the tools, processes, and languages of design and model making. Emphasis is on the development of three-dimensional model making skills, problem solving and creative thinking and their application to problems of design. Formerly ID 200A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Open to Industrial Design majors only.

IDES 221 - Studio 2: Techniques

This studio assists the student to acquire essential two-dimensional representational skills to support the process of design, including production and presentation. It is taught in a collaborative manner, with the instructors conducting projects individually or as a team in order to provide focused instruction and integrated experiences over a wide range of subjects, including the tools, processes, and languages of conceptual drawing, rendering, and detailing using both the computer and traditional media as means to assist design and control production. Principles of technical specification and machine control are introduced as are concepts such as rapid photocopying, computer-integrated manufacturing, parts reduction through integration, and other techniques for efficient production. Students learn to apply these techniques to design problems addressed in IDES 201: Projects Studio. Formerly ID 220A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Corequisite: IDES 201 Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 231 - Design Issues Seminar

This course is designed to assist the student to develop an understanding of the major issues for design in modern society. Discussions range from issues such as the ecological responsibility of designers to the contributions of individual designers and design organizations throughout the history of the discipline. Assignments include research and demonstration projects that explore ideas and illuminate ethical, practical, and moral issues with which designers should be concerned. Students prepare information and present their views on issues through written, oral, and visual means. Formerly ID 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Open to Industrial Design majors only.

IDES 321 - Studio 4: Techniques

Assists the student in developing graphic communication skills using computational media and applying these skills to both two- and three-dimensional images and presentations. The student is taught to conceptualize, develop, detail, present, and communicate design ideas through graphic design, computer imaging, three-dimensional computer modeling, basic animation, and interactive design presentation. The first semester focuses on integrating graphic software and the development of printed presentations. The second semester focuses on the development of interactive digital presentations. IDES 331 - Human Factors Seminar

The object of this research-intensive course is to develop an ability to apply technology effectively to meet human needs through the study of human engineering principles for the design of products and equipment. Human anatomy, anthropometrics and motion, and strength of body components are considered as are sensory systems, human perception, and sensitivities. Lectures are complemented by laboratory experiments designed to teach students methods of testing and evaluating their own product design concepts in human terms. Concepts of scientific writing and reporting are demonstrated through the documentation of coursework. Formerly ID 326

These studio courses focus on decisive and responsible positions in formulating new design directions. Building upon past learning, projects sharpen fundamental skills of sketching (2D & 3D), design drawing, computer modeling, prototyping and conceptual diagramming. Students are encouraged through critical discourse and research on historical and contemporary material of cultural shifts to formulate their own ideology. Project proposals forward questions such as social context, ergonomics, and ecological consequences. Students are expected to identify local stakeholders (industry, users, designers, etc.) and ask them to be topic advisors as appropriate. First semester projects are dedicated to three fast-paced, highly theoretical, predefined topics. The next semester is devoted to further development of one of these projects. This final semester-long project works toward project closure and pragmatic articulation, ready to be shown both inside and outside an academic context. Formerly ID 400A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: IDES 302, IDES 322, IDES 331, IDES 332 Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 421 - Studio 6: Professional Communication

Refines the students' written, verbal, and visual presentation skills and assists them in developing communication materials for their senior theses and industry-sponsored projects. Intensive group critique of individual presentations prepared outside of class. Students develop self-promotion, presentation, and correspondence materials utilizing service bureaus and contemporary technologies such as digital files, fax, and the World Wide Web to prepare and transmit this information. Formerly ID 420A

IDES 431 - Design Theory Seminar

In this industrial design seminar, students investigate design philosophies, issues, and pedagogy, from a historic as well as contemporary international design context. Students study various definitions of design, explore design theories and issues, and consider theoretical relationships with other applied arts. Formerly ID 490A

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 851 - History of Industrial Design

A survey of industrial design in the West, paying particular attention to developments in the twentieth century. Formerly HU 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Industrial Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Note:

Electives must include nine studio credits taken outside the Industrial Design offerings.

Recommended Electives:

While none of the following is required for graduation, they are recommended by the department.

CRCM 221 - Introduction to Molding & Casting

A course in modelmaking, moldmaking, and casting techniques, using plaster and synthetic compounds. Emphasis is on developing proficiency in slip casting for use in the artist's studio and in industry for serial production. Formerly CR 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 222 - Plaster Workshop

An introductory course in modelmaking, moldmaking, and casting techniques, using plaster and synthetic compounds. This course emphasizes the usefulness of these media to designers and artists. Formerly CR 252

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

EMDI 110 - Computer Concepts

A conceptual and hands-on course that introduces the student to the foundations of digital processes in the arts. Experiences in this course include basic spreadsheet usage, database search techniques, digital photography including RAW file processing, scanning, image processing, compositing, and basic page layout techniques. The course includes an introduction to professional online services via Dialog, as well as advanced search strategies using the Web. Software usage includes Microsoft Word, Excel, and the Adobe Creative Suite (Illustrator, Photoshop and InDesign). Students are given assignments in each of the software environments as well as supplemental weekly readings. No prior computer experience is required. Formerly EM 110

EMDI 210 - Digital Multimedia

The elements of digital multimedia production techniques address the integration and creation of digital media for websites and alternative delivery processes such as podcasting. This course involves hands-on production experience as well as perspective on developments in this rapidly growing field through the readings and lectures. Students create projects involving digital imagery, video and sound, and animation. The first half of the semester is dedicated to creating video pieces utilizing either digital video or animating still imagery. Creation of effective sound tracks will be an important part of this process. The second half of the semester is dedicated to creating a website and utilizing compressed digital video on the Web. Software to be utilized include Photo to Movie, iMovie, Audacity, Garageband, iDVD, and Dreamweaver. There is considerable emphasis on new utilizations of digital media such as podcasts and VODcasts (video on demand) and cell phone multimedia. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 610. Formerly EM 210

IDES 101 - Freshman I.D.

This course introduces first-year students to the issues surrounding the profession and highlights its importance in informing culture and shaping the way we live. Students are exposed to the fundamental skills required to support the process of concept ideation, design development, and presentation of products and furniture. These fundamentals are introduced through in-class exercises, lectures by visiting professionals, and direct involvement in relevant activities within the Industrial Design Department itself. Formerly ID 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Foundation majors. Student must NOT have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits).

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

IDES 371 - Architectonics

An elective course intended as a multidisciplinary forum for the investigation, appreciation, and design of architectural space, structures, and systems. Using in-class exercises as a laboratory for creative and collaborative exchange, students learn alternative design processes, design vocabulary, user-centered experience and design. This course develops concepts and analytical studies of objects/spaces through various 2D and 3D drawing/modeling techniques and culminates in an actual built/alterd environment. Graduate students may register for this course under GRID 624. Formerly ID 312

LAAH 974 - Topics in Design

A seminar in the history of design. Each semester the course is taught, a different aspect of design history is studied. Individual designers under consideration have been Wright, Le Corbusier, and Aalto; other topics have been particular design histories: crafts history, graphic design history, industrial design history; and particular styles of design: The Arts and Crafts movement, Art Nouveau, Bauhaus, de Stijl and Constructivism, Art Deco, and Post-Modernism. Formerly HU 452

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAPH 281 - Portfolio Documentation

The use of photography to create a portfolio of artwork, exhibitions, and installations is necessary for artists in all visual media. Students learn how to photograph two- and three-dimensional artwork in a studio setting and on location. Instruction addresses a wide range of issues including: artificial and natural lighting, film-based and digital camera operation, image processing techniques, and output options. By participating in lectures, demonstrations, field trips and shooting assignments, students acquire the skills necessary to create a coherent visual portfolio of their work. Formerly PF 203

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 112 or FNDP 152 Not open to Photography majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 425 - Special Projects in Multimedia

This seminar is designed to give students direct contact with their soon-to-be peers in the various multimedia industries. The multimedia industries that may be covered include but are not limited to: fine art, interface design, installation art, game design, and electronic music. Timely and relevant issues concerning the craft, thought, and professional expectations of a multimedia artist/designer are the content of this course. Topics related to the multimedia industries in general and the instructor's specific industry experience are discussed. Readings, discussion, and a practical presentation or project make up the body of this course. Formerly MM 472

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits). May be taken three times for credit .

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Industrial Design - Master of Industrial Design

Program Total Credits: 60

Year One Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. (May be taken to satisfy Aesthetics and Art Criticism co-requisites for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 691

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 601 - Advanced Design Studio

The major multidisciplinary studio where design ideology, process, development, and production are emphasized through the integration of critical issues that inform product design. Issues discussed and studied are: human experience and lifestyles; cultural and political issues; ergonomics; poetics; semantics; interactivity; imagery and form. The design process considers above issues in the formulation of a design program; conceptual abstract studies; physical and material investigations; simulated and physical representation; and the application of manufacturing Formerly ID 601

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 611 - Design Seminar: Concepts and Contexts

A seminar devoted to examining the shift in cultural, technological, material, and professional landscapes that a graduate design candidate must navigate. Through readings, presentations, and discussions, students explore how these evolved contexts are changing the nature of design practice and thinking. Special emphasis is placed on developing key concepts and ideas that inform the work that the students undertake throughout their program. The seminar works in parallel with the studio course; topics and themes covered in the seminar are germane to the studio projects. Formerly ID 600

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 621 - Advanced Design Methods

As a complement to the studio course (GRID 601), this course helps to develop methodologies for critical social cultural analysis, strategies for design research, and the means of documenting that research and analysis. Students develop a common design process that provides the foundation for all subsequent MID work. The emphasis is on clear and convincing communication, a skill that is increasingly critical to designers as they work more and more with those outside their own disciplines. Content for the coursework comes directly from the studio projects themselves. Formerly ID 620

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: GRID 601 Open to graduate students in the College of Art and Design only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

GRAD 651 - University Seminar: Art and Society

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from all graduate programs examine theoretical issues relating to the place of art and design in society. Topics include the social role of the artist/designer, public policy and the arts, issues of post-modernism, and aesthetic and ethical implications of emerging arts communication technologies. (May be taken to satisfy Sociology/Anthropology corequisite for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 692

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 622 - Human Factors Research

A seminar course that addresses human behavior through the interaction with manufactured objects, environments and systems, and the ergonomic, functional, informational, aesthetic, and safety requirements encountered in the design of these products for human use. Formerly ID 627

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate students in the College of Art and Design only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 701 - Advanced Project Tutorial I

The primary practicum in which design concepts are explored and skills, techniques, tools, and products are developed, demonstrated, and tested. Individual weekly meetings with faculty and with outside advisors, as dictated by project objectives and sponsorship. Formerly ID 710

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 601 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

Year Two Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

GRID 602 - Advanced Design Studio

The major multidisciplinary studio where design ideology, process, development, and production are emphasized through the integration of critical issues that inform product design. Issues discussed and studied are: human experience; culture and politics; ergonomics; poetics; semantics; interactivity; imagery and form. The design process considers above issues in the formulation of a design program; conceptual abstract studies; physical and material investigations; simulated and physical representation; and the application of manufacturing processes. Formerly ID 602

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 701 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 623 - Advanced Computing Application

A laboratory/practicum in the use of advanced computing capabilities with emphasis on 3D computer modeling, rendering, and production technologies. Special emphasis on the exploration of contemporary manufacturing processes. Formerly ID 625

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate students in the College of Art and Design only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 711 - ID Seminar: Professional Development

A professional seminar/workshop that addresses the individual career interests of each degree candidate especially as they relate to the student's thesis project. The product of this course is the formulation of a career plan and objectives tailored to each candidate, and the development of a portfolio, resume, and other documentation targeted toward the practical application of the candidate's knowledge and skill. Formerly ID 700

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 701 Corequisites: GRID 702, GRID 785 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

GRID 702 - Advanced Project Tutorial II

The primary practicum in which design concepts are explored and skills, techniques, tools, and products are developed, demonstrated, and tested. Individual weekly meetings with faculty and with outside advisors, as dictated by project objectives and sponsorship. Formerly ID 711

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 602 Corequisite: GRID 785 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 780 - Master's Thesis Documentation

A tutorial providing the opportunity for individual candidates to develop and present their theses in a manner that directly reflects their career objectives. The thesis project and document must exhibit an in-depth exploration of an approved topic, which addresses an area of importance to the Industrial Design field and contributes to the body of knowledge pertaining to that area. It may be carried out under industry sponsorship, as a part of a research project, or be independently based. Formerly ID 749

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 602 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 3 hrs

Note:

In addition to required courses, students take elective courses that enable them to pursue their specific interest, as well as overcome deficiencies in their design preparation. In certain cases, particularly for applicants from non-design undergraduate programs, it is necessary to complete specific courses in industrial design. These courses are selected from appropriate undergraduate courses and may not apply towards degree requirements.

Museum Communication - Master of Arts

Year One Credits: 30.0

Fall Credits: 15.0

GREM 601 - Electronic Media/Production I

Addresses the development of foundation computer skills in image scanning technology, desktop publishing, digital photographic technologies, and basic output procedures. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Meets with EMDI 201. In order to receive graduate credit, graduate students are expected to exceed undergraduate course expectations by applying the skills and competencies outlined in the syllabus to graduate-level concepts that typically relate to their major program of study. In this regard, graduate students taking this graduate elective are required to meet with the instructor prior to the start of class to determine and outline the nature of the requirements to be met. Formerly EM 601

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 600 - Museology

Introduction to the social and cultural theory underlying museum practice. The museum is studied as a dynamic institution. Its structure and functions are examined in the context of political, economic, and social change. A seminar/lecture course, students study the writings of the founders of modern museum theory focusing on the development of museums and their service to the public, learning as a central focus of contemporary museums, and the shift from private to public support and responsibility for museums. Formerly MS 600

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs. Priority enrollment to Museum Studies.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 601 - Museum Seminar: The Museum Society

Lecture/seminar course exploring the history, organization, and operation of the museum as a cultural/educational institution, an economic entity, and a management enterprise. Visiting lecturers bring a wide range of knowledge and practices from their respective institutions and consultancies to provide the student with insight into the differences between museums of different types, sizes, and missions. The course provides students with an overall understanding of the museum as an institution and an introduction to the many roles played by museum professionals. Offered in the evening. Formerly MS 501

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 603 - The Museum Audience

Lecture into practice course focusing on the visitor experience through museum communications and learning. Designed to identify the characteristics of the museum visitor, the ways in which visitors experience museum exhibitions, cognitive and affective behavior, the relationship of museum exhibitions and educational programming, and the impact of institutions and visitor studies on the planning and design of institutions, museum exhibitions, and environments. Formerly MS 508

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 614 - Museum Graphics

Writing, design, and production of museum graphic components. Graphic Design is defined as any visual information communicated through word and image. Formerly MS 620A

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: GREM 601 Open to Museum Studies majors only. Computer literacy required.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 780 - Thesis Research

Examines the principle approaches to research. The nature of appropriate research methods for selected thesis topics; the approaches and benefits of various methodologies; and the steps in research design. Students identify a research problem, design a study, collect and analyze data, compile, interpret and report results. Formerly MS 740

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15.0

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

Topics include the social role of the artist/designer, public policy and the arts, issues of post-modernism, and aesthetic and ethical implications of emerging arts communication technologies. (May be taken to satisfy Sociology/Anthropology corequisite for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 692

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 702 - Issues in Museums Seminar

Presents and discusses current political and social issues, which may unexpectedly, sometimes problematically, affect museum practice, particularly in the public areas of exhibition, programming, and publications. Recent examples would include controversial exhibits, legal, gender, race, cultural, and religious issues impacting museums; and the public right to participate in the museum experience as an active contributor. Museum scholars, specialists, and university faculty offer in-depth examination of current topics. Students complete projects designed to develop professional ability to deal with emerging debates in the museum profession and the knowledge of the impact of politics and the mass culture on museum policies and practices. Formerly MS 601

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 601 or MSEM 600 Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 783 - Thesis Development: Communication

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 780

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Year Two Credits: 15.0

MSEM 795 - Museum Internship

A supervised practicum in a cooperating museum, gallery, or design firm. The internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional. Provides practical on-site experience, in which the intern is integrated into the professional staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. Formerly MS 759

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fall Credits: 12.0

- Elective Credits: 3.0 cr

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. (May be taken to satisfy Aesthetics and Art Criticism co-requisites for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 691

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 641 - Museum Governance: Legal Issues, Ethics and Museums

Legal status of the museum and its obligations to the public, governance, staffing, and policy-making as a nonprofit organization. Establishing collections policies, laws, regulations, conventions, and codes that affect acquisitions, deaccessions, loans, and collections care. The case study method is used to examine the issues, the law, and the decisions that affect today's museums. State, federal, and international legislation, common law, and the applications of administrative law in museums are examined. Examines the complex relations of museums and museum professionals with trustees, collectors, donors, dealers, outside interest groups, and artists. Formerly MS 602

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 601 or MSEM 600 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 784 - Thesis: Communication

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 783

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Note

Three credit hours of electives may be outside Museum Communication.

Museum Education - Master of Arts

Program Total Credits: 36

Year One Credits: 36

Fall Credits: 18

AEDU 501 - Creative and Cognitive Development

This course is designed to develop skills in recognizing the developmental stages of children, adolescents, and adults according to the theories of Jean Piaget, Lawrence Kohlberg, Viktor Lowenfeld, and Erick Erickson. In addition, the course explores the learning theories of Jerome Bruner, B.F. Skinner, Howard Gardner, Madeline Hunter, and Bernice McCarthy toward understanding individual differences in creative and cognitive development and learning styles. Formerly AE 550

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 606 - Research in Education: Methods and Trends

A graduate education seminar on principal approaches to research for art and museum education. The course examines types of research, applications and recent studies for their methodologies and findings, grant writing, and assessment techniques. Formerly AE 606

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate Art Education and Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. (May be taken to satisfy Aesthetics and Art Criticism co-requisites for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 691

MSEM 603 - The Museum Audience

Lecture into practice course focusing on the visitor experience through museum communications and learning. Designed to identify the characteristics of the museum visitor, the ways in which visitors experience museum exhibitions, cognitive and affective behavior, the relationship of museum exhibitions and educational programming, and the impact of institutions and visitor studies on the planning and design of institutions, museum exhibitions, and environments. Formerly MS 508

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 630 - Museum Education Practicum

This course is designed to develop the practiced insight and skills needed as a professional in a museum environment working with all age groups. It provides opportunities for preliminary observations and experience with professional museum educators and directors led by a professor who conducts the seminar in conjunction with the museum visits and guest speakers. Through this process students develop dynamic teaching techniques that explore and interpret information, concepts, and cultural values that a museum collection communicates. Hands-on techniques and experiences with curriculum development and methodology help students prepare for their research and internship. Formerly MS 510

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Education majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 695 - Museum Internship: Museum Education

Taken in a cooperating museum, the internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional museum educator. It is intended to provide practical on-site experience in which the intern is integrated into the museum staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. A University professor also observes, advises, and assesses the student during the internship. Formerly MS 658

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Education majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3-6 cr

Spring Credits: 18

GRAD 651 - University Seminar: Art and Society

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from all graduate programs examine theoretical issues relating to the place of art and design in society. Topics include the social role of the artist/designer, public policy and the arts, issues of post-modernism, and aesthetic and ethical implications of emerging arts communication technologies. (May be taken to satisfy Sociology/Anthropology corequisite for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 692

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 621 - Media for Museum Communication

Computer literacy, familiarity with Macintosh operating system required. A laboratory/ workshop course on utilization of appropriate technological media, with emphasis on the creation of visitor interaction. Formerly MS 622

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 614 or GREM 610 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 631 - Educational Programming for Museums and Alternative Sites

Prepares museum educators for the development of educational programs and plans for diverse types of museums and alternative learning sites. Exposes students to current issues and trends in museum education such as interdisciplinary and integrated learning, and issues of diversity. Methods of interpreting works of art, artifacts, and collections are studied. Extensive, "theory into practice" component provides students with the opportunity to apply theory to actual permanent collection and temporary exhibition projects at area museums. Formerly MS 615

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 603, MSEM 630 Priority enrollment to Museum Education majors. Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 690 - Graduate Museum Project

A culminating research project concerning museum studies, management, and education. The project is completed in one semester and includes the study of research in the field, a team project with the Museum Exhibition Planning and Design, and Museum Communication programs, and an individual project related to the student's main area of interest within the museum education profession. This course provides preparatory research for the culminating museum internship. Formerly MS 648

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Education majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 695 - Museum Internship: Museum Education

Taken in a cooperating museum, the internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional museum educator. It is intended to provide practical on-site experience in which the intern is integrated into the museum staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. A University professor also observes, advises, and assesses the student during the internship. Formerly MS 658

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3-6 cr

Choose one of the following two:

MSEM 600 - Museology

Introduction to the social and cultural theory underlying museum practice. The museum is studied as a dynamic institution. Its structure and functions are examined in the context of political, economic, and social change. A seminar/lecture course, students study the writings of the founders of modern museum theory focusing on the development of museums and their service to the public, learning as a central focus of contemporary museums, and the shift from private to public support and responsibility for museums. Formerly MS 600

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs. Priority enrollment to Museum Studies.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 601 - Museum Seminar: The Museum Society

Lecture/seminar course exploring the history, organization, and operation of the museum as a cultural/educational institution, an economic entity, and a management enterprise. Visiting lecturers bring a wide range of knowledge and practices from their respective institutions and consultancies to provide the student with insight into the differences between museums of different types, sizes, and missions. The course provides students with an overall understanding of the museum as an institution and an introduction to the many roles played by museum professionals. Offered in the evening. Formerly MS 501

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Note:

Additional elective courses are encouraged in interactive media, multicultural learning arts, design for interdisciplinary learning, history of ideas in art and museum education.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 610 - Museum Exhibition Design Studio

The primary vehicle for exploring and developing museum exhibition planning, design, project organization, and presentation skills/techniques. This studio focuses on the foundations of museum exhibition development and design: space planning, color, light, informal education, communication, content, interaction, and crafting experiences. Formerly MS 610A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

MSEM 614 - Museum Graphics

Writing, design, and production of museum graphic components. Graphic Design is defined as any visual information communicated through word and image. Formerly MS 620A

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: GREM 601 Open to Museum Studies majors only. Computer literacy required.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 616 - Exhibition Materials and Methods

This course gives students an in-depth acquaintance with exhibit fabrication/construction processes, techniques, methods and materials, how to research and specify appropriate materials, and how to use those materials in the best way. Formerly MS 623A

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: MSEM 610 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

MSEM 602 - Museum Seminar: The Exhibition and Educational Programming

Lecture/seminar course exploring the philosophy and history of museum exhibitions and the development of the museum exhibition discipline. Visiting lecturers bring a wide range of knowledge and practices from their respective professional disciplines and provide insight into museum exhibition practice. Provides students with an overall understanding of the role exhibitions can and do play in public institutions. Offered in the evening. Formerly MS 502

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 611 - Museum Exhibition Design Studio

The primary vehicle for exploring and developing museum exhibition planning, design, project organization, and presentation skills/ techniques. This studio focuses on the foundations of museum exhibition development and design: space planning, color, light, informal education, communication, content, interaction, and crafting experiences, with the addition of project management, model making, group dynamics. Formerly MS 610B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 610 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

MSEM 615 - Museum Lighting

A lecture/demonstration/workshop course dealing with the manipulation of light and color in the built environment, specifically museums. Formerly MS 620B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 616 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 617 - Exhibition Materials and Methods

Demonstration/studio course directed at the problems of exhibit production, organization of drawings and packages, clear communication to suppliers of materials and services, and the use of Mac-based CAD (computer aided design), specifically Vectorworks. Formerly MS 623B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 616 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Year Two Credits: 30

Summer Credits: 3

MSEM 795 - Museum Internship

A supervised practicum in a cooperating museum, gallery, or design firm. The internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional. Provides practical on-site experience, in which the intern is integrated into the professional staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. Formerly MS 759

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Students with at least six months of direct exhibition-related experience in a museum, equivalent institution, or a museum consultancy may substitute one three-hour elective for the internship requirement.

Fall Credits: 15

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. (May be taken to satisfy Aesthetics and Art Criticism co-requisites for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 691

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 603 - The Museum Audience

Lecture into practice course focusing on the visitor experience through museum communications and learning. Designed to identify the characteristics of the museum visitor, the ways in which visitors experience museum exhibitions, cognitive and affective behavior, the relationship of museum exhibitions and educational programming, and the impact of institutions and visitor studies on the planning and design of institutions, museum exhibitions, and environments. Formerly MS 508

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 711 - Museum Exhibition Design Studio

The primary vehicle for exploring and developing museum exhibition planning, design, project organization, project management, and presentation skills/techniques. This course focuses on the exhibition in its tangible/ physical form, taking concept into reality. Documentation, construction documents, schedules, budgets, and specifications are the deliverables. Formerly MS 710

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 601, MSEM 611 Open to Museum Exhibition Planning and Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

MSEM 781 - Thesis Development

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests. Formerly MS 749A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 611 or MSEM 780 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 1.5-6 cr

Spring Credits: 12

Narrative Video Minor - CAD

The minor in Narrative Video explores digital video as a medium for storytelling. It introduces students to various aspects of video production, including scriptwriting, storyboarding, editing, sound design, directing, and producing. Students develop their skills as they advance from scene exercises through a short film to a final year-long project. This minor is open to all UArts majors, except those in Film/ Digital Video. As this minor is co-hosted by the College of Media and Communications, CMAC students should refer to the CMAC section of this catalog for additional regulations regarding this minor.

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 401 - Senior Cinema Production I

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311 or MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 402 - Senior Cinema Production II

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 401 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

One of the following:

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Painting/Drawing - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPT 201 - Sophomore Painting

Studio work introduces the student to the domain of painting through projects that cover not only the basic elements of form, color, and technique, but also the basic conceptual challenges unique to painting. Students are exposed to the origins and purposes of painting and the range of possibilities offered by both traditional and contemporary approaches. Formerly PT 202A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 211 - Drawing: Form and Space

An introduction to the issues of drawing, including perception, analysis, invention, and experimentation. A variety of thematic ideas, structural possibilities, and imaginative interpretations are explored. Students are exposed to a wide spectrum of precedents in the history of drawing and are encouraged to enlarge their working definitions of how form and space can be effectively expressed. Formerly FA 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Open to Fine Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Choose one course from the following three:

Painting Majors must take one sculpture course and one printmaking course. These will be counted as electives outside of the Painting offerings.

FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 201 - Sculpture I

Emphasizes the fundamental and formal aspects of sculpture. Projects are assigned to help the student experience and understand the unique expressive values of mass, space, plane, line, balance, rhythm, scale, movement, and time transformation. This course also serves to introduce the student to a variety of materials and techniques. Assigned projects, group critiques and slide lectures. Formerly SC 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPT 202 - Sophomore Painting

Studio work introduces the student to the domain of painting through projects that cover not only the basic elements of form, color, and technique, but also the basic conceptual challenges unique to painting. Students are exposed to the origins and purposes of painting and the range of possibilities offered by both traditional and contemporary approaches. Formerly PT 202B

Choose 3 credits from the following:

FAPR 205 - Concepts/Works on Paper

Offers an opportunity for idea development, visual perception, and the organization of experience into compositions. Primary emphasis is on developing visual expression, skill in using various materials, and growth of critical evaluative abilities through group discussions and critiques. Contour drawing, collage, Xerox transfer, book arts, and other experimental drawing and printing techniques are explored. Students are encouraged to combine media. Formerly FA 205

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors. Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 203 - Media/Techniques

A studio course of instruction and demonstration in the variety of traditional technical approaches to the handling of paint media, including the preparations of grounds and supports. Media options could include oil, acrylic, encaustic, casein, gouache, gold-leafing, fresco, and egg tempera. This course is unique in its focus solely on physical processes not concept or image development. Formerly FA 235

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPT 212 - Drawing Studies

A studio course advancing the objectives of Drawing: Form/Space. Emphasis is on two essential concerns: process and purpose. Students are expected to carry out sustained involvement in specific projects focused on method and content. Studio practices include both open-ended invention and closed-system approaches. This kind of sustained focus on a variety of techniques and themes culminates in a final term project. Formerly FA 234

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 203 - Introduction to Figure Modeling

Modeling from life for the beginner, stressing direct observation, eye-hand coordination, and depth discrimination. Both perceptual and conceptual skills are developed and fundamental studio practices are taught, such as armature construction, clay utilization, and modeling techniques. Works are fired in clay or cast in plaster. Formerly FA 223

Prerequisites & Notes

FACR 301 - Attitudes & Strategies

A studio-criticism course that presents issues that cross over the unique domains of the sculptor, the printmaker, and the painter. Fine Arts students from all three majors work on projects designed to increase their awareness of the attitudes and strategies embodied in artworks. Concepts such as idealism, naturalism, and expressionism are explored in light of their implication for form-making methods and principles. Lectures, studio projects, and group critiques create a forum for advanced study of the purposes and contexts of the Fine Arts. Formerly FA 333A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPT 201 or FASC 201 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 301 - Junior Painting

Students maintain designated spaces in the Junior Studio where they can develop a more professional working routine. They are expected to show increasing personal initiative and direction. Regular critiques on both an individual and group basis connect the student to the values of the past and the present, stimulate interest in the major questions of our time, and provide resources for progress. This course embraces a plurality of ideas about painting and, linked with the goals of FACR 301, advocates a spirit of experimentation and research. Formerly PT 302A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 201 Priority enrollment to Painting majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 303 - Color Studies

Studio group projects and independent projects consider the purposes and effects of color organization, color perception, and color theory. Color is approached as emotive, symbolic, descriptive, and structural. Formerly PT 340

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 202 Priority enrollment to Painting majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 201 Priority enrollment to Painting majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 304 - Junior Drawing

An advanced studio in drawing, extending knowledge, experience, and authority in drawing as a form-making act in the painting process and as a form of expression in its own right. Students are guided through various aspects of the uses of pictorial elements (line, tonality, surface, etc.) in the making of images that express content and meaning. References to contemporary and historical sources are investigated. Formerly PT 334

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPT 211, FAPT 212 or FAPT 205 Priority enrollment to Painting majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 306 - Junior Seminar

A discussion format aimed at investigating and understanding the content of, the motivations for, and the influences on contemporary painting. Emphasis is on exploring the theories, questions, and issues that create the intellectual content for contemporary artists. Students are given reading assignments as preparation for the seminar dialogue. Selected texts include artists' documents, critical writings, and classic essays covering such areas as aesthetic principles, political and cultural realities, and psychological perspectives. Class sessions emphasize group discussions based on viewing slides and other appropriate visual material, reading assignments, and various written and oral forms of student presentations. Formerly PT 360

FACR 401 - Senior Fine Arts Seminar

The artist's role in historic and contemporary contexts. Issues surrounding the various purposes of art and how culture deals with artists are explored through discussion with visiting artists, alumni, and faculty. Students work toward the acquisition of a professional profile in resume, artist statement, and slide preparation. Discussion of gallery practices and portfolio presentations cultivate an awareness of professionalism and career opportunities in the fields of painting, printmaking, and sculpture. Formerly FA 460

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 301, FAPT 302 or FASC 302 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPT 401 - Senior Painting

Critical commentary centers on four areas of concern: 1. The character of the work – its formal properties, its physical properties, aspects of intelligibility. 2. Intention - the investigation of motives and choices. 3. Context – ways that a work relates to a larger body of work, both generic and stylistic. 4. Quality – approaches to questions of value. There are individual critiques each week and periodic group critiques involving the participation of a visiting artist. Formerly PT 402A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 302 Open to Painting majors only.

Credits: 4.5 cr, 9 hrs

FAPT 403 - Drawing References

Advanced drawing projects focusing on the relation between a given work and its references and resources. Emphasis is on understanding the nature of references or resource material and the manner in which references or resources influence the outcome of a work. This studio/critique course aims at enhancing students' ability to connect their personal and subjective interests to the larger context of nature, history, and culture. Formerly FA 425

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPT 402 - Senior Painting

The Painting major formulates a senior thesis project. Working with senior faculty who read and critique early drafts, the student develops a formal written thesis and a body of artwork to be presented at the end of the term to a senior thesis panel. This panel is comprised of Studio faculty, Liberal Arts faculty, and student peers. Formerly PT 402B

Prerequisite: FAPT 302 Open to Painting majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

FAPT 404 - Drawing References

Advanced drawing projects focusing on the relation between a given work and its references and resources. Emphasis is on understanding the nature of references or resource material and the manner in which references or resources influence the outcome of a work. This studio/critique course aims at enhancing students' ability to connect their personal and subjective interests to the larger context of nature, history, and culture. Formerly FA 426

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Liberal Arts Distribution

Note all Liberal Arts courses are 3 credits.

- Liberal Arts Electives Credits: 15 cr
- Art History Elective Credits: 3 cr

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

MAPH 301 - Junior Photography Workshop

Exploration of photographic imagery through a series of problems aimed at personal vision and creative growth. Formerly PF 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 303 - Basic Photography Studio I

Familiarizes the student with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography. Entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. Deals exclusively with black-and-white materials, sheet film exposure, hand processing, and printing large-format negatives. Formerly PF 313A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. Photo Elective

May be selected from one of the following:

MACR 499 - Internship

Internship program in which the student, working closely with the Media Arts Department internship advisor, is placed in one of several professional situations. Placements include assisting in professional studios, practice in biomedical photography laboratories, and working for commercial and non-profit galleries, among others. Placements in film and animation are sponsored by local independent production houses and television stations, design firms, and free-lance artists; students of film may assist in location shooting, set production, editing, casting, scripting, and a myriad of other practical tasks. Formerly PF 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202, MAPH 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 312 - Advanced Digital Photo Workshop

The study of advanced photo imaging techniques. Through a series of problem-solving assignments, students are expected to develop strong digital shooting, scanning, color management, and printing skills as well as competency in advanced Photoshop techniques. A final portfolio of a series of creative images is a course requirement. Formerly PF 333

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAPH 320 - Selected Topics in Photography

Study of one or more various media, methods, or problems in still photography to be offered according to the instructor's interests and students' requests. Topics include: portraiture, documentary photography, digital imaging, color manipulation, photographic illustration, and photo-based mixed media. Formerly PF 323

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 321 - Surface Altered Photographs

A concentration on the fundamental ideas and techniques for altering the surface of photographic prints, the emphasis is on one-of-a-kind prints, mixed media, and nontraditional materials. Techniques and materials covered include: traditional hand-coloring (oil paint, watercolor, acrylic, pastel, pencil, liquid dyes), toning and bleaching, graphic arts film, Polaroid transfer, photocopier transfer lifts, liquid emulsion, tin-types, and the preparation and painting of digital prints. Assignments, a research paper, slide lectures, and critiques center on creative possibilities, technical proficiency, and the development of increasingly more personalized visual and photographic statements. Formerly PF 334

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 322 - Photojournalism

This course covers basic photojournalism with a focus on the picture story. Choice of subject depends on the students' individual style of photography and their point of view. The class is built on an intensive shooting schedule emphasizing photographic composition, regular feedback, and the use of appropriate equipment. The class covers selecting story ideas, picture editing, writing captions and preparing text-blocks to accompany photographs, and business aspects of the field such as how and where to sell or publish work. Formerly PF 335

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 323 - Fashion and Editorial Portrait Photography

This course explores the real world of fashion and editorial photography. Students learn to present both themselves and their work professionally. They visit professional studios and, on occasion, collaborate with art directors. They learn to interpret and execute assignments dealing with deadlines and other restrictions posed by commissions. Photographers, art directors, and studio assistants are invited into the class. Emphasis is placed on expanding and maintaining personal vision in a commercially oriented context. Formerly PF 336

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 460 - Professional Practices

Study of the practice of professional photography, with attention to various career opportunities, portfolio presentation, business practices, professional ethics, photographic law, and personal objectives. A variety of professional guests visit the course. Formerly PF 413

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Photography Minor

The Photography minor stresses a fine-art approach to photography. It provides the basics of black-and-white as well as color photography and digital imaging. The emphasis is placed on gaining experience in a wide range of pictorial photographic applications. Once a student has mastered basic photographic technique, materials and processes that are used to manipulate photographic imagery are explored. Creativity and personal expression are emphasized in all of these courses. Photography majors may not declare a Photography minor.

MAPH 202 - Introduction to Photography II

While consolidating the student's control of the medium, this course introduces the student to a departure from normative photographic rendering, techniques, and modes of expression and form. Strong emphasis on manipulation of materials, including traditional photographic methods as well as an introduction to computer-manipulation. Formerly PF 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 282, MAPH 201 or MAPH 221 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 211 - Color Concepts

Introduction to methods of color shooting and printing, leading to an exploration of the technical and creative possibilities of color in photography. Processes covered include negative and transparency films, filtration, chemical printing, and digital color controls with Photoshop. Formerly PF 217

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Photography majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not open to Foundation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Crafts

Crafts Studio Certificate Program

A Post-Baccalaureate Portfolio Development Program

The University's 30-credit certificate program offers an intensely focused education in crafts. The program is designed for those students with bachelor's degrees who wish to become proficient artists in one or more of the following areas: ceramics, fibers, jewelry, metalsmithing, or wood. Courses dealing with technique, philosophy, and contemporary issues are aimed to develop an individual's portfolio for further graduate study or a career as an independent studio artist or design professional.

The Crafts Studio Program offers the studio component of the University's undergraduate crafts program in a focused one-and-one-half or two-year period. Students accepted to the program take a minimum of six credits to a maximum of 12 credits per semester.

Certificate students must take a minimum of 12 media-specific credits at the 300 level. The prerequisite for 300-level courses is two 200-level courses in that same medium. However, if an applicant's portfolio indicates enough experience in a particular medium, 200-level prerequisites may be waived at the time of acceptance. See the preceding section for a listing of media-specific courses.

Certificate students benefit from taking courses with degree candidates in a quality undergraduate program. In addition to technically oriented, media-specific courses, students take core courses involving design/theory issues, criticism, and professional/career practices.

Admission is by portfolio and interview. Students with little or no formal art training will be required to take Foundation courses. The program advisor (in consultation with the student) will set the number of required prerequisites. These credits must be taken in addition to the 30 required credits and can be completed in advance of or concurrently with the certificate program.

AEDU 200 - Presentation Skills

This course addresses effective speech and presentation skills for the teacher, artist, and administrator communicating with groups, classes, or clients. Formerly AE 200

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

AEDU 201 - Introduction to Visual Arts Education

A theoretical and practical introduction to the entire field of art education with an emphasis on studio processes. A survey of various aspects of teaching in a variety of situations and environments, through field observations and classroom lecture-discussions, including public and private schools K-12, as well as specialized and alternative settings in museum education, early childhood education, special education (for students with disabilities and gifted children), and adult education. Formerly AE 201

Credits: 2 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 501 - Creative and Cognitive Development

This course is designed to develop skills in recognizing the developmental stages of children, adolescents, and adults according to the theories of Jean Piaget, Lawrence Kohlberg, Viktor Lowenfeld, and Erick Erickson. In addition, the course explores the learning theories of Jerome Bruner, B.F. Skinner, Howard Gardner, Madeline Hunter, and Bernice McCarthy toward understanding individual differences in creative and cognitive development and learning styles. Formerly AE 550

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 541 - Program Design & Methods: Elementary

Through review of current literature, lectures, discussion, field observation, and miniteaching, students explore various educational philosophies and develop and implement effective classroom curricula based on prevailing theories of learning and child development. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 547

AEDU 533 - Art and Inclusionary Education

This course is designed to provide the full scope of methodologies, techniques and innovative strategies needed to teach special education students effectively. Using the arts as a means for adapting to diverse learning methods, the K-12 classroom is regarded as a dynamic setting for inclusionary learning. The impact of special needs art education is further realized through direct school and community engagement: programs and national as well as local organizations are made available to assist in developing field placements. Arranged field placement opportunities include a broad range of community resources. Formerly AE 533

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

AEDU 542 - Program Design & Methods: Secondary

Continuation of AEDU 541, with emphasis on the development of age-appropriate curricula that addresses scope and sequence and state standards for middle and secondary school. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 548

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 541 or AEDU 560 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

AEDU 560 - Saturday Practicum

Students are involved in various aspects of the Saturday Arts Lab. They observe classroom instruction, plan and teach lessons, and exhibit student work under the supervision of cooperating master teachers and through the instruction of a professor in the seminar portion of the course. Formerly AE 559

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

Fall Credits: 12

AEDU 503 - The Art of Teaching

Teacher preparation and knowledge of instructional techniques will be addressed, including professional image, teachers' rights and responsibilities, and aspects of group process. The course explores cultural and family factors that influence learning expectations conveyed by teachers and peer behavior and techniques of instruction and creativity. A retrospective analysis of each student's individual education experience and perceptions of teaching is explored through interactive simulation of classroom situations and teaching styles. Formerly AE 552

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 541 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 561 - Student Teaching: Elementary

An intensive, elementary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 561 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. (If students elect to take AEDU 561 one semester and AEDU 562 another semester, AEDU 565 must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 660

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Corequisite: AEDU 565 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary, 7 weeks

AEDU 562 - Student Teaching: Secondary

An intensive, secondary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 562 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. (If students elect to take AEDU 562 one semester and AEDU 561 another semester, AEDU 565 must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 662

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Corequisite: AEDU 565 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary, 7 weeks

AEDU 565 - Student Teaching Seminar: Elementary/Secondary

Discussion and analysis of: field experiences; special workshops; Literacy: Reading and Writing Across the Curriculum: Professional Teaching Portfolios; 1-Year Curriculums for an Elementary and a Secondary Grade. Continuing development and refinement of skills in reflective practice is emphasized as well as the needs of special learners. AEDU 565 is taken concurrently with AEDU 561 and AEDU 562. (If students elect to take AEDU 561 and AEDU 562 over two semesters, AEDU 565 Student Teaching Seminar must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 661

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

Co-requisites:

- Coursework in painting, drawing, ceramics, and printmaking
- Three upper-division credits in a 3-D studio area, if a 2-D studio major for bachelor's degree
- Three upper-division credits in a 2-D studio area, if a 3-D studio major for bachelor's degree
- Introduction to computers, including graphic applications (required competency); minimum requirement of one course
- Basic Photography (required competency), minimum requirement of one course
- Art History, 12 credits, including at least one course in 20th century art, one course in non-Western art
- Introduction to Psychology or Child and Adolescent Psychology
- Sociology or Cultural Anthropology (may be satisfied by GRAD 651)
- Aesthetics (may be satisfied by AEDU 543)
- Art Criticism (may be satisfied by AEDU 543)
- Speech or Acting (may be satisfied by AEDU 200 Presentation Skills)
- Six credits college-level math (prior to entry to the MAT program)
- Three credits college-level English composition (prior to entry to the MAT program)
- Three credits college-level American or British literature (prior to entry into the MAT program)
- AEDU 201 Introduction to Visual Arts Education

Printmaking/Book Arts - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 201 - Sophomore Painting

Studio work introduces the student to the domain of painting through projects that cover not only the basic elements of form, color, and technique, but also the basic conceptual challenges unique to painting. Students are exposed to the origins and purposes of painting and the range of possibilities offered by both traditional and contemporary approaches. Formerly PT 202A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Printmaking majors take one sculpture course and one painting course, during the Sophomore year.

FAPT 211 - Drawing: Form and Space

An introduction to the issues of drawing, including perception, analysis, invention, and experimentation. A variety of thematic ideas, structural possibilities, and imaginative interpretations are explored. Students are exposed to a wide spectrum of precedents in the history of drawing and are encouraged to enlarge their working definitions of how form and space can be effectively expressed. Formerly FA 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Open to Fine Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 205 - Concepts/Works on Paper

Offers an opportunity for idea development, visual perception, and the organization of experience into compositions. Primary emphasis is on developing visual expression, skill in using various materials, and growth of critical evaluative abilities through group discussions and critiques. Contour drawing, collage, Xerox transfer, book arts, and other experimental drawing and printing techniques are explored. Students are encouraged to combine media. Formerly FA 205

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors. Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 201 - Sculpture I

Emphasizes the fundamental and formal aspects of sculpture. Projects are assigned to help the student experience and understand the unique expressive values of mass, space, plane, line, balance, rhythm, scale, movement, and time transformation. This course also serves to introduce the student to a variety of materials and techniques. Assigned projects, group critiques and slide lectures. Formerly SC 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Printmaking majors take one sculpture course and one painting course, during the Sophomore year.

FACR 301 - Attitudes & Strategies

A studio-criticism course that presents issues that cross over the unique domains of the sculptor, the printmaker, and the painter. Fine Arts students from all three majors work on projects designed to increase their awareness of the attitudes and strategies embodied in artworks. Concepts such as idealism, naturalism, and expressionism are explored in light of their implication for form-making methods and principles. Lectures, studio projects, and group critiques create a forum for advanced study of the purposes and contexts of the Fine Arts. Formerly FA 333A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPT 201 or FASC 201 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 303 - Print Study Seminar I

Students meet at the Philadelphia Museum of Art in the Print Study room to discuss and study original prints and rare books from the museum collection. Masters of the 15th through the 18th centuries are introduced and researched. Various print processes that parallel the material covered in the course will be researched in the printmaking studios. Formerly PR 306A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Printmaking majors only. Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits).

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 305 - Lithography

All of the basic techniques of drawing, imagemaking and printing skills that are necessary to produce hand-pulled lithographs from stones and plates are taught. An emphasis is placed on visual expression and development of ideas through group discussions and critiques. Formerly PR 300

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

FAPR 301 - Attitudes and Strategies: Printmaking

The first semester of this course concentrates on general issues of contemporary artists' practice; the second semester continues with a focus on the printmaker's world. The student creates many prints, exploring a variety of printmaking methods. Drawings to clarify the direction that a possible later series of prints might take are another expectation as well as completed drawing projects. Students should take at least one area of printmaking and develop technical skills beyond elementary proficiency. All three mediums: relief, intaglio, and lithography are to be used in making prints this semester. Combining methods, particularly for the addition of color, is urged. Formerly PR 333

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FACR 301 Open to Printmaking majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 302 - Printmaking Workshop

An investigation into the combination of previously studied printmaking media including, but not confined to: relief, intaglio, screenprinting, lithography and photo & digital imaging. Students are encouraged to investigate unorthodox uses of materials and techniques through the creation of two-dimensional and three-dimensional work. Formerly PR 301

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 304 - Book Arts: Concept and Structure

An opportunity to explore the integration of type and relief image in unique and editioned book structures. Hands-on experience in dealing with composition (metal) type and computer typesetting is on an intermediate level. Methods of relief printing are explored and cultivated. Wood engraving, photopolymer relief, color reduction printing, and related traditional and contemporary methods of multiple image making are pursued. Special emphasis on development of a personal visual language. Formerly PR 307

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits). Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 27

Fall Credits: 13.5

- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPR 401 - Advanced Workshop

Students continue to develop their ideas, images, and technique while establishing their direction and personal original expression. The workshop atmosphere permits a comfortable handling of all procedures and printmaking processes. Students are encouraged to be involved with adjacent expressive means such as drawing, painting, sculpture, photography, and crafts in combination with printmaking. Formerly PR 400

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPR 305 Open to Printmaking majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 403 - Print Study Seminar II

The historical and conceptual context of prints, portfolios and book arts of the 19th and 20th centuries are studied at the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Written and printed expression of the ideas and processes involved are integrated into this course of study. Formerly PR 406

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Printmaking majors only. Students must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits).

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 13.5

- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FACR 401 - Senior Fine Arts Seminar

The artist's role in historic and contemporary contexts. Issues surrounding the various purposes of art and how culture deals with artists are explored through discussion with visiting artists, alumni, and faculty. Students work toward the acquisition of a professional profile in resume, artist statement, and slide preparation. Discussion of gallery practices and portfolio presentations cultivate an awareness of professionalism and career opportunities in the fields of painting, printmaking, and sculpture. Formerly FA 460

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 301, FAPT 302 or FASC 302 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 402 - Thesis Workshop

Offers the student the opportunity to develop a body of work in preparation for portfolio and exhibition presentation. An emphasis is placed on the development of ideas and content of individual student's work, which is supported by a series of individual and group critiques by faculty and visiting artists. The student is expected to participate in group exhibitions as well as a solo exhibition and to present a professional portfolio of work. Formerly PR 420

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPR 305 Open to Printmaking majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Liberal Arts Distribution

Note all Liberal Arts courses are 3 credits.

- Liberal Arts Electives Credits: 15 cr
- Art History Elective Credits: 3 cr

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Choose one course from the following three:

FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 202 - Sophomore Painting

Studio work introduces the student to the domain of painting through projects that cover not only the basic elements of form, color, and technique, but also the basic conceptual challenges unique to painting. Students are exposed to the origins and purposes of painting and the range of possibilities offered by both traditional and contemporary approaches. Formerly PT 202B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Junior Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- FASC XXX - Sculpture Elective Credits: 1.5 cr
See Sculpture Electives below
- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

FACR 301 - Attitudes & Strategies

A studio-criticism course that presents issues that cross over the unique domains of the sculptor, the printmaker, and the painter. Fine Arts students from all three majors work on projects designed to increase their awareness of the attitudes and strategies embodied in artworks. Concepts such as idealism, naturalism, and expressionism are explored in light of their implication for form-making methods and principles. Lectures, studio projects, and group critiques create a forum for advanced study of the purposes and contexts of the Fine Arts. Formerly FA 333A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPT 201 or FASC 201 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 440 - Sculpture Since 1945

Lectures, discussions, projects concerning various artists, movements, concepts, philosophies, and critical theories influencing contemporary art with an emphasis on sculpture. Focus on the currents since 1945. Formerly SC 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- FASC XXX - Sculpture Elective Credits: 3 cr
See Sculpture Electives below
- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- HU XXX - Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

FASC 302 - Attitudes and Strategies: Sculpture

A studio-criticism course that focuses on the issue of artistic strategy as it applies to the creation of art. Assignments attempt to aid students in recognizing their own and alternative tendencies and history through projects that are made to reflect attitudes like expressionism, idealism, mathematical systems, naturalism, time and installation, etc. Formerly SC 333

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FACS 201 or FACS 202 Open to Sculpture majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- FASC XXX - Sculpture Elective Credits: 3 cr
See Sculpture Electives below
- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- HU XXX - Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FASC 401 - Sculpture III

Terms like site-specific, monumental, genre, narrative, emblematic, environmental, etc., reflect the cluster of types of sculptural imagery. This studio-criticism course is concerned with the ideational and technical issues raised by various types of sculptural imagery that are assigned in turn. The relationship that sculptures have with the context they exist in and the purpose they serve is stressed. Formerly SC 401

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 302 Open to Sculpture majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- FASC XXX - Sculpture Elective Credits: 1.5 cr
See Sculpture Electives below
- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FACR 401 - Senior Fine Arts Seminar

The artist's role in historic and contemporary contexts. Issues surrounding the various purposes of art and how culture deals with artists are explored through discussion with visiting artists, alumni, and faculty. Students work toward the acquisition of a professional profile in resume, artist statement, and slide preparation. Discussion of gallery practices and portfolio presentations cultivate an awareness of professionalism and career opportunities in the fields of painting, printmaking, and sculpture. Formerly FA 460

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 301, FAPT 302 or FASC 302 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 402 - Sculpture III

Terms like site-specific, monumental, genre, narrative, emblematic, environmental, etc., reflect the cluster of types of sculptural imagery. This studio-criticism course is concerned with the ideational and technical issues raised by various types of sculptural imagery that are assigned in turn. The relationship that sculptures have with the context they exist in and the purpose they serve is stressed. Formerly SC 402

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 401 Open to Sculpture majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Liberal Arts Distribution

Note all Liberal Arts courses are 3 credits.

- Liberal Arts Electives Credits: 15 cr
- Art History Elective Credits: 3 cr

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

Sculpture Electives

Choose from:

FASC 211 - Structure of the Figure

Anatomic and morphological analysis of male and female bodies for artists through a three-dimensional constructional method. Proportions, anatomic structure, surface topology, morphological variation, and the body in movement are covered. Directed toward two-dimensional artists as well as sculptors. The means by which the body's salient features can be recognized from any viewpoint in any pose is stressed. Formerly SC 260A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 212 - Structure of the Figure

Anatomic and morphological analysis of male and female bodies for artists through a three-dimensional constructional method. Proportions, anatomic structure, surface topology, morphological variation, and the body in movement are covered. Directed toward two-dimensional artists as well as sculptors. The means by which the body's salient features can be recognized from any viewpoint in any pose is stressed. Formerly SC 260B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 221 - Introduction to Sculpture Projects

An open studio oriented toward helping the development of individual initiative. Stress on how ideas are transformed into sculptural statements through aesthetic reasoning and the internal logic of a sculpture's color, material, and physical construction. Formerly SC 241

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 222 - Introduction to Sculpture Projects

An open studio oriented toward helping the development of individual initiative. Stress on how ideas are transformed into sculptural statements through aesthetic reasoning and the internal logic of a sculpture's color, material, and physical construction. Formerly SC 242

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 231 - Molding and Casting

Covers processes and techniques utilizing plaster, rubber, plastics, clays, and wax for making hard and flexible molds and for casting sculpture in durable materials. Provides a thorough foundation in foundry practices, including wax preparation, investing, pouring bronze or aluminum, chasing, finishing, and patinating finished metal casts. Formerly SC 220A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation or FNDP 104 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 232 - Molding and Casting

Covers processes and techniques utilizing plaster, rubber, plastics, clays, and wax for making hard and flexible molds and for casting sculpture in durable materials. Provides a thorough foundation in foundry practices, including wax preparation, investing, pouring bronze or aluminum, chasing, finishing, and patinating finished metal casts. Formerly SC 220B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation or FNDP 104 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 331 - Carving

Introduces the student to carving, one of the basic methods of forming sculpture. Students learn to prepare, maintain, and use the tools of the carver. They are introduced to the characteristics of suitable carving materials. Emphasis is placed on the exploration of the formal and expressive potentials of carved sculpture. Formerly SC 321

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 363 - Medallion Sculpture

The Medallion Arts have a long history beginning with monetary coins in the ancient world, developing through Renaissance medals into a vital and international art form that now includes small free-standing sculpture. The link between all of these is not only size, but the need for the work to have a specific communicative function, while at the same time exploring the contemporary sculptural issues. This is a studio course with a lecture component to give the student a history of the discipline. Projects are designed to challenge the student conceptually and to introduce forms and techniques such as bas relief, carving, mold making casting and fabricating, all on a small scale. There will be annual opportunities to exhibit the finished sculpture internationally.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 364 - Installation and Performance

This course explores the concepts and practice of installation and performance art and their development during the past century. Four primary aspects of Installation are explored: the multisensory immersive environment; the site-specific work – work responsive to the history, usage, or natural aspects of a particular site or location; interactivity or installations in which the audience is encouraged to participate; and the performance art ranging from theatrical situations through the private acts of the artist that explore particular behavioral, experiential, or social issues and is documented through photos, videos, etc. The history of installation and performance work is discussed through a series of lectures and video presentations that examine the art historical, social, cultural, and psychological concerns from which these art forms are derived. Students are expected to be resourceful and inventive when realizing their work.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 411 - Advanced Figure Modeling

For students seriously involved with the figure, this course provides an atelier to continue figure modeling on increasingly advanced levels and a context to help formulate a personal figurative sculptural idiom. Works are sculptured at various scales, including life size, and independent projects are undertaken in consultation with the faculty. Critiques involving the meaning and sculptural significance of the works are an integral part of the ongoing class activity. Formerly SC 431

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 203, FASC 211 or FASC 212 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 412 - Advanced Figure Modeling

For students seriously involved with the figure, this course provides an atelier to continue figure modeling on increasingly advanced levels and a context to help formulate a personal figurative sculptural idiom. Works are sculptured at various scales, including life size, and independent projects are undertaken in consultation with the faculty. Critiques involving the meaning and sculptural significance of the works are an integral part of the ongoing class activity. Formerly SC 432

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 203, FASC 211 or FASC 212 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 413 - Projects in Figure Modeling

Allows the student to move beyond modeling the figure as an academic study. Exploration using the figure in expressive contexts is emphasized. Formerly SC 433

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 203, FASC 211 or FASC 212 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken four times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 421 - Advanced Projects

Provides a studio context where maturing self-initiated areas of concentration in sculpture can be developed to fruition on an advanced level. Whatever the direction, a critical emphasis is placed through both open and devised assignments on how materials and forms compatible to personal statements are found. Graduate students may register for this course under GRSC 621. Formerly SC 441

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 221 or FASC 222 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 422 - Advanced Projects

Provides a studio context where maturing self-initiated areas of concentration in sculpture can be developed to fruition on an advanced level. Whatever the direction, a critical emphasis is placed through both open and devised assignments on how materials and forms compatible to personal statements are found. Graduate students may register for this course under GRSC 621. Formerly SC 442

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 221 or FASC 222 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 433 - Metals

Forming metal sculpture has contributed much to the history of sculpture, particularly in the present, where the idiom has become as familiar as carving and modeling. Concurrently offering both basic and advanced technical instruction in welding and forging, using both ferrous and non-ferrous metals, this course is concerned with both the technical and aesthetic aspects of metal sculpture. Formerly SC 421

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Note

Electives must include at least nine studio credits outside the Sculpture offerings.

Studio Photography Minor

This minor is designed to give the student mastery of the full range of camera formats from a 35mm small format up to a 4x5 studio view camera. Technical training covers electronic strobe and tungsten studio lighting, as well as color transparency film and conventional black-and-white, and color photographic print materials and techniques. Advanced-level classes concentrate on design and creative approaches to staged and directed shooting. Photography majors may not declare a Studio Photography minor.

Requirements for the MinorMAPH 211 - Color Concepts

Introduction to methods of color shooting and printing, leading to an exploration of the technical and creative possibilities of color in photography. Processes covered include negative and transparency films, filtration, chemical printing, and digital color controls with Photoshop. Formerly PF 217

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Photography majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not open to Foundation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 303 - Basic Photography Studio I

Familiarizes the student with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography. Entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. Deals exclusively with black-and-white materials, sheet film exposure, hand processing, and printing large-format negatives. Formerly PF 313A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 304 - Basic Photography Studio II

Continuation of MAPH 303. This course furthers the students' familiarization with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography and entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. This semester covers the introduction of color transparency films and strobe lighting. Formerly PF 313B

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following two:

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 282 - Photography for Illustrators

This course introduces Illustration majors to the fundamental techniques used in black-and-white photography, including camera operation, developing, and printing, as well as photographic digital imaging. Emphasis is placed on film selection and lighting for both the studio and environmental shooting. The fundamentals of Photoshop are employed for digital image manipulation. Lectures and projects are designed to provide the tools necessary for illustrators who wish to use photography in their work. Formerly PF 209

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Photography majors. Priority enrollment to Illustration majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following three:

GDES 331 - Photographics I

Develops a designer's methodology and viewpoint to achieve both structure and meaning in photography, and as a way to extend the range of how objects and nature can be seen and translated using photographic processes. Students use both traditional photography and digital software to create hybrid photographic images. Formerly GD 310A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 202 - Introduction to Photography II

While consolidating the student's control of the medium, this course introduces the student to a departure from normative photographic rendering, techniques, and modes of expression and form. Strong emphasis on manipulation of materials, including traditional photographic methods as well as an introduction to computer-manipulation. Formerly PF 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 282, MAPH 201 or MAPH 221 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. Formerly PF 315

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Typography Minor

The student learns the basic visual grammar of typography, incorporating this knowledge into information-based interpretations. Intermediate studies are concerned with the informational and editorial uses of typography, as well as multi-page formats. The advanced level develops a sophisticated expertise in solving complex messages through typographic expression. Graphic Design majors may not declare a Typography minor.

Requirements for the Minor

It is recommended that EMDI 201 and GDES 311 be taken concurrently, when possible.

It is recommended that EMDI 202 and GDES 312 be taken concurrently, when possible.

EMDI 201 - Electronic Media/Production I

Addresses the development of foundation computer skills in image scanning technology, desktop publishing, digital photographic technologies, and basic output procedures. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 601. Formerly EM 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

EMDI 202 - Electronic Media/Production II

An extension of EMDI 201. Addresses the development of advanced computer skills in image scanning, technology, desktop publishing, pre-press production, color, output technology, and digital photographic technologies. Special attention is given to comparative study of output technologies and the translation of the on-screen image to offset lithography. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Formerly EM 202

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 201 Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 212 - Typography Fundamentals

The course addresses the basic formal language of typography and the application of typographic principles to frame basic communication messages. Typographic investigations are achieved by both manual and digital means. Formerly GD 212

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 311 - Typographic Systems

This course investigates and defines the principles of typography in a communication context. Directed research based upon typographic norms addresses the issues of informational hierarchies achievable through visual form and structure as well as the editorial and expressive potentials of typography. Coursework is completed both using traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 202. Working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: EMDI 201, GDES 212

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 312 - Typographic Systems

This course is an extension and continuation of Typographic Systems GDES 311. The course addresses the typographic principles of the grid, text typography, text hierarchies, and image integration, all within the context of a multipage format. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign, image scanning, and basic knowledge of Photoshop or be concurrently enrolled in Electronic Media/Production II EMDI 312 to gain admission to this course. Additional working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: GDES 311, EMDI 202

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 411 - Advanced Typography

This elective course addresses typography as a primary vehicle to communicate information and as a support to images. Assignments range from informational design to expressive, content-based problems, to intuitive investigations and formal experiments. Although traditional methods of conceptualizing are used within a thorough visual process, extensive computer work is involved. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly GD 426

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 312 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Visual Arts - Master of Arts in Teaching

Program Total Credits: 42

Visual Arts - Master of Arts in Teaching Credits: 42

Fall Credits: 15

AEDU 509 is required of all students who do not pass the Art Education Department Writing Proficiency Exam with a score of 80% or higher. It must be taken and passed in the first semester of full-time enrollment, and it does not fulfill any credit requirements for the MAT program. (See course description for additional information.) Those who score below 70 percent on the Professional Writing Proficiency Exam after completing the Professional Writing course may not continue in the MAT program. Students enrolled in AEDU 509 must either pay a per-credit charge for all credits exceeding the 18-credit allotment, or must delay two credits of electives to a future semester. Students who have successfully taken the Instructional I Praxis Tests, Reading and Writing, prior to entry into the MAT program are exempt from the department's Writing Proficiency Exam and AEDU 509 Professional Writing Intensive.

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

AEDU 501 - Creative and Cognitive Development

This course is designed to develop skills in recognizing the developmental stages of children, adolescents, and adults according to the theories of Jean Piaget, Lawrence Kohlberg, Viktor Lowenfeld, and Erick Erickson. In addition, the course explores the learning theories of Jerome Bruner, B.F. Skinner, Howard Gardner, Madeline Hunter, and Bernice McCarthy toward understanding individual differences in creative and cognitive development and learning styles. Formerly AE 550

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

May be taken during either the summer or fall semester

AEDU 509 - Professional Writing Intensive

This course is required for students entering all art education programs (pre-certification, MAT, MA, MA+EM) who have not passed the Art Education Department writing proficiency exam. It addresses the use of effective and cogent written communication for the teacher, artist, and administrator to classes, groups, or clients. Formerly AE 599

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

AEDU 533 - Art and Inclusionary Education

This course is designed to provide the full scope of methodologies, techniques and innovative strategies needed to teach special education students effectively. Using the arts as a means for adapting to diverse learning methods, the K-12 classroom is regarded as a dynamic setting for inclusionary learning. The impact of special needs art education is further realized through direct school and community engagement: programs and national as well as local organizations are made available to assist in developing field placements. Arranged field placement opportunities include a broad range of community resources. Formerly AE 533

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

This course has a required field placement, and may be taken in either fall or spring semester.

AEDU 541 - Program Design & Methods: Elementary

Through review of current literature, lectures, discussion, field observation, and miniteaching, students explore various educational philosophies and develop and implement effective classroom curricula based on prevailing theories of learning and child development. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 547

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 201 Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

This course has a required field placement, and may be taken in either fall or spring semester.

AEDU 606 - Research in Education: Methods and Trends

A graduate education seminar on principal approaches to research for art and museum education. The course examines types of research, applications and recent studies for their methodologies and findings, grant writing, and assessment techniques. Formerly AE 606

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate Art Education and Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

AEDU 542 - Program Design & Methods: Secondary

Continuation of AEDU 541, with emphasis on the development of age-appropriate curricula that addresses scope and sequence and state standards for middle and secondary school. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 548

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 541 or AEDU 560 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

These courses have a required field placement, and may be taken in either the fall or spring semester

AEDU 560 - Saturday Practicum

Students are involved in various aspects of the Saturday Arts Lab. They observe classroom instruction, plan and teach lessons, and exhibit student work under the supervision of cooperating master teachers and through the instruction of a professor in the seminar portion of the course. Formerly AE 559

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

These courses have a required field placement, and may be taken in either the fall or spring semester

AEDU 602 - History of Ideas in Art and Museum Education

Seminar on major issues and trends in the history of art and museum education, with an emphasis on child-centered and content-centered theories and the theoretical antecedents of Discipline-Based Art Education, the Visual Culture movement, and standards-based education. Formerly AE 602

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate Art Education and Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

May be taken during either the summer or spring semester

PRAXIS

The Instructional I PRAXIS tests must be successfully completed by the end of the first full-time semester.

Fall Credits: 12

AEDU 503 - The Art of Teaching

Teacher preparation and knowledge of instructional techniques will be addressed, including professional image, teachers' rights and responsibilities, and aspects of group process. The course explores cultural and family factors that influence learning expectations conveyed by teachers and peer behavior and techniques of instruction and creativity. A retrospective analysis of each student's individual education experience and perceptions of teaching is explored through interactive simulation of classroom situations and teaching styles. Formerly AE 552

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 541 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 561 - Student Teaching: Elementary

An intensive, elementary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 561 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. (If students elect to take AEDU 561 one semester and AEDU 562 another semester, AEDU 565 must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 660

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Corequisite: AEDU 565 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary, 7 weeks

The two field placements may be taken over two semesters. If this option is elected, the full 15-week seminar that accompanies the field placement must be taken in both semesters.

AEDU 562 - Student Teaching: Secondary

An intensive, secondary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 562 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. (If students elect to take AEDU 562 one semester and AEDU 561 another semester, AEDU 565 must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 662

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Corequisite: AEDU 565 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary, 7 weeks

The two field placements may be taken over two semesters. If this option is elected, the full 15-week seminar that accompanies the field placement must be taken in both semesters.

AEDU 565 - Student Teaching Seminar: Elementary/Secondary

Discussion and analysis of: field experiences; special workshops; Literacy: Reading and Writing Across the Curriculum: Professional Teaching Portfolios; 1-Year Curriculums for an Elementary and a Secondary Grade. Continuing development and refinement of skills in reflective practice is emphasized as well as the needs of special learners. AEDU 565 is taken concurrently with AEDU 561 and AEDU 562. (If students elect to take AEDU 561 and AEDU 562 over two semesters, AEDU 565 Student Teaching Seminar must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 661

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

Notes:

Note: Courses to satisfy requirements for the MAT are offered at varying times, allowing graduate students' programs to be customized to their needs.

The College of Media and Communication has approval of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to grant Bachelor of Fine Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees as part of The University of the Arts.

The newest of the University's three colleges, the College of Media and Communication provides a crossroads for students interested in performing and visual arts, writing and narrative, new media, new technology, and interactivity. In small classes, students take advantage of an extremely close and supportive atmosphere and the opportunity to shape an education that is highly individualized and able to reflect their goals and interests.

Programs of Study

The College of Media and Communication is dedicated to the integration of art, technology, and communication. In recognition of the new artistic opportunities that have recently emerged and of the importance of technology in many areas of communication, programs in the College of Media and Communication are characterized by their reliance on text, their use of appropriate technologies, and their commitment to collaboration and other strategies that take advantage of individual expertise and vision placed in a cooperative setting.

A distinctive aspect of the programs in the College is their multidisciplinary nature. Specialized courses that are unique and essential to the field are augmented by major courses drawn from various programs throughout the University, and students are encouraged to explore the University's vast artistic and academic offerings through electives and minor courses of study.

To develop a common experience for all CMAC students as well as a broad perspective of the major themes that influence contemporary media and communication, the College requires all students to take a common core of three courses – Storytelling, Media Industries, and Collaboration and Spontaneity. Through the core, majors learn the power of media to shape stories, the nature of the media marketplace, and the rich potential of collaboration. Because these courses are required of all CMAC majors, it promotes exchange of ideas, skills, and experiences across the College.

The programs offered in the College are:

- BS in Communication
- BFA in Multimedia
- BFA in Writing for Film and Television

Each program is designed as a rigorous sequential course of study, balancing major requirements with electives and a 42-credit liberal arts core. As a result, each program promotes an education that is broad and deep, as well as being practical and richly theoretical. Students graduate knowing both how to express ideas using a diverse set of media while also learning to think about what they are making and why.

To extend their education, CMAC students may also develop specialized competencies by taking minors in a number of new areas:

- Documentary Video
- E-Music
- E-Publishing
- Game Design
- Information Architecture
- Multimedia
- Narrative Video
- Strategic Advertising
- Web Design
- Web Drama

These minors have been designed to complement the College's majors and have been developed with an eye both to new forms of creative expression and the new careers that have emerged as a result of the Internet and the growth of new media.

CMAC Opportunities

The faculty, programs of study, and facilities of the College all support a broad range of interests – from building commercial Websites to creating multimedia fine art; from creating strategic ad campaigns to writing news for the Internet, to writing scripts for motion pictures and television programs. The College also offers opportunities outside the classroom to explore and create – from Webzines, to Web-based radio, to Web television.

There are a number of clubs and publications – student run – that provide students with a variety of opportunities to express themselves, make their ideas public, create new audiences, and experiment with the media.

- UArtsRadio, powered by CMAC, is an evolving, student-run online streaming-audio vehicle. Located in the College, the UArtsRadio Studio features a dedicated server and state-of-the-art equipment. Although housed in the College, UArtsRadio involves students throughout the University.
- UArtsVideo, also powered by CMAC, is the most recent addition to the College's Web presence. Like UArtsRadio, it is student run and offers opportunities to students from throughout the University to be in front of the camera and behind it; as well as to broadcast student-created videos and performances.
- Schwamag.com, “turning e-publishing on its head,” is the Webzine and the print annual sponsored by the Communication Department of the College of Media and Communication but open to the entire University community. It “reports” on the University and the city, on art and culture, and on life as lived by UArts students.
- Broadst., The University’s publication of commentary, has as its mission to give a voice to students and to create a forum for discussion and debate.
- One Noise, an occasional literary magazine, is sponsored by the College’s Department of Writing for Film and Television but is student run and publishes work in prose, poetry, and other genres drawn from across the University community.
- Media Literacy Club, an outreach organization supported by the Communication Department, allows students to share their media literacy skills with public high schools around the city.

In addition to these clubs and organizations, the College sponsors Wednesday Night Screenings and lectures and “Friday Nite at the Movies” – programs that bring students and faculty together to talk about the media and movies.

Special Facilities & Resources

The College of Media and Communication is housed in the recently renovated Terra Building where students and faculty have access to excellent facilities and equipment.

Production Studio

The College houses a multifunctional production studio available for use by students in the College’s video, audio, advertising, and journalism classes. The studio offers students a flexibly designed space in which to produce documentary television features, educational video and films, news features, corporate media, and television commercials. Associated with it is a sound studio that also serves as the center for the Communication Department’s Web radio, Web TV, and Webzine.

Digital Labs and Editing Rooms

Students in Communication use a digital lab with a range of state-of-the-art audio and video systems, pre- and post-production equipment, PC, Mac, and Unix systems, and a complete spectrum of audio, video, and Web software used to create films, videos, advertising campaigns, and Web dramas. In addition, there is a logging and dubbing studio, as well as several private editing suites available to students who need a quiet place and long blocks of uninterrupted time to edit their work.

Multimedia Studios and Labs

The College’s multimedia studios provide students with the most advanced multimedia equipment in the region. The cross-platform production environment spans Macintosh, PC, and Unix-based operating systems. A MAVIO station (Mobile Audio-Visual Input/Output) allows users to input analog and digital information and to output digital and analog information as well. These studios are equipped with industry-standard software from which students can create illustrations, scan images, record sounds, digitize video, and create CD-ROMs. Students in the Multimedia Program use these labs to work on video games, animations, Web narratives, interactive Websites, and digital videos.

MIDI Studio

The College features a MIDI Studio (Musical Instrument Digital Interface), which is used by students in multimedia and e-music to create electronic and experimental music for documentary and narrative film and video, Web drama, and games.

Equipment Room

The College's Equipment Room offers CMAC students the opportunity to borrow the most current portable video, audio, and photographic equipment for off-campus production. The equipment includes digital video and still cameras, DAT and Minidisk audio recorders, Lowell location lighting kits, and an array of microphones, field monitors, and accessories.

Galleries

There are a number of galleries and display areas throughout the College that are highly flexible, equipped with professional lighting, and supported by multimedia equipment for the display of work in all media. There are periodic shows of student documentaries, final projects and works in progress developed by students as part of their classes or independent study, as well as shows of work by faculty and distinguished outsiders.

Special Resources

To provide its students with experience in publishing new media, the College sponsors a student-run Webzine, a Web radio, and Web video site, hosts a number of student- and alumni-produced Websites, and supports student-developed videos, games, and interactive projects, as well as maintaining the College's Website: CMACweb.org.

New Media Center

Chris Garvin

Director
cgarvin@uarts.edu
215-717-6585

The University of the Arts is proud to be a member of the New Media Centers, a group of the nation's leading academic institutions and technology corporations dedicated to the advancement of technology in education. The University of the Arts is one of the few art schools worldwide to be welcomed into this organization, whose members include New York University, Cornell, MIT, and UCLA.

The University of the Arts' New Media Center (NMC) is a state-of-the-art digital laboratory that provides Internet access and permits the integration of text, graphics, imagery, animation, music, and sound. While the entire University community uses these labs, the NMC is the primary classroom for students in the College's Multimedia Program.

CMAC Minors

The College of Media and Communication offers minors that enable a student to focus on a specific discipline through organized electives. Open to majors throughout the University, CMAC minors have been designed to complement a major course of study so that students can develop cross-disciplinary skills and applications, to support interdisciplinary collaboration, and to add skills and experiences that enrich a student's capabilities in a variety of career and creative fields. Each minor has a coordinator/advisor, but students are expected to work with their major advisors so that a minor does not conflict with the courses required by their major. Because of the structure of their major, Communication majors may only participate in minors offered by the College of Performing Arts and the College of Art and Design.

1. Students must meet eligibility requirements, which may include a satisfactory grade-point average, prerequisites, and departmental portfolio review.

2. An intent to complete a minor is declared by filing the completed Minor Declaration Form with the Office of the Registrar. The forms are available in the Office of the Registrar.
3. A student may not major and minor in the same program, except where indicated.
4. Courses applied to the minor may only be applied toward elective requirements.
5. All minors require a minimum of 15 credits, with the exception of E-Music for Music majors. Generally, no substitutions to the minor requirements are allowed. In exceptional situations where substitutions are granted, they must have the approval of both the major and minor program advisors.
6. The requirements of the minor must be completed prior to graduation.
7. A student pursuing a minor may be required to complete more than the minimum number of credits required to complete the undergraduate degree in order to also complete the minor.
8. Minors are available only to undergraduate students.

CMAC Discovery Year

The Discovery Year

A first-year program in the College of Media and Communication, the Discovery Year provides students with an excellent opportunity to explore media and communication before deciding on a major in Communication, Multimedia, or Writing for Film & Television. During the year, they are introduced to the principles and skills that media makers must know through courses taken in video production, visual communication, interface design, writing, and storytelling.

In addition to these courses, students also take Liberal Arts courses each semester as required by the University core and have the option of taking at least one elective course.

Designed to provide its students with an introduction to the concepts and skills of media used in all of the programs offered by the college, the CMAC Discovery Year is ideally suited for students interested in a broad overview of media and communication who have yet to decide on a major focus. Students, who already have decided on their focus, should apply for admission to one of the college's majors – Communication, Multimedia, or Writing for Film & Television – since that will provide them the chance to take more electives and start minors earlier in their course of study.

Declaring a Major

The college provides each student with an advisor who helps the student decide upon the major that is best for him or her. Each semester, in advance of the University's registration period, the college also holds special advising sessions to explain the majors in detail, supplemented by departmental meetings intended to give students in the Discovery Year the opportunity to talk to students already in the majors. During the year, students meet with their advisors on a regular basis, to discuss their work and their career goals and interests. In addition, through course crits and reviews, students have a chance over the year to talk to faculty about their work and to assess their potential for success in the various majors.

To declare a major, students must complete a "Declaration of Major" form, which must be signed by the student and the director of the proposed major. Students can declare a major as early as November of their first year but must declare their major before registering for the fall semester of their second year. Failure to do so may extend their stay at the University.

CMAC Opportunities and Facilities

The college sponsors a number of clubs and publications – most of which are student run and all of which are open to first-year students. They allow students to explore and create outside the classroom in a number of different media – Webzines, Web-based radio, Web television, and several print publications.

The College of Media and Communication is housed in a state-of-the-art media environment, which includes a multifunctional production studio; a sound studio; digital labs for audio and video editing; multimedia studios that provide Mac, PC, and Unix-based operating systems and industry-standard software; a MIDI studio; and a black-box production space, as well as a wireless environment that supports collaboration and independent work.

The College's Equipment Room offers CMAC students the opportunity to borrow the most current portable video, audio, and photographic equipment. The College's galleries, interactive kiosks, and virtual window provide students ample opportunities to display their work.

Discovery Year: 30 Credits

Students may take up to 3 additional credits of Electives in the Discovery Year.

Fall Credits: 15

CMMC 102 - Video Production Workshop

Acquaints students with the fundamentals of visual storytelling by providing hands-on experience translating the written word into images and sounds. Areas of study include framing images, lighting, using off-screen space and sound, editing, and postproduction. Students integrate their own writing to produce some of these projects. Formerly CM 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Writing for Film and Television, Applied Theater majors; Web Drama minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 111 - Dramatic Structure I

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act dramatic structure found in narrative screenplays. Topics of the course include sequences, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students are required to complete focused and specific creative written work on a weekly basis. Workshops are held on a weekly basis. Formerly WM 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television and Discovery Year majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Select one of the following:

CMAC Core/Discipline History

CMMC 141 - Storytelling: Theory and Practice

This course introduces students to storytelling as a way of structuring communication. Course material ranges from annual reports to ad campaigns to greeting cards to rap music to political campaigns, offering students an introduction to the many ways narrative can be exploited for a powerful effect. Students learn to apply theory and to explore the relationship of different types of media to different narrative forms.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 353 - Media Industries

This course investigates the range of organizations and economic forces involved in media production. Includes diverse production models, from mainstream and corporate, to public sector, to alternative, and comparisons with media industries in other cultural settings. The course focuses on business and policy issues and considers examples of media practice from broadcast and cable news, advertising, Hollywood and independent cinema, public media, and new media industries. The course includes a final research project. Formerly CM 260

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

WRIT 112 - Dramatic Structure II

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act structure found in narrative screenplays. Focus on such topics as act design, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students will be required to complete major written work and participate in workshops of written material. Formerly WM 114

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Students who decide they do not wish to major in Writing for Film & Television during the fall semester may substitute another course for Dramatic Structure II in the spring semester after discussion with their advisor.

Select one of the following:

CMAC Core/Discipline History

CMMC 141 - Storytelling: Theory and Practice

This course introduces students to storytelling as a way of structuring communication. Course material ranges from annual reports to ad campaigns to greeting cards to rap music to political campaigns, offering students an introduction to the many ways narrative can be exploited for a powerful effect. CMMC 201 - Media Forms and Concepts I

First of a two-semester exploration of media forms through the perspective of genre, structure, and representation, combining analysis and media production. Students are exposed to mainstream and alternative media and focus on issues of form (i.e., time, space, point of view, etc.) and social context (i.e., cross-cultural representation, stereotyping, the portrayal of gender and sexuality, the representation of violence, etc.) in order to observe how media forms create cultural meanings. Students develop an analytical framework and practical language for talking about media and an understanding of how production practices and audience expectations combine to affect the structure of media forms. Students approach these topics in media representation through creative work in documentary, journalism, and advertising using digital video, audio, still images, and the Web. Formerly CM 201

Prerequisite: CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

CMMC 204 - Writing for Media

A studio writing class developing skills in effective, clear, and persuasive writing in the areas of media and communication. Students work from a variety of source materials and write research papers, project proposals, project treatments, and a newspaper feature. Emphasis is on writing structure and style, editing and revising, suitability to specific audiences, and delivering material on time and at prescribed lengths. Formerly CM 211

CMMC 401 - Communication - Senior Studio I

In this project based, two semester sequence (CMMC 401 & CMMC 402), students work on the development of their own presentation-quality hybrid project, combining aspects of their two chosen application areas (documentary video, digital journalism, narrative video, screenwriting, advertising, game design and web design). Students research and develop project proposals in the fall semester, and begin production work. They continue this work in the spring semester, resulting in a polished piece of video, audio, print or digital form. Students write reflective pieces about their production experience in light of theoretical and contemporary issues, and complete the yearlong course with a portfolio/reel of their creative work. Formerly CM 461

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of two applications areas. Open to Communication majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 499 - Communication Internship

Professional internship with a media organization or producer. Student needs to gain approval for internships from an advisor, meet periodically for supervisory discussions, and complete a short, reflective essay at the end of the internship. Formerly CM 499

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Skill-Based Courses

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

CMMC 205 - Webcasting

Webcasting is a production workshop that introduces students to the world of streaming media (audio and video transmitted over the Internet). The course balances the technical elements of Web casting with the creative aspects of content production, distribution, and community. Students work in teams and individually to produce pre-recorded and original material for archives and live Web casts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 324 - Introduction to Public Relations

The fundamentals of public relations, viewed as a marketing communications tool, with special attention to its role in the non-profit sphere. Reviews the functions of a wide range of marketing communications tools and explores how PR can be used in conjunction with them to achieve an organization's objectives, helping students to come to understand the role of public relations in the overall marketing communications plan. Students learn how to coordinate messages in order to allow the company to speak with one voice and reinforce one overall corporate identity, with special attention to social marketing and the public. A series of projects culminates in students developing a public relations proposal for a non-profit organization. Formerly CM 373

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAPH 221 - Introduction to Documentary Photography

Introduces students to documentary photography as it exists in the digital age. Topics covered include the history of documentary photography, 35mm camera operation, digital camera operation, and the ethical, legal, and strategic issues of contemporary journalism. Students create documentary photographic projects utilizing both traditional and digital photographic techniques. Formerly PF 220

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 152 or MMDI 101 Priority enrollment to Communication majors. Not open to Photography majors. Not open to Foundation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Media Studies Courses

CMMC 350 - Gender Images in Media

Explores representation of gender and sexuality in the media over the past century and how images of male and female both follow and create social change. Formerly CM 350

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 352 - Communication Theories and Culture

An intellectual history of influential 20th-century theories of communication, with a focus on the relationships between media and culture. This course reviews critical intellectual developments in the field against the backdrop of public events, social movements, and the changing daily lives of people in diverse places. How communication systems shape the course of public and private lives and how changes in communication reshaped the way we theorize about the world and the field is examined. Students read primary material in its original form, view media examples, write short position papers reflecting communication theory and culture, and complete a term paper. Formerly CM 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 460 - Current Issues in Communication

Explores the changing landscape of ethical and policy issues in communication from a critical and intellectual perspective, with a focus on emerging issues driven by the shift to digital media (image ethics and manipulation, intellectual property, changing nature of distribution, etc.). Building on previous coursework and studio experiences, students read material from current literature and write reflective and research-based papers on selected issues. Guest speakers in the various industries and independent sectors provide a real-world perspective on how these issues affect professional practice. Formerly CM 435

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 963 - American Film Genres

A course, the content of which varies each time it is offered, that considers various film genres and styles in American cinema, such as comedy, film noir, the Western, the musical, and the American independent film. Formerly HU 349

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 951 - Art, Media and Society

A seminar exploring the identity crisis of the modern artist in the period since the industrial revolution and the rise of the middle class. Conflicts or collaborations between the fine arts and commercialism, including mass media and new technology, from Romanticism and the arts and crafts movement to Pop Art and the Web. Issues of authorship, production, quality, and permanence. Who determines taste, and why? Does high art have a future? Formerly HU 498

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 951 - Technology, Culture and Society

This course explores the complex relationship among technology, cultural paradigms, and popular consciousness. We study and analyze such questions as “What is technology?”, “Does technology necessarily imply progress?”, and “How does technology define reality?” Students examine these and other related themes through readings and other media. Formerly HU 396

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 810 - Modern American History

A study of contemporary developments, values, and issues as a product of 20th century phenomena. The course seeks to understand the dramatic changes that have occurred in American society over the last 50 years. Formerly HU 264

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102 or WRIT 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 831 - Money Matters

Explores issues in economics and business by working out from the roles and interests of individual agents and groups. We look at economic dynamics in artistic and cultural work in the present, and at different historical moments, to explore further the nature of these relationships and their meanings. Students are exposed to economic and business discourse, provided with a broad and intensive understanding of economic and business language and logic, given experience in the application of these concepts to the issues in their field of interest, and provide a foundation for thinking through the economic and ethical dimensions of their work. Formerly HU 272

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 922 - Politics and the Media

This course analyzes how political and social forces interact with the American community and how that interaction affects government structure and policy. Factors such as population profiles, “suburbanites,” elite groups, public opinion, party organization, elections, and reform movements are studied. Formerly HU 359

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 925 - Mass Media and the Arts

The purpose of this course is to develop an understanding of mass media and popular culture, primarily in the United States since the 1890s. Various forms of mass media are defined and the shared techniques by which these forms seek to communicate are analyzed. Finally, the values, both aesthetic and social, embodied in both these media and popular culture are examined in relation to social and economic change. Formerly HU 390

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 150 - Information Concepts

Emphasis is on the importance of organizing and communicating information in a digital world. Students acquire a basic understanding of how computers operate and communicate with each other, as well as an understanding of the evolution of the personal computer and the industries that have spun out of this technology. Student assignments include readings, database projects, and written analyses. Formerly MM 130

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 250 - Survey of Multimedia

Examines the chronological evolution of digital technology and its inevitable application by the aesthetic community. Beginning with the development of digital technology in the mid-1940s, the course discusses the convergence of the scientific, military, and political environments that spawned the employment of digital technology, including the path that led to the digital dominance over analog. Includes the enhancement, exploitation, and embracing of digital technology by the corporate and aesthetic communities, the invention of the personal computer and its ancillary products, and the application of digital technologies in fields as diverse as medicine, communications, manufacturing, cognitive psychology, and in particular, the arts. Pioneers in all fields are identified and examined. Formerly MM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 353 - Psychology of Human/Computer Interaction

Students explore the ways humans perceive interacting with computers. How do humans treat computers? Why? Should we interact with them the same way we do with other humans? The reasons behind why some computer interfaces work and some do not is discussed in depth. Should computers be able to perceive our emotions? Or should computers themselves have emotions? The final for this course allows students to take part in designing an original interface solution. Formerly MM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 354 - Game Play

A lecture-based focus on the human behavior in the how and why of play and creativity. Course material examines the relationship between creativity and play, the effects of reward and punishment, cultural notions of play, and the integration of play with design play. Students examine the differences between informed and uninformed play as well as the phenomenon of flow. Formerly MM 342

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 242 - Film Story Analysis

The course examines various narrative film genres, identifying the unique and distinctive qualities of screenwriting conventions utilized. Screenings and analysis highlight the devices employed by screenwriters to tell a good story. Weekly screenings followed by critical papers of each screening. Formerly WM 343

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 252 - Narrative Cinema II

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 252

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 253 - History of Television

Provides an overview of the medium of television. The impact of television since its inception has become increasingly pervasive and has influenced an entire society through its ability to educate and entertain. Video examples of the medium are supplemented by class discussion and reading assignments. Formerly WM 253

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 261 - Cinema Arts

Introduction to the various cinematic production values, which directly influence the character of the dramatic product. Topics of study include cinematography, art and production design, editing and sound as they relate to the writer's intention, and the quality of the final product. Formerly WM 241

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Areas of Application

Majors in Communication must take two of the following areas of application (9 credits each; 18 credits total)

Documentary Video

Prepares students for careers in documentary production, educational media, news feature production, corporate media, and television commercial production.

CMMC 341 - Documentary Media Production I

The conceptual, aesthetic, and pragmatic dimensions of producing video documentaries. Students are exposed to examples of a variety of documentary approaches through screenings and readings, which illustrate the range of choices and creative possibilities of communicating information and emotion through this form. They are also introduced to advanced digital video technologies as they work through a series of structured exercises and later work in teams to develop documentary projects. Project work includes pre-production research, interviews, original shooting in small crews, editing, and presenting finished work. Formerly CM 391

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 342 - Documentary Media Production II

Develops a deeper understanding of the pragmatic, conceptual, and aesthetic dimensions of producing documentary video and audio. Contemporary issues and approaches in documentary media-making through screenings and readings. Students achieve increased mastery of advanced digital video technologies and work through a series of project stages for a medium-length documentary. Students are responsible for completing their own projects, presenting them to their colleagues, and collaborating on other students' projects. Formerly CM 392

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 341 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 351 - History of Documentary

Introduces the historical and aesthetic sweep of approaches to documentary film and video. Through extensive screenings and readings, this survey opens the range of choices and creative possibilities for documentary while understanding aesthetic conventions, technological limitations, and social history. In addition to attending screenings and discussion, students write two short papers and one longer term paper. Formerly CM 293

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4.5 hrs

Digital Journalism

Prepares students for online publishing and work as an independent publisher or writer.

CMMC 331 - Digital Journalism I

The primary skills and practices involved in constructing news for the online environment. Begins with an exploration of the evolution of journalism from print to online and digital forms. By looking critically at a range of journalistic examples and reading about the changing work of reporting, students grapple with the differences between traditional and new media forms of journalism and begin to learn the practice of reporting online. They work through a set of exercises researching story ideas, pitching them to the class, conducting interviews, and writing, designing, and posting short pieces for the Web, introducing them to the possibilities and constraints of working in this medium. Formerly CM 381

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and E-Publishing minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 332 - Digital Journalism II

A more intensive course in digital journalism, building on CMMC 331: Digital Journalism I, in which students explore the present state and future possibilities for journalism in the online environment. Students work in teams and on their own to complete a more complex set of online journalism projects, researching story ideas, pitching them to the class, conducting interviews, and writing and designing story sites for the web. Formerly CM 382

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 331 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 334 - News and Culture in the Digital Age

Surveys the impact of social issues on journalism and the social impact of journalism on society in the digital age. Through readings about journalism and society and case studies, both past and current, of how the news industry operates, students learn about how race, gender, ethics, technology and the changing nature of the news business affect the work of journalists. These issues take on increased importance with the shift to digital technologies for production and distribution. Formerly CM 383

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Game Design

Prepares students for online advertising, interactive Web drama and interactive art, electronic publishing, and the game industry.

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 245 - Writing for Games

A writing laboratory that allows students to develop competency in writing rule-based procedural description as well evocative storylines for games and user/play scenarios. Special emphasis is placed on the difference in writing required between game types (chance, puzzles, and strategies) as well as game genres such as role-playing, twitch, and games of perfect information. Formerly MM 240

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 335 - Programming for Games

An introduction to programming for interactive game environments. Students learn techniques and theory through exercises and applications that they construct. The programming language studied can change each semester and may include: FlashAction Scripting, Advanced Lingo for Games, C++, or Java. Formerly MM 341

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Narrative Video

Prepares students to be editors, producers, and directors for television, film, and commercials, sound recordists, and production managers.

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 312 - Advanced Narrative Video Production

Students complete a twenty-minute narrative film, emphasizing their role as director and storyteller. A script must be submitted and approved before entering the course.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311; WRIT 220 or THEA 152

A script must be submitted and approved before entering the course.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Film Studies/Film Production Elective Credits / Units: 3

Screenwriting

Prepares students to be screenwriters, producers, story analysts, and film/TV executives, corporate videographers or producers in advertising and the media.

WRIT 212 - Screenwriting II

An intensive screenwriting workshop where, in the first semester, students study scene structure and dialogue, and write a series of outlines for an hour-long screenplay. In the second semester, students write an hour-long screenplay and revise the script. Formerly WM 215

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220 Priority enrollment to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 241 - Screenplay Analysis

A course devoted to the critical analysis of screenplays. Students are required to read numerous scripts and write critical papers on various dramatic structural principles highlighted. Formerly WM 243

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 327 - Episodic Television Writing I

An intensive writing class that analyzes the specific genre of episodic television writing. Students view examples of various genres in the form, and work in teams to create original written work. Three major projects are completed over the course of the semester, including creating an original series pilot. Formerly WM 317

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: WRIT 212 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Strategic Advertising

Prepares students to be copywriters, strategic planners, and media buyers and producers.

CMMC 221 - Advertising: Creative Concepts I

Whether an advertisement appears in print, on television or radio, or on the Internet, it is built around an idea. Students learn to recognize and create strong advertising ideas that are relevant to the product and the audience, with an emphasis on print advertising. Students learn how to allow their creativity to be guided by strategy. Students are exposed to outstanding creative work and readings in their texts and from studying professional work. They then apply these principles as they create advertising of their own. Formerly CM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 321 - Advertising Strategy Development

The business side of creative advertising. Examines the functions of the various departments within an advertising agency, focusing on strategic development, and introduces the three key steps in that development-market segmentation, brand positioning, and research. Students learn a variety of qualitative and quantitative research methods and analytical methods and apply what they have learned by developing and presenting an advertising strategy for an actual product. Formerly CM 371

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 322 - Advertising: Creative Concepts II

Having learned how to create strong individual concepts, students create broader and deeper concepts that can form the basis for a number of ads and learn how to execute an idea in more than one medium. The course begins by examining award-winning print campaigns in order to recognize suitable ideas for multi-ad campaigns; to identify elements and themes and their grounding in research; and to understand the consumer. The course then examines how interactive media are being used to build customer relationships and brand identities, and explores the strategic functions of these new media. Students develop storyboards for a product or service that reinforces that product's existing brand personality. Formerly CM 372

Prerequisite: CMMC 221 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Web Design

Prepares students to work in advertising agencies and in corporate and institutional settings.

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 315 - Advanced Interface Seminar

A seminar course that builds on Introduction to Interface Design. Focuses on the issues involved in creating user interfaces in today's development platforms (hardware, software, input devices, cell phones, etc.). Lectures, discussions, readings, research, and writing constitute the body of this course. In addition to current interface trends, the process of developing the interfaces of tomorrow is addressed. Formerly MM 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Documentary Video Minor

The minor in Documentary Video provides instruction in the making of creative non-fiction stories, essays, and informational programs, primarily in video form. It is designed for students who wish to augment their studies in a related field. Through this minor, students learn to document the lives and narratives of people and places, portray historical, political and contemporary events, present information in accessible and stimulating forms, and make persuasive arguments, as well as learn the skills related to documentary production. Communication majors may not declare a Documentary Video minor.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
(To be determined with minor advisor)

CMMC 341 - Documentary Media Production I

The conceptual, aesthetic, and pragmatic dimensions of producing video documentaries. Students are exposed to examples of a variety of documentary approaches through screenings and readings, which illustrate the range of choices and creative possibilities of communicating information and emotion through this form. They are also introduced to advanced digital video technologies as they work through a series of structured exercises and later work in teams to develop documentary projects. Project work includes pre-production research, interviews, original shooting in small crews, editing, and presenting finished work. Formerly CM 391

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 342 - Documentary Media Production II

Develops a deeper understanding of the pragmatic, conceptual, and aesthetic dimensions of producing documentary video and audio. Contemporary issues and approaches in documentary media-making through screenings and readings. Students achieve increased mastery of advanced digital video technologies and work through a series of project stages for a medium-length documentary. Students are responsible for completing their own projects, presenting them to their colleagues, and collaborating on other students' projects. Formerly CM 392

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 341 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 351 - History of Documentary

Introduces the historical and aesthetic sweep of approaches to documentary film and video. Through extensive screenings and readings, this survey opens the range of choices and creative possibilities for documentary while understanding aesthetic conventions, technological limitations, and social history. In addition to attending screenings and discussion, students write two short papers and one longer term paper. Formerly CM 293

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4.5 hrs

One of the following:

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

E-Music Minor - CMAC

The minor in E-Music offers students majoring in both Multimedia and Music an opportunity to create electronic and experimental music, to develop skills that allow them to produce, package, and distribute music by taking advantage of digital technology, and to design electronic instrumental interfaces. The minor prepares students for a variety of highly entrepreneurial careers ranging from entertainment and product development to creative and production work in the recording and musical fields. This minor is only available to students majoring in Multimedia or Music. Specific requirements for Music majors can be found in the School of Music section of this catalog.

Requirements for the Minor

Courses required for Multimedia students:

MMDI 330 - E-Music Thesis Project

A culminating course for students in the E-Music minor in which they develop an application. Students develop a proposal for an application and carry the idea through research implementation, execution, and presentation. With the consent of the instructor, projects may be the work of one student or that of a group of students, be in a variety of shapes, and in a variety of media. Students must have completed E-Music minor requirements. Formerly MM 370

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of other Minor courses.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 405 - Innovative Interfaces

The notion of the digital environment transcends the concept of the computer as we know it. These addresses and environments, although supported by digital technology, are non-computer-like in many respects. Building them calls for changes in the choice of interaction devices (using touch, voice, gestures, and possibly just user's intent as a basis for interaction), shape and size of computers (no boxes, but interactive surfaces), their location (floor, wall, pocket), as well as change in content structure. Using cross-disciplinary data from cognitive and computer sciences and social psychology, the students in this research/studio course focus primarily on the design and development of innovative ways of interacting with digital technology. Formerly MM 440

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MUNM 123 - Piano Class for Non-Majors

One-hour class of piano instruction in traditional beginning piano. Coursework includes basic technique including scales, chords, and chord melodies. Formerly MU 130A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Music majors specializing in piano. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 124 - Piano Class for Non-Majors

One-hour class of piano instruction in traditional beginning piano. Coursework includes basic technique including scales, chords, and chord melodies. Formerly MU 130B

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Music majors specializing in piano. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 131 - Composition for Non-Majors

Students develop basic skills in various aspects of composition, including form, melody, harmony, rhythm, color, texture, notation, improvisation, and orchestration. Formerly MU 111A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Composition majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 132 - Composition for Non-Majors

Students develop basic skills in various aspects of composition, including form, melody, harmony, rhythm, color, texture, notation, improvisation, and orchestration. Formerly MU 111B

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Composition majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 461 - Recording I

A study of the recording process and the many facets of the recording studio. Designed to familiarize the student with conventional and creative recording techniques through practical experience in the studio. Formerly MU 413A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

Select one of the following Music History courses:

MUSC 353 - History of Rock Music

This course investigates the History of Rock from its inception in the 1950s to the present. It begins with the important antecedents of Rock and Roll and then historically traces the various styles that evolved from that time to the present. There are live demonstrations and illustrations by guests in class. Formerly MU 306

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 452 - American Music History

The development of both classical and popular American musical styles from the seventeenth to the twentieth century. Recordings and films as well as in-class performances help bring to life the music from our American past. Students gain a clear understanding of the social, historical, and musical time line that evolved into our current musical environment. Formerly MU 401B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 453 - World Music

Covers the classical and folk music of various countries in Asia, Indonesia, the Middle East, Africa, and the Western Hemisphere. Formerly MU 402

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 455 - Twentieth Century Music

A study of the theoretical bases of such twentieth century composers as Schonberg, Berg, Webern, Stravinsky, Hindemith, Bartok, Varese, and Messiaen. Formerly MU 411

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 459 - Mixed Media Musical Masters

Formerly MU 428

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

E-Publishing Minor

The minor in E-Publishing provides students with skills connected to both the craft and business of writing and publishing online. This minor provides students with an opportunity to strengthen their journalistic and expository writing styles especially as used in electronic media, while also learning the basics of the business of establishing a Website, Webzine, Web radio, or Weblog. The skills learned are useful for students who are interested in online publishing as an independent publisher or freelance writer, as well as those who wish to work with online publishing enterprises. Majors in Communication may not declare an E-Publishing minor.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
(To be determined by minor advisor)

CMMC 331 - Digital Journalism I

The primary skills and practices involved in constructing news for the online environment. Begins with an exploration of the evolution of journalism from print to online and digital forms. By looking critically at a range of journalistic examples and reading about the changing work of reporting, students grapple with the differences between traditional and new media forms of journalism and begin to learn the practice of reporting online. They work through a set of exercises researching story ideas, pitching them to the class, conducting interviews, and writing, designing, and posting short pieces for the Web, introducing them to the possibilities and constraints of working in this medium. Formerly CM 381

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and E-Publishing minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 415 - E-Publishing Thesis Project

This studio class allows students to complete a project and publish it online. Students examine the sub-field of e-publishing that their project fits within, researching relevant models and examples, write a business plan for their project, consider intellectual property questions raised by their project, complete and present their thesis project, and write a reflective paper about their project. Formerly CM 340

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of minor. Open to students in the E-Publishing minor only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 831 - Money Matters

Explores issues in economics and business by working out from the roles and interests of individual agents and groups. We look at economic dynamics in artistic and cultural work in the present, and at different historical moments, to explore further the nature of these relationships and their meanings. Students are exposed to economic and business discourse, provided with a broad and intensive understanding of economic and business language and logic, given experience in the application of these concepts to the issues in their field of interest, and provide a foundation for thinking through the economic and ethical dimensions of their work. Formerly HU 272

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

Game Design Minor

The minor in Game Design explores the principles that inform games – how they work, how to make them, why they are important, and how they help us understand our world and social interactions. Students learn to construct logical narratives and rules that make possible the creation of an active space in which gaming can take place. Using skills based upon interface and experience design, students program, write, and design interactive games. Upon completing the minor, students will have completed a fully functional prototype of an original game. Because of the structure of their major, Communication majors may not declare a minor within CMAC.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
To be determined with minor advisor; must be fulfilled with MM 121 for Writing for Film and Television majors.

MMDI 245 - Writing for Games

A writing laboratory that allows students to develop competency in writing rule-based procedural description as well evocative storylines for games and user/play scenarios. Special emphasis is placed on the difference in writing required between game types (chance, puzzles, and strategies) as well as game genres such as role-playing, twitch, and games of perfect information. Formerly MM 240

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 305 - Game Design Thesis

Students complete a fully marketable game prototype. Students and instructors examine how the gaming industry functions as well as research and develop an individual work. Special attention is paid to preparing to enter the field. Students must have completed Game Design minor requirements. Formerly MM 344

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Minor.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 354 - Game Play

A lecture-based focus on the human behavior in the how and why of play and creativity. Course material examines the relationship between creativity and play, the effects of reward and punishment, cultural notions of play, and the integration of play with design play. Students examine the differences between informed and uninformed play as well as the phenomenon of flow. Formerly MM 342

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors.

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

MMDI 335 - Programming for Games

An introduction to programming for interactive game environments. Students learn techniques and theory through exercises and applications that they construct. The programming language studied can change each semester and may include: FlashAction Scripting, Advanced Lingo for Games, C++, or Java. Formerly MM 341

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Information Architecture Minor

The minor in Information Architecture shows students how designed information creates meaning. Students develop an understanding of user workflow, information design, and interactivity. They learn to create easy-to-use interfaces and information spaces. The program has been created for students interested in developing Web-based solutions, as well as other vehicles whose purpose is to deliver information clearly and efficiently. Students also have the opportunity to develop content management systems for the Web, a highly marketable and in demand skill. Majors in Multimedia or Communication may not declare a minor in Information Architecture.

Requirements for the Minor

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

MMDI 150 - Information Concepts

Emphasis is on the importance of organizing and communicating information in a digital world. Students acquire a basic understanding of how computers operate and communicate with each other, as well as an understanding of the evolution of the personal computer and the industries that have spun out of this technology. Student assignments include readings, database projects, and written analyses. Formerly MM 130

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Select one of the following two:

MMDI 231 - Dynamic Web Development

Creating dynamic Web solutions is an essential aspect of Web development today. In this course, students build upon existing concepts learned in Intro to Interactive Programming. The focus is on client and server side programming and relational database design for the Web. Examples of dynamic Web applications include context management systems, custom audio and video players, and e-commerce solutions.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 131

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs
or

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 163 - Aural Concepts

For non-music majors. An introduction to the use of music and sound components of multimedia and their potential for enhancing communication. Recognizing the special background and needs of the non-music major student, the course examines the production of musical sound, basic notation and theory practices, and an in-depth overview of disparate musical styles illustrating the variety and depth of musical thought from around the world and its potential relationship to the visual image. Formerly MU 149A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the School of Music. Priority enrollment to Multimedia majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Multimedia Seminar (see list below)
- Elective Credits: 1.5 cr

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 102 - Motion Graphics Studio

Motion graphics can be found in a wide range of media: broadcast, Web, animation, and film to name a few. This course allows students to explore the elements of time and space to convey messages and meaning through type, image, and sound for the screen. Individual creativity is stressed as well as the understanding and use of an industry-standard software for developing motion graphics. Both collaborative and individual exercises and assignments are given. Formerly MM 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 101

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 460 - Introduction to MIDI and Electronic Technology

A detailed "hands-on" examination of the use of computers in the present-day composition environment. The course includes the uses of a computer, the language of MIDI, sequencing, audio sampling, analog, digital, and other forms of synthesis, and a survey of currently available music software. Strategies and technology of scoring and synchronizing to the visual image is emphasized through a final project. No prior computer or synthesis experience is needed. Formerly MU 415A

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

MMDI 220 - Documentation and Presentation

In this course, students learn how to document their work for professional presentation. It focuses on issues relating to digital documentation and includes skills such as saving projects, cross platform presentation, making digital skills, editing trailers of videos and using a copy stand. Students document previously completed multimedia work and then present that work. Guest speakers augment classroom lectures and activities. Formerly MM 250

- Liberal Arts Credits: 15 cr

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMAC Core/Discipline History

(must take all three)

CMMC 141 - Storytelling: Theory and Practice

This course introduces students to storytelling as a way of structuring communication. Course material ranges from annual reports to ad campaigns to greeting cards to rap music to political campaigns, offering students an introduction to the many ways narrative can be exploited for a powerful effect. Students learn to apply theory and to explore the relationship of different types of media to different narrative forms.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 353 - Media Industries

This course investigates the range of organizations and economic forces involved in media production. Includes diverse production models, from mainstream and corporate, to public sector, to alternative, and comparisons with media industries in other cultural settings. The course focuses on business and policy issues and considers examples of media practice from broadcast and cable news, advertising, Hollywood and independent cinema, public media, and new media industries. The course includes a final research project. Formerly CM 260

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Multimedia Core

(must take all three)

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 301 - Interactive Sound and Video

The course deals with the experience of producing complete multimedia installation works in a project-based environment – focussing on Interactive sound and video. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Authoring environments used include but are not limited to MAX MSP, Isadora, and Macromedia Director. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 310

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Studio Choice

(must take a minimum of two courses; 6 credits)

CMMC 102 - Video Production Workshop

Acquaints students with the fundamentals of visual storytelling by providing hands-on experience translating the written word into images and sounds. Areas of study include framing images, lighting, using off-screen space and sound, editing, and postproduction. Students integrate their own writing to produce some of these projects. Formerly CM 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Writing for Film and Television, Applied Theater majors; Web Drama minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

MAAN 232 - 2-D Computer Animation

Using both raster- and vector-based programs, students explore how to build 2D animation sequences in the computer and how to translate hand-drawn animation into digitally composited animated pieces. Traditional animation principles are expanded upon and reinforced using 2D computer graphics and editing programs. Digital imagery and sound are integrated in class assignments designed to explore a wide variety of 2D styles. Formerly PF 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 331 - 3-D Computer Animation

Using industry-standard 3D computer software, students learn basic modeling, texturing, lighting, movement, and rendering techniques. This course prepares students for further 3D computer coursework and allow them to utilize 3D software in the development and creation of their Junior and Senior thesis work. Formerly PF 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 201 - Visual Concepts Studio

Visual problem solving in a digital environment. A project-based visual art/design studio that builds on skills developed in Visual Concepts II. This course allows students the time to concentrate on and refine the visual communications aspects of their craft through three fully realized pieces. Projects are assigned by the instructor, and conceived of and developed by the students. Projects may include: titling design and animation, visual interface design, graphic design, CD packaging design, poster and postcard design, digital painting and drawing, etc. Formerly MM 210

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 102

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 405 - Innovative Interfaces

The notion of the digital environment transcends the concept of the computer as we know it. These addresses and environments, although supported by digital technology, are non-computer-like in many respects. Building them calls for changes in the choice of interaction devices (using touch, voice, gestures, and possibly just user's intent as a basis for interaction), shape and size of computers (no boxes, but interactive surfaces), their location (floor, wall, pocket), as well as change in content structure. Using cross-disciplinary data from cognitive and computer sciences and social psychology, the students in this research/studio course focus primarily on the design and development of innovative ways of interacting with digital technology. Formerly MM 440

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 111 - Dramatic Structure I

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act dramatic structure found in narrative screenplays. Topics of the course include sequences, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students are required to complete focused and specific creative written work on a weekly basis. Workshops are held on a weekly basis. Formerly WM 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television and Discovery Year majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Multimedia Seminars

(must take all five)

CMMC 204 - Writing for Media

A studio writing class developing skills in effective, clear, and persuasive writing in the areas of media and communication. Students work from a variety of source materials and write research papers, project proposals, project treatments, and a newspaper feature. Emphasis is on writing structure and style, editing and revising, suitability to specific audiences, and delivering material on time and at prescribed lengths. Formerly CM 211

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the College of Media and Communication.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 150 - Information Concepts

Emphasis is on the importance of organizing and communicating information in a digital world. Students acquire a basic understanding of how computers operate and communicate with each other, as well as an understanding of the evolution of the personal computer and the industries that have spun out of this technology. Student assignments include readings, database projects, and written analyses. Formerly MM 130

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 250 - Survey of Multimedia

Examines the chronological evolution of digital technology and its inevitable application by the aesthetic community. Beginning with the development of digital technology in the mid-1940s, the course discusses the convergence of the scientific, military, and political environments that spawned the employment of digital technology, including the path that led to the digital dominance over analog. Includes the enhancement, exploitation, and embracing of digital technology by the corporate and aesthetic communities, the invention of the personal computer and its ancillary products, and the application of digital technologies in fields as diverse as medicine, communications, manufacturing, cognitive psychology, and in particular, the arts. Pioneers in all fields are identified and examined. Formerly MM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 315 - Advanced Interface Seminar

A seminar course that builds on Introduction to Interface Design. Focuses on the issues involved in creating user interfaces in today's development platforms (hardware, software, input devices, cell phones, etc.). Lectures, discussions, readings, research, and writing constitute the body of this course. In addition to current interface trends, the process of developing the interfaces of tomorrow is addressed. Formerly MM 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 425 - Special Projects in Multimedia

This seminar is designed to give students direct contact with their soon-to-be peers in the various multimedia industries. The multimedia industries that may be covered include but are not limited to: fine art, interface design, installation art, game design, and electronic music. Timely and relevant issues concerning the craft, thought, and professional expectations of a multimedia artist/designer are the content of this course. Topics related to the multimedia industries in general and the instructor's specific industry experience are discussed. Readings, discussion, and a practical presentation or project make up the body of this course. Formerly MM 472

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits). May be taken three times for credit .

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Popular electives for Multimedia students include:

From the College of Media and Communication:

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 350 - Gender Images in Media

Explores representation of gender and sexuality in the media over the past century and how images of male and female both follow and create social change. Formerly CM 350

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 499 - Multimedia Internship

Students are placed with regional companies to expose them to a professional work environment in the fields of multimedia, Web design and information management. Formerly MM 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits). May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 253 - History of Television

Provides an overview of the medium of television. The impact of television since its inception has become increasingly pervasive and has influenced an entire society through its ability to educate and entertain. Video examples of the medium are supplemented by class discussion and reading assignments. Formerly WM 253

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

From the College of Performing Arts:

DAPF 830 - Modern Ensemble

Formerly DA 773

Prerequisites & Notes

Repeatable for credit. Open by audition.

Credits: 1-3 cr

MUNM 111 - Guitar Class for Non-Majors I

One-hour class of guitar instruction in contemporary guitar. Course covers basic technique including fingering, scales, chords, and chord melodies. Not open to music majors specializing in guitar. Formerly MU 123A

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 131 - Composition for Non-Majors

Students develop basic skills in various aspects of composition, including form, melody, harmony, rhythm, color, texture, notation, improvisation, and orchestration. Formerly MU 111A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Composition majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 461 - Recording I

A study of the recording process and the many facets of the recording studio. Designed to familiarize the student with conventional and creative recording techniques through practical experience in the studio. Formerly MU 413A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

THPD 123 - Scene and Lighting Technology

Introductory course in various phases of physical production dealing with the stage, house, backstage personnel and their duties, construction and painting of scenery, stage lighting, costumes, props, and makeup. Formerly TH 123

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: THPD 125 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

From the College of Art and Design:

FAPR 212 - Screenprinting

Introduction and investigation of stencil methods in screenprinting with water-based inks. Idea development and acquisition of visual skills in expression in color, line, and form through drawn, photographic, or computer-generated stencil processes. Formerly PR 202

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 212 - Typography Fundamentals

The course addresses the basic formal language of typography and the application of typographic principles to frame basic communication messages. Typographic investigations are achieved by both manual and digital means. Formerly GD 212

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 371 - Architectonics

An elective course intended as a multidisciplinary forum for the investigation, appreciation, and design of architectural space, structures, and systems. Using in-class exercises as a laboratory for creative and collaborative exchange, students learn alternative design processes, design vocabulary, user-centered experience and design. This course develops concepts and analytical studies of objects/spaces through various 2D and 3D drawing/modeling techniques and culminates in an actual built/alterd environment. Graduate students may register for this course under GRID 624. Formerly ID 312

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MACR 304 - Image and Performance

For artists and performers of all disciplines. An intensive cross-disciplinary workshop in which the students create their own short performance works using fusions of video, animation, dance, motion, and sound to explore the interactions between visual media and the performing arts. Formerly PF 331

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

From the Liberal Arts Department:

LAPR 951 - Art, Media and Society

A seminar exploring the identity crisis of the modern artist in the period since the industrial revolution and the rise of the middle class. Conflicts or collaborations between the fine arts and commercialism, including mass media and new technology, from Romanticism and the arts and crafts movement to Pop Art and the Web. Issues of authorship, production, quality, and permanence. Who determines taste, and why? Does high art have a future? Formerly HU 498

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 972 - Women and Sex Roles

An introduction to the history of women and to theories of gender. An interdisciplinary course combining history, literature, and the visual arts. Slide lectures on images of women in art, myth, and religions, from ancient times to modern. Economic and historical factors affecting how women have lived. Definitions of masculinity and femininity. The nature-nurture debate over hormonal differences. Formerly HU 497

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 876 - Psychology of Creativity

The course examines the problems involved in defining and attempting to measure creativity. The course is developmentally oriented, focusing on relationships between creativity and normal growth and development, and intelligence and personality. Problems that the artist encounters with productivity are explored, as well as the values of society toward creativity and the artist. Formerly HU 480

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 931 - The City

A study of the city in history, the forces that shaped its development, and the impact the city has had on history. The American city from the 17th century to the present is used as the model for this study. Formerly HU 366

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Popular minors for Multimedia students include:

- E-music
- Game Design
- Narrative Video

- Photography
- Strategic Advertising
- Typography
- Web Design and Development

Multimedia Minor

The minor emphasizes the development of basic competencies in multimedia by offering students the ability to create media-rich, multisensorial, interactive experiences to complement their major course of study. The minor provides skills, concepts, and tools for students interested in multimedia as a creative and expressive art form. Majors in Multimedia and Communication may not declare a minor in Multimedia.

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 102 - Motion Graphics Studio

Motion graphics can be found in a wide range of media: broadcast, Web, animation, and film to name a few. This course allows students to explore the elements of time and space to convey messages and meaning through type, image, and sound for the screen. Individual creativity is stressed as well as the understanding and use of an industry-standard software for developing motion graphics. Both collaborative and individual exercises and assignments are given. Formerly MM 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 101

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

MMDI 250 - Survey of Multimedia

Examines the chronological evolution of digital technology and its inevitable application by the aesthetic community. Beginning with the development of digital technology in the mid-1940s, the course discusses the convergence of the scientific, military, and political environments that spawned the employment of digital technology, including the path that led to the digital dominance over analog. Includes the enhancement, exploitation, and embracing of digital technology by the corporate and aesthetic communities, the invention of the personal computer and its ancillary products, and the application of digital technologies in fields as diverse as medicine, communications, manufacturing, cognitive psychology, and in particular, the arts. Pioneers in all fields are identified and examined. Formerly MM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 301 - Interactive Sound and Video

The course deals with the experience of producing complete multimedia installation works in a project-based environment – focussing on Interactive sound and video. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Authoring environments used include but are not limited to MAX MSP, Isadora, and Macromedia Director. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 310

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Narrative Video Minor - CMAC

The minor in Narrative Video explores digital video as a medium for storytelling. It introduces students to various aspects of video production, including scriptwriting, storyboarding, editing, sound design, directing, and producing. Students develop their skills as they advance from scene exercises through a short film to a final year-long project. Majors in Film/Digital Video may not declare a minor in Narrative Video.

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 401 - Senior Cinema Production I

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311 or MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 402 - Senior Cinema Production II

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 401 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Writing for Film and Television majors. A production, film studies, or Liberal Arts film-related elective is taken instead and is to be determined with minor adviser.

One of the following:

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Electives

Recommended electives for Communication and Writing for Film and Television majors include:

CMMC 341 - Documentary Media Production I

The conceptual, aesthetic, and pragmatic dimensions of producing video documentaries. Students are exposed to examples of a variety of documentary approaches through screenings and readings, which illustrate the range of choices and creative possibilities of communicating information and emotion through this form. They are also introduced to advanced digital video technologies as they work through a series of structured exercises and later work in teams to develop documentary projects. Project work includes pre-production research, interviews, original shooting in small crews, editing, and presenting finished work. Formerly CM 391

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MACR 443 - Time: A Multidisciplinary Seminar

The concept of Time considered from a multidisciplinary perspective, drawing on readings in philosophy, literature, psychology, sociology, and film theory. Relevant works in film and video are screened. Students are responsible for a final term paper that interrelates two or more of the readings with one of the screened works. Formerly PF 424

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 or MAAN 302

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 460 - Professional Practices in Film/Digital Video

A series of mini seminars in various aspects of professional film and video production. Topics to be addressed include: studio operations, advanced sound recording, sound mixing, and gaffer and grip responsibilities. Independent producers are brought in to conduct workshops on topics of interest. This course supplements, but does not replace, Media Arts required courses. Formerly PF 423

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video majors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 212 - Screenwriting II

An intensive screenwriting workshop where, in the first semester, students study scene structure and dialogue, and write a series of outlines for an hour-long screenplay. In the second semester, students write an hour-long screenplay and revise the script. Formerly WM 215

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220 Priority enrollment to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 225 - Interactive Writing I

The first semester of a year-long studio course that builds upon the basic principles of dramatic writing by identifying and utilizing the Web environment as a unique medium for narrative storytelling. Through analysis and written exercises, students learn how multiple story and character arcs are designed and supported by specific interactive storytelling models. Formerly WM 225

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211, WRIT 220 or MMDI 202.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 241 - Screenplay Analysis

A course devoted to the critical analysis of screenplays. Students are required to read numerous scripts and write critical papers on various dramatic structural principles highlighted. Formerly WM 243

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 261 - Cinema Arts

Introduction to the various cinematic production values, which directly influence the character of the dramatic product. Topics of study include cinematography, art and production design, editing and sound as they relate to the writer's intention, and the quality of the final product. Formerly WM 241

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Screenwriting Minor

The minor in Screenwriting provides instruction and applied experience in the craft of scriptwriting for motion pictures and episodic television. Topics include story structure, character, plot, beats, dramatic conflict, dialogue, and industry script formats. Students advance from scene exercises through short scripts to major, professional-length portfolio pieces. Majors in Writing for Film & Television and Communication may not declare a screenwriting minor.

Requirements for the Minor

WRIT 212 - Screenwriting II

An intensive screenwriting workshop where, in the first semester, students study scene structure and dialogue, and write a series of outlines for an hour-long screenplay. In the second semester, students write an hour-long screenplay and revise the script. Formerly WM 215

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220 Priority enrollment to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 241 - Screenplay Analysis

A course devoted to the critical analysis of screenplays. Students are required to read numerous scripts and write critical papers on various dramatic structural principles highlighted. Formerly WM 243

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following sequences:

WRIT 311 - Advanced Screenwriting I

Studio writing course preparing the student for the entire process of crafting a full-length script for film. In the first semester, students develop a concept, pitch the project, prepare an outline/ treatment for a full-length work, and draft the first act. The second semester is devoted to the completion of the full-length work and the revision process. Formerly WM 321

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 212

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs
and

WRIT 312 - Advanced Screenwriting II

Studio writing course preparing the student for the entire process of crafting a full-length script for film. In the first semester, students develop a concept, pitch the project, prepare an outline/ treatment for a full-length work, and draft the first act. The second semester is devoted to the completion of the full-length work and the revision process. Formerly WM 322

Strategic Advertising Minor

The minor in Advertising Strategy provides instruction in strategic thinking and creative execution required to design advertisements and ad campaigns in multiple formats (print, audio, video, and interactive). This minor offers tools and concepts to students interested in marketing and promoting any product, service, or artistic activity. It broadens the career options of students in any of the media and communication disciplines, and prepares them to work in both the profit and not-for-profit sectors of the media and communication industries. Communication majors may not declare a Strategic Advertising minor.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
To be determined with minor advisor

CMMC 221 - Advertising: Creative Concepts I

Whether an advertisement appears in print, on television or radio, or on the Internet, it is built around an idea. Students learn to recognize and create strong advertising ideas that are relevant to the product and the audience, with an emphasis on print advertising. Students learn how to allow their creativity to be guided by strategy. Students are exposed to outstanding creative work and readings in their texts and from studying professional work. They then apply these principles as they create advertising of their own. Formerly CM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 321 - Advertising Strategy Development

The business side of creative advertising. Examines the functions of the various departments within an advertising agency, focusing on strategic development, and introduces the three key steps in that development-market segmentation, brand positioning, and research. Students learn a variety of qualitative and quantitative research methods and analytical methods and apply what they have learned by developing and presenting an advertising strategy for an actual product. Formerly CM 371

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 322 - Advertising: Creative Concepts II

Having learned how to create strong individual concepts, students create broader and deeper concepts that can form the basis for a number of ads and learn how to execute an idea in more than one medium. The course begins by examining award-winning print campaigns in order to recognize suitable ideas for multi-ad campaigns; to identify elements and themes and their grounding in research; and to understand the consumer. The course then examines how interactive media are being used to build customer relationships and brand identities, and explores the strategic functions of these new media. Students develop storyboards for a product or service that reinforces that product's existing brand personality. Formerly CM 372

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 221 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

CMMC 204 - Writing for Media

A studio writing class developing skills in effective, clear, and persuasive writing in the areas of media and communication. Students work from a variety of source materials and write research papers, project proposals, project treatments, and a newspaper feature. Emphasis is on writing structure and style, editing and revising, suitability to specific audiences, and delivering material on time and at prescribed lengths. Formerly CM 211

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the College of Media and Communication.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

CMMC 324 - Introduction to Public Relations

The fundamentals of public relations, viewed as a marketing communications tool, with special attention to its role in the non-profit sphere. Reviews the functions of a wide range of marketing communications tools and explores how PR can be used in conjunction with them to achieve an organization's objectives, helping students to come to understand the role of public relations in the overall marketing communications plan. Students learn how to coordinate messages in order to allow the company to speak with one voice and reinforce one overall corporate identity, with special attention to social marketing and the public. A series of projects culminates in students developing a public relations proposal for a non-profit organization. Formerly CM 373

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Required for Multimedia majors

Web Design and Development Minor

The minor in Web Design and Development provides the skills, concepts, and tools for students interested in acquiring the knowledge required of today's Web 2.0 processes and technologies. The skills learned enhance the preparedness of students wishing to create dynamic Web applications. This minor is only available to students majoring in Multimedia or students enrolled in Web Design minors.

Minor Requirements

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

CMMC 301 - Communication Production Workshop

This production course offers students an opportunity to work on a project in a specific communication medium or genre otherwise unavailable. Students work collaboratively on projects in this medium and present their work to an audience of peers and/or professionals. Topics include: Web radio/streaming audio sites, producing television commercials, producing advanced audio projects, or developing online publications. Formerly CM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 231 - Dynamic Web Development

Creating dynamic Web solutions is an essential aspect of Web development today. In this course, students build upon existing concepts learned in Intro to Interactive Programming. The focus is on client and server side programming and relational database design for the Web. Examples of dynamic Web applications include context management systems, custom audio and video players, and e-commerce solutions.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 131

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

CMMC 102 - Video Production Workshop

Acquaints students with the fundamentals of visual storytelling by providing hands-on experience translating the written word into images and sounds. Areas of study include framing images, lighting, using off-screen space and sound, editing, and postproduction. Students integrate their own writing to produce some of these projects. Formerly CM 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Writing for Film and Television, Applied Theater majors; Web Drama minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

can be used for minor or studio choice; not for both

Web Design Minor

The minor in Web Design provides skills, concepts, and tools for students interested in Web design as a creative medium of expression, as a form of communication, or as a profession. The skills learned enhance the preparedness of students wishing to enter the design, communication, and media industries. Fine artists interested in the role that Internet-based technologies and interactivity play in their work will also find this minor to be broadening. Multimedia and Communication majors may not declare a Web Design minor.

CMMC 301 - Communication Production Workshop

This production course offers students an opportunity to work on a project in a specific communication medium or genre otherwise unavailable. Students work collaboratively on projects in this medium and present their work to an audience of peers and/or professionals. Topics include: Web radio/streaming audio sites, producing television commercials, producing advanced audio projects, or developing online publications. Formerly CM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 102 - Motion Graphics Studio

Motion graphics can be found in a wide range of media: broadcast, Web, animation, and film to name a few. This course allows students to explore the elements of time and space to convey messages and meaning through type, image, and sound for the screen. Individual creativity is stressed as well as the understanding and use of an industry-standard software for developing motion graphics. Both collaborative and individual exercises and assignments are given. Formerly MM 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 101

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Web Drama Minor

The minor in Web Drama allows students to learn and apply dramatic storytelling techniques to the Web. It focuses on the fundamentals of scriptwriting and interactivity, the acquisition of basic video and animation techniques, and the overall adaptation of these elements to the Internet. The minor allows students to combine the principles necessary to write for television, film, or video with those of interactivity required for Web production. Upon completion of this minor, students will have written and produced a dramatic story that is suitable for Web distribution. Because of the structure of their major, Communication majors may not declare a minor within CMAC.

Requirements for the Minor

WRIT 225 - Interactive Writing I

The first semester of a year-long studio course that builds upon the basic principles of dramatic writing by identifying and utilizing the Web environment as a unique medium for narrative storytelling. Through analysis and written exercises, students learn how multiple story and character arcs are designed and supported by specific interactive storytelling models. Formerly WM 225

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211, WRIT 220 or MMDI 202.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 226 - Interactive Writing II

The second semester of a year-long studio course that extends the interactive storytelling knowledge gained in Interactive Writing I to a project-based and dialogue-driven narrative. Working in writing teams, students create and write two short Web drama scripts based on models studied in Interactive Writing I. As a final project, each student completes a formal Web drama proposal, outline, and script for a potential production in the culminating course, Web Drama Studio. Formerly WM 226

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 225

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 360 - Web Drama Studio

A capstone course in which students are required to begin with an already-completed and approved Web drama proposal and script. Each student then works to produce his or her own Web drama script online, while collaboratively supporting other writer/producers on their projects. Formerly WM 330

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 226

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Writing for Film and Television majors. Required for Multimedia majors.

One of the following:

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Writing for Film and Television majors

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

Writing for Film and Television - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Freshman Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

CMMC 141 - Storytelling: Theory and Practice

This course introduces students to storytelling as a way of structuring communication. Course material ranges from annual reports to ad campaigns to greeting cards to rap music to political campaigns, offering students an introduction to the many ways narrative can be exploited for a powerful effect. Students learn to apply theory and to explore the relationship of different types of media to different narrative forms.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fulfills three credits of the discipline history requirement.

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fulfills three credits of the discipline history requirement.

WRIT 111 - Dramatic Structure I

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act dramatic structure found in narrative screenplays. Topics of the course include sequences, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students are required to complete focused and specific creative written work on a weekly basis. Workshops are held on a weekly basis. Formerly WM 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television and Discovery Year majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 112 - Dramatic Structure II

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act structure found in narrative screenplays. Focus on such topics as act design, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students will be required to complete major written work and participate in workshops of written material. Formerly WM 114

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 252 - Narrative Cinema II

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 252

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 253 - History of Television

Provides an overview of the medium of television. The impact of television since its inception has become increasingly pervasive and has influenced an entire society through its ability to educate and entertain. Video examples of the medium are supplemented by class discussion and reading assignments. Formerly WM 253

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

The College of Performing Arts (CPA) is comprised of the Schools of Dance, Music, and Theater Arts. Its curricula combine the performance emphasis of the traditional conservatory, stressing individualized training, practice, and discipline, with a liberal arts education.

Founded in 1870 as the Philadelphia Musical Academy and merged with the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music in 1962, the College has long been regarded as one of America's foremost professional schools of higher education. In 1976, the institution was renamed the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts, thereby signaling its intention to expand its program to include all three of the performing arts disciplines – Music, Dance, and Theater.

In 1977, The Philadelphia Dance Academy joined the College to become the School of Dance. Founded in 1947, The Philadelphia Dance Academy was one of the foremost conservatories of dance in the nation and one of the first three institutions in the country to grant a degree in dance. The School of Theater was initiated in 1983.

The College of Performing Arts thus became Pennsylvania's first and only independent college dedicated exclusively to the performing arts and one of the first of its kind in the United States. Its philosophy is founded on the principle that there is a common bond among artists, whatever their discipline, and that artists must interact with each other for their inspiration and growth. Indeed, many of the College's students have developed interdisciplinary careers that require familiarity with all the performing arts, as well as the visual and media arts.

Major Areas of Study

All students are assigned to a faculty advisor. Lists are posted in each of the Schools' offices during the first week of the academic year. Appointments are made at the mutual convenience of the student and the faculty advisor.

Students should feel free to see their advisor at any time concerning problems they may encounter.

CPA Minors

The College of Performing Arts offers minors that enable a student to focus on a specific discipline through organized electives.

Students wishing to include a minor are governed by the following guidelines:

1. Students must meet eligibility requirements, which may include a satisfactory grade-point average, prerequisites, and departmental portfolio review.
2. An intent to complete a minor is declared by filing the completed Minor Declaration Form with the Office of the Registrar. The forms are available in the Office of the Registrar.
3. A student may not major and minor in the same program, except where indicated.
4. Courses applied to the minor may only be applied toward elective requirements.
5. All minors require a minimum of 15 credits, with the exception of E-Music for Music majors. Generally, no substitutions to the minor requirements are allowed. In exceptional situations where substitutions are granted, they must have the approval of both the major and minor program advisors.
6. The requirements of the minor must be completed prior to graduation.
7. A student pursuing a minor may be required to complete more than the minimum number of credits required to complete the undergraduate degree in order to also complete the minor.
8. Minors are available only to undergraduate students.

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 965 - Literature and Film: From Text to Screen

Explores the conceptual and the technical leap between the written text and its transformation to a cinematic text on the screen. The students examine what happens to plot, characterization, bound and free description when a narrative text is converted to an audio-visual presentation. In certain examples, the transformation of narrative structure is from the novel to the screenplay to the finished film. Students gain insights into the relationships between written and filmed dialogue, between written description and cinematic mise-en-scene, between the novel's omniscient narrator and the film's voice-over. Formerly HU 413

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 353 - Musical Theater History I

E-Music Minor - CPA

The minor in E-Music offers students majoring in both Multimedia and Music an opportunity to create electronic and experimental music, to develop skills that allow them to produce, package, and distribute music by taking advantage of digital technology, and to design (electronic) instrumental interfaces. The minor prepares students for a variety of highly entrepreneurial careers ranging from entertainment and product development to creative and production work in the recording and musical fields. This minor is only available to students majoring in Multimedia or Music.

Requirements for the Minor

Courses required for Music students:

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

MMDI 330 - E-Music Thesis Project

A culminating course for students in the E-Music minor in which they develop an application. Students develop a proposal for an application and carry the idea through research implementation, execution, and presentation. With the consent of the instructor, projects may be the work of one student or that of a group of students, be in a variety of shapes, and in a variety of media. Students must have completed E-Music minor requirements. Formerly MM 370

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of other Minor courses.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUCP 322 - Analysis and Composition of Contemporary Music

An examination of compositional techniques used in pop songs, jingles, soundtracks, and underscores for radio, TV, records, films, shows, and industrials. Students investigate the ways in which music serves to enhance the overall goals of the product or project. Musical analysis serves to demonstrate how each style is created. Students produce their own musical compositions in each media context. Formerly MU 308A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUSC 204, MUSC 206 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUCP 323 - Analysis & Composition of Commercial Music

Continuation of MUCP 322. Formerly MU 308B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUCP 322 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

Select one of the following Multimedia Studios:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 301 - Interactive Sound and Video

The course deals with the experience of producing complete multimedia installation works in a project-based environment – focussing on Interactive sound and video. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Authoring environments used include but are not limited to MAX MSP, Isadora, and Macromedia Director. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 310

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 405 - Innovative Interfaces

The notion of the digital environment transcends the concept of the computer as we know it. These addresses and environments, although supported by digital technology, are non-computer-like in many respects. Building them calls for changes in the choice of interaction devices (using touch, voice, gestures, and possibly just user's intent as a basis for interaction), shape and size of computers (no boxes, but interactive surfaces), their location (floor, wall, pocket), as well as change in content structure. Using cross-disciplinary data from cognitive and computer sciences and social psychology, the students in this research/studio course focus primarily on the design and development of innovative ways of interacting with digital technology. Formerly MM 440

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 921 - Dynamic Anatomy

The structure of the body as it relates to form (size, shape, and proportion) and support (posture, position, and movement). In-depth exploration of the location, orientation, and actions of the major muscle groups, joints, and bones, and how they differ by gender through the life cycle. Formerly HU 281

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Jazz Studies - Master of Music

Program Total Credits: 36

MM in Jazz Studies Credits: 36

Fall Credits: 16

MUCP 631 - Graduate Arranging

Emphasis is on effective writing in various contemporary styles and building on basic arranging skills, with a focus on specific arranging techniques such as writing for the rhythm section, horn voicings, sax solo, and contemporary fusion styles. Arrangements are studied in score format and aurally, and then techniques are applied to student projects. Formerly MU 622

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUCP 641 - Advanced Transcription and Analysis

Accurate notation, transcription fluency, and recognition of theoretical concepts are developed through a regime of continual and rigorous assignments, all designed to further advance skills in ear training and theory. Projects begin with single line melodies in varying instrumental registers and progress through advanced rhythms and chord progressions to complete arrangements and compositions. Sources include bass lines, synthesizer sequences, pop recordings, jazz improvisations, and drum solos. Students learn techniques and performance practices of varying styles and periods, and then perform transcribed parts and solos. Formerly MU 617

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MULS 641 - Applied Major Instruction – Graduate

Private instruction in instrumental, vocal, and composition areas. Formerly MU 592A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUPF 660 - Graduate Ensemble

Formerly MU 775

Prerequisites & Notes

Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUSC 631 - Graduate Improvisation I

Improvisational styles, techniques, and devices are studied. Intervallic improvisation, and advanced pentatonic concepts are addressed, as well as study of the pioneers of jazz improvisation through recorded solos that mark turning points of improvisation. Topics include melody embellishment, improvising in phrases, silence, time-feel, pacing, syncopation, chord tone soloing, dynamics, non-harmonic triads, contracting and expanding chord duration, tri-tonic cells, sustaining peak points, and unaccompanied soloing. Formerly MU 625

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 661 - MIDI and Music Technology

Hands-on exploration of music technology applicable to performer, composer, and arranger with focus on fluency with MIDI sequencing including MAX to create interactive live performance situations. Students work with modular digital multi-tracks and edit and create original sounds for synthesizers and samplers. Hard disk recording using Pro-Tools III and Digital Performer, SMPTE and synchronization in the studio, and composition and sound design for film, video, and theater are also explored. Training in notation software is an integral and essential aspect of the course: after the first month, assignments for all graduate courses require use of professional notation software. Formerly MU 615

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 681 - Graduate Professional Internship

Provides hands-on experience in a variety of professional settings — rehearsals, performances, meetings with producers, and in-studio projects such as recording, arranging, or project coordination. The program is developed by the graduate advisor and major teacher in conjunction with the student to select topics and experiences most relevant and beneficial to that particular student's education. Formerly MU 620

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 684 - Graduate Forum

A graduate seminar in which various aspects of study, including musical development and accomplishment, are correlated with critical, aesthetic, and historical components. Additionally, artistic and professional issues are researched and discussed. Various approaches to the preparation of the graduate recital are explored and progress toward a successful performance is closely monitored. Topic selection, research, and writing of the graduate thesis are evaluated through weekly critiques. Formerly MU 627

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

Spring Credits: 16

MUCP 624 - Composing for Performers

A dual emphasis — on acoustic instruments and on technologies — exposes students to a variety of professional composing situations, including large jazz ensembles, fusion, acoustic/electronic hybrids, films, videos, musical theater, and jingle writing. Techniques using MIDI, MAX, and electronic composition are explored. Faculty and guest composers present workshops on their own approaches. Students learn to use the recording studio as an instrument and use notation software for score and part preparation. Student works are rehearsed and performed by graduate and advanced undergraduate ensembles. Formerly MU 624

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MULS 642 - Applied Major Instruction – Graduate

Private instruction in instrumental, vocal, and composition areas. Formerly MU 592B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MULS 641 Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUPF 660 - Graduate Ensemble

Formerly MU 775

Prerequisites & Notes

Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUPF 680 - Graduate Project/Recital

Independent research project designed to enable the student to work in-depth on a topic of special relevance applicable to performance. The graduate project is evaluated in two parts: as a thesis, with the expectation that the student has completed extensive research in a comprehensive manner, and as a recital, in which the student incorporates aspects of the project and demonstrates personal instrumental growth. Students give presentations throughout the semester in seminar setting, showing their progress in research and its application to performance. Formerly MU 603

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 632 - Graduate Improvisation II

Improvisational styles, techniques, and devices are studied. Intervallic improvisation, and advanced pentatonic concepts are addressed, as well as study of the pioneers of jazz improvisation through recorded solos that mark turning points of improvisation. Topics include melody embellishment, improvising in phrases, silence, time-feel, pacing, syncopation, chord tone soloing, dynamics, non-harmonic triads, contracting and expanding chord duration, tri-tonic cells, sustaining peak points, and unaccompanied soloing. Formerly MU 626

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 631 Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 651 - Music Journalism

Practical, hands-on study of writing about music, musicians, and the music industry for consumer, trade and academic periodicals; books, videos, DVDs and other multimedia projects. Students learn library and Internet research techniques, how to acquire and foster industry contacts, interview methodology, how to best utilize archival resources, the writing "marketplace" and the "business of writing," formulation of a marketable idea, magazine writing and editing, the periodical and book submission process, professional guidelines and insights for composing video/ DVD narration and voice-overs. Formerly MU 515

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 682 - Graduate Professional Internship

Provides hands-on experience in a variety of professional settings — rehearsals, performances, meetings with producers, and in-studio projects such as recording, arranging, or project coordination. The program is developed by the graduate advisor and major teacher in conjunction with the student to select topics and experiences most relevant and beneficial to that particular student's education. Formerly MU 621

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 683 - Jazz Pedagogy

This course is designed to prepare students to teach all aspects of a jazz curriculum including arranging, theory, history, improvisation and managing various ensembles, including rehearsal techniques and such. A review of teaching strategies, methods, and available materials is conducted. Basic Computer technologies for the creation of teaching materials is included. Each student rehearses with a UArts ensemble. Outreach activities with area public schools are developed. Formerly MU 516

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 685 - Graduate Forum

A graduate seminar in which various aspects of study, including musical development and accomplishment, are correlated with critical, aesthetic, and historical components. Additionally, artistic and professional issues are researched and discussed. Various approaches to the preparation of the graduate recital are explored and progress toward a successful performance is closely monitored. Topic selection, research, and writing of the graduate thesis are evaluated through weekly critiques. Formerly MU 628

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

Additional prerequisite/corequisite courses Credits: 4

MUSC 461 - Recording I

A study of the recording process and the many facets of the recording studio. Designed to familiarize the student with conventional and creative recording techniques through practical experience in the studio. Formerly MU 413A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 481 - Business of Music

Examination of the legal, practical, and procedural problems encountered by the practicing musician. Specific course content includes the study of music publishing, recording contracts, and copyright and intellectual property rights issues. Formerly MU 420A

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

Jazz Studies: Composition - Bachelor of Music

Program Total Credits: 126

Students enrolled as majors in Composition take private lessons with our faculty who work professionally in contemporary classical, jazz, and commercial (radio, TV, film, industrial) and pop idioms. Monthly workshops featuring guest composers representing a variety of musical genres present students with an inside look at their creative processes and techniques. Additional courses include Jazz Ear Training, Jazz Theory, MIDI and Music Technology, Arranging, Orchestration, Music History, Business of Music, and ensembles. Student compositions are read or performed by our ensembles, and frequent performances of students' music highlight the school's concert schedule. Composition students can also elect an option to take additional study on an instrument or voice. The University's creative environment encourages collaborations with film, animation, dance, theater, and multimedia students.

Freshman Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- MUPF 8XX - Ensemble Credits: 1 cr

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MULS 131 - Applied Major Instruction – Composition

Private instruction in composition. Requirements include a year-end graded examination by a jury. Formerly MU 193A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Composition majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 101 - Music Theory I

Theory Placement Test required. An introduction to basic theory including the study of scales, intervals, chords of various types, harmonic progression, and the analysis of small musical forms. Formerly MU 107A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 111 - Musicianship I

Musicianship Placement Test required. This course centers on the establishment of fundamental skills through the singing and recognition of diatonic materials, i.e., scales, intervals, triads, and seventh chords, both as isolated phenomena and in musical contexts. Solfeggio performance of diatonic melodies and rhythmic performance in all basic meters is emphasized, as well as the dictation of these materials. Formerly MU 103A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 121 - Class Piano I

Introductory and elementary keyboard training using basic theoretical, harmonic, and technical concepts in practical keyboard application: transposition, melody harmonization, elementary jazz improvisation, technique and repertoire. Required of non-keyboard instrumental majors. Formerly MU 131A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only. Not open to Music majors specializing in piano.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 161 - Music Technology Survey

Provides students with a working knowledge of music technology practices, definitions, and concepts. Through both lecture and lab classes, students become familiar with a cross-section of hardware and software currently in use by the school and working professionals. Formerly MU 115

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

Spring Credits: 15

- MUPF 8XX - Ensemble Credits: 1 cr

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MULS 132 - Applied Major Instruction – Composition

Private instruction in composition. Requirements include a year-end graded examination by a jury. Formerly MU 193B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MULS 131 Open to Composition majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 102 - Music Theory II

Theory Placement Test required. An introduction to basic theory including the study of scales, intervals, chords of various types, harmonic progression, and the analysis of small musical forms. Formerly MU 107B

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 112 - Musicianship II

Musicianship Placement Test required. This course centers on the establishment of fundamental skills through the singing and recognition of diatonic materials, i.e., scales, intervals, triads, and seventh chords, both as isolated phenomena and in musical contexts. Solfeggio performance of diatonic melodies and rhythmic performance in all basic meters is emphasized, as well as the dictation of these materials. Formerly MU 103B

Prerequisite: MULS 132 Open to Composition majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 203 - Jazz Theory I

A study of diatonic and chromatic theory as related to jazz and contemporary music. Formerly MU 208A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 102 Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 205 - Jazz Ear Training I

Melodic, harmonic, and rhythmic aural skill development in the jazz and contemporary music idioms. Formerly MU 209A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 112 Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 223 - Class Jazz Piano I

Harmonic concepts in keyboard application for jazz popular music; chord voicings for popular tunes, standards, and original harmonizations; continuation of jazz improvisation. Required of non-keyboard instrumental majors. Formerly MU 232A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 122 Not open to music majors specializing in piano.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 460 - Introduction to MIDI and Electronic Technology

A detailed "hands-on" examination of the use of computers in the present-day composition environment. The course includes the uses of a computer, the language of MIDI, sequencing, audio sampling, analog, digital, and other forms of synthesis, and a survey of currently available music software. Strategies and technology of scoring and synchronizing

to the visual image is emphasized through a final project. No prior computer or synthesis experience is needed. Formerly MU 415A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Music and Multimedia majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 17

- MUPF 8XX - Ensemble Credits: 1 cr

MUCP 361 - Orchestration I

An introduction to instrumentation, designed to acquaint the student with ranges, transpositions, and characteristics of individual instruments and voices. Aural and score analysis provide the basis for understanding vocal and instrumental treatments in small and large ensembles. Written orchestrations are required. Formerly MU 317A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUSC 203, MUSC 205 Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MULS 232 - Applied Major Instruction – Composition

Private instruction in composition. Requirements include a year-end graded examination by a jury. Formerly MU 293B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MULS 231 Open to Composition majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 204 - Jazz Theory II

A study of diatonic and chromatic theory as related to jazz and contemporary music. Formerly MU 208B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 203 Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 206 - Jazz Ear Training II

Melodic, harmonic, and rhythmic aural skill development in the jazz and contemporary music idioms. Formerly MU 209B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 205 Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 224 - Class Jazz Piano II

Harmonic concepts in keyboard application for jazz popular music; chord voicings for popular tunes, standards, and original harmonizations; continuation of jazz improvisation. Required of non-keyboard instrumental majors. Formerly MU 232B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 223 Not open to music majors specializing in piano.

MUSC 351 - Music History I

Designed to define the major style periods from Greek times to the present in terms of their philosophies, accomplishments, and interrelationships. Composers, performers, and theorists are examined in the context of musical literature with emphasis upon styles, forms, and techniques of composition as they evolve and change. The sequence puts into historical perspective the materials presented in the Music Theory courses. Through listening assignments, students are expected to further develop their aural skills and knowledge of musical literature. Formerly MU 301A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Also fulfills Liberal Arts discipline history requirement.

Select one course from the following two:

All undergraduate music students must take either Business of Music (MUSC 481) or Careers in Music (MUSC 482). Students who take both may apply one toward elective credits. This requirement may be completed in either semester.

MUSC 481 - Business of Music

Examination of the legal, practical, and procedural problems encountered by the practicing musician. Specific course content includes the study of music publishing, recording contracts, and copyright and intellectual property rights issues. Formerly MU 420A

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 482 - Careers in Music

Music Education Minor

Professional musicians teach in various settings such as private lessons, classroom lectures, presentations at conferences, directing performing ensembles, and as artists in residence. The Music Education minor is open to all music majors desiring preparation for these roles.

The Music Education minor complements the degree studies of all music majors with two courses even counting within the liberal arts core of the student's bachelor degree. Coursework includes instruction in each of the instrument families, pedagogy of private instruction and improvisation, conducting, rehearsing jazz ensembles, the psychology of teaching and learning music, and the needs of special learners. Field experiences include working with ensembles in public and private schools.

Music Education minors will be able to complete the Master of Arts in Teaching degree (MAT) and receive teacher certification in one additional academic year. This "4 +1" option allows students to earn a MUED minor, bachelor's degree, master's degree, and teacher certification in only five years.

Musical Theater Minor

College of Performing Arts Sophomores including Voice, Acting, Applied Theater Arts, and Dance majors who have earned a 3.0 GPA in their major are eligible, by audition, to enroll in a range of courses (usually 15 credit hours) leading to the fulfillment of a minor in musical theater. The faculty in the Schools of Dance, Music, and Theater conduct auditions required for admission to the minor, which is to be restricted for only those students most apt to succeed in cross-disciplinary training. In order to continue through the sequence of courses in the minor, students are required to earn a grade of B or better in the initial cross-discipline courses in Voice, Dance and/or Acting normally taken in the minor during the Sophomore year.

This course of study is designed solely for students majoring in Voice, Acting, Applied Theater Arts and Dance since their success in the minor is due in part to their continuing, concentrated study and growth in their individual majors. In other words, ongoing development as a dancer, actor, or vocal major enhances students' ability to succeed in the minor.

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 152 - Script Analysis

Introduces the student to practical analysis of texts/scripts. The course explores the concepts of conflict, human action, character, action/ reaction cycle, dramatic structure, translations and resources external to the script (historical perspective). At the course's end, the student should possess a firm understanding of the process involved in script analysis, be thoroughly familiar with the composite types of dramatic literature, begin to understand the nature of an informed aesthetic and understand the consequences of each element of a performance on its audience. Formerly TH 213

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 151 or LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 124 - Costume & Property Technology

Introductory course in various phases of physical production dealing with the stage, house, backstage personnel and their duties, construction and painting of scenery, stage lighting, costumes, props, and makeup. Formerly TH 124

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: THPD 126 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

THPD 126 - Costume & Property Tech Lab

Laboratory experience for students in SOTA's Applied Theater Arts and Design-Tech program. Students receive foundation training in scenery construction and rigging, lighting and electrical production, costume and property construction, and provide production support serving as primary assistants to professional designers working on SOTA shows. Weekly hours may vary depending upon assignment. Formerly TH 124L

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Applied Theater Arts and Theater Design and Technology majors only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

THST 132 - Theater Design II: Scene Design

An exploration of and instruction in techniques for theatrical scenic design. This class would include lectures, individual guidance, discussions and projects investigating the aesthetic, technical, and practical problems of designing scenery for the stage. Formerly TH 239

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: THST 131, FNDP 112, FNDP 122 or FNDP 132 Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Sophomore Year Credits: 32

Fall Credits: 15.5

FNDP 103 - Color Basics

This course provides individuals who are not majoring in the visual arts with the basic skills required to work with some of the fundamental properties of color and use them for representational purposes. No prior experience with manual media or portfolio of work is required. The course introduces the basic color vocabulary and begins training the eye to perceive and apply the distinctions of hue, value, tone and temperature. Methods of color classification set the stage for a sequence of projects designed to help students develop the ability to begin working with color formally and descriptively. Homework assignments apply principles learned in class. Formerly FP 103

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the College of Art and Design. Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 850 - Introduction to Aesthetics

An introduction to the philosophy of art. After a brief examination of analytic philosophical methods and the history of aesthetics, we consider some of the fundamental problems in aesthetics, such as the intention of the artist, the physical object/aesthetic object distinction, and the nature and comparison of different kinds of media. The relationship between language and art are central to the course. Formerly HU 270

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 351 - Theater History I

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions and lectures. The course explores the history of theater through its artistic, spiritual, political, and cultural sources of empowerment. Students are provided with the historical background to apply acting, directing, and designing techniques to the theater of other periods of history. Formerly TH 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 152 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 120 - Crew

Four different production assignments for School of Theater productions. Continues the classroom instruction in theater tech skills, providing an increased understanding of Technical Production. Formerly TH 103L

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 0 cr, hrs vary

THST 181 - Acting for Non-Majors I

This course introduces the non-actor to improvisation, character development, and the basic idea of action and objective in performance. The first four weeks acclimate the new actor to being expressive in a group using body and voice through improvisation, theater games, movement; breathing and relaxation techniques are also taught. The student is introduced to script analysis and asked to write and develop monologues to create dramatic characters for performance. Grading is based on class participation and progress with the work on monologues. Formerly TH 100A

Credits: 2 cr, 4 hrs

THST 231 - Theater Design III: Lighting Design

Fundamental procedures for lighting, with emphasis on the functions of theatrical stage lighting. Discussions and projects investigating the problems of lighting design, including electrical principles, instrumentation, color, media, equipment control, planning, and rigging. Formerly TH 339

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 132 Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

FNDP 104 - Materials, Tools and Form

This course instructs students in those basic manual skills that help them build three-dimensional objects and spatial works. No prior experience with manual media or a portfolio of work is required. Paper and wood are the primary materials that are used to execute freestanding objects of various sizes, and all assignments include instruction on how to best use and extend the physical properties of these materials. Students are challenged to fabricate works with multiple parts as well as works that include some formal and mechanical complexity. Assignments that focus on the design of spaces and the modeling of environments are included. Instruction is conducted in the Foundation studio and wood shop, and all students are given an orientation to the safe use of that facility and all its power tools. Formerly FP 104

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the College of Art and Design. Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 352 - Theater History II

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions, and lectures. The course explores the history of theater through its artistic, spiritual, political, and cultural sources of empowerment. Students are provided with the historical background to apply acting, directing, and designing techniques to the theater of other periods of history. Formerly TH 311B

THPD 264 - Fundamentals of Technical Direction

Foundation training in the role of a technical director, including production scheduling, coordinating, planning, budgeting, familiarity with materials, equipment and purchasing procedures. Formerly TH 237

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 132 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only. Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 320 - Production Practicum

Practical application of training to experiences in a wide range of production areas: dramaturgy, design, technology, theater management, etc. May include realized studio, workshop or project assignments. Formerly TH 349

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THPD 120 or THPD 261 Open to Applied Theater Arts and Theater Design and Technology majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, hrs vary

THST 331 - Theater Design V: Sound Design

Fundamental procedures for sound creation and reproduction, with emphasis on the function and practice of theatrical sound design. Lectures, discussions, demonstrations, and projects investigating the problems of sound design for the stage, including sound production, modification, amplification, balance, instrumentation, character of sound, media, equipment control, planning and rigging in stage space, and working with stage management to set cues for the live performances.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 361 - Fundamentals of Directing

An overview of the directorial process. Discusses the various facets of a director's job, especially in the early phases of a production, e.g. working with the actor, casting, table work and rehearsal, and culminates with each student directing a scene of his/her own. The emphasis is on empowering the students as theater practitioners, within the rehearsal process, by introducing them to the basic problems encountered by the stage director, with whom all theater participants work. Formerly TH 317

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: THST 231, THPD 261 or THST 301 Open to Acting, Applied Theater and Theater Design and Technology majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

The Center for Continuing Studies at The University of the Arts houses both the Continuing Education (CE) and the Professional Institute for Educators (PIE) programs.

Continuing Education (CE) offers classes and workshops for Continuing Education Credit and noncredit to the adult audience, as well as PA Act 48 activity hours. Offerings are available in a wide range of disciplines including, but not limited to: fine arts, crafts, digital technologies, music and recording industry, creative writing, photography, animation, dance and physical conditioning, interior design, illustration, writing for film and television, and professional development. Continuing Education also offers specialized certificate programs, as well as customized training solutions for corporate and organizational clients. Classes are generally held in the evenings and on weekends.

The Professional Institute for Educators (PIE), founded in 1973, serves the needs of educators, providing non-matriculated graduate-level courses for professional development, including PA Act 48 requirements. PIE's offerings cover such subject areas as: crafts, music, visual arts, writing, digital media, art history, multicultural studies, teaching strategies, classroom management, and computer technology. With off-site locations, including the James A. Michener Art Museum, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, and the Wayne Art Center, courses are designed to utilize museum resources and exhibitions as an enriching opportunity for learning. Each summer, PIE hosts Continuing Inspiration - an intensive week-long studio experience to provide creative renewal for teachers.

Brochures are available for all of the Center's program offerings. Please refer to these for specific listings and registration procedures. Please note that the degree programs at the University have specific course and curriculum requirements. Courses taken in Continuing Studies are rarely accepted by the University's degree programs, and may not exceed a total of six credits. Persons seeking admission to a degree program at UArts or elsewhere should contact the appropriate office to determine which credits, if any, may be accepted.

For additional information about the programs of the Center for Continuing Studies, please visit our Website at www.uarts.edu/continue.

Course Renumbering

Understanding the Course Numbers

New course numbers were created in Fall 2005 for every course taught at the University. Below is a simple diagram designed to help users understand what the new numbers represent. As you will see, the new numbering system reflects the host department for the course, the subject area, and the level or type of instruction.

Please note that the course descriptions are listed under the new numbers, although the old number is listed in italics under the new number. The list below allows users to search for new course numbers by referring to the old ones. Please contact the Office of the Registrar with any questions regarding the new numbering system.

Grading System

^ TOP

A	4.00	C	2.00
A-	3.67	C-	1.67
B+	3.33	D+	1.33
B	3.00	D	1.00
B-	2.67	F	0.00
C+	2.33

Grades not included in computing averages:

I	Incomplete
IP	In Progress (Graduate Thesis only)
NC	No Credit
W	Withdrawal
OP	Optional Pass (Grade of “C” or better)
OF	Optional Fail (Grade of less than “C”)
AU	Audit
P	Pass
T	Transfer credit
X	Non-course credit (by examination)
Z	Preliminary Transfer Credit

Thesis Grading

^ TOP

The grade of “IP” (“In Progress”) signifies that the student is making satisfactory progress toward completing the graduate thesis. This grade will apply only to graduate thesis courses where the student’s thesis is still in progress.

This grade is available only for the following courses:

AEDU 695	Graduate Project/Thesis
MSEM 781 & 782	Thesis Development
GRID 780	Master’s Thesis Documentation
GRFA 785	MFA Thesis Exhibition
MUPH 680	Graduate Project/Recital

An “IP” grade acknowledges the fact that the final course product (thesis) may require some period of time past the semester of registration to complete. The “IP” grade will remain on the student’s record until a final thesis grade is submitted by the instructor. In some cases, a student will be registered for thesis courses as a sequence (e.g MSEM 781 or MSEM 782). When the final grade is submitted by the instructor, it will replace the “IP” grade. The “IP” grade is not computed in the grade-point average.

In order to remain in good standing while the thesis is “in progress,” the student must register for the thesis continuation fee for each semester he or she is not enrolled in coursework.

Computing the Grade-Point Average (GPA)

^ TOP

The GPA is computed by multiplying the number of credits earned for a course by the numerical value of the grade. The resulting figures from all courses for that semester are then totaled, and this figure is divided by the total number of credits attempted that semester. The grades of I, IP, NC, W, OP, OF, P, and AU are not entered in this computation.

Dean's List

^ TOP

This list is compiled each semester in the respective deans' offices. The Dean's List honors those undergraduate students who have met the following criteria:

1. Students are full-time undergraduate degree candidates. Candidates for certificate, diploma, and master's degrees are not eligible.
2. A minimum semester GPA of 3.60.
3. No grade lower than a "B" in any course.
4. No grade of "I" or "F" in any course.
5. Enrolled in at least 12 credits for a letter grade.

Pass/Fail Option

^ TOP

1. In courses taken on a Pass/Fail basis, the standard letter grades of "A" to "C" are converted to "OP" by the Registrar. A grade of "C-" to "F" is recorded as "OF."
2. The Pass/Fail grading option must be selected prior to the end of the Drop/Add period; no change from Pass/Fail to a regular grade or a regular grade to Pass/Fail may be made after that deadline.
3. Grades of "OP" or "OF" are not computed in the grade-point average.
4. The Pass/Fail policy stipulates that the instructor is not to be informed as to who is enrolled on a Pass/Fail basis.
5. Availability of this option is limited to a total of nine credits in Liberal Arts courses or studio electives during the student's undergraduate career. Pass/Fail courses may not include First Year Writing, Introduction to Modernism, any Independent Study course, or any required discipline history course.

Notice of Deficiency

^ TOP

Instructors must advise a student of unsatisfactory performance in the course with a Notice of Deficiency. Unsatisfactory performance may be based on excessive absences; inappropriate or inadequate classroom participation; the quality of work submitted, performed, or created for the class; or the outcome of exams or other assignments given by the instructor either in class or as listed on the syllabus. Deficiency notices are copied to the student's advisor and the Office of the Dean of the College in which the student is enrolled.

Deficiency notices may be sent at any point in the semester.

Once a deficiency notice has been received, a student is expected to follow the instruction/s noted on the form, and is strongly encouraged to meet with his/her instructor and advisor as soon after receiving the deficiency notice as possible.

Grade of Incomplete ("I")

^ TOP

An incomplete grade may be granted only in extraordinary circumstances, either personal or academic, that prevent the student from completing coursework by the end of the semester. The grade "I" is given only when the completed portion of the student's coursework is of a passing quality. To receive the grade of Incomplete, the student must obtain written approval on the Incomplete Form from the course instructor, and the Dean of the College or the Dean of Liberal Arts prior to the conclusion of the semester.

Incomplete grades not cleared by the end of the sixth week of the following semester will be automatically assigned the grade of "F." Incomplete Forms are available from the Office of the Registrar.

Class Attendance

^ TOP

All students are expected to attend classes regularly and promptly, and for the duration of the scheduled instructional time. Individual instructors will decide the optimum time for taking attendance and may penalize for habitual lateness or absence. Repeated absences may result in a grade of “F” for a course.

Students who withdraw from a course or the University must do so through the Registrar’s Office. Non-attendance does not constitute an official withdrawal.

Absences

^ TOP

Full participation is expected of all UArts students and is necessary to fully benefit from and succeed in the University’s programs of study.

Absences from class may result in a lowered grade or an “F” in the course, depending on the attendance policies stated by the instructor on the syllabus. It is the responsibility of the student to arrange with his/her instructor(s) to make up all missed work. Failure to do so will also affect the student’s grade.

In the event that absences are the result of extraordinary, documented circumstances and are numerous enough that it is impossible for the student to qualify for advancement, the student may be advised to withdraw from the course. If the course is required for the degree, the student will also be required to repeat the course in a subsequent semester.

Class/Lesson Cancellations or Lateness of Instructor

^ TOP

Students must check every morning for notices regarding class or lesson changes. Such notices are posted in a designated area. If none are posted for the scheduled class or lesson and the instructor is not present, students are expected to wait 10 minutes for an hour-long class/lesson and 15 minutes for those of longer duration. In the event the instructor fails to appear within the 10-15 minute waiting period, students are to report to the appropriate School Director’s or Department Chairperson’s office and may then leave without penalty.

- Undergraduate Degree Candidacy and Completion
- Graduate Degree Candidacy and Completion
- Graduation – Conferral of Degrees and Diplomas
- Participation in Commencement Exercises
- Graduation with Honors

It is the student’s responsibility to complete the specified requirements of the degree program in which he or she is enrolled.

Residency Requirements

^ TOP

The time it takes for a student to reach graduation will depend upon the time needed to fulfill The University of the Arts' degree requirements. Detailed information regarding the remaining credits needed to fulfill degree requirements can be found on each student's degree audit.

Every student must complete a minimum of four full-time semesters in residence preceding graduation and must earn a minimum of 48 credits in studio and/or Liberal Arts courses. Transferable credits will be applied only to the requirements stipulated for a UArts degree. For this reason, transfer students may be required to remain in residence at the University for more than the minimum four semesters and to complete more than the minimum 48 credits, regardless of the number of credits earned at previously attended institutions. Transfer credit is evaluated by the department chair or school director and the Director of Liberal Arts in consultation with the Office of the Registrar.

Undergraduate Degree Candidacy and Completion

^ TOP

To be certified for a degree, a student must:

- submit a Petition for Award of Degree to the Office of the Registrar,
- fulfill all degree requirements,
- satisfy the minimum residency requirements (four semesters in residence, a minimum of 48 UArts credits),
- achieve a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0 ("C" average), and
- receive the approval of his/her department chairperson or director as having met all major requirements, including any and all requirements unique to the department.

Once the student has submitted a Petition for Award of Degree, and the Registrar has certified that student as having completed the degree requirements, the degree will be awarded. Two-year certificates are awarded only to students who are in residence and are matriculated in the certificate program.

Graduate Degree Candidacy and Completion

^ TOP

Midway through the program, each graduate student's progress in his/her discipline and thesis proposal will be reviewed by the appropriate Graduate Committee to formally determine whether a student becomes a degree candidate, and is ready to continue toward development and completion of the thesis or graduate project.

Graduate students have up to seven years from their date of matriculation to complete a two-year master's program, and up to six years from matriculation date to complete a one-year program.

To be certified for a degree, a student must:

- submit a Petition for Award of Degree to the Office of the Registrar,
- fulfill all degree requirements,
- satisfy the minimum residency requirements, and
- achieve a minimum cumulative GPA of a 3.0 ("B" average).

Graduation – Conferral of Degrees and Diplomas

^ TOP

Students expecting to complete requirements for a degree within the year (December, May, or August) are required to file a Petition for Award of Degree with the Office of the Registrar or, online in the MyUArts Record section of the MyUArts Portal, by the deadline indicated below. The Office of the Registrar is responsible for certification of completion of requirements for the degree. Students may and are encouraged to petition during registration for their final semester.

Deadline for submission of Petitions:

- July 15 - August completion
- November 15 - December completion
- January 24 - May completion

Degrees and diplomas are conferred once a year at the spring Commencement Exercises. For students who complete degree requirements in other terms, the transcript will be posted “degree granted” with either the date of December 31 for the fall semester or August 31 for summer semester graduates. Diplomas will be mailed to August and December graduates’ permanent addresses approximately six weeks after the graduation date. Students graduating after the summer or fall semesters are invited to participate in the next May Commencement exercises with the May graduates.

Participation in Commencement Exercises

^ TOP

Only those students who have completely fulfilled the degree requirements may participate in Commencement Exercises.

The University recognizes that there are extenuating circumstances that are beyond a student’s control that may affect a student’s ability to complete the degree requirements as anticipated. The University is willing to consider special requests from students to participate in Commencement Exercises.

Students who request an exception to the policy noted above must meet the following requirements:

- Have petitioned for graduation
- As of the end of the drop/add period of their last anticipated semester of enrollment prior to commencement be properly registered to fulfill degree requirements
- Have no more than three credits to complete at the time of the request
- Show proof of registration for the remaining credits required to complete the degree requirements

The process for requesting an exception is as follows:

- The student must submit, to the Office of the Dean of Students, a written explanation of the unusual circumstances and the request for an exception to the policy. Requests may be submitted via email when done so through the student’s University email account.
- The Dean of Students, after considering the request, will make the determination and communicate the outcome to the student and the Office of the Registrar.
- Requests for an Appeal of the Dean of Student’s decision may be submitted to the Office of the Provost.
- Appeals must be submitted in writing to the Office of the Provost. Once received, the Provost will review the case and make the final determination. The decision will then be communicated to the student, Dean of Students, and the Office of the Registrar by the Office of the Provost.

Graduation with Honors

^ TOP

Candidates for the baccalaureate degree may graduate with honors only if they achieve a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.6.

- Graduate Courses for Undergraduate Credit
- Special Topics Course Numbers
- Graduates Enrolled in an Undergraduate Course
- Thesis Grading
- Graduate Project/Thesis Continuation Fee
- Additional Policies

Please note that unless indicated below, graduate students are bound by the policies and practices that apply to all UArts students, especially as noted elsewhere in this catalog.

Full-time Status

^ TOP

Graduate students are considered full-time if enrolled in at least nine credits per semester. Tuition for part-time graduate students is charged on a per-credit basis.

Graduate Transfer Credit

^ TOP

A maximum of six credits of graduate credit may be transferred and applied toward the graduate degree requirements upon approval of the program director. All transfer credits must be graduate level classes or upper-level undergraduate classes taken for graduate credit at an accredited college or university, approved by the Registrar and the Graduate Director, and must be a “B” or higher grade.

Student Classification and Course Load

^ TOP

A student’s class status is determined by the number of credits earned, regardless of the number of semesters of enrollment or the student’s standing in his or her major program. Class status is a factor in determining financial aid eligibility and is one indicator of academic progress. Class standing is also used to prioritize scheduling during registration.

Graduate status is determined as follows:

- G1 completion of up to 17.5 credits
- G2 completion of 18 or more credits

Graduate Courses for Undergraduate Credit

^ TOP

Undergraduate students who wish to enroll in a graduate course must have junior status (U3), a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and permission of the instructor to enroll in the course.

Graduates Enrolled in an Undergraduate Course

^ TOP

Graduate students may register for undergraduate liberal arts courses or studio courses (with permission of the graduate director and director of liberal arts) for graduate credit through the Special Topics mechanism. IN orde rto register, students must complete a Special Topics form, available through the Office of the Registrar. Students are advised to select an area of study that broadens or intensifies their background in the arts, education, and related disciplines. Often this work contributes directly to preparation of the graduate project proposal.

COURSE NUMBERS FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS TO USE WHEN TAKING UNDERGRADUATE COURSES FOR GRADUATE CREDIT

Course #	Course	Department name	Cross listed with UG # (DO NOT USE)
GREM*601	Electronic Media/Production 1	Electronic Media	EMDI*201
GRSC*621	Advanced Projects	Fine Arts	FASC*421
GRSC*631	Molding and Casting	Fine Arts	FASC*321
GRPR*633	Digital Printmaking	Fine Arts	FAPR*411
GRLA*631	American Art Since 1945	Liberal Arts	LAAH*831
GRID*614	Materials and Processes Seminar	Industrial Design	IDES*232
GRID*624	Architectonics	Industrial Design	IDES*371

When no graduate number exists for an Undergraduate course Graduate students should use Special Topics numbers - Choose the course number based on it's home department

SPECIAL TOPICS COURSE NUMBERS AND DEPARTMENTS

Course #	Course	Department name
GRAE*699	Special Topics	Art Ed
GRAT*699	Special Topics	Art Therapy
GRCM699	Special Topics	Communication
GRDA*699	Special Topics	Dance
GRGD*699	Special Topics	Graphic Design
GRCR*699	Special Topics	Crafts
GREM*699	Special Topics	Electronic Media
GRFA*699	Special Topics	Fine Arts

GRMM*699	Special Topics	Multimedia
GRMU*699	Special Topics	Music
GRTH*699	Special Topics	Theater
GRWR*699	Special Topics	Writing

Graduate students taking undergraduate courses should register for the course using the above numbers. They should choose the Special Topics number based on the department where the course resides. Example: students taking CRGL*211 Intro to Glass Blowing would register for GRCR*699

Thesis Grading

^ TOP

The grade of “IP” (“In Progress”) signifies that the student is making satisfactory progress toward completing the graduate thesis. This grade will apply only to graduate thesis courses where the student’s thesis is still in progress.

This grade is available only for the following courses:

AEDU	695	Graduate Project/Thesis
MSEM	782	Thesis Development
MSEM	784	Thesis: Museum Communication
GRID	780	Master’s Thesis Documentation
GRFA	785	MFA Thesis Exhibition
MUPF	680	Graduate Project/Recital

An “IP” grade acknowledges the fact that the final course product (thesis) may require some period of time past the semester of registration to complete. The “IP” grade will remain on the student’s record until a final thesis grade is submitted by the instructor. In some cases, a student will be registered for thesis courses as a sequence (e.g., MSEM 781/B). When the final grade is submitted by the instructor, it will replace the “IP” grade. The “IP” grade is not computed in the grade-point average.

In order to remain in good standing while the thesis is “in progress,” the student must register for the thesis continuation fee for each semester he or she is not enrolled in coursework.

Graduate Project/Thesis Continuation Fee

^ TOP

A student who has completed all the course requirements for the master’s degree and is currently working on the graduate thesis, either on or off-campus, must register and pay a graduate thesis continuation fee of .5 credits per semester calculated at the per-credit cost for each semester of non-attendance until the thesis is completed and accepted. This registration, through the Office of the Registrar, is required in each succeeding semester, excluding the summer sessions, until all degree requirements are met. Students completing a degree in the summer must pay the thesis fee in the final summer semester.

Additional Policies

^ TOP

1. A student who has completed one degree and wishes to matriculate in another does so by applying to the new program through the Office of Admission.
2. A student may be awarded a particular degree from the University only once; i.e., once the student has earned an MA, he or she may not be awarded another MA.

THPD 123 - Scene and Lighting Technology

Introductory course in various phases of physical production dealing with the stage, house, backstage personnel and their duties, construction and painting of scenery, stage lighting, costumes, props, and makeup. Formerly TH 123

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: THPD 125 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

THST 101 - Acting Studio I

An introductory studio focusing on the fundamentals of acting including basic skills for stage communication, voice, and movement; involves centering and exercises designed to increase physical and emotional stamina, identify and strengthen technique, develop focus and concentration, and introduce the student to the demands of the theater. In the process of demystifying the craft, the student discovers the energy, power, and vulnerability of self. Formerly TH 103A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Acting, Applied Theater Arts and Musical Theater majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

THVC 111 - Voice and Speech for Actors I

Linklater exercises are the basis of a course designed to help the student find his/her natural voice and to integrate body, breathing, voice, thought and feeling into expression through speech. The student is given a practical understanding of the voice and how it works. Tensions that inhibit primary impulses are uncovered and dismantled. The function of the articulators is studied and they are examined for blocks and exercised for release. Formerly TH 109A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Acting majors only.

Credits: 2 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 14

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 152 - Script Analysis

Introduces the student to practical analysis of texts/scripts. The course explores the concepts of conflict, human action, character, action/ reaction cycle, dramatic structure, translations and resources external to the script (historical perspective). At the course's end, the student should possess a firm understanding of the process involved in script analysis, be thoroughly familiar with the composite types of dramatic literature, begin to understand the nature of an informed aesthetic and understand the consequences of each element of a performance on its audience. Formerly TH 213

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 151 or LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THMD 163 - Neutral Mask

A sequence of instruction in mask/movement techniques designed to remove all pedestrian movement from the actor, thereby helping the student to begin to develop a movement vocabulary. Develops students' awareness of their own personal movement habits and their ability to drop their habits in order to achieve neutral body movement. Exercises are designed to achieve neutral body by beginning with simple actions and progressing to object identification. Formerly TH 101

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Acting and Applied Theater Arts majors only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

THPD 120 - Crew

Four different production assignments for School of Theater productions. Continues the classroom instruction in theater tech skills, providing an increased understanding of Technical Production. Formerly TH 103L

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 0 cr, hrs vary

THPD 124 - Costume & Property Technology

Introductory course in various phases of physical production dealing with the stage, house, backstage personnel and their duties, construction and painting of scenery, stage lighting, costumes, props, and makeup. Formerly TH 124

Prerequisites & Notes

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 17

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

THEA 352 - Theater History II

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions, and lectures. The course explores the history of theater through its artistic, spiritual, political, and cultural sources of empowerment. LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

THEA 152 - Script Analysis

Introduces the student to practical analysis of texts/scripts. The course explores the concepts of conflict, human action, character, action/ reaction cycle, dramatic structure, translations and resources external to the script (historical perspective). At the course's end, the student should possess a firm understanding of the process involved in script analysis, be thoroughly familiar with the composite types of dramatic literature, begin to understand the nature of an informed aesthetic and understand the consequences of each element of a performance on its audience. Formerly TH 213

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 151 or LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 351 - Theater History I

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions and lectures. The course explores the history of theater through its artistic, spiritual, political, and cultural sources of empowerment. Students are provided with the historical background to apply acting, directing, and designing techniques to the theater of other periods of history. Formerly TH 311A

Prerequisite: THEA 152 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

WRIT 251 and WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema I and II are required of all Animation majors. WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema II can be counted as a studio elective, or liberal arts course.

ILUS 285 - Drawing for Animators

Focuses on introducing and developing the skills and disciplines needed for good figurative animation drawing. The primary issues of anatomical figure drawing with a strong emphasis on the structure and solidity of the figure, good proportions, and specific movement and gesture as they relate to the model. Topics also covered: two-dimensional versus three-dimensional ways of translating form; how perspective and viewpoint are used with the figure and their effect on scale; exaggerated foreshortening techniques; diagrammatic and expressive line quality; facial expressions; hand and foot studies; capturing movement through gesture; and introduction to animal drawing for animation. Formerly IL 205

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Animation and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

(fulfills 3 credits of elective requirements)

MAAN 201 - Introduction to Animation I

Through a series of drawn exercises concentrating on timing, movement, and weight, the student acquires a basic understanding of animation principles. Sound is introduced for the final project, which consists of a short animated film with a complete soundtrack. Formerly PF 212A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 or MMDI 101 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

MAAN 202 - Introduction to Animation II

Students are introduced to under-the-camera animation using varied mediums such as puppets, cut-outs, and painting-on-glass. Special attention is given to non-narrative approaches to animation. A final project is created using one or more of the techniques explored during the semester. Formerly PF 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 or MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 231 - Introduction to Computer Animation

This introductory course develops the student's understanding of digital movement and imaging through animation exercises using a variety of 2D software programs on the PC platform. No previous computer experience is required. Formerly PF 216

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

MAFL 202 - Introduction to Film/Digital Video

This course offers an introduction to the basic practices of digital video editing and further creative exploration of the art of moving images. Students perform timing, staging, and blocking exercises to develop a feel for direction, experiment with more advanced film strategies, learn to edit digital video, and investigate relationships between sound and image. A final project integrates these explorations creatively. Formerly PF 210B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors.

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Book Arts Minor

This minor emphasizes the development of skills related to designing and creating books, incorporating both type and imagery. Instruction in image-making in multiples through printmaking processes, basic typesetting techniques, and introductory bookbinding methods are studied. Fine Arts-Printmaking majors may not declare a Book Arts minor.

FAPR 233 - Bookbinding Methods

A workshop class familiarizing the student with the characteristics and handling qualities of materials used in various book structures. Structures covered include pamphlet binding, multi-signature books, clamshell boxes, portfolios, accordion structures, and oriental binding. Emphasis is placed upon both the use of conservationally sound materials and the use of these structures as vehicles for the student's creative expression. Formerly PR 223

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 234 - Book Arts: Structures

Historical book forms serve as models as well as a departure point for innovative new work. Students are made familiar with traditional binding techniques, encouraged to explore new applications and to experiment by combining images and text into unique book structures. Among the sculptures presented are signature binding, Japanese binding, accordion structure, pop-up structures, and tunnel books. May serve as a follow-up course for those who have completed PR Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. Formerly PR 224

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 304 - Book Arts: Concept and Structure

An opportunity to explore the integration of type and relief image in unique and editioned book structures. Hands-on experience in dealing with composition (metal) type and computer typesetting is on an intermediate level. Methods of relief printing are explored and cultivated. Wood engraving, photopolymer relief, color reduction printing, and related traditional and contemporary methods of multiple image making are pursued. Special emphasis on development of a personal visual language. Formerly PR 307

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits). Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 434 - Book Production

This advanced course focuses on the development and production of a printed book or portfolio of works: design and formatting of a publication including investigation of sequence, page design, and binding possibilities; hands-on experience in the preparation of images for press production, pre-press techniques; and assisting the Master Printer in the printing. All work is produced in the Borowsky Center for Publication Arts, the University's state-of-the-art offset lithography facility. Students may choose to collaborate on projects or work independently. Formerly PR 425

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the College of Art and Design only. Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits). May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5-3 cr

Select one of the following two:

FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

or

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one of the following two:

FAPR 323 - Intro to Offset Lithography

Students are offered a hands-on course that develops skills in image preparation and printing techniques using offset lithography. An emphasis is placed on personal imagery where both hand-drawn and photographic methods of image making are investigated. Formerly PR 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 1.5-3 cr

or

FAPR 411 - Digital Printmaking

This course offers the students an opportunity for continued investigation within the various printmaking processes. Photoshop is introduced and emphasis will be on using the computer as an imagemaking tool within the context of printmaking. The emphasis is on the integration of idea and process. Graduate students may register for this course under GRPR 633. Formerly PR 412

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors; Book Arts and Digital Fine Arts minors. Computer literacy required. May be taken twice for credit.

GRFA 611 - Independent Studio I

Intended to assist students in establishing independent production in their major discipline while acquiring the ability to integrate studio production with the demands of off-campus life. At the conclusion of Summer I and subsequently, Winter Critique I, the student and faculty mentor agree on a plan of work to be pursued during the off-campus semester, which is a continuation of work begun in the previous semester. The students are required to propose a direction for their investigations and have access to off-campus studio space in which to carry out the proposal. Enrollment in the Independent Studio requires a commitment of 150 hours, equivalent to 10 hours of studio activity per week during the 15-week off-campus semester. The studio mentor meets with the student five times during the semester at three-week intervals, reviewing the student's progress for a 1/2 hour session. The first meeting may take place at the mentor's studio. The last meeting is the final critique of the semester, which takes place at the Winter Critique held at the University. Formerly FA 691

GRLA 631 - American Art Since 1945

(See course description under LAAH 831.) In order to receive graduate credit, graduate students are expected to exceed undergraduate course expectations by applying the skills and competencies outlined in the syllabus to graduate-level concepts that typically relate to their major program of study. In this regard, graduate students taking this graduate elective are required to meet with the instructor prior to the start of class to determine and outline the nature of the requirements to be met. Formerly HU 648

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 831 - American Art Since 1945

In 1945, World War II ended and the focus of modern art shifted from Paris to New York City. The course begins with Abstract Expressionism; studies other major American styles, such as pop art and minimalism; and concludes with post-modernist development such as performance and decoration by artists. Graduate students may register for this course under GRLA 631. Formerly HU 448A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 832 - European Art Since 1945

Art since World War II has been dominated by the New York market and by the issue of abstraction; in Europe, however, artists continued to use the human figure as a vehicle for social and ethical concerns, and, more recently, their engagement has become a model for younger artists in both Europe and America. The course will look at crafts and book arts as well as fine arts; it will also make use of plays and films. Formerly HU 448B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 970 - Major Artists

The course concentrates on a single artist or a group of related artists. Among the artists who have come under this intense investigation have been Donatello, Michelangelo, Rembrandt, and Picasso. The course has been designed to give students an in-depth knowledge of one artist's life and art or the artists of a single school. Formerly HU 456

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Certificate in Dance

Program Total Credits: 55

The Certificate in Dance is a two-year, 55-credit program intended for those students who wish to concentrate exclusively on dance studies. This intensive program is designed to develop the student's familiarity with and proficiency in a broad spectrum of dance styles. The Certificate in Dance is awarded in recognition of achievement and does not constitute an academic degree.

Students wishing to transfer from this program to the Bachelor's degree program may apply to do so and are required to obtain the approval of both the Director of the School of Dance and the Dean of Liberal Arts. The Certificate in Dance is awarded only to students who are in residence and are matriculated in the Certificate program.

CMAC Discovery Year

The Discovery Year

A first-year program in the College of Media and Communication, the Discovery Year provides students with an excellent opportunity to explore media and communication before deciding on a major in Communication, Multimedia, or Writing for Film & Television. During the year, they are introduced to the principles and skills that media makers must know through courses taken in video production, visual communication, interface design, writing, and storytelling.

In addition to these courses, students also take Liberal Arts courses each semester as required by the University core and have the option of taking at least one elective course.

Designed to provide its students with an introduction to the concepts and skills of media used in all of the programs offered by the college, the CMAC Discovery Year is ideally suited for students interested in a broad overview of media and communication who have yet to decide on a major focus. Students, who already have decided on their focus, should apply for admission to one of the college's majors – Communication, Multimedia, or Writing for Film & Television – since that will provide them the chance to take more electives and start minors earlier in their course of study.

Declaring a Major

The college provides each student with an advisor who helps the student decide upon the major that is best for him or her. Each semester, in advance of the University's registration period, the college also holds special advising sessions to explain the majors in detail, supplemented by departmental meetings intended to give students in the Discovery Year the opportunity to talk to students already in the majors. During the year, students meet with their advisors on a regular basis, to discuss their work and their career goals and interests. In addition, through course crits and reviews, students have a chance over the year to talk to faculty about their work and to assess their potential for success in the various majors.

To declare a major, students must complete a "Declaration of Major" form, which must be signed by the student and the director of the proposed major. Students can declare a major as early as November of their first year but must declare their major before registering for the fall semester of their second year. Failure to do so may extend their stay at the University.

CMAC Opportunities and Facilities

The college sponsors a number of clubs and publications – most of which are student run and all of which are open to first-year students. They allow students to explore and create outside the classroom in a number of different media – Webzines, Web-based radio, Web television, and several print publications.

The College of Media and Communication is housed in a state-of-the-art media environment, which includes a multifunctional production studio; a sound studio; digital labs for audio and video editing; multimedia studios that provide Mac, PC, and Unix-based operating systems and industry-standard software; a MIDI studio; and a black-box production space, as well as a wireless environment that supports collaboration and independent work.

The College's Equipment Room offers CMAC students the opportunity to borrow the most current portable video, audio, and photographic equipment. The College's galleries, interactive kiosks, and virtual window provide students ample opportunities to display their work.

Discovery Year: 30 Credits

Students may take up to 3 additional credits of Electives in the Discovery Year.

Fall Credits: 15

CMMC 102 - Video Production Workshop

Acquaints students with the fundamentals of visual storytelling by providing hands-on experience translating the written word into images and sounds. Areas of study include framing images, lighting, using off-screen space and sound, editing, and postproduction. Students integrate their own writing to produce some of these projects. Formerly CM 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Writing for Film and Television, Applied Theater majors; Web Drama minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 111 - Dramatic Structure I

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act dramatic structure found in narrative screenplays. Topics of the course include sequences, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students are required to complete focused and specific creative written work on a weekly basis. Workshops are held on a weekly basis. Formerly WM 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television and Discovery Year majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Select one of the following:

CMAC Core/Discipline History

CMMC 141 - Storytelling: Theory and Practice

This course introduces students to storytelling as a way of structuring communication. Course material ranges from annual reports to ad campaigns to greeting cards to rap music to political campaigns, offering students an introduction to the many ways narrative can be exploited for a powerful effect. Students learn to apply theory and to explore the relationship of different types of media to different narrative forms.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 353 - Media Industries

This course investigates the range of organizations and economic forces involved in media production. Includes diverse production models, from mainstream and corporate, to public sector, to alternative, and comparisons with media industries in other cultural settings. The course focuses on business and policy issues and considers examples of media practice from broadcast and cable news, advertising, Hollywood and independent cinema, public media, and new media industries. The course includes a final research project. Formerly CM 260

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Spring Credits: 15

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 112 - Dramatic Structure II

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act structure found in narrative screenplays. Focus on such topics as act design, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students will be required to complete major written work and participate in workshops of written material. Formerly WM 114

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Students who decide they do not wish to major in Writing for Film & Television during the fall semester may substitute another course for Dramatic Structure II in the spring semester after discussion with their advisor.

LAPR 951 - Art, Media and Society

A seminar exploring the identity crisis of the modern artist in the period since the industrial revolution and the rise of the middle class. Conflicts or collaborations between the fine arts and commercialism, including mass media and new technology, from Romanticism and the arts and crafts movement to Pop Art and the Web. Issues of authorship, production, quality, and permanence. Who determines taste, and why? Does high art have a future? Formerly HU 498

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 951 - Technology, Culture and Society

This course explores the complex relationship among technology, cultural paradigms, and popular consciousness. We study and analyze such questions as “What is technology?”, “Does technology necessarily imply progress?”, and “How does technology define reality?” Students examine these and other related themes through readings and other media. Formerly HU 396

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 810 - Modern American History

A study of contemporary developments, values, and issues as a product of 20th century phenomena. The course seeks to understand the dramatic changes that have occurred in American society over the last 50 years. Formerly HU 264

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102 or WRIT 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 831 - Money Matters

Explores issues in economics and business by working out from the roles and interests of individual agents and groups. We look at economic dynamics in artistic and cultural work in the present, and at different historical moments, to explore further the nature of these relationships and their meanings. Students are exposed to economic and business discourse, provided with a broad and intensive understanding of economic and business language and logic, given experience in the application of these concepts to the issues in their field of interest, and provide a foundation for thinking through the economic and ethical dimensions of their work. Formerly HU 272

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 922 - Politics and the Media

This course analyzes how political and social forces interact with the American community and how that interaction affects government structure and policy. Factors such as population profiles, “suburbanites,” elite groups, public opinion, party organization, elections, and reform movements are studied. Formerly HU 359

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 925 - Mass Media and the Arts

The purpose of this course is to develop an understanding of mass media and popular culture, primarily in the United States since the 1890s. Various forms of mass media are defined and the shared techniques by which these forms seek to communicate are analyzed. Finally, the values, both aesthetic and social, embodied in both these media and popular culture are examined in relation to social and economic change. Formerly HU 390

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 150 - Information Concepts

Emphasis is on the importance of organizing and communicating information in a digital world. Students acquire a basic understanding of how computers operate and communicate with each other, as well as an understanding of the evolution of the personal computer and the industries that have spun out of this technology. Student assignments include readings, database projects, and written analyses. Formerly MM 130

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 250 - Survey of Multimedia

Examines the chronological evolution of digital technology and its inevitable application by the aesthetic community. Beginning with the development of digital technology in the mid-1940s, the course discusses the convergence of the scientific, military, and political environments that spawned the employment of digital technology, including the path that led to the digital dominance over analog. Includes the enhancement, exploitation, and embracing of digital technology by the corporate and aesthetic communities, the invention of the personal computer and its ancillary products, and the application of digital technologies in fields as diverse as medicine, communications, manufacturing, cognitive psychology, and in particular, the arts. Pioneers in all fields are identified and examined. Formerly MM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 353 - Psychology of Human/Computer Interaction

Students explore the ways humans perceive interacting with computers. How do humans treat computers? Why? Should we interact with them the same way we do with other humans? The reasons behind why some computer interfaces work and some do not is discussed in depth. Should computers be able to perceive our emotions? Or should computers themselves have emotions? The final for this course allows students to take part in designing an original interface solution. Formerly MM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 354 - Game Play

A lecture-based focus on the human behavior in the how and why of play and creativity. Course material examines the relationship between creativity and play, the effects of reward and punishment, cultural notions of play, and the integration of play with design play. Students examine the differences between informed and uninformed play as well as the phenomenon of flow. Formerly MM 342

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 242 - Film Story Analysis

The course examines various narrative film genres, identifying the unique and distinctive qualities of screenwriting conventions utilized. Screenings and analysis highlight the devices employed by screenwriters to tell a good story. Weekly screenings followed by critical papers of each screening. Formerly WM 343

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 252 - Narrative Cinema II

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 252

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 253 - History of Television

Provides an overview of the medium of television. The impact of television since its inception has become increasingly pervasive and has influenced an entire society through its ability to educate and entertain. Video examples of the medium are supplemented by class discussion and reading assignments. Formerly WM 253

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 261 - Cinema Arts

Introduction to the various cinematic production values, which directly influence the character of the dramatic product. Topics of study include cinematography, art and production design, editing and sound as they relate to the writer's intention, and the quality of the final product. Formerly WM 241

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Areas of Application

Majors in Communication must take two of the following areas of application (9 credits each; 18 credits total)

Documentary Video

Prepares students for careers in documentary production, educational media, news feature production, corporate media, and television commercial production.

CMMC 341 - Documentary Media Production I

The conceptual, aesthetic, and pragmatic dimensions of producing video documentaries. Students are exposed to examples of a variety of documentary approaches through screenings and readings, which illustrate the range of choices and creative possibilities of communicating information and emotion through this form. They are also introduced to advanced digital video technologies as they work through a series of structured exercises and later work in teams to develop documentary projects. Project work includes pre-production research, interviews, original shooting in small crews, editing, and presenting finished work. Formerly CM 391

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 342 - Documentary Media Production II

Develops a deeper understanding of the pragmatic, conceptual, and aesthetic dimensions of producing documentary video and audio. Contemporary issues and approaches in documentary media-making through screenings and readings. Students achieve increased mastery of advanced digital video technologies and work through a series of project stages for a medium-length documentary. Students are responsible for completing their own projects, presenting them to their colleagues, and collaborating on other students' projects. Formerly CM 392

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 341 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 351 - History of Documentary

Introduces the historical and aesthetic sweep of approaches to documentary film and video. Through extensive screenings and readings, this survey opens the range of choices and creative possibilities for documentary while understanding aesthetic conventions, technological limitations, and social history. In addition to attending screenings and discussion, students write two short papers and one longer term paper. Formerly CM 293

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4.5 hrs

Digital Journalism

Prepares students for online publishing and work as an independent publisher or writer.

CMMC 331 - Digital Journalism I

The primary skills and practices involved in constructing news for the online environment. Begins with an exploration of the evolution of journalism from print to online and digital forms. By looking critically at a range of journalistic examples and reading about the changing work of reporting, students grapple with the differences between traditional and new media forms of journalism and begin to learn the practice of reporting online. They work through a set of exercises researching story ideas, pitching them to the class, conducting interviews, and writing, designing, and posting short pieces for the Web, introducing them to the possibilities and constraints of working in this medium. Formerly CM 381

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and E-Publishing minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 332 - Digital Journalism II

A more intensive course in digital journalism, building on CMMC 331: Digital Journalism I, in which students explore the present state and future possibilities for journalism in the online environment. Students work in teams and on their own to complete a more complex set of online journalism projects, researching story ideas, pitching them to the class, conducting interviews, and writing and designing story sites for the web. Formerly CM 382

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 331 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 334 - News and Culture in the Digital Age

Surveys the impact of social issues on journalism and the social impact of journalism on society in the digital age. Through readings about journalism and society and case studies, both past and current, of how the news industry operates, students learn about how race, gender, ethics, technology and the changing nature of the news business affect the work of journalists. These issues take on increased importance with the shift to digital technologies for production and distribution. Formerly CM 383

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Game Design

Prepares students for online advertising, interactive Web drama and interactive art, electronic publishing, and the game industry.

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 245 - Writing for Games

A writing laboratory that allows students to develop competency in writing rule-based procedural description as well evocative storylines for games and user/play scenarios. Special emphasis is placed on the difference in writing required between game types (chance, puzzles, and strategies) as well as game genres such as role-playing, twitch, and games of perfect information. Formerly MM 240

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 335 - Programming for Games

An introduction to programming for interactive game environments. Students learn techniques and theory through exercises and applications that they construct. The programming language studied can change each semester and may include: FlashAction Scripting, Advanced Lingo for Games, C++, or Java. Formerly MM 341

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Narrative Video

Prepares students to be editors, producers, and directors for television, film, and commercials, sound recordists, and production managers.

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 312 - Advanced Narrative Video Production

Students complete a twenty-minute narrative film, emphasizing their role as director and storyteller. A script must be submitted and approved before entering the course.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311; WRIT 220 or THEA 152

A script must be submitted and approved before entering the course.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Film Studies/Film Production Elective Credits / Units: 3

Screenwriting

Prepares students to be screenwriters, producers, story analysts, and film/TV executives, corporate videographers or producers in advertising and the media.

WRIT 212 - Screenwriting II

An intensive screenwriting workshop where, in the first semester, students study scene structure and dialogue, and write a series of outlines for an hour-long screenplay. In the second semester, students write an hour-long screenplay and revise the script. Formerly WM 215

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220 Priority enrollment to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 241 - Screenplay Analysis

A course devoted to the critical analysis of screenplays. Students are required to read numerous scripts and write critical papers on various dramatic structural principles highlighted. Formerly WM 243

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 327 - Episodic Television Writing I

An intensive writing class that analyzes the specific genre of episodic television writing. Students view examples of various genres in the form, and work in teams to create original written work. Three major projects are completed over the course of the semester, including creating an original series pilot. Formerly WM 317

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: WRIT 212 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Strategic Advertising

Prepares students to be copywriters, strategic planners, and media buyers and producers.

CMMC 221 - Advertising: Creative Concepts I

Whether an advertisement appears in print, on television or radio, or on the Internet, it is built around an idea. Students learn to recognize and create strong advertising ideas that are relevant to the product and the audience, with an emphasis on print advertising. Students learn how to allow their creativity to be guided by strategy. Students are exposed to outstanding creative work and readings in their texts and from studying professional work. They then apply these principles as they create advertising of their own. Formerly CM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 321 - Advertising Strategy Development

The business side of creative advertising. Examines the functions of the various departments within an advertising agency, focusing on strategic development, and introduces the three key steps in that development-market segmentation, brand positioning, and research. Students learn a variety of qualitative and quantitative research methods and analytical methods and apply what they have learned by developing and presenting an advertising strategy for an actual product. Formerly CM 371

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 322 - Advertising: Creative Concepts II

Having learned how to create strong individual concepts, students create broader and deeper concepts that can form the basis for a number of ads and learn how to execute an idea in more than one medium. The course begins by examining award-winning print campaigns in order to recognize suitable ideas for multi-ad campaigns; to identify elements and themes and their grounding in research; and to understand the consumer. The course then examines how interactive media are being used to build customer relationships and brand identities, and explores the strategic functions of these new media. Students develop storyboards for a product or service that reinforces that product's existing brand personality. Formerly CM 372

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 221 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Web Design

Prepares students to work in advertising agencies and in corporate and institutional settings.

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 315 - Advanced Interface Seminar

A seminar course that builds on Introduction to Interface Design. Focuses on the issues involved in creating user interfaces in today's development platforms (hardware, software, input devices, cell phones, etc.). Lectures, discussions, readings, research, and writing constitute the body of this course. In addition to current interface trends, the process of developing the interfaces of tomorrow is addressed. Formerly MM 320

CRFT 201 - Projects I

Students make art that deals with crafts issues and concepts. Individual project consultations are supplemented by lectures, visiting artists, and group critiques. As this course is content based, students use any/all crafts studios during in-class work time and open studio hours. (Students have access to crafts studios where they have completed or are currently taking a media-specific course.) Formerly CR 200A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 131 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. Enrollment in a Crafts media-specific course required.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

CRFT 401 - Projects III

Student selects a topic and produces a body of work for the crafts Senior thesis exhibition. Part of this course is Senior Seminar, a forum for the discussion of ideas and issues through student participation, guest lecturers, and professional offerings. The modern craft aesthetic is examined in terms of late nineteenth- and twentieth-century ideas and issues. Emphasis on the interdependency of all the arts with an eye to the unique contribution of crafts ideology and practice. Topical discussions encourage students to find contemporary relevancy and validity in an analysis of historical precedents. Other topics include: making an artist's presentation, resume preparation, writing an artist's statement, recordkeeping and taxes, grant writing, and career opportunities. Particular attention to the style and survival techniques of contemporaries working in craft media. Formerly CR 400A

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Beginning studio work using the throwing process and related glazing and firing techniques. Problems are given with an emphasis on developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 212 - Introduction to Throwing

Beginning studio work using the throwing process and related glazing and firing techniques. Problems are given with an emphasis on developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 213 - Introduction to Handbuilding

Beginning studio work with clay using the handbuilding processes of slab, coil pinch, and pressing form molds, plus related glazing and firing techniques. Problems given emphasize developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 212A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 214 - Introduction to Handbuilding

Beginning studio work with clay using the handbuilding processes of slab, coil pinch, and pressing form molds, plus related glazing and firing techniques. Problems given emphasize developing each student's potential for personal expression and artistic invention. Formerly CR 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 311 - Advanced Throwing

Concentration on resolving conceptual and formal issues as they relate to individual exploration on the wheel. Problems encourage uniqueness and challenge abilities. Typical issues include usage and symbolic function, serial production, the table, and site-oriented applications, and medium to large-scale use of materials. All problems stress practical as well as aesthetic resourcefulness with clay on the wheel. Senior Craft majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 370A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CRCM 211, CRCM 212 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FibersCRFB 211 - Introduction to Fibers: Mixed Media

An introduction to both traditional and experimental uses of materials and structural processes in the fabric media. Assignments focus on the exploration of two- and three-dimensional forms in preparation for versatile approaches to the fibers media. A range of off-loom mixed media techniques are covered. Formerly CR 221A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRFB 212 - Introduction to Color and the Loom

Students explore the potential of two- and three-dimensional forms in preparation for versatile approaches to the fibers media. Loom, woven structures, tapestry, and woven color are covered. Formerly CR 221B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRFB 222 - Introduction to Constructed Surface

Through a series of developmental assignments, students are provided with a solid technical and conceptual base in the fabric media. Non-loom constructions, color, and multifiber dye techniques are covered. Formerly CR 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRFB 311 - Advanced Fibers Mixed Media

Through a series of developmental assignments with a conceptual emphasis and by using acquired knowledge from previous semesters, students are encouraged to explore forms that reveal the inherent physical qualities and potential image-making possibilities of fabric. Loom-woven and mixed-media fabric techniques are used as appropriate, depending on the student's interest in the development of a diverse range of two-dimensional constructions, sculptural forms, costume, etc. Formerly CR 322A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRFB 211, CRFB 212, CRFB 222 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Metals and JewelryCRMT 211 - Introduction to Jewelry

An exploration of notions of jewelry and body adornment as a means of personal expression. Projects range from precious jewelry making to adornment that extends into performance. Basic goldsmithing skills are taught as essential, while three-dimensional sketching and experimentation in mixed media are encouraged. Successful integration of design, material, and process is the goal. Projects provide students with broad exposure to the many possibilities inherent in jewelry and ornament as related to the human form. Formerly CR 241A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 212 - Introduction to Jewelry

An exploration of notions of jewelry and body adornment as a means of personal expression. Projects range from precious jewelry making to adornment that extends into performance. CRMT 221 - Introduction to Metalsmithing

Metal is an extremely versatile material; though hard and durable, it is quite malleable and easily worked. This course covers direct working of metal. Sheet, wire, bar, and rod are given form by hammering, seaming, and bending, etc. The majority of work is done in bronze, brass and copper, though steel, stainless steel, aluminum, and precious metals may be used as well. Contemporary issues addressed include the object as sculpture, process as a source material, the importance of surface and detail, and functional objects made by artists. Formerly CR 242

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRMT 311 - Advanced Jewelry/Metals

Builds upon a basic grounding in jewelry concepts and techniques. Lectures, technical demonstrations, and conceptual projects vary from year to year so that students retaking the course will not find it redundant. The goals of the course are to increase awareness and understanding of jewelry as a component of our culture, aid the student in the development of a personal aesthetic, and develop thinking and problem-solving abilities. More experienced students are encouraged to focus on one specialized area of the jewelry field. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Craft Projects III. Formerly CR 380A

Wood

CRWD 211 - Introduction to Woodworking

Introduction to basic woodworking skills and processes, including sharpening and setting up hand tools and machinery, theory of solid wood joinery, and construction. In addition to building technical skills, emphasis is on contemporary and historical furniture design issues. Formerly CR 261A

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 212 - Introduction to Woodworking

Introduction to basic woodworking skills and processes, including sharpening and setting up hand tools and machinery, theory of solid wood joinery, and construction. In addition to building technical skills, emphasis is on contemporary and historical furniture design issues. Formerly CR 261B

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 221 - Introduction to Furniture

This course presents a series of design problems emphasizing exploration of ideas through drawing and model making. Historic and contemporary examples are studied. Fundamental joinery techniques are covered, but the emphasis is on design exploration, imagination, and inventiveness. Students provide their own materials and some hand tools. Formerly CR 285

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 311 - Advanced Wood

Covers tools, joinery, methods, and materials. Content progresses with increasing complexity, involving machining, hand tools, finishing, and surface treatments. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 386

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: 6 credits from courses: CRWD 211, CRWD 212 Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken four times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRWD 321 - Advanced Furniture

Continuation of CRWD 223 (Introduction to Furniture) involving more complex design projects, combinations of objects, and advanced model making and finishing techniques. Emphasis on imagination, inventiveness, and depth of content. Senior Crafts majors taking this course may choose to spend all or part of their time producing thesis work to supplement the thesis component of Crafts Projects III. Formerly CR 385A

Digital Fine Arts Concentration

This concentration is designed for students grounded in traditional two- and three-dimensional art and design principles who wish to incorporate digital tools and technology to create highly personalized artistic statements. While conceptually and procedurally digitally based, the digital fine arts concentration provides for physical output in two-, three- and four-dimensional realms as well as combined formats. Working closely with advisors, the student selects 15 credits from categories I and II, with a six-credit minimum in each category.

Requirements for the Minor

I. Imaging, Interactivity, and Sound Options:

EMDI 210 - Digital Multimedia

The elements of digital multimedia production techniques address the integration and creation of digital media for websites and alternative delivery processes such as podcasting. This course involves hands-on production experience as well as perspective on developments in this rapidly growing field through the readings and lectures. Students create projects involving digital imagery, video and sound, and animation. The first half of the semester is dedicated to creating video pieces utilizing either digital video or animating still imagery. Creation of effective sound tracks will be an important part of this process. The second half of the semester is dedicated to creating a website and utilizing compressed digital video on the Web. Software to be utilized include Photo to Movie, iMovie, Audacity, Garageband, iDVD, and Dreamweaver. There is considerable emphasis on new utilizations of digital media such as podcasts and VODcasts (video on demand) and cell phone multimedia. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 610. Formerly EM 210

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAAN 231 - Introduction to Computer Animation

This introductory course develops the student's understanding of digital movement and imaging through animation exercises using a variety of 2D software programs on the PC platform. No previous computer experience is required. Formerly PF 216

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 211 - Creative Sound

Exploration of the creative use of sound as a primary artistic medium. Topics include sound and hearing, microphones and recording, tape editing and manipulation, sound aesthetics and production styles, voice and narration, signal processing and sound manipulation, and production formats. Through audio production projects, students gain insights into new ways of using sound, both on its own and with other media. Formerly PF 218

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Digital Fine Arts minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. Formerly PF 315

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MUSC 163 - Aural Concepts

For non-music majors. An introduction to the use of music and sound components of multimedia and their potential for enhancing communication. Recognizing the special background and needs of the non-music major student, the course examines the production of musical sound, basic notation and theory practices, and an in-depth overview of disparate musical styles illustrating the variety and depth of musical thought from around the world and its potential relationship to the visual image. Formerly MU 149A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the School of Music. Priority enrollment to Multimedia majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 460 - Introduction to MIDI and Electronic Technology

A detailed "hands-on" examination of the use of computers in the present-day composition environment. The course includes the uses of a computer, the language of MIDI, sequencing, audio sampling, analog, digital, and other forms of synthesis, and a survey of currently available music software. Documentary Video Minor

The minor in Documentary Video provides instruction in the making of creative non-fiction stories, essays, and informational programs, primarily in video form. It is designed for students who wish to augment their studies in a related field. Through this minor, students learn to document the lives and narratives of people and places, portray historical, political and contemporary events, present information in accessible and stimulating forms, and make persuasive arguments, as well as learn the skills related to documentary production. Communication majors may not declare a Documentary Video minor.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
(To be determined with minor advisor)

CMMC 341 - Documentary Media Production I

The conceptual, aesthetic, and pragmatic dimensions of producing video documentaries. Students are exposed to examples of a variety of documentary approaches through screenings and readings, which illustrate the range of choices and creative possibilities of communicating information and emotion through this form. They are also introduced to advanced digital video technologies as they work through a series of structured exercises and later work in teams to develop documentary projects. Project work includes pre-production research, interviews, original shooting in small crews, editing, and presenting finished work. Formerly CM 391

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 342 - Documentary Media Production II

Develops a deeper understanding of the pragmatic, conceptual, and aesthetic dimensions of producing documentary video and audio. Contemporary issues and approaches in documentary media-making through screenings and readings. Students achieve increased mastery of advanced digital video technologies and work through a series of project stages for a medium-length documentary. Students are responsible for completing their own projects, presenting them to their colleagues, and collaborating on other students' projects. Formerly CM 392

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 341 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 351 - History of Documentary

Introduces the historical and aesthetic sweep of approaches to documentary film and video. Through extensive screenings and readings, this survey opens the range of choices and creative possibilities for documentary while understanding aesthetic conventions, technological limitations, and social history. In addition to attending screenings and discussion, students write two short papers and one longer term paper. Formerly CM 293

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4.5 hrs

One of the following:

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

E-Music Minor - CMAC

The minor in E-Music offers students majoring in both Multimedia and Music an opportunity to create electronic and experimental music, to develop skills that allow them to produce, package, and distribute music by taking advantage of digital technology, and to design electronic instrumental interfaces. The minor prepares students for a variety of highly entrepreneurial careers ranging from entertainment and product development to creative and production work in the recording and musical fields. This minor is only available to students majoring in Multimedia or Music. Specific requirements for Music majors can be found in the School of Music section of this catalog.

Requirements for the Minor

Courses required for Multimedia students:

MMDI 330 - E-Music Thesis Project

A culminating course for students in the E-Music minor in which they develop an application. Students develop a proposal for an application and carry the idea through research implementation, execution, and presentation. With the consent of the instructor, projects may be the work of one student or that of a group of students, be in a variety of shapes, and in a variety of media. Students must have completed E-Music minor requirements. Formerly MM 370

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of other Minor courses.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 405 - Innovative Interfaces

The notion of the digital environment transcends the concept of the computer as we know it. These addresses and environments, although supported by digital technology, are non-computer-like in many respects. Building them calls for changes in the choice of interaction devices (using touch, voice, gestures, and possibly just user's intent as a basis for interaction), shape and size of computers (no boxes, but interactive surfaces), their location (floor, wall, pocket), as well as change in content structure. Using cross-disciplinary data from cognitive and computer sciences and social psychology, the students in this research/studio course focus primarily on the design and development of innovative ways of interacting with digital technology. Formerly MM 440

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MUNM 123 - Piano Class for Non-Majors

One-hour class of piano instruction in traditional beginning piano. Coursework includes basic technique including scales, chords, and chord melodies. Formerly MU 130A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Music majors specializing in piano. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 124 - Piano Class for Non-Majors

One-hour class of piano instruction in traditional beginning piano. Coursework includes basic technique including scales, chords, and chord melodies. Formerly MU 130B

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Music majors specializing in piano. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 131 - Composition for Non-Majors

Students develop basic skills in various aspects of composition, including form, melody, harmony, rhythm, color, texture, notation, improvisation, and orchestration. Formerly MU 111A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Composition majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 132 - Composition for Non-Majors

Students develop basic skills in various aspects of composition, including form, melody, harmony, rhythm, color, texture, notation, improvisation, and orchestration. Formerly MU 111B

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Composition majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 461 - Recording I

A study of the recording process and the many facets of the recording studio. Designed to familiarize the student with conventional and creative recording techniques through practical experience in the studio. Formerly MU 413A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

Select one of the following Music History courses:

MUSC 353 - History of Rock Music

This course investigates the History of Rock from its inception in the 1950s to the present. It begins with the important antecedents of Rock and Roll and then historically traces the various styles that evolved from that time to the present. There are live demonstrations and illustrations by guests in class. Formerly MU 306

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 452 - American Music History

The development of both classical and popular American musical styles from the seventeenth to the twentieth century. Recordings and films as well as in-class performances help bring to life the music from our American past. Students gain a clear understanding of the social, historical, and musical time line that evolved into our current musical environment. Formerly MU 401B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 453 - World Music

Covers the classical and folk music of various countries in Asia, Indonesia, the Middle East, Africa, and the Western Hemisphere. Formerly MU 402

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 455 - Twentieth Century Music

A study of the theoretical bases of such twentieth century composers as Schonberg, Berg, Webern, Stravinsky, Hindemith, Bartok, Varese, and Messiaen. Formerly MU 411

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 459 - Mixed Media Musical Masters

Formerly MU 428

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

E-Music Minor - CPA

The minor in E-Music offers students majoring in both Multimedia and Music an opportunity to create electronic and experimental music, to develop skills that allow them to produce, package, and distribute music by taking advantage of digital technology, and to design (electronic) instrumental interfaces. The minor prepares students for a variety of highly entrepreneurial careers ranging from entertainment and product development to creative and production work in the recording and musical fields. This minor is only available to students majoring in Multimedia or Music.

Requirements for the Minor

Courses required for Music students:

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

MMDI 330 - E-Music Thesis Project

A culminating course for students in the E-Music minor in which they develop an application. Students develop a proposal for an application and carry the idea through research implementation, execution, and presentation. With the consent of the instructor, projects may be the work of one student or that of a group of students, be in a variety of shapes, and in a variety of media. Students must have completed E-Music minor requirements. Formerly MM 370

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of other Minor courses.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUCP 322 - Analysis and Composition of Contemporary Music

An examination of compositional techniques used in pop songs, jingles, soundtracks, and underscores for radio, TV, records, films, shows, and industrials. Students investigate the ways in which music serves to enhance the overall goals of the product or project. Musical analysis serves to demonstrate how each style is created. Students produce their own musical compositions in each media context. Formerly MU 308A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MUSC 204, MUSC 206 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUCP 323 - Analysis & Composition of Commercial Music

Continuation of MUCP 322. Formerly MU 308B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUCP 322 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 1.5 hrs

Select one of the following Multimedia Studios:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 301 - Interactive Sound and Video

The course deals with the experience of producing complete multimedia installation works in a project-based environment – focussing on Interactive sound and video. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Authoring environments used include but are not limited to MAX MSP, Isadora, and Macromedia Director. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 310

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 405 - Innovative Interfaces

The notion of the digital environment transcends the concept of the computer as we know it. Formerly MM 440

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

E-Publishing Minor

The minor in E-Publishing provides students with skills connected to both the craft and business of writing and publishing online. This minor provides students with an opportunity to strengthen their journalistic and expository writing styles especially as used in electronic media, while also learning the basics of the business of establishing a Website, Webzine, Web radio, or Weblog. The skills learned are useful for students who are interested in online publishing as an independent publisher or freelance writer, as well as those who wish to work with online publishing enterprises. Majors in Communication may not declare an E-Publishing minor.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
(To be determined by minor advisor)

CMMC 331 - Digital Journalism I

The primary skills and practices involved in constructing news for the online environment. Begins with an exploration of the evolution of journalism from print to online and digital forms. By looking critically at a range of journalistic examples and reading about the changing work of reporting, students grapple with the differences between traditional and new media forms of journalism and begin to learn the practice of reporting online. They work through a set of exercises researching story ideas, pitching them to the class, conducting interviews, and writing, designing, and posting short pieces for the Web, introducing them to the possibilities and constraints of working in this medium. Formerly CM

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and E-Publishing minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 415 - E-Publishing Thesis Project

This studio class allows students to complete a project and publish it online. Students examine the sub-field of e-publishing that their project fits within, researching relevant models and examples, write a business plan for their project, consider intellectual property questions raised by their project, complete and present their thesis project, and write a reflective paper about their project. Formerly CM 340

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of minor. Open to students in the E-Publishing minor only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 831 - Money Matters

Explores issues in economics and business by working out from the roles and interests of individual agents and groups. We look at economic dynamics in artistic and cultural work in the present, and at different historical moments, to explore further the nature of these relationships and their meanings. Students are exposed to economic and business discourse, provided with a broad and intensive understanding of economic and business language and logic, given experience in the application of these concepts to the issues in their field of interest, and provide a foundation for thinking through the economic and ethical dimensions of their work. Formerly HU 272

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

Figurative Illustration Minor

The focus of this minor is on work with the figure in space. Old master and traditional drawing and painting techniques are demonstrated and utilized as the student concentrates on the development of skills related to figurative drawing and painting. Illustration majors may not declare a Figurative Illustration minor.

ILUS 201 - Pictorial Foundation

Introduction to drawing and painting skills as they relate to illustration. Objective visual perception, clarity in drawing, and technical facility are stressed. Students are exposed to visual communications, strategies, and design concepts through exposure to art history and the field of contemporary illustration. Formerly IL 200A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 202 - Pictorial Foundation

Introduction to drawing and painting skills as they relate to illustration. Objective visual perception, clarity in drawing, and technical facility are stressed. Students are exposed to visual communications, strategies, and design concepts through exposure to art history and the field of contemporary illustration. Formerly IL 200B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: ILUS 201 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 211 - Figure Anatomy

Focus on the investigation and application of line, plane, mass, light and shade, shadow, perspective, anatomy, and proportion as they relate to figure drawing. Weekly sessions include a lecture, demonstrations from the skeleton, and drawing from life. Formerly IL 202A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 212 - Figure Anatomy

Focus on the investigation and application of line, plane, mass, light and shade, shadow, perspective, anatomy, and proportion as they relate to figure drawing. Weekly sessions include a lecture, demonstrations from the skeleton, and drawing from life. Formerly IL 202B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 211 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 312 - Figure Utilization

Studies of the figure in narrative contexts are explored, as is work from single and grouped models, nude and costumed. Concentration is on developing compositions and concepts from different and often combined resources. Drawing and painting techniques are utilized. Formerly IL 303

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 321 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors and Figurative Illustration minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Film/Animation - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Sophomore Year Credits: 33

Fall Credits: 18

WRIT 251 and WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema I and II are required of all Film/Animation majors as part of the total Liberal Arts distribution.

ILUS 285 - Drawing for Animators

Focuses on introducing and developing the skills and disciplines needed for good figurative animation drawing. The primary issues of anatomical figure drawing with a strong emphasis on the structure and solidity of the figure, good proportions, and specific movement and gesture as they relate to the model. Topics also covered: two-dimensional versus three-dimensional ways of translating form; how perspective and viewpoint are used with the figure and their effect on scale; exaggerated foreshortening techniques; diagrammatic and expressive live quality; facial expressions; hand and foot studies; capturing movement through gesture; and introduction to animal drawing for animation. Formerly IL 205

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Animation and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

MAAN 201 - Introduction to Animation I

Through a series of drawn exercises concentrating on timing, movement, and weight, the student acquires a basic understanding of animation principles. Sound is introduced for the final project, which consists of a short animated film with a complete soundtrack. Formerly PF 212A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 or MMDI 101 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Can be taken either fall or spring semester.

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

WRIT 251 and WRIT 252 Narrative Cinema I and II are required of all Film/Animation majors as part of the total Liberal Arts distribution.

MAAN 202 - Introduction to Animation II

Students are introduced to under-the-camera animation using varied mediums such as puppets, cut-outs, and painting-on-glass. Special attention is given to non-narrative approaches to animation. A final project is created using one or more of the techniques explored during the semester. Formerly PF 212B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 201 or MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors and Animation minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 231 - Introduction to Computer Animation

This introductory course develops the student's understanding of digital movement and imaging through animation exercises using a variety of 2D software programs on the PC platform. No previous computer experience is required. Formerly PF 216

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 202 - Introduction to Film/Digital Video

This course offers an introduction to the basic practices of digital video editing and further creative exploration of the art of moving images. Students perform timing, staging, and blocking exercises to develop a feel for direction, experiment with more advanced film strategies, learn to edit digital video, and investigate relationships between sound and image. A final project integrates these explorations creatively. Formerly PF 210B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 252 - Narrative Cinema II

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 252

MAAN 301 - Junior Animation Workshop I

This course focuses on the creation of a personal, 1.5 minute animated piece, starting from initial conception and ending with final output to digital or film media. Stages in the production cycle include storyboarding, animatics, animation, inking and painting, sound image editing, and final output. Formerly PF 312A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 301 - Junior Cinema Production I

Film production class emphasizing independent filmmaking techniques and concepts. Students explore cinematic ideas through structured and personal filmmaking assignments that emphasize keen visual thinking, story development, and an understanding of film form and film language. Students are taught professional lighting, 16mm sync sound camera technologies, editing and soundtrack strategies, and laboratory procedures. Students also view and analyze significant films. Formerly PF 310A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

MAAN 232 - 2-D Computer Animation

Using both raster- and vector-based programs, students explore how to build 2D animation sequences in the computer and how to translate hand-drawn animation into digitally composited animated pieces. Traditional animation principles are expanded upon and reinforced using 2D computer graphics and editing programs. Digital imagery and sound are integrated in class assignments designed to explore a wide variety of 2D styles. Formerly PF 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 331 - 3-D Computer Animation

Using industry-standard 3D computer software, students learn basic modeling, texturing, lighting, movement, and rendering techniques. This course prepares students for further 3D computer coursework and allow them to utilize 3D software in the development and creation of their Junior and Senior thesis work. Formerly PF 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 18

- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

MAAN 302 - Junior Animation Workshop II

The first half of this course is devoted to the creation of a short client-based project. The second half involves an interdisciplinary group project aimed at refining students' knowledge of animation movement design. Formerly PF 312B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 301 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 341 - Moving Art: Animation Theory and Production

The aesthetics of animation and how the design and structural elements of frame-by-frame filmmaking have evolved over time. Analytical, production, and historical approaches are brought to bear in the study of animation principles and their development over time. Formerly PF 327

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 202 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 302 - Junior Cinema Production II

Film production class emphasizing independent filmmaking techniques and concepts. Students explore cinematic ideas through structured and personal filmmaking assignments that emphasize keen visual thinking, story development, and an understanding of film form and film language. Students are taught professional lighting, 16mm sync sound camera technologies, editing and soundtrack strategies, and laboratory procedures. Students also view and analyze significant films. Formerly PF 310B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 301 Open to Film/Digital Video majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 331 - Experiments in Advanced Digital Video

An intermediate-level course in digital audio and video production. In the context of screenings and readings drawn from the history of experimental media, students learn to use various digital and optical strategies to approach a variety of thematic issues. This course is a venue for the production of short, aesthetically energized works for a variety of screening environments, and encourages collaboration with Dance and Music majors. Formerly PF 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 33

Fall Credits: 18

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr
- MAAN 401 Sr. Animation Workshop I Credits: 3 cr

MAFL 401 - Senior Cinema Production I

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311 or MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

MACR 443 - Time: A Multidisciplinary Seminar

The concept of Time considered from a multidisciplinary perspective, drawing on readings in philosophy, literature, psychology, sociology, and film theory. Relevant works in film and video are screened. Students are responsible for a final term paper that interrelates two or more of the readings with one of the screened works. Formerly PF 424

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 or MAAN 302

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr
- MAAN 402 Sr. Animation Workshop II Credits: 3 cr

MACR 499 - Internship

Internship program in which the student, working closely with the Media Arts Department internship advisor, is placed in one of several professional situations. Placements include assisting in professional studios, practice in biomedical photography laboratories, and working for commercial and non-profit galleries, among others. Placements in film and animation are sponsored by local independent production houses and television stations, design firms, and free-lance artists; students of film may assist in location shooting, set production, editing, casting, scripting, and a myriad of other practical tasks. Formerly PF 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202, MAPH 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 320 - Film Forum: Selected Topics

Concentrated study of a particular area of film, video, or animation. Courses deal with specific issues and have included: film theory; seminars in sound and installation; studies in Japanese media; the history of video art; and the history of animation. Formerly PF 324

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 402 - Senior Cinema Production II

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 401 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. MAFL 331 - Experiments in Advanced Digital Video

An intermediate-level course in digital audio and video production. In the context of screenings and readings drawn from the history of experimental media, students learn to use various digital and optical strategies to approach a variety of thematic issues. This course is a venue for the production of short, aesthetically energized works for a variety of screening environments, and encourages collaboration with Dance and Music majors. Formerly PF 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

MACR 443 - Time: A Multidisciplinary Seminar

The concept of Time considered from a multidisciplinary perspective, drawing on readings in philosophy, literature, psychology, sociology, and film theory. Relevant works in film and video are screened. Students are responsible for a final term paper that interrelates two or more of the readings with one of the screened works. Formerly PF 424

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 302 or MAAN 302

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MACR 499 - Internship

Internship program in which the student, working closely with the Media Arts Department internship advisor, is placed in one of several professional situations. Placements include assisting in professional studios, practice in biomedical photography laboratories, and working for commercial and non-profit galleries, among others. Placements in film and animation are sponsored by local independent production houses and television stations, design firms, and free-lance artists; students of film may assist in location shooting, set production, editing, casting, scripting, and a myriad of other practical tasks. Formerly PF 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202, MAPH 202 or MAAN 202 Open to Media Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 401 - Senior Cinema Production I

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 311 or MAFL 302 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

MAFL 402 - Senior Cinema Production II

Each student produces an independent thesis film. Formerly PF 410B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 401 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Liberal Arts Distribution

Note all Liberal Arts courses are 3 credits.

- Liberal Arts Electives Credits: 15 cr

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Note:

Electives must include nine studio credits taken outside the Film/Video offerings.

Film/Digital Video Minor

This minor provides training in film and video technology. Students work on their own as well as in teams with other students. Animation and Film/Digital Video majors may not declare a Film/Digital Video minor.

Requirements for the Minor

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 202 - Introduction to Film/Digital Video

This course offers an introduction to the basic practices of digital video editing and further creative exploration of the art of moving images. Students perform timing, staging, and blocking exercises to develop a feel for direction, experiment with more advanced film strategies, learn to edit digital video, and investigate relationships between sound and image. A final project integrates these explorations creatively. Formerly PF 210B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 301 - Junior Cinema Production I

Film production class emphasizing independent filmmaking techniques and concepts. Students explore cinematic ideas through structured and personal filmmaking assignments that emphasize keen visual thinking, story development, and an understanding of film form and film language. Students are taught professional lighting, 16mm sync sound camera technologies, editing and soundtrack strategies, and laboratory procedures. Students also view and analyze significant films. Formerly PF 310A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 311 - Sync-Sound for Narrative Film

Students in this course explore creative sound design in finished films with instruction and practice in the use of sound recording equipment, sound transfers, building and editing multiple synchronous sound tracks, and preparing for the sound mix. Students work in groups to create and complete a five-minute sync sound film that incorporates the concept of "sound design." Formerly PF 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video and Film/Animation majors; and Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 331 - Experiments in Advanced Digital Video

An intermediate-level course in digital audio and video production. In the context of screenings and readings drawn from the history of experimental media, students learn to use various digital and optical strategies to approach a variety of thematic issues. This course is a venue for the production of short, aesthetically energized works for a variety of screening environments, and encourages collaboration with Dance and Music majors. Formerly PF 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAFL 202 Open to Film/Digital Video majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Foundation Program

The full-time Freshman student is typically scheduled for 16.5 credits each semester, usually as follows:

Foundation Year Credits: 33

Foundation students are eligible to select any College of Art and Design major program regardless of the Foundation sequence they attend.

FOUNDATION

Fall Credits: 16.5

Students entering the Foundation program through midyear admission will enroll in these courses for the spring semester.

- Elective Credits: 1.5 cr

FNDP 111 - Drawing

Drawing is approached as a process by which the student examines and investigates the visual world. Line, mark, and shape are among the drawing elements emphasized in the first semester. With these tools, students examine the form and structure of various subjects while they improve their manual skills, strengthen their vision, and begin to define their drawing vocabulary. Graphite and charcoal pencils and a range of appropriate papers are the most frequently used materials. Historical precedents are discussed, master works analyzed, and relevant practical information – including the elements of spatial representation – is assimilated into the flow of class assignments. Focus is on the challenges and rewards of developing perceptual skills. Formerly FP 110

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 151 - Two-Dimensional Design Principles

The fundamental principles and language of the visual arts within the two-dimensional plane, The first semester defines and investigates the visual elements of point, line, shape, pattern and value. These fundamental elements are analyzed as independent units and brought together supporting and animating one another in a variety of formats. The investigation of compositional forces, interactions of shape with format, historic origins, mathematical structures, time-based and sequential concepts are explored. Perceptual abilities and hand skills are developed using a variety of traditional and digital media. Examination of principles of movement in two-dimensional space using animated imagery and digital animation software is incorporated. The discovery of the power of the underlying fundamentals and their application defines the more complex subject of this class. Formerly FNDP 121

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 161 - Three-Dimensional Design/Time Motion

An introduction to the fundamental principles of three-dimensional and time-based work. Concepts of space, movement, mass, volume, the qualities and properties of materials as well as kinetic works are explored using traditional and digital processes. As the semester progresses the construction of three-dimensional objects emphasizing serial and sequential concepts combines with the use of video for motion capture and other means of exploring fundamental time-based works. The course emphasis is on processes of thinking and planning, thoughtful articulation of form, principles of perception and an appreciation and refinement of acuity in regards to static and kinetic forms. Formerly FNDP 131.

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Elective Credits: 1.5 cr
Select three of the following four:

FNDP 112 - Drawing

Building on the sensibilities, skills, and information of FNDP 111, students refine their perceptual abilities, utilize new media such as charcoal and inks, and develop additional drawing strategies. Students undertake the analysis of complex natural objects, sculpt volume with line and tone, encounter the challenge of drawing the human figure, and meet other situations that demand the assimilation of new information and the application of advanced skills. Controlling proportion, building volume, engaging the illusion of space, while at the same time developing the desired quality of light and illumination are the descriptive goals of the semester. Faculty bring skills, projects, and information developed in the two- and three-dimensional classes into the service of drawing. Formerly FP 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 152 - Two-Dimensional Design

This course builds on the projects and skills established in FNDP 151. The majority of FNDP 152 is devoted to the introduction and extended study of color. With color comes additional visual enrichment, light and luminosity, a specialized language and the necessity to mature manual skills and control new media and concepts. The major works of the semester are based in the use of acrylic paints and require skills of mixing and application. Other color mediums such as collage, pastels, water colors and oil sticks are also explored. Color theories are discussed, projects requiring tinting, shading and toning clarify these basic concepts and master works of color are studied. Ideas developed in the class are shared with the other Foundation courses and skills from 3D and Drawing are imported to support current 2D projects. As the semester progresses, representational and non-representational form is developed as students work to integrate past experience, refine their skills of observation, expand the study of visual forces and explore more complex principles of organization. Instructor permission required. Formerly FNDP 122

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 151 Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 162 - Three-Dimensional Design

Building on the skills, language, and sensibilities of FNDP 161, the second semester undertakes more complex projects. Some projects often involve the combining of several materials and require the assembly of multiple parts. The semester builds in complexity, exploring the challenges of scale and engaging time and movement as part of their conception. The introduction of environmental works, setting in place new principles of three-dimensional organization, researching the order in nature and taking up the challenge of representation in three dimensions are some of the arenas in which students work. Faculty relate works and share principles with either the two dimensional, drawing, or time motion classes and attempt to harvest skills and sensibilities developed in those classes into the service of projects in Three-Dimensional Design. Formerly FNDP 132

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 161 Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FNDP 171 - Time and Motion

Building on the concepts and sensibilities of FNDP 151 Two-Dimensional Design Principles and FNDP 161 Three-Dimensional Design/Time Motion, students undertake an expanded exploration of time-based art. Students develop works that explore mechanical and digital animation devices, kinetics, and the cinematic language. Projects that focus on the controlled movement of objects, the positioning of the viewer and the use of sound prepare the students for the development of increasingly complex narrative works. Students experiment with a variety of materials and media.

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required. Open to Foundation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Game Design Minor

The minor in Game Design explores the principles that inform games – how they work, how to make them, why they are important, and how they help us understand our world and social interactions. Students learn to construct logical narratives and rules that make possible the creation of an active space in which gaming can take place. Using skills based upon interface and experience design, students program, write, and design interactive games. Upon completing the minor, students will have completed a fully functional prototype of an original game. Because of the structure of their major, Communication majors may not declare a minor within CMAC.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
To be determined with minor advisor; must be fulfilled with MM 121 for Writing for Film and Television majors.

MMDI 245 - Writing for Games

A writing laboratory that allows students to develop competency in writing rule-based procedural description as well evocative storylines for games and user/play scenarios. Special emphasis is placed on the difference in writing required between game types (chance, puzzles, and strategies) as well as game genres such as role-playing, twitch, and games of perfect information. Formerly MM 240

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 305 - Game Design Thesis

Students complete a fully marketable game prototype. Students and instructors examine how the gaming industry functions as well as research and develop an individual work. Special attention is paid to preparing to enter the field. Students must have completed Game Design minor requirements. Formerly MM 344

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Minor.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 354 - Game Play

A lecture-based focus on the human behavior in the how and why of play and creativity. Course material examines the relationship between creativity and play, the effects of reward and punishment, cultural notions of play, and the integration of play with design play. Students examine the differences between informed and uninformed play as well as the phenomenon of flow. Formerly MM 342

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors.

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

MMDI 335 - Programming for Games

An introduction to programming for interactive game environments. Students learn techniques and theory through exercises and applications that they construct. The programming language studied can change each semester and may include: FlashAction Scripting, Advanced Lingo for Games, C++, or Java. Formerly MM 341

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Graphic Design - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

GDES 201 - Design Systems

An intensive laboratory where the formal aspects of composition, organic and geometric form, color, symbolic drawing, craftsmanship, and the processes of conceptualizing are investigated. All of the assignments are founded on directed goals and playful investigation to train the student in the areas of selection, set theory, and visual logic. Formerly GD 213A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 203 - Letterform Design

The analysis and development of letterforms. The norms of weight, proportion, character width, and alphabetic relationships are developed perceptually, by hand. This course stresses the inherent optical relationships that exist in the construction of typefaces derived from the Latin alphabet. Formerly GD 210

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101 MMDI 102. Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 221 - Descriptive Drawing

A freehand drawing course that teaches the student to consciously observe, analyze, understand, and represent the underlying structure and form of manmade and natural objects. Logical representation and problem-solving is emphasized. A visual vocabulary of line, shape, value, texture, and their spatial organization is developed so that drawing can be used as a method of research and invention. Formerly GD 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 1.5 cr

EMDI 201 - Electronic Media/Production I

Addresses the development of foundation computer skills in image scanning technology, desktop publishing, digital photographic technologies, and basic output procedures. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 601. Formerly EM 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 202 - Design Systems

A continuation of Design Systems GDES 201. Further investigation of the visual language of design, culminating in a basic communication problem. Formerly GD 213B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 201 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 212 - Typography Fundamentals

The course addresses the basic formal language of typography and the application of typographic principles to frame basic communication messages. Typographic investigations are achieved by both manual and digital means. Formerly GD 212

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and

Typography minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 222 - Descriptive Drawing

A continuation of Descriptive Drawing GDES 221. A freehand, analytical drawing course that concentrates on organic form and objects from nature. Formal composition and visual vocabulary of line, shape, value, texture, and spatial organization are stressed. Drawing skills are developed to sketch and research visual concepts, as well as to use the medium for the invention of original images in upper-level courses. Formerly GD 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 221 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

EMDI 202 - Electronic Media/Production II

An extension of EMDI 201. Addresses the development of advanced computer skills in image scanning, technology, desktop publishing, pre-press production, color, output technology, and digital photographic technologies. Special attention is given to comparative study of output technologies and the translation of the on-screen image to offset lithography. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Formerly EM 202

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 201 Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 301 - Communications Studio

Developing an understanding of visual relationships and how to use them to create visual impact and clarity while solving communications problems. Invention, intuition, and discovery are combined with logical thought and thorough preliminary research. Special attention is given to refining the student's perceptual abilities, hand skills, and the integration of various media. Coursework is completed using both traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator, basic image scanning, and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 201. Formerly GD 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 201 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 311 - Typographic Systems

This course investigates and defines the principles of typography in a communication context. Directed research based upon typographic norms addresses the issues of informational hierarchies achievable through visual form and structure as well as the editorial and expressive potentials of typography. Coursework is completed both using traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 202. Working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: EMDI 201, GDES 212

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 854 - History of Communication Design

A survey of two-dimensional design in the West, with particular attention to developments in the twentieth century. Formerly HU 254

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 1.5 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

EMDI 203 - Digital Interactive Techniques

Addresses the development of computer skills in digital time-based software and cyberspace software. Special attention is given to interactivity and theories of informational architecture. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems in both individual and group projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Formerly EM 203

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 202 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 302 - Communications Studio

A continuation of GDES 301, concentrating on the development of color, sensitivity, perceptual abilities, and hand skills within a communications context. A working process that develops invention through logical thought and intuition is applied to communication problems. Coursework is completed using both traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator, basic image scanning, and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 203. Formerly GD 311B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 301 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 312 - Typographic Systems

This course is an extension and continuation of Typographic Systems GDES 311. The course addresses the typographic principles of the grid, text typography, text hierarchies, and image integration, all within the context of a multipage format. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign, image scanning, and basic knowledge of Photoshop or be concurrently enrolled in Electronic Media/Production II EMDI 312 to gain admission to this course. Additional working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: GDES 311, EMDI 202

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 1.5 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

EMDI 204 - Advanced Digital Interactive Techniques

An intensive studio in the advanced development of authoring and scripting skills in digital time-based software and cyberspace software. Special attention is given to interactivity, theories of informational architecture, and interface design. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems in both individual and group projects. All software is standard in current graphic design industry practice. Formerly EM 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 203 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 401 - Design Studio

A wide-ranging exploration of the connections between image and text, and symbolic and narrative imagery. These studies are supported by inquiries into semiotics, information theory, and research methodology. This course uses both traditional and computer technologies within a thorough research process. Preliminary research and definition of a self-generated degree project is undertaken by Graphic Design majors in this course. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly GD 411A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 302 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 403 - Problem Solving

Develops approaches to solving communications problems of diverse character and increasingly practical application. It assumes a high level of formal competence and places special emphasis on working within technical and time constraints by developing clear and concise thought patterns. This course uses both traditional and computer technologies within a thorough research process. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, Adobe Photoshop, Macromedia Director, Macromedia Flash, and Macromedia Dreamweaver. Formerly GD 412A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 302 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

GDES 402 - Design Studio: Senior Project

A self-generated degree project involving research, proposals, complete design formulation, and final presentation. Topics are reviewed by a panel of faculty in Graphic Design; and the students are reviewed by an outside critic midway through the preliminary stages of development. This course uses both traditional and computer technologies within a thorough research process. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly GD 411B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 401 Open to Graphic Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 404 - Problem Solving

A continuation of Problem Solving GDES 403. This course develops approaches to solving communications problems of broad scope and increasingly practical application. Students work within technical and time constraints while developing clear and concise thought patterns. The course assumes a high level of formal competence and places special emphasis on the development of unified visual and conceptual relationships across various formats and scale. Both traditional and computer technologies are used within a thorough research process. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, Adobe Photoshop, Macromedia Director, Macromedia Flash, and Macromedia Dreamweaver. Formerly GD 412B

ILUS 301 - Illustration Methods

The development of narrative imagery, pictorial illusion, and space, and their combined potential for communication. Procedures focus on developing visual awareness, personal imagery, and conceptual directions. Direct drawing situations and photographic reference (existing or student-produced) also serve as source material for pictorial development. Various media and technical procedures are explored. Assignments and lectures focus on the requirements of applied illustration. Formerly IL 300A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 202 Corequisite: ILUS 321 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 320 - Design Methods

Within the context of design/illustration projects, a basic understanding of how artwork is reproduced in commercial print media. Emphasis is on the relationship between electronic media and production techniques. Specific programs utilized include: Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly IL 301

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: ILUS 220 Priority enrollment to Illustration majors. Junior/Senior preferred.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

ILUS 321 - Figurative Communication

Emphasis on working from life. The course focuses on the use of the figure and or still life objects to communicate concepts in the figurative context. Drawing and painting media are explored. Formerly IL 302

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Industrial Design - Bachelor of Science

Program Total Credits: 126

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

IDES 201 - Studio 1: Projects Studio

A conceptual and practical understanding of design and three-dimensional problem-solving processes. This studio is taught in a collaborative manner, with two instructors conducting projects individually or as a team in order to provide focused instruction and integrated experiences covering a wide range of subjects including the tools, processes, and languages of design and model making. Emphasis is on the development of three-dimensional model making skills, problem solving and creative thinking and their application to problems of design. Formerly ID 200A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 221 - Studio 2: Techniques

This studio assists the student to acquire essential two-dimensional representational skills to support the process of design, including production and presentation. It is taught in a collaborative manner, with the instructors conducting projects individually or as a team in order to provide focused instruction and integrated experiences over a wide range of subjects, including the tools, processes, and languages of conceptual drawing, rendering, and detailing using both the computer and traditional media as means to assist design and control production. Principles of technical specification and machine control are introduced as are concepts such as rapid photocopying, computer-integrated manufacturing, parts reduction through integration, and other techniques for efficient production. Students learn to apply these techniques to design problems addressed in IDES 201: Projects Studio. Formerly ID 220A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Corequisite: IDES 201 Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 231 - Design Issues Seminar

This course is designed to assist the student to develop an understanding of the major issues for design in modern society. Discussions range from issues such as the ecological responsibility of designers to the contributions of individual designers and design organizations throughout the history of the discipline. Assignments include research and demonstration projects that explore ideas and illuminate ethical, practical, and moral issues with which designers should be concerned. Students prepare information and present their views on issues through written, oral, and visual means. Formerly ID 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Requires a grade of C or better:

LAAH 851 - History of Industrial Design

A survey of industrial design in the West, paying particular attention to developments in the twentieth century. Formerly HU 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Industrial Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

IDES 232 - Materials & Processes Seminar

A writing-intensive course introducing the student to the nature of materials used in industrial products and the various processes by which they are formed. Films, lectures, and field trips familiarize students with wood, metal, and plastic materials as well as processes such as injection molding, laser cutting, and stereolithography. Emphasis is placed on the study of material characteristics and the appropriate use of forming methods. Introduction to technical information, specification writing, and professional communications. Graduate students may register for this course under GRID 614. Formerly ID 214

IDES 301 - Studio 3: Projects Studio

Following a year of basic design process, methods, and vocabulary introduction, the Junior Studio sequence focuses on solving more advanced design process and project opportunities through applied integration with Human Factors, Design Semantics, and Design Communication skills. The first semester offers more advanced design projects exploring user-centered design and creative exploration of industrial materials usage. The second semester continues with a focus on collaboration with various community groups and/or industry-sponsored projects. Formerly ID 300A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: IDES 202, IDES 222, IDES 231 Corequisites: IDES 321, IDES 331, IDES 332 Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 321 - Studio 4: Techniques

Assists the student in developing graphic communication skills using computational media and applying these skills to both two- and three-dimensional images and presentations. The student is taught to conceptualize, develop, detail, present, and communicate design ideas through graphic design, computer imaging, three-dimensional computer modeling, basic animation, and interactive design presentation. The first semester focuses on integrating graphic software and the development of printed presentations. The second semester focuses on the development of interactive digital presentations. Formerly ID 320A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: IDES 202, IDES 222, IDES 231 Corequisite: IDES 301 Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 332 - Design Semantics Seminar

This seminar addresses design as a languaging process of social interaction. Semantic principles and design vocabulary are introduced through lectures, weekly readings, discussions, and exercises. Students work on individual as well as team-based projects to increase their competence in translating these ideas, concepts, and principles into design practices, applying replicable design methods towards proposing particular products whose meanings matter and whose use is dominated by facets of human understanding. Prerequisites: IDES 321 Corequisite: IDES 302 Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 331 - Human Factors Seminar

The object of this research-intensive course is to develop an ability to apply technology effectively to meet human needs through the study of human engineering principles for the design of products and equipment. Human anatomy, anthropometrics and motion, and strength of body components are considered as are sensory systems, human perception, and sensitivities. Lectures are complemented by laboratory experiments designed to teach students methods of testing and evaluating their own product design concepts in human terms. Concepts of scientific writing and reporting are demonstrated through the documentation of coursework. Formerly ID 326

IDES 401 - Studio 5: Projects Studio

These studio courses focus on decisive and responsible positions in formulating new design directions. Building upon past learning, projects sharpen fundamental skills of sketching (2D & 3D), design drawing, computer modeling, prototyping and conceptual diagramming. Students are encouraged through critical discourse and research on historical and contemporary material of cultural shifts to formulate their own ideology. Project proposals forward questions such as social context, ergonomics, and ecological consequences. Students are expected to identify local stakeholders (industry, users, designers, etc.) and ask them to be topic advisors as appropriate. First semester projects are dedicated to three fast-paced, highly theoretical, predefined topics. The next semester is devoted to further development of one of these projects. This final semester-long project works toward project closure and pragmatic articulation, ready to be shown both inside and outside an academic context. Formerly ID 400A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: IDES 302, IDES 322, IDES 331, IDES 332 Open to Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 421 - Studio 6: Professional Communication

Refines the students' written, verbal, and visual presentation skills and assists them in developing communication materials for their senior theses and industry-sponsored projects. Intensive group critique of individual presentations prepared outside of class. Students develop self-promotion, presentation, and correspondence materials utilizing service bureaus and contemporary technologies such as digital files, fax, and the World Wide Web to prepare and transmit this information. Formerly ID 420A

Prerequisites & Notes

IDES 431 - Design Theory Seminar

In this industrial design seminar, students investigate design philosophies, issues, and pedagogy, from a historic as well as contemporary international design context. Students study various definitions of design, explore design theories and issues, and consider theoretical relationships with other applied arts. Formerly ID 490A

Prerequisites & Notes

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. Note:

Electives must include nine studio credits taken outside the Industrial Design offerings.

Recommended Electives:

While none of the following is required for graduation, they are recommended by the department.

CRCM 221 - Introduction to Molding & Casting

A course in modelmaking, moldmaking, and casting techniques, using plaster and synthetic compounds. Emphasis is on developing proficiency in slip casting for use in the artist's studio and in industry for serial production. Formerly CR 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CRCM 222 - Plaster Workshop

An introductory course in modelmaking, moldmaking, and casting techniques, using plaster and synthetic compounds. This course emphasizes the usefulness of these media to designers and artists. Formerly CR 252

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Crafts majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

EMDI 110 - Computer Concepts

A conceptual and hands-on course that introduces the student to the foundations of digital processes in the arts. Experiences in this course include basic spreadsheet usage, database search techniques, digital photography including RAW file processing, scanning, image processing, composting, and basic page layout techniques. The course includes an introduction to professional online services via Dialog, as well as advanced search strategies using the Web. Software usage includes Microsoft Word, Excel, and the Adobe Creative Suite (Illustrator, Photoshop and InDesign). Students are given assignments in each of the software environments as well as supplemental weekly readings. No prior computer experience is required. Formerly EM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

EMDI 210 - Digital Multimedia

The elements of digital multimedia production techniques address the integration and creation of digital media for websites and alternative delivery processes such as podcasting. This course involves hands-on production experience as well as perspective on developments in this rapidly growing field through the readings and lectures. Students create projects involving digital imagery, video and sound, and animation. The first half of the semester is dedicated to creating video pieces utilizing either digital video or animating still imagery. Creation of effective sound tracks will be an important part of this process. The second half of the semester is dedicated to creating a website and utilizing compressed digital video on the Web. Software to be utilized include Photo to Movie, iMovie, Audacity, Garageband, iDVD, and Dreamweaver. There is considerable emphasis on new utilizations of digital media such as podcasts and VODcasts (video on demand) and cell phone multimedia. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 610. Formerly EM 210

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

IDES 101 - Freshman I.D.

This course introduces first-year students to the issues surrounding the profession and highlights its importance in informing culture and shaping the way we live. Students are exposed to the fundamental skills required to support the process of concept ideation, design development, and presentation of products and furniture. These fundamentals are introduced through in-class exercises, lectures by visiting professionals, and direct involvement in relevant activities within the Industrial Design Department itself. Formerly ID 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Foundation majors. Student must NOT have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits).

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

IDES 371 - Architectonics

An elective course intended as a multidisciplinary forum for the investigation, appreciation, and design of architectural space, structures, and systems. Using in-class exercises as a laboratory for creative and collaborative exchange, students learn alternative design processes, design vocabulary, user-centered experience and design. This course develops concepts and analytical studies of objects/spaces through various 2D and 3D drawing/modeling techniques and culminates in an actual built/alterd environment. Graduate students may register for this course under GRID 624. Formerly ID 312

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

LAAH 974 - Topics in Design

A seminar in the history of design. Each semester the course is taught, a different aspect of design history is studied. Individual designers under consideration have been Wright, Le Corbusier, and Aalto; other topics have been particular design histories: crafts history, graphic design history, industrial design history; and particular styles of design: The Arts and Crafts movement, Art Nouveau, Bauhaus, de Stijl and Constructivism, Art Deco, and Post-Modernism. Formerly HU 452

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAPH 281 - Portfolio Documentation

The use of photography to create a portfolio of artwork, exhibitions, and installations is necessary for artists in all visual media. Students learn how to photograph two- and three-dimensional artwork in a studio setting and on location. Instruction addresses a wide range of issues including: artificial and natural lighting, film-based and digital camera operation, image processing techniques, and output options. By participating in lectures, demonstrations, field trips and shooting assignments, students acquire the skills necessary to create a coherent visual portfolio of their work. Formerly PF 203

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 112 or FNDP 152 Not open to Photography majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 425 - Special Projects in Multimedia

This seminar is designed to give students direct contact with their soon-to-be peers in the various multimedia industries. The multimedia industries that may be covered include but are not limited to: fine art, interface design, installation art, game design, and electronic music. Timely and relevant issues concerning the craft, thought, and professional expectations of a multimedia artist/designer are the content of this course. Topics related to the multimedia industries in general and the instructor's specific industry experience are discussed. Readings, discussion, and a practical presentation or project make up the body of this course. Formerly MM 472

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits). May be taken three times for credit .

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Industrial Design - Master of Industrial Design

Program Total Credits: 60

Year One Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. (May be taken to satisfy Aesthetics and Art Criticism co-requisites for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 691

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 601 - Advanced Design Studio

The major multidisciplinary studio where design ideology, process, development, and production are emphasized through the integration of critical issues that inform product design. Issues discussed and studied are: human experience and lifestyles; cultural and political issues; ergonomics; poetics; semantics; interactivity; imagery and form. The design process considers above issues in the formulation of a design program; conceptual abstract studies; physical and material investigations; simulated and physical representation; and the application of manufacturing Formerly ID 601

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 611 - Design Seminar: Concepts and Contexts

A seminar devoted to examining the shift in cultural, technological, material, and professional landscapes that a graduate design candidate must navigate. Through readings, presentations, and discussions, students explore how these evolved contexts are changing the nature of design practice and thinking. Special emphasis is placed on developing key concepts and ideas that inform the work that the students undertake throughout their program. The seminar works in parallel with the studio course; topics and themes covered in the seminar are germane to the studio projects. Formerly ID 600

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 621 - Advanced Design Methods

As a complement to the studio course (GRID 601), this course helps to develop methodologies for critical social cultural analysis, strategies for design research, and the means of documenting that research and analysis. Students develop a common design process that provides the foundation for all subsequent MID work. The emphasis is on clear and convincing communication, a skill that is increasingly critical to designers as they work more and more with those outside their own disciplines. Content for the coursework comes directly from the studio projects themselves. Formerly ID 620

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: GRID 601 Open to graduate students in the College of Art and Design only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

GRAD 651 - University Seminar: Art and Society

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from all graduate programs examine theoretical issues relating to the place of art and design in society. Topics include the social role of the artist/designer, public policy and the arts, issues of post-modernism, and aesthetic and ethical implications of emerging arts communication technologies. (May be taken to satisfy Sociology/Anthropology corequisite for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 692

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 622 - Human Factors Research

A seminar course that addresses human behavior through the interaction with manufactured objects, environments and systems, and the ergonomic, functional, informational, aesthetic, and safety requirements encountered in the design of these products for human use. Formerly ID 627

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate students in the College of Art and Design only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 701 - Advanced Project Tutorial I

The primary practicum in which design concepts are explored and skills, techniques, tools, and products are developed, demonstrated, and tested. Individual weekly meetings with faculty and with outside advisors, as dictated by project objectives and sponsorship. Formerly ID 710

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 601 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

Year Two Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

GRID 602 - Advanced Design Studio

The major multidisciplinary studio where design ideology, process, development, and production are emphasized through the integration of critical issues that inform product design. Issues discussed and studied are: human experience; culture and politics; ergonomics; poetics; semantics; interactivity; imagery and form. The design process considers above issues in the formulation of a design program; conceptual abstract studies; physical and material investigations; simulated and physical representation; and the application of manufacturing processes. Formerly ID 602

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 701 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 623 - Advanced Computing Application

A laboratory/practicum in the use of advanced computing capabilities with emphasis on 3D computer modeling, rendering, and production technologies. Special emphasis on the exploration of contemporary manufacturing processes. Formerly ID 625

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate students in the College of Art and Design only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRID 711 - ID Seminar: Professional Development

A professional seminar/workshop that addresses the individual career interests of each degree candidate especially as they relate to the student's thesis project. The product of this course is the formulation of a career plan and objectives tailored to each candidate, and the development of a portfolio, resume, and other documentation targeted toward the practical application of the candidate's knowledge and skill. Formerly ID 700

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 701 Corequisites: GRID 702, GRID 785 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

GRID 702 - Advanced Project Tutorial II

The primary practicum in which design concepts are explored and skills, techniques, tools, and products are developed, demonstrated, and tested. Individual weekly meetings with faculty and with outside advisors, as dictated by project objectives and sponsorship. Formerly ID 711

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 602 Corequisite: GRID 785 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 6 hrs

GRID 780 - Master's Thesis Documentation

A tutorial providing the opportunity for individual candidates to develop and present their theses in a manner that directly reflects their career objectives. The thesis project and document must exhibit an in-depth exploration of an approved topic, which addresses an area of importance to the Industrial Design field and contributes to the body of knowledge pertaining to that area. It may be carried out under industry sponsorship, as a part of a research project, or be independently based. Formerly ID 749

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GRID 602 Open to Masters of Industrial Design majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 3 hrs

Note:

In addition to required courses, students take elective courses that enable them to pursue their specific interest, as well as overcome deficiencies in their design preparation. In certain cases, particularly for applicants from non-design undergraduate programs, it is necessary to complete specific courses in industrial design. These courses are selected from appropriate undergraduate courses and may not apply towards degree requirements.

Information Architecture Minor

The minor in Information Architecture shows students how designed information creates meaning. Students develop an understanding of user workflow, information design, and interactivity. They learn to create easy-to-use interfaces and information spaces. The program has been created for students interested in developing Web-based solutions, as well as other vehicles whose purpose is to deliver information clearly and efficiently. Students also have the opportunity to develop content management systems for the Web, a highly marketable and in demand skill. Majors in Multimedia or Communication may not declare a minor in Information Architecture.

Requirements for the Minor

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction.

Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 150 - Information Concepts

Emphasis is on the importance of organizing and communicating information in a digital world. Students acquire a basic understanding of how computers operate and communicate with each other, as well as an understanding of the evolution of the personal computer and the industries that have spun out of this technology. Student assignments include readings, database projects, and written analyses. Formerly MM 130

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one of the following two:

MMDI 231 - Dynamic Web Development

Creating dynamic Web solutions is an essential aspect of Web development today. In this course, students build upon existing concepts learned in Intro to Interactive Programming. The focus is on client and server side programming and relational database design for the Web. Examples of dynamic Web applications include context management systems, custom audio and video players, and e-commerce solutions.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 131

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs
or

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

DACR 361 - Dance Composition II

Continuation of DACR 261. Problem-solving and analysis of materials through individual projects. Special emphasis on group choreography. Formerly DA 317A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: DACR 261 Open to majors in the School of Dance only.

Credits: 2 cr, 3 hrs

DAPF 201 - Tap III

The study and practice of the tap style of dance from simple rhythmic footwork to more complex multirhythms and repertory. Required of students majoring in Jazz/Theater Dance. Formerly DA 323A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: DACR 102 Priority enrollment to Jazz Dance majors. Open to majors in the School of Dance only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

DAPF 321 - Jazz Dance V

Continued development of technique and various styles as introduced in DACR 221 & 222. The course progresses from basic to complex rhythm and isolation exercises and movement combinations stressing subtlety of dynamics, as well as preparation of repertory. Formerly DA 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: DACR 222 Open to Jazz Dance and Dance Education majors only.

Credits: 4 cr, 7.5 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

DAPF 375 - Voice I

Vocal training for the non-Voice major. Designed to develop the vocal instrument to meet both the musical and non-musical vocal requirements of the theater. Formerly DA 345A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Dance only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

THST 181 - Acting for Non-Majors I

This course introduces the non-actor to improvisation, character development, and the basic idea of action and objective in performance. The first four weeks acclimate the new actor to being expressive in a group using body and voice through improvisation, theater games, movement; breathing and relaxation techniques are also taught. The student is introduced to script analysis and asked to write and develop monologues to create dramatic characters for performance. Grading is based on class participation and progress with the work on monologues. Formerly TH 100A

Prerequisite: DACR 261 Open to majors in the School of Dance only.

Credits: 2 cr, 3 hrs

DACR 375 - Theater Functions

A basic production course dealing with concepts of lighting and set design for dance. Students are required to gain practical experience by working in the theater on dance concerts during the year. Formerly DA 319

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Dance only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

DAPF 202 - Tap IV

The study and practice of the tap style of dance from simple rhythmic footwork to more complex multirhythms and repertory. Required of students majoring in Jazz/Theater Dance. Formerly DA 323B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: DACR 201 Priority enrollment to Jazz Dance majors. Open to majors in the School of Dance only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

DAPF 322 - Jazz Dance VI

Continued development of technique and various styles as introduced in DACR 221 & 222. The course progresses from basic to complex rhythm and isolation exercises and movement combinations stressing subtlety of dynamics, as well as preparation of repertory. Formerly DA 311B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: DACR 321 Open to Jazz Dance and Dance Education majors only.

DACR 470 - Survey of the Business of Dance

Emphasizes the development of tools and skills necessary for realizing individual professional goals, vehicles and processes for change in the various fields of dance within our society. This course develops an awareness of managing life and work as a professional in dance. Topics include basic business principles as well as career self-management and an overview of career opportunities. Guest speakers include faculty and staff from within the University as well as experts from the field. Formerly DA 430

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: DACR 212, DACR 232 or DACR 222 Open to majors in the School of Dance only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

Liberal Arts Distribution

Note all Liberal Arts courses are 3.0 credits.

- Liberal Arts Elective Credits: 12 cr.

DACR 151 - Dance History I

The study of the interaction between dance and the society in which it develops, emphasizing the changing role and nature of dance. Course deals with dance from the Renaissance through Diaghilev's Ballet Russe. Dance History II surveys dance from pre-World War II to the present. Formerly DA 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

DACR 152 - Dance History II

The study of the interaction between dance and the society in which it develops, emphasizing the changing role and nature of dance. Course deals with dance from the Renaissance through Diaghilev's Ballet Russe. Dance History II surveys dance from pre-World War II to the present. Formerly DA 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

DACR 250 - Survey of Music

A survey of the history of music from ancient to modern including jazz. Formerly DA 117

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 921 - Dynamic Anatomy

The structure of the body as it relates to form (size, shape, and proportion) and support (posture, position, and movement). In-depth exploration of the location, orientation, and actions of the major muscle groups, joints, and bones, and how they differ by gender through the life cycle. Formerly HU 281

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Jazz Studies - Master of Music

Program Total Credits: 36

MM in Jazz Studies Credits: 36

Fall Credits: 16

MUCP 631 - Graduate Arranging

Emphasis is on effective writing in various contemporary styles and building on basic arranging skills, with a focus on specific arranging techniques such as writing for the rhythm section, horn voicings, sax solo, and contemporary fusion styles. Arrangements are studied in score format and aurally, and then techniques are applied to student projects. Formerly MU 622

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUCP 641 - Advanced Transcription and Analysis

Accurate notation, transcription fluency, and recognition of theoretical concepts are developed through a regime of continual and rigorous assignments, all designed to further advance skills in ear training and theory. Projects begin with single line melodies in varying instrumental registers and progress through advanced rhythms and chord progressions to complete arrangements and compositions. Sources include bass lines, synthesizer sequences, pop recordings, jazz improvisations, and drum solos. Students learn techniques and performance practices of varying styles and periods, and then perform transcribed parts and solos. Formerly MU 617

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MULS 641 - Applied Major Instruction – Graduate

Private instruction in instrumental, vocal, and composition areas. Formerly MU 592A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUPF 660 - Graduate Ensemble

Formerly MU 775

Prerequisites & Notes

Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUSC 631 - Graduate Improvisation I

Improvisational styles, techniques, and devices are studied. Intervallic improvisation, and advanced pentatonic concepts are addressed, as well as study of the pioneers of jazz improvisation through recorded solos that mark turning points of improvisation. Topics include melody embellishment, improvising in phrases, silence, time-feel, pacing, syncopation, chord tone soloing, dynamics, non-harmonic triads, contracting and expanding chord duration, tri-tonic cells, sustaining peak points, and unaccompanied soloing. Formerly MU 625

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 661 - MIDI and Music Technology

Hands-on exploration of music technology applicable to performer, composer, and arranger with focus on fluency with MIDI sequencing including MAX to create interactive live performance situations. Students work with modular digital multi-tracks and edit and create original sounds for synthesizers and samplers. Hard disk recording using Pro-Tools III and Digital Performer, SMPTE and synchronization in the studio, and composition and sound design for film, video, and theater are also explored. Training in notation software is an integral and essential aspect of the course: after the first month, assignments for all graduate courses require use of professional notation software. Formerly MU 615

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 681 - Graduate Professional Internship

Provides hands-on experience in a variety of professional settings — rehearsals, performances, meetings with producers, and in-studio projects such as recording, arranging, or project coordination. The program is developed by the graduate advisor and major teacher in conjunction with the student to select topics and experiences most relevant and beneficial to that particular student's education. Formerly MU 620

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 684 - Graduate Forum

A graduate seminar in which various aspects of study, including musical development and accomplishment, are correlated with critical, aesthetic, and historical components. Additionally, artistic and professional issues are researched and discussed. Various approaches to the preparation of the graduate recital are explored and progress toward a successful performance is closely monitored. Topic selection, research, and writing of the graduate thesis are evaluated through weekly critiques. Formerly MU 627

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

Spring Credits: 16

MUCP 624 - Composing for Performers

A dual emphasis — on acoustic instruments and on technologies — exposes students to a variety of professional composing situations, including large jazz ensembles, fusion, acoustic/electronic hybrids, films, videos, musical theater, and jingle writing. Techniques using MIDI, MAX, and electronic composition are explored. Faculty and guest composers present workshops on their own approaches. Students learn to use the recording studio as an instrument and use notation software for score and part preparation. Student works are rehearsed and performed by graduate and advanced undergraduate ensembles. Formerly MU 624

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MULS 642 - Applied Major Instruction – Graduate

Private instruction in instrumental, vocal, and composition areas. Formerly MU 592B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MULS 641 Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUPF 660 - Graduate Ensemble

Formerly MU 775

Prerequisites & Notes

Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

MUPF 680 - Graduate Project/Recital

Independent research project designed to enable the student to work in-depth on a topic of special relevance applicable to performance. The graduate project is evaluated in two parts: as a thesis, with the expectation that the student has completed extensive research in a comprehensive manner, and as a recital, in which the student incorporates aspects of the project and demonstrates personal instrumental growth. Students give presentations throughout the semester in seminar setting, showing their progress in research and its application to performance. Formerly MU 603

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 632 - Graduate Improvisation II

Improvisational styles, techniques, and devices are studied. Intervallic improvisation, and advanced pentatonic concepts are addressed, as well as study of the pioneers of jazz improvisation through recorded solos that mark turning points of improvisation. Topics include melody embellishment, improvising in phrases, silence, time-feel, pacing, syncopation, chord tone soloing, dynamics, non-harmonic triads, contracting and expanding chord duration, tri-tonic cells, sustaining peak points, and unaccompanied soloing. Formerly MU 626

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MUSC 631 Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 651 - Music Journalism

Practical, hands-on study of writing about music, musicians, and the music industry for consumer, trade and academic periodicals; books, videos, DVDs and other multimedia projects. Students learn library and Internet research techniques, how to acquire and foster industry contacts, interview methodology, how to best utilize archival resources, the writing "marketplace" and the "business of writing," formulation of a marketable idea, magazine writing and editing, the periodical and book submission process, professional guidelines and insights for composing video/ DVD

narration and voice-overs. Formerly MU 515

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 682 - Graduate Professional Internship

Provides hands-on experience in a variety of professional settings — rehearsals, performances, meetings with producers, and in-studio projects such as recording, arranging, or project coordination. The program is developed by the graduate advisor and major teacher in conjunction with the student to select topics and experiences most relevant and beneficial to that particular student's education. Formerly MU 621

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 683 - Jazz Pedagogy

This course is designed to prepare students to teach all aspects of a jazz curriculum including arranging, theory, history, improvisation and managing various ensembles, including rehearsal techniques and such. A review of teaching strategies, methods, and available materials is conducted. Basic Computer technologies for the creation of teaching materials is included. Each student rehearses with a UArts ensemble. Outreach activities with area public schools are developed. Formerly MU 516

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 685 - Graduate Forum

A graduate seminar in which various aspects of study, including musical development and accomplishment, are correlated with critical, aesthetic, and historical components. Additionally, artistic and professional issues are researched and discussed. Various approaches to the preparation of the graduate recital are explored and progress toward a successful performance is closely monitored. Topic selection, research, and writing of the graduate thesis are evaluated through weekly critiques. Formerly MU 628

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Jazz Studies only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

Additional prerequisite/corequisite courses Credits: 4

MUSC 461 - Recording I

A study of the recording process and the many facets of the recording studio. Designed to familiarize the student with conventional and creative recording techniques through practical experience in the studio. Formerly MU 413A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 481 - Business of Music

Examination of the legal, practical, and procedural problems encountered by the practicing musician. Specific course content includes the study of music publishing, recording contracts, and copyright and intellectual property rights issues. Formerly MU 420A

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

Jazz Studies: Composition - Bachelor of MusicProgram Total Credits: 126

Students enrolled as majors in Composition take private lessons with our faculty who work professionally in contemporary classical, jazz, and commercial (radio, TV, film, industrial) and pop idioms. Monthly workshops featuring guest composers representing a variety of musical genres present students with an inside look at their creative processes and techniques. Additional courses include Jazz Ear Training, Jazz Theory, MIDI and Music Technology, Arranging, Orchestration, Music History, Business of Music, and ensembles. Student compositions are read or performed by our ensembles, and frequent performances of students' music highlight the school's concert schedule. Composition students can also elect an option to take additional study on an instrument or voice. The University's creative environment encourages collaborations with film, animation, dance, theater, and multimedia students.

Examination of the legal, practical, and procedural problems encountered by the practicing musician. Specific course content includes the study of music publishing, recording contracts, and copyright and intellectual property rights issues. Formerly MU 420A

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

MUSC 482 - Careers in Music

A study in the career options available to musicians and the knowledge and craft necessary for the successful recognition and exploitation of these opportunities. Formerly MU 420B

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

Spring Credits: 13

- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

MULS 400 - Senior Recital

Year-end graded public recital in the student's major. Formerly MU 040

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Music only.

Credits: 0 cr, 0 hrs

MULS 422 - Applied Major Instruction – Voice

Private instruction in voice. Requirements include a year-end graded examination by a jury. Formerly MU 491B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MULS 421 Open to Voice majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 1 hr

MUPF 872 - Chorus

Formerly MU 772

Prerequisites & Notes

Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 4 hrs

MUSC 352 - Music History II

Designed to define the major style periods from Greek times to the present in terms of their philosophies, accomplishments, and interrelationships. Composers, performers, and theorists are examined in the context of musical literature with emphasis upon styles, forms, and techniques of composition as they evolve and change. The sequence puts into historical perspective the materials presented in the Music Theory courses. Through listening assignments, students are expected to further develop their aural skills and knowledge of musical literature. Formerly MU 301B

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Also fulfills Liberal Arts discipline history requirement.

Liberal Arts Distribution

Note all Liberal Arts courses are 3.0 credits.

- Liberal Arts Electives Credits: 15 cr

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Liberal Arts Curriculum

Freshmen entering UArts in and after Fall 2005 follow a different set of Liberal Arts requirements than those who entered before 2005. This is the result of a new Liberal Arts curriculum. The new Liberal Arts requirements, along with those that govern currently enrolled and upper-class transfer students, are specified in the information that follows.

Liberal Arts Requirements For Freshmen Matriculating as of Fall 2005

Total Credits: 42

Liberal Arts Core Credits: 12

Based on transcripts, SAT scores, TSWE scores on the verbal test of TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language), and a placement test, students may be placed in LACR 007/008 (ESL) or LACR 009. These courses do not satisfy the First Year Writing requirements and will not apply toward degree requirements. Students who successfully complete LACR 007 (and sometimes LACR 008) or LACR 009 will then take LACR 101, or may in some cases be assigned to LACR 100, First Year Writing, which counts toward the degree and substitutes for LACR 101.

Satisfactory completion of the First Year Writing sequence is required before registration for most other courses that carry Liberal Arts credit. Specific prerequisites are listed with the course description in the back of this catalog. In addition, failure to complete this sequence may cause the student to receive censure from the Academic Review Committee.

Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) Credits: 3

Choose one of these seven courses:

LACR 221 - SIFT: Brainstorming

In this course, students receive some basic instruction on the brain's natural timekeepers and how they produce changes daily, monthly, seasonally, or throughout the life cycle. Examples include daily or circadian rhythms (sleep-wake and alertness cycles), longer-range or infradian rhythms (ovarian cycles, menstrual synchrony, phomonal entrainment, and reproductive suppression), seasonal cycles (hibernation/estivation, SAD), and developmental milestones (puberty, menopause). Students explore excerpts from the literature and learn how to frame questions that can be explored empirically in the course of a short-term study.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 222 - SIFT: Human Adaptability

This course investigates the cultural adaptations found in different ecosystems such as deserts, grasslands, circumpolar regions, tropical and temperate forests, high-altitude and urban areas. It examines relationships between environmental resources, technology, labor and politics in production systems ranging from hunter-gatherer to industrial; the impact of conflicting technologies, and issues related to sustainable production.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 223 - SIFT: Life Science Concepts

In this course, students explore basic information about contemporary studies and fundamental concepts in the life sciences. Students explore excerpts from the literature and learn how to frame questions that can be explored empirically in the course of a short-term study. The course culminates in an in-class presentation of research results and a written research report.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 224 - SIFT: Love and Death

In this course, students explore basic information about patterns of human burials in historic cemeteries in our region, integrating historical, biological, cultural, epidemiological, demographic, and artistic studies into a multidisciplinary project. Students explore excerpts from the literature and learn how to frame questions that can be explored empirically in the course of a short-term study. The course culminates in an in-class presentation of research results and a written research report.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 225 - SIFT: Observing Humans

This course presents several different social science frameworks and seeks to uncover what can be learned about human behavior by people watching. Students choose places for brief weekly observation and use their own art skills to document what they see.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 226 - SIFT: Quantity and Quality

In this course, students explore basic information about how to describe and compare observations, predictions, and outcomes using both qualitative and quantitative measures. Student explore excerpts from the literature and learn how to frame questions that can be explored empirically in the course of a short-term study. Meets with LASM 801 Fundamentals of College Math.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 227 - SIFT: Science and Society

This course introduces the student to the nature of science in general and sociology in particular. First, it considers the scientific method and empirically verifiable knowledge. Second, it examines the social nature of science, its relation to other social institutions, and the social norms that govern its operation. Finally, it explores sociology in detail, as a particular form of scientific activity.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 229 - SIFT: Discovering America

Are most Americans middle class? Are college students an elite? Do most Americans believe in God? Are Democrats a majority? Are UArts students strange? The knowledge we have about society typically comes from generalized personal experience and/or media accounts, both of which often suffer from idiosyncrasy, ideological bias, or some other distortion. This course introduces the student to the scientific approach to knowledge by investigating society on several dimensions selected from the following: income, class, education, religion, occupation, political orientation, family structure, sexuality, crime and deviance, and social attitudes and beliefs on a variety of issues. The first half of the course focuses on the nature of science, social science, and sociology and its methods. The second half examines specific examples of sociological research and findings about American society to understand both what the facts are and how they are discovered and validated.

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have entered after Fall 2005. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Period Interpretations Credits: 6

Period Interpretations are interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural eras. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one twentieth century, and one pre-twentieth century. Ideally, the twentieth century course is completed in the Junior year. Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Electives Credits: 15

Students may choose electives from the extensive listing of courses. Some students concentrate their study in a single area (literature, psychology) while others take an array of courses from across the range of Liberal Arts offerings. The new Liberal Arts curriculum offers students a great deal of flexibility and freedom of choice. To make the best use of these opportunities, students should study the elective lists carefully, explore their educational opportunities with their advisors and with the Liberal Arts faculty and Dean, and create a coherent study plan.

LAPI 834 - Age of the Medici: 1375 - 1800

This course is a study of Florence in the Renaissance in the context of other Italian city-states and covers the period from the republican regime at the end of the fourteenth century to the Medici's total assumption of power with a ducal title (1375 - 1532). The course examines the pursuing of humanistic studies by a large part of citizenry that sustained the republican ideology of that society; Florence political and societal evolution from a republic to an autocratic regime; the flourishing arts and sciences, particularly under the first dynasty of the Medici. It also investigates the reasons why, despite the erosion of political freedom, intellectual and artistic creativity enjoyed one of the most brilliant seasons in human history. In conclusion, the study of Florence's political evolution in the Renaissance leads to consideration on the fragility of free government and civil liberties in the present world. In our investigation we make use of primary sources and modern scholarship.

LAPR 851 - Arts Criticism

A writing course designed to promote understanding and interpretation of the arts across a multidisciplinary spectrum and to provide students with the basic tools of critical analysis. Group discussion and selected readings. Formerly HU 323

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 853 - Ethics

The history of ethics and the fundamental ethical problems that have concerned philosophers for the past 2,500 years. The study begins with Plato and Aristotle and extends to the contemporary analytic philosophy, phenomenology, and existentialism. Problems include the “is/ought” distinction, the ultimate objective of life, religious issues, human rights, justice, and welfare. Formerly HU 373

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 855 - Style in Art

A seminar exploring the question of style in the literary, visual, and performing arts as well as in craft and applied arts (including film, industrial design, and the fashion industry). We consider theories about organicism and periodicity in style, as they relate to tradition, trends, social and economic conditions, and evolving cultural norms. Themes include: ateliers and authorship; historic “revivals,” changing standards of beauty and form; and stylistic phases in the careers of major writers, artists, and composers. The aim of the course is to develop a practical, descriptive vocabulary for the analysis of artistic style. Formerly HU 395

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 861 - Understanding Music

What makes a phenomenon musical? What are people doing when they make or listen to music? Can musical understanding be fully grasped through listening? These and similar questions represent an effort to find something that lies at the core of our humanity, and that may be in danger of being lost. We start from the simple assumption that, in order to find something, we must try to grasp what is essential about it. Ranging between the hows and whys of music, the course explores the origins of human music-making, the psychology of aural awareness, the strategies of organized musical expression, and the construction of musical meaning in relation to culture. Formerly HU 259

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 862 - Dance & Expressive Culture

Dance is woven into the mythology, theater, music, poetry, and literature of many cultures. The course considers dance as it has influenced and has been influenced by these forms of creative expression in the Western World. Formerly HU 293

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 911 - Contemporary Philosophy

An examination of some of the problems occupying today's philosophers and the strategies they have devised to address them. Formerly HU 474

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 912 - Vienna and Berlin: 1890-1925

At the beginning of the twentieth century, Vienna and Berlin were important centers during one of the richest periods in cultural and artistic history of the Western world. Much of the science and art of this century were given their focus and thrust by the men of genius working in these two cities. In this course, students study the works of Einstein, Freud, Mahler, Schoenberg, Wittgenstein, Kafka, and the German Expressionists. This is an inter-disciplinary course involving the visual, musical, and literary arts, as well as philosophy. Formerly HU 492

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 913 - Continental Philosophy and Existentialism

Continental philosophy examined as a Western alternative to the analytic method. Following some historical background, the concentration is on the works of Jean-Paul Sartre; readings from both his philosophic works and his literary works. Formerly HU 372

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 932 - Eastern Religions

This course explores the following religions: Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Shintoism. Each is studied in its historical and cultural context, including its development into various forms over the years and in different places, and its beliefs regarding views of the cosmos, society, the self, and good and evil. In addition to a text, students read from the literature of each religion. Formerly HU 367

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 933 - Introduction to Zen Buddhism

An examination of the Zen understanding of being human: the problem of human existence Zen seeks to resolve, the liberation it claims to achieve, the meaning of the satori or "Awakening" which Zen claims is the basis of this liberation, the Zen koan as the meaning through which the Awakening is attained, the art that results from Awakening, and the possible contributions of Zen to the contemporary spiritual, philosophic, and artistic situation in the West.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 950 - Aesthetics Seminar

Advanced philosophic problems related to works of art and discourse about works of art. The analytic method of philosophic inquiry is reviewed and the philosophy of Wittgenstein and other 20th century philosophers interested in the philosophy of language is discussed. Language of Art by Nelson Goodman is also examined. Formerly HU 478

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 951 - Art, Media and Society

A seminar exploring the identity crisis of the modern artist in the period since the industrial revolution and the rise of the middle class. Conflicts or collaborations between the fine arts and commercialism, including mass media and new technology, from Romanticism and the arts and crafts movement to Pop Art and the Web. Issues of authorship, production, quality, and permanence. Who determines taste, and why? Does high art have a future? Formerly HU 498

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 961 - Opera and Politics

Throughout the history of its civilization, whether at court or in public theaters, opera has exhibited a magnetic pull on artists and audiences attracted to the exploration of political themes. This course examines operatic instantiations of the conflict between social conformity and personal freedom, the hedonistic abuse of power, the glorification of past achievements in order to deflect attention from present impotence, the retreat from political disillusionment, and idealized interior worlds. General commentary on musical, formal, and dramatic elements characteristic of historical periods alternates with closer analysis of specific works. Formerly HU 294

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 962 - Diaghilev and the Ballet Russe

This course investigates the role of the impresario Serge Diaghilev and his Ballets Russes in shaping the course of music and dance ca. 1909-1929. Special emphasis is placed on the relationships between various artists, dancers, choreographers, and writers including Michel Fokine, Alexandre Benois, Pablo Picasso, Jean Cocteau, Vaslav Nijinsky, Tamara Karsavina, George Balanchine, Leon Bakst, Leonide Massine, and others. Works studied include Igor Stravinsky's Firebird, Petrushka, Rite of Spring, Les Noces, and Chloe; Erik Satie's Parade; Manuel de Falla's The Three-Cornered Hat; Darius Milhaud's Le Train bleu; Francis Poulenc's Les Biches; Serge Prokofiev's Chout The Buffoon; and Constant Lambert's Romeo and Juliet. In addition, excerpts from other Diaghilev ballets are introduced. The course focuses on activities in Paris. Formerly HU 449

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 972 - Women and Sex Roles

An introduction to the history of women and to theories of gender. An interdisciplinary course combining history, literature, and the visual arts. Slide lectures on images of women in art, myth, and religions, from ancient times to modern. Economic and historical factors affecting how women have lived. Definitions of masculinity and femininity. The nature-nurture debate over hormonal differences. Formerly HU 497

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 355 - Introduction to Acoustics

The course deals with the following topics: physical nature of sound; the reception and perception of sound; theories of consonance and dissonance; scales, tunings and temperaments; the acoustic properties of musical instruments, electronic instruments, and the voice; sound reinforcement; and environmental considerations, such as the design of concert halls, theaters, recording studios, and open spaces. A term paper, mid-term, and final examination are required. Formerly MU 390

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 458 - Diaghilev and His Time

This course investigates the role of Serge Diaghilev and his famous Ballet Russes in shaping the course of music and dance from c. 1909-1929. Special emphasis is placed on the works of Igor Stravinsky with reference to his music for the stage. Time is also devoted to the interrelationships between various artists, dancers, and writers such as Picasso, Cocteau, Nijinsky, Bakst, Massine, and others who were active in Paris. Works studied are looked at from the perspective of the composer, the choreographer, the set and costume designer, the dancers and the audience. Formerly MU 427

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Science and Mathematics

LASM 801 - Fundamentals of College Mathematics

An introduction to the fundamental mathematical principles and operations used in undergraduate courses in the physical and social sciences. Topics include sets, logic, probability, statistics, number theory, algebra, and geometry. Meets with LACR 226. Formerly HU 282A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 802 - Calculus

An introduction to calculus with the emphasis on the applications of differential and integral calculus to the physical and social sciences. Formerly HU 282B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102, LASM 801 Students with equivalent college-level mathematics, or precollege advanced algebra and geometry should request special permission.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 803 - Probability

This class introduces some of the most fundamental ideas in classical probability. Polling techniques, casino gambling, weather forecasting, and lotteries are a few areas in which the principles of probability directly influence our lives. Modern science depends upon probability to build mathematical descriptions of the real world. This course explores the concepts of probability in an intuitive and accessible way, understandable to beginners. Topics include sample spaces, counting, conditional probability, and the concept of independence, game theory, random variables, and the law of large numbers. Formerly HU 283

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 810 - Life Sciences

Life forms in the context of current adaptations and evolutionary history. Special emphasis is placed on an exploration of evolutionary relationships, ecological specialization, and the dynamic relationships of organisms in an integrated ecosystem. Formerly HU 285A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 811 - Contemporary Issues in Life Sciences

Each semester this course explores one area of current research in the life sciences by focusing on three significant issues in the current scientific literature. Students participate in a series of semi-independent inquiry activities. For each research issue, student teams complete a “challenge” that demonstrates their ability to understand, collect, interpret and apply appropriate information in order to propose solutions and to convince classmates of the success of their approaches. Formerly HU 289

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 830 - Physical Sciences

An investigation of astronomy, geology, and other physical sciences, including the origin of the universe and solar system and the nature of physical science, matter, and energy. This course provides a background for understanding the problems of the impact of science on human values. Formerly HU 285B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 831 - Physics

An introductory college physics course. The first semester covers kinematics, dynamics, energy structural analysis, and waves; the second semester concentrates on a study of light, electricity, and magnetism. Both semesters include the frequent references to architecture, design, and the fine arts. A background in algebra is required. Formerly HU 481A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 913 - Urban Wildlife

An examination of the ways in which humans and other animals interact in shared and contiguous environments based on semi-independent field studies carried out by students on selected species. After an introduction to common species and a short period of directed study, teams of students plan, carry out, and analyze one short-term (4-week) study of one species of their choice that inhabits urban Philadelphia. Formerly HU 381

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 914 - Human Genetics

Explores the fundamentals of genetics through the study of our own species, Homo Sapiens. Introduces the students to the study of inheritance and how molecular, physiological, environmental, and behavioral mechanisms affect the measurable characteristics of humans around the world. Topics include genetic diseases and unusual physical characteristics among others. Using local resources, students engage in problem-solving activities in comparative biology. Formerly HU 386

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 915 - Perception

The structure and function of the senses of vision, audition, olfaction, gustation, touch, temperature, kinesthesia, time, and the brain and nervous system are considered as they relate to perception. Formerly HU 388

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 916 - Evolution in Modern Perspective

Evolution is the unifying theoretical foundation of all the life sciences. This course explores the mechanisms that produce evolution, and their meaning for our current knowledge in biology, conservation, medicine, agriculture, and related sciences. Students also consider the effect(s) that society's awareness of evolution has had on social institutions such as law, literature, politics, and education. Formerly HU 389

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 917 - Brain and Behavior

This course is an introduction to the organization of the brain and nervous system and to their interactions with other body systems that produce observable behavior. Topics include brain structure and function, neurological changes over the life cycle, and the effects of malfunctions. Students learn about specific brain structures and how they contribute to or produce specific behavioral characteristics. We explore the neurochemistry of drug addiction, degenerative diseases, and psycho-active drugs, as well as other current topics of interest. Formerly HU 485

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 921 - Dynamic Anatomy

The structure of the body as it relates to form (size, shape, and proportion) and support (posture, position, and movement). In-depth exploration of the location, orientation, and actions of the major muscle groups, joints, and bones, and how they differ by gender through the life cycle. Formerly HU 281

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 931 - Concepts of Modern Physics

This course surveys important concepts in twentieth century physics, including chaos theory, cosmology, quantum mechanics, and relativity. Without mathematics, we examine the tumultuous changes that have taken place in the scientific view of space, time, and physical reality. Formerly HU 385

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 932 - Pseudoscience in Contemporary Society

The methods and issues of contemporary science. Explores how scientific information is used in society through an examination of scientific, near-scientific and pseudoscientific claims, including strange creatures like Bigfoot and the Loch Ness monster, miracle cures for diseases, and paranormal phenomena. The question of how funding might affect scientific research is also examined. Formerly HU 286

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 951 - Technology, Culture and Society

This course explores the complex relationship among technology, cultural paradigms, and popular consciousness. We study and analyze such questions as “What is technology?”, “Does technology necessarily imply progress?”, and “How does technology define reality?” Students examine these and other related themes through readings and other media. Formerly HU 396

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 355 - Introduction to Acoustics

The course deals with the following topics: physical nature of sound; the reception and perception of sound; theories of consonance and dissonance; scales, tunings and temperaments; the acoustic properties of musical instruments, electronic instruments, and the voice; sound reinforcement; and environmental considerations, such as the design of concert halls, theaters, recording studios, and open spaces. A term paper, mid-term, and final examination are required. Formerly MU 390

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 458 - Diaghilev and His Time

This course investigates the role of Serge Diaghilev and his famous Ballet Russes in shaping the course of music and dance from c. 1909-1929. Special emphasis is placed on the works of Igor Stravinsky with reference to his music for the stage. Time is also devoted to the interrelationships between various artists, dancers, and writers such as Picasso, Cocteau, Nijinsky, Bakst, Massine, and others who were active in Paris. Works studied are looked at from the perspective of the composer, the choreographer, the set and costume designer, the dancers and the audience. Formerly MU 427

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Social Sciences

CMMC 151 - History of Communication

Examines how major developments in communication have influenced social and cultural history and how major historical and social changes have had an impact on communication and society. Draws connections between historically specific and contemporary modes of communication in a variety of times and cultures and the present. Formerly CM 250

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the College of Media and Communication.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 350 - Gender Images in Media

Explores representation of gender and sexuality in the media over the past century and how images of male and female both follow and create social change. Formerly CM 350

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 352 - Communication Theories and Culture

An intellectual history of influential 20th-century theories of communication, with a focus on the relationships between media and culture. This course reviews critical intellectual developments in the field against the backdrop of public events, social movements, and the changing daily lives of people in diverse places. How communication systems shape the course of public and private lives and how changes in communication reshaped the way we theorize about the world and the field is examined. Students read primary material in its original form, view media examples, write short position papers reflecting communication theory and culture, and complete a term paper. Formerly CM 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 353 - Media Industries

This course investigates the range of organizations and economic forces involved in media production. Includes diverse production models, from mainstream and corporate, to public sector, to alternative, and comparisons with media industries in other cultural settings. The course focuses on business and policy issues and considers examples of media practice from broadcast and cable news, advertising, Hollywood and independent cinema, public media, and new media industries. The course includes a final research project. Formerly CM 260

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 810 - Modern American History

A study of contemporary developments, values, and issues as a product of 20th century phenomena. The course seeks to understand the dramatic changes that have occurred in American society over the last 50 years. Formerly HU 264

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102 or WRIT 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 811 - History of China

The time span is from the earliest days to the present, with special emphasis on the modern period and relations with the United States and the Western powers. Intellectual and cultural developments take precedence over political and economic history. Formerly HU 262

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 812 - History of Japan

The history of Japan; the time span is from the earliest days to the present, but special emphasis is placed on the modern period and relations with the United States and other Western powers. Intellectual and cultural developments take precedence over political and economic history. Formerly HU 262B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 813 - History of Classical World

The history of ancient civilizations in the Near East and Europe. Egyptian, Greek, and Roman history, religion, philosophy, and culture. Readings from selected ancient texts and slides of art works illuminate the culture of these civilizations and provide links with the present world. Formerly HU 266A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 814 - History of Medieval Europe

The history of medieval Europe from the Germanic settlements to the establishment of Christianity and the feudal social expansion of the late Middle Ages are important topics for the course. A wide range of readings and the use of examples of medieval art promote a broad interpretation of this period. Formerly HU 266B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 815 - History and Culture of Latin America

The history and culture of Latin America, including indigenous as well as European cultural sources. National distinctions and the origins of modern society in the area will be developed. Formerly HU 365A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 817 - The Culture of the Italian Renaissance

A comprehensive study of the political and social conditions in Italy from the end of the 14th until the middle of the sixteenth century that led to the artistic and philosophical flowering known as the Renaissance. Not only are the contributions of the larger states of Milan, Venice, and Florence be explored, but also the princely courts of Mantua, Ferrara, and Urbino. Reading Machiavelli's The Prince and portions of Castiglione's The Courtier is an essential part of the course. Formerly HU 263

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 820 - Individual & Society

Examines the concepts of “individual” and “society” and how they are related under modern social conditions. It treats society and social institutions as fundamental realities and considers the ways in which social forces affect individual personality and identity. It provides an introduction to the perspective of sociology as distinct from that of psychology. Topics include socialization, social solidarity, morality, authority, deviance, individualism, and freedom. Formerly HU 162

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 821 - American Civilization I

An in-depth study of the origins of American society with an emphasis on the particular political, social, and cultural patterns that shaped the course of American development. The first semester surveys the process of settlement, colonial societies, independence, the growth of the egalitarian spirit, and the Civil War. Formerly HU 362A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 822 - American Civilization II

This course studies the American society in the modern period. From the perspective of today, the course examines the legacy of Reconstruction, the Industrial Revolution, the Reform Movements, the World Wars, and the Cold War. The factors in the past that have shaped contemporary society are stressed. Formerly HU 362B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 823 - Modern Culture

An exploration of various aspects of the condition of culture in modern society. Topics include the nature and rise of mass or popular culture and its relationship to high culture, advertising, and the cultural critique of capitalism, modernism and the avant-garde in the arts, the intellectual's role in society, and the relationship between culture and politics. As this is a course in sociology, the connection between culture and society are emphasized in every instance. Formerly HU 363

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 831 - Money Matters

Explores issues in economics and business by working out from the roles and interests of individual agents and groups. We look at economic dynamics in artistic and cultural work in the present, and at different historical moments, to explore further the nature of these relationships and their meanings. Students are exposed to economic and business discourse, provided with a broad and intensive understanding of economic and business language and logic, given experience in the application of these concepts to the issues in their field of interest, and provide a foundation for thinking through the economic and ethical dimensions of their work. Formerly HU 272

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 850 - Introduction to Cultural Anthropology

The nature and variation in human cultures and various explanations of these differences (i.e., symbolic, functional, and historical). This survey of culture in Western and non-Western societies considers a number of special topics such as language and society; cultural identity and the arts; gender; marriage and family; and social ranking power relations. The impact of globalization, tourism, and cultural change is also considered. Formerly HU 267

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 851 - Human Origins and Primates

An anthropological perspective on evolution, biology, ecology, and behavior of nonhuman primates from prosimians to great apes. Students are introduced to the principles of evolution and adaptive trends. The course focuses on the successful terrestrial species of Old World monkeys and the apes – the gibbon, orangutan, gorilla, and chimpanzee. Comparisons are made among nonhuman primates and our own species regarding diet, locomotion, tool use and manufacture, modes of communication, social behavior and social systems, motherhood and child care, aggression, “cultural” behavior and recent trends in nonhuman primate behavior studies. Films are an important part of the course. Formerly HU 260A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 852 - Human Evolution

An introduction to human biological and cultural evolution, a survey of the major evolutionary stages in hominid evolution, an introduction to Paleolithic technologies, and a comparison of contemporary Stone Age societies with Paleolithic populations. Formerly HU 260B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 861 - Introduction to Folklore

Introduces folklore genres and the history of folklore study. Sacred objects, fairy tales, songs, parodies, and legends are analyzed and presented in class. Formerly HU 265

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 871 - Child & Adolescent Psychology

This course is developmentally oriented and focuses on Erikson's psychosocial stages of life from birth to adolescence. Major topics include pregnancy, the birth process, and the physical, intellectual, emotional, and social development of the child. Family life and parent-child relationships are also examined, with particular attention given to the impact of our social institutions upon parents and children. Formerly HU 181A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Education, Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 872 - Adult Psychology

This course is developmentally oriented and focuses upon Erikson's psychosocial crises from adolescence to death. Major topics include career choice, human sexuality, love, marriage, values, mental health and mental illness, aging, and death. Formerly HU 181B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 873 - Personality & Creativity

Through readings of works of major theorists on the nature of personality and on creativity, the course poses two major questions: "What do major theorists have to say about the human personality?" and "What do major theorists have to say about what it means to be a creative person?" There are a number of ways of answering these questions and it is not the purpose of the course to choose the "best" answer, but rather, to put the student in a better position to make his or her own decision. Formerly HU 374

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 874 - Psychology of Touch

In this course the students learn about the role the sense of touch plays in early physical development and in the development of perceptual and cognitive skills. The last part of the course is devoted to the aesthetic dimension of touch and the significance of early tactile stimulation for the visual and performing arts. Formerly HU 378

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 875 - Social Psychology

A survey of major social problems today and an analysis of society's resistance to implementing the necessary painful solutions. Students study the current status of major social institutions and their increasing failure to meet and satisfy human needs. Some of the other areas that are studied are mental health and mental illness, human values, love and marriage, dreams, and preventative programs. Formerly HU 382

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 876 - Psychology of Creativity

The course examines the problems involved in defining and attempting to measure creativity. The course is developmentally oriented, focusing on relationships between creativity and normal growth and development, and intelligence and personality. Problems that the artist encounters with productivity are explored, as well as the values of society toward creativity and the artist. Formerly HU 480

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 911 - Renaissance and Reformation: 1400-1648

The intellectual and cultural explosion that heralded the modern era in Western civilization. Political, economic, philosophical, religious, and cultural developments. Formerly HU 360A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 912 - Age of Science & Enlightenment: 1648-1815

The dramatic intellectual revolution of the age of science and the applications of the revolution to every province of the human experience. The Enlightenment and the French Revolution, which are parts of the transformation of Europe, are studied from the perspective of their consequences for the modern world. Formerly HU 360B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 914 - Holocaust

The Holocaust is a watershed event in modern history. This traumatic episode left indelible marks on Western society, probably for generations to come. It was caused by factors that still exist in the world. This course examines the history that led to the Holocaust, and will attempt to help students understand what happened and what meaning it has for us today. Formerly HU 464

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 922 - Politics and the Media

This course analyzes how political and social forces interact with the American community and how that interaction affects government structure and policy. Factors such as population profiles, "suburbanites," elite groups, public opinion, party organization, elections, and reform movements are studied. Formerly HU 359

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 923 - Sociology of Art

An examination of the relationships that exist between art and society. The course focuses on the social influences that shape the creation and reception of artistic works. Topics include the social role of the artist; art as a socially organized form of work; the social institutions of artistic production, transmission, and audience reception; and the understanding of art in terms of its social content. Formerly HU 364

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 924 - Sociology of Politics

This course studies the interaction of political, social, economic, technological, and cultural forces in American society with their resultant impact on the political system. A brief introduction to political science is incorporated early in the semester. Factors such as population profiles, "suburbanites," elite groups, party organization, elections and reform movements are considered. Formerly HU 368

LAPR 853 - Ethics

The history of ethics and the fundamental ethical problems that have concerned philosophers for the past 2,500 years. The study begins with Plato and Aristotle and extends to the contemporary analytic philosophy, phenomenology, and existentialism. Problems include the “is/ought” distinction, the ultimate objective of life, religious issues, human rights, justice, and welfare. Formerly HU 373

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 861 - Understanding Music

What makes a phenomenon musical? What are people doing when they make or listen to music? Can musical understanding be fully grasped through listening? These and similar questions represent an effort to find something that lies at the core of our humanity, and that may be in danger of being lost. We start from the simple assumption that, in order to find something, we must try to grasp what is essential about it. Ranging between the hows and whys of music, the course explores the origins of human music-making, the psychology of aural awareness, the strategies of organized musical expression, and the construction of musical meaning in relation to culture. Formerly HU 259

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 860 - Literature & Film

This course explores different subjects through the arts of literature and film. Among the topics treated have been images of Vietnam, the thriller, and science fiction. Formerly HU 314

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 871 - Poetry Writing Workshop

Students' poems are discussed, criticized, revised, and improved. Principles governing the decision to change a poem in various ways, the study of poems by American and English poets, the reading of some criticism, and concentration on the basic principles of craft are all included. Theories involve sound, content, meaning, and purpose of student poems and of poetry in general. The poet's sense of an audience also figures in the discussion. Formerly HU 313

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 873 - Playwriting

This workshop course introduces students to the discipline of writing for theater and radio. Focusing on the elements necessary for the creation of producible scripts, the student develops practical skills leading to the creation of a short work for stage or radio by the end of the semester. Formerly HU 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 875 - Fiction Writing

This course focuses on writing short fiction. Students study the elements of creative writing, experiment with several forms, and develop a clear voice. The goal is to produce a portfolio of finished pieces. Formerly HU 325

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 911 - Major Writers

Focuses on the life and work of a single important writer. Among the authors who have received this intense examination have been James Joyce, Samuel Beckett, and Emily Dickinson. Formerly HU 420

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 913 - Nineteenth Century Novel

We study some of the most admired, best loved books of the world, written in the heyday of the novel, the nineteenth-century: Crime and Punishment, by Dostoevsky, Madame Bovary by Flaubert, Wuthering Heights, by Bronte, Great Expectations, by Dickens, Portrait of a Lady, by James. This is a course for people who love to read. Formerly HU 414B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 914 - Contemporary Novel

This is a course for people who like to read. We study 10 (count 'em 10!) novels by some of the most interesting authors of the past two decades including works from North and South America and Eastern and Western Europe. Some are weird, some beautiful, some sexy, some funny. Formerly HU 416A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 915 - Modern Poetry

This course consists of the reading and interpretation of major poets—Eliot, Stevens, Williams, Whitman, Bishop, for example, and some important contemporary poets such as Kinnell, Levertov, and Wright. Foreign poets in translation are also part of the course: Milosz, Pavese, Hikmet, Akhmatova, to name four. Prose by most of the poets concerning poetry is included as an important part of understanding and interpreting the readings. Several of the poets have written important criticism. Analysis of each poet's style and why the poet has developed it from part of the course. Aesthetic theory and the function of poetry as a social force are also considered. Formerly HU 415A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 916 - Contemporary Poetry

Beginning with the Beats, the major schools of contemporary poetic practice such as the deep image, language/action, confessional poetry, new formalism, and projectivism are addressed. The effects of feminism, sexual orientation, and racial identity on contemporary poetry are also examined. Formerly HU 415B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 921 - Superheroes

This course examines the most important heroes of popular culture in the Middle Ages – Beowulf, Roland, Siegfried, and King Arthur. What do these heroes and the epics in which they appear reveal about their culture? How do they compare to modern popular superheroes? Formerly HU 218

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 922 - Big Fat Famous Novel

Three of the world's best and most important novels: Tolstoy's War and Peace, Melville's Moby Dick, and Joyce's Ulysses are read. Each provides great pleasure to the serious reader and much material for intense discussion. Each novel has the equivalent of its own little course, about one month long. Formerly HU 414A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 923 - Children's Literature

This course investigates the oral traditions of world literature, which continue to nurture the imagination and sense of identity of children today, and the modern tradition of children's literature. The course focuses on children's literature as an introduction to the principles and forms of art and to the role of the imagination in child development. Formerly HU 219

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 925 - The Uncanny

An exploration of the phenomenon of the Uncanny as it has been represented in literature, the graphic arts, and film. Material is principally drawn from four eras: the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, the nineteenth century, and the twentieth century. Artists range from Holbein and Bosch to Kafka and Hitchcock. Formerly HU 410

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 927 - Detective Film and Fiction

An examination of the genre known as hard-boiled detective fiction as it developed in literature and then was extended by feature films. Among the authors to be considered are Dashiell Hammett, Raymond Chandler, and Ross MacDonald; among the films are The Maltese Falcon, The Big Sleep, and The Long Goodbye. Formerly HU 412

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 930 - Shakespeare

The dramatic works of the supreme writer of the English Renaissance: Shakespeare. A selection of his comedies, histories, tragedies, and romances are read. Focuses on the plays not only as literary accomplishments but also as theatrical performances existing in three-dimensional space. Concerned with both the parameters of the original Renaissance stage and with modern translations and transformations of the plays. Formerly HU 411

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 951 - American Playwrights

A study of the American theater in the past 75 years, looking at the works of such authors as O'Neill, Miller, Williams, Albee, and Shepard. Theater trips as well as showings of filmed plays. Formerly HU 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 953 - Art of Song Lyric

A study of how contemporary song lyrics developed from the tradition of lyric poetry and folk ballads. Line-by-line analysis of famous lyric poems from literary history. Popular songs of the past 50 years are used in the discussion of the problems and challenges of putting words to music, with special attention paid to Bob Dylan. Other artists include Billie Holiday, Simon and Garfunkel, the Mamas and the Papas, the Rolling Stones, Led Zeppelin, and Stevie Wonder. There is a substantial writing requirement: students may elect to study poetry, librettos, or song lyrics or to write original song lyrics of their own. Formerly HU 417

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 955 - Dante in the Modern World

Dante's Divine Comedy has been highly influential on art, music, and drama from its own time to the present. The shaping power of the poet's journey, his search for answers to ultimate questions, his quest for order and its reflection in his art continue to inspire reactions from fellow artists. The course considers a number of works reflecting this influence in several media: drama (Beckett, Sartre, Brecht), poetry (Baudelaire), music (Liszt, Puccini, Zandonai), and the visual arts. We concentrate on the Inferno, but also consider the Paradiso and Purgatorio. Formerly HU 495

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 965 - Literature and Film: From Text to Screen

Explores the conceptual and the technical leap between the written text and its transformation to a cinematic text on the screen. The students examine what happens to plot, characterization, bound and free description when a narrative text is converted to an audio-visual presentation. In certain examples, the transformation of narrative structure is from the novel to the screenplay to the finished film. Students gain insights into the relationships between written and filmed dialogue, between written description and cinematic mise-en-scene, between the novel's omniscient narrator and the film's voice-over. Formerly HU 413

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 973 - Advanced Playwriting

A follow-up to Playwriting. Students further develop their writing and revising skills. In addition, the class analyzes selected contemporary plays, and write playwrights' critiques of modern theatrical practices. Students complete a polished one-act or radio drama.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LALL 873

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 975 - Advanced Fiction Writing Workshop

A follow-up to the Fiction Writing Workshop. Students produce, critique, read, and revise short stories in a more inviting intensive environment. Goals are to hone critical skills, develop and refine students' individual voices, and provide a portfolio of finished pieces.

Prerequisites & Notes

Instructor permission required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Science/Math

SCI/M

LASM 801 - Fundamentals of College Mathematics

An introduction to the fundamental mathematical principles and operations used in undergraduate courses in the physical and social sciences. Topics include sets, logic, probability, statistics, number theory, algebra, and geometry. Meets with LACR 226. Formerly HU 282A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 802 - Calculus

An introduction to calculus with the emphasis on the applications of differential and integral calculus to the physical and social sciences. Formerly HU 282B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102, LASM 801 Students with equivalent college-level mathematics, or precollege advanced algebra and geometry should request special permission.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 803 - Probability

This class introduces some of the most fundamental ideas in classical probability. Polling techniques, casino gambling, weather forecasting, and lotteries are a few areas in which the principles of probability directly influence our lives. Modern science depends upon probability to build mathematical descriptions of the real world. This course explores the concepts of probability in an intuitive and accessible way, understandable to beginners. Topics include sample spaces, counting, conditional probability, and the concept of independence, game theory, random variables, and the law of large numbers. Formerly HU 283

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 810 - Life Sciences

Life forms in the context of current adaptations and evolutionary history. Special emphasis is placed on an exploration of evolutionary relationships, ecological specialization, and the dynamic relationships of organisms in an integrated ecosystem. Formerly HU 285A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 811 - Contemporary Issues in Life Sciences

Each semester this course explores one area of current research in the life sciences by focusing on three significant issues in the current scientific literature. Students participate in a series of semi-independent inquiry activities. For each research issue, student teams complete a “challenge” that demonstrates their ability to understand, collect, interpret and apply appropriate information in order to propose solutions and to convince classmates of the success of their approaches. Formerly HU 289

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 830 - Physical Sciences

An investigation of astronomy, geology, and other physical sciences, including the origin of the universe and solar system and the nature of physical science, matter, and energy. This course provides a background for understanding the problems of the impact of science on human values. Formerly HU 285B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 831 - Physics

An introductory college physics course. The first semester covers kinematics, dynamics, energy structural analysis, and waves; the second semester concentrates on a study of light, electricity, and magnetism. Both semesters include the frequent references to architecture, design, and the fine arts. A background in algebra is required. Formerly HU 481A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 913 - Urban Wildlife

An examination of the ways in which humans and other animals interact in shared and contiguous environments based on semi-independent field studies carried out by students on selected species. After an introduction to common species and a short period of directed study, teams of students plan, carry out, and analyze one short-term (4-week) study of one species of their choice that inhabits urban Philadelphia. Formerly HU 381

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 914 - Human Genetics

Explores the fundamentals of genetics through the study of our own species, Homo Sapiens. Introduces the students to the study of inheritance and how molecular, physiological, environmental, and behavioral mechanisms affect the measurable characteristics of humans around the world. Topics include genetic diseases and unusual physical characteristics among others. Using local resources, students engage in problem-solving activities in comparative biology. Formerly HU 386

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 915 - Perception

The structure and function of the senses of vision, audition, olfaction, gustation, touch, temperature, kinesthesia, time, and the brain and nervous system are considered as they relate to perception. Formerly HU 388

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 916 - Evolution in Modern Perspective

Evolution is the unifying theoretical foundation of all the life sciences. This course explores the mechanisms that produce evolution, and their meaning for our current knowledge in biology, conservation, medicine, agriculture, and related sciences. Students also consider the effect(s) that society's awareness of evolution has had on social institutions such as law, literature, politics, and education. Formerly HU 389

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 917 - Brain and Behavior

This course is an introduction to the organization of the brain and nervous system and to their interactions with other body systems that produce observable behavior. Topics include brain structure and function, neurological changes over the life cycle, and the effects of malfunctions. Students learn about specific brain structures and how they contribute to or produce specific behavioral characteristics. We explore the neurochemistry of drug addiction, degenerative diseases, and psycho-active drugs, as well as other current topics of interest. Formerly HU 485

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 921 - Dynamic Anatomy

The structure of the body as it relates to form (size, shape, and proportion) and support (posture, position, and movement). In-depth exploration of the location, orientation, and actions of the major muscle groups, joints, and bones, and how they differ by gender through the life cycle. Formerly HU 281

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 931 - Concepts of Modern Physics

This course surveys important concepts in twentieth century physics, including chaos theory, cosmology, quantum mechanics, and relativity. Without mathematics, we examine the tumultuous changes that have taken place in the scientific view of space, time, and physical reality. Formerly HU 385

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 932 - Pseudoscience in Contemporary Society

The methods and issues of contemporary science. Explores how scientific information is used in society through an examination of scientific, near-scientific and pseudoscientific claims, including strange creatures like Bigfoot and the Loch Ness monster, miracle cures for diseases, and paranormal phenomena. The question of how funding might affect scientific research is also examined. Formerly HU 286

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Social Science

SS

CMMC 151 - History of Communication

Examines how major developments in communication have influenced social and cultural history and how major historical and social changes have had an impact on communication and society. Draws connections between historically specific and contemporary modes of communication in a variety of times and cultures and the present. Formerly CM 250

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the College of Media and Communication.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 350 - Gender Images in Media

Explores representation of gender and sexuality in the media over the past century and how images of male and female both follow and create social change. Formerly CM 350

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 352 - Communication Theories and Culture

An intellectual history of influential 20th-century theories of communication, with a focus on the relationships between media and culture. This course reviews critical intellectual developments in the field against the backdrop of public events, social movements, and the changing daily lives of people in diverse places. How communication systems shape the course of public and private lives and how changes in communication reshaped the way we theorize about the world and the field is examined. Students read primary material in its original form, view media examples, write short position papers reflecting communication theory and culture, and complete a term paper. Formerly CM 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 353 - Media Industries

This course investigates the range of organizations and economic forces involved in media production. Includes diverse production models, from mainstream and corporate, to public sector, to alternative, and comparisons with media industries in other cultural settings. The course focuses on business and policy issues and considers examples of media practice from broadcast and cable news, advertising, Hollywood and independent cinema, public media, and new media industries. The course includes a final research project. Formerly CM 260

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 821 - The Apocalyptic Age: 1850 – 1914

An examination of the apocalyptic themes in the context of modern intellectual and artistic developments in the West at the turn of the twentieth-century. Connections are drawn between religious interpretations of the Apocalypse and the apocalyptic motifs in modern art and literature.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 831 - Introduction to the Bible

The main themes of the Bible are explored from a modern, critical, nondenominational point of view. No knowledge of the Bible is assumed. Using historical and literary analysis, continuities as well as differences between the Hebrew and Christian testaments are examined. Formerly HU 268

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 832 - Introduction to World Religion

An exploration of world religious traditions originating in Africa, the Americas, China, India, Japan, and the Middle East. Religions are studied in their historical and cultural context, including their development in various times and places, and their beliefs regarding the cosmos, society, the self, and good and evil. Formerly HU 292

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 841 - Comparative Religion: Religions of Asia

A study of the world's Asian religions through their historical development, beliefs, sacred literature, and the works of contemporary writers. The course discusses Hinduism, Buddhism, and Taoism. Formerly HU 466

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 842 - Comparative Religions: Religions in America

A historical study of beliefs and practices of various religious groups that have shaped American culture, including Mormons, Jehovah's Witnesses, Christian Scientists, Scientologists and others. We discuss traditional main-line groups as well as newer movements, and pay special attention to ethnic and racial minorities, as well as to women in American religion. Formerly HU 467

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 855 - Style in Art

A seminar exploring the question of style in the literary, visual, and performing arts as well as in craft and applied arts (including film, industrial design, and the fashion industry). We consider theories about organicism and periodicity in style, as they relate to tradition, trends, social and economic conditions, and evolving cultural norms. Themes include: ateliers and authorship; historic "revivals," changing standards of beauty and form; and stylistic phases in the careers of major writers, artists, and composers. The aim of the course is to develop a practical, descriptive vocabulary for the analysis of artistic style. Formerly HU 395

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 932 - Eastern Religions

This course explores the following religions: Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Shintoism. Each is studied in its historical and cultural context, including its development into various forms over the years and in different places, and its beliefs regarding views of the cosmos, society, the self, and good and evil. In addition to a text, students read from the literature of each religion. Formerly HU 367

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 972 - Women and Sex Roles

An introduction to the history of women and to theories of gender. An interdisciplinary course combining history, literature, and the visual arts. Slide lectures on images of women in art, myth, and religions, from ancient times to modern. Economic and historical factors affecting how women have lived. Definitions of masculinity and femininity. The nature-nurture debate over hormonal differences. Formerly HU 497

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASM 951 - Technology, Culture and Society

This course explores the complex relationship among technology, cultural paradigms, and popular consciousness. We study and analyze such questions as “What is technology?”, “Does technology necessarily imply progress?”, and “How does technology define reality?” Students examine these and other related themes through readings and other media. Formerly HU 396

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 810 - Modern American History

A study of contemporary developments, values, and issues as a product of 20th century phenomena. The course seeks to understand the dramatic changes that have occurred in American society over the last 50 years. Formerly HU 264

Prerequisites & Notes

LASS 817 - The Culture of the Italian Renaissance

A comprehensive study of the political and social conditions in Italy from the end of the 14th until the middle of the sixteenth century that led to the artistic and philosophical flowering known as the Renaissance. Not only are the contributions of the larger states of Milan, Venice, and Florence be explored, but also the princely courts of Mantua, Ferrara, and Urbino. Reading Machiavelli's The Prince and portions of Castiglione's The Courtier is an essential part of the course. Formerly HU 263

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 820 - Individual & Society

Examines the concepts of "individual" and "society" and how they are related under modern social conditions. It treats society and social institutions as fundamental realities and considers the ways in which social forces affect individual personality and identity. It provides an introduction to the perspective of sociology as distinct from that of psychology. Topics include socialization, social solidarity, morality, authority, deviance, individualism, and freedom. Formerly HU 162

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 821 - American Civilization I

An in-depth study of the origins of American society with an emphasis on the particular political, social, and cultural patterns that shaped the course of American development. The first semester surveys the process of settlement, colonial societies, independence, the growth of the egalitarian spirit, and the Civil War. Formerly HU 362A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 822 - American Civilization II

This course studies the American society in the modern period. From the perspective of today, the course examines the legacy of Reconstruction, the Industrial Revolution, the Reform Movements, the World Wars, and the Cold War. The factors in the past that have shaped contemporary society are stressed. Formerly HU 362B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 823 - Modern Culture

An exploration of various aspects of the condition of culture in modern society. Topics include the nature and rise of mass or popular culture and its relationship to high culture, advertising, and the cultural critique of capitalism, modernism and the avant-garde in the arts, the intellectual's role in society, and the relationship between culture and politics. As this is a course in sociology, the connection between culture and society are emphasized in every instance. Formerly HU 363

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 831 - Money Matters

Explores issues in economics and business by working out from the roles and interests of individual agents and groups. We look at economic dynamics in artistic and cultural work in the present, and at different historical moments, to explore further the nature of these relationships and their meanings. Students are exposed to economic and business discourse, provided with a broad and intensive understanding of economic and business language and logic, given experience in the application of these concepts to the issues in their field of interest, and provide a foundation for thinking through the economic and ethical dimensions of their work. Formerly HU 272

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 850 - Introduction to Cultural Anthropology

The nature and variation in human cultures and various explanations of these differences (i.e., symbolic, functional, and historical). This survey of culture in Western and non-Western societies considers a number of special topics such as language and society; cultural identity and the arts; gender; marriage and family; and social ranking power relations. The impact of globalization, tourism, and cultural change is also considered. Formerly HU 267

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 851 - Human Origins and Primates

An anthropological perspective on evolution, biology, ecology, and behavior of nonhuman primates from prosimians to great apes. Students are introduced to the principles of evolution and adaptive trends. The course focuses on the successful terrestrial species of Old World monkeys and the apes – the gibbon, orangutan, gorilla, and chimpanzee. Comparisons are made among nonhuman primates and our own species regarding diet, locomotion, tool use and manufacture, modes of communication, social behavior and social systems, motherhood and child care, aggression, “cultural” behavior and recent trends in nonhuman primate behavior studies. Films are an important part of the course. Formerly HU 260A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 852 - Human Evolution

An introduction to human biological and cultural evolution, a survey of the major evolutionary stages in hominid evolution, an introduction to Paleolithic technologies, and a comparison of contemporary Stone Age societies with Paleolithic populations. Formerly HU 260B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 853 - Observing Humans

Presents several different social science frameworks and seeks to uncover what can be learned about human behavior by people-watching. Students choose places for brief weekly observation and use their own art skills to document what they see. Formerly HU 261

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 861 - Introduction to Folklore

Introduces folklore genres and the history of folklore study. Sacred objects, fairy tales, songs, parodies, and legends are analyzed and presented in class. Formerly HU 265

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 871 - Child & Adolescent Psychology

This course is developmentally oriented and focuses on Erikson's psychosocial stages of life from birth to adolescence. Major topics include pregnancy, the birth process, and the physical, intellectual, emotional, and social development of the child. Family life and parent-child relationships are also examined, with particular attention given to the impact of our social institutions upon parents and children. Formerly HU 181A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Education, Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 872 - Adult Psychology

This course is developmentally oriented and focuses upon Erikson's psychosocial crises from adolescence to death. Major topics include career choice, human sexuality, love, marriage, values, mental health and mental illness, aging, and death. Formerly HU 181B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 873 - Personality & Creativity

Through readings of works of major theorists on the nature of personality and on creativity, the course poses two major questions: "What do major theorists have to say about the human personality?" and "What do major theorists have to say about what it means to be a creative person?" There are a number of ways of answering these questions and it is not the purpose of the course to choose the "best" answer, but rather, to put the student in a better position to make his or her own decision. Formerly HU 374

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 874 - Psychology of Touch

In this course the students learn about the role the sense of touch plays in early physical development and in the development of perceptual and cognitive skills. The last part of the course is devoted to the aesthetic dimension of touch and the significance of early tactile stimulation for the visual and performing arts. Formerly HU 378

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 875 - Social Psychology

A survey of major social problems today and an analysis of society's resistance to implementing the necessary painful solutions. Students study the current status of major social institutions and their increasing failure to meet and satisfy human needs. Some of the other areas that are studied are mental health and mental illness, human values, love and marriage, dreams, and preventative programs. Formerly HU 382

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 876 - Psychology of Creativity

The course examines the problems involved in defining and attempting to measure creativity. The course is developmentally oriented, focusing on relationships between creativity and normal growth and development, and intelligence and personality. Problems that the artist encounters with productivity are explored, as well as the values of society toward creativity and the artist. Formerly HU 480

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 911 - Renaissance and Reformation: 1400-1648

The intellectual and cultural explosion that heralded the modern era in Western civilization. Political, economic, philosophical, religious, and cultural developments. Formerly HU 360A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 912 - Age of Science & Enlightenment: 1648-1815

The dramatic intellectual revolution of the age of science and the applications of the revolution to every province of the human experience. The Enlightenment and the French Revolution, which are parts of the transformation of Europe, are studied from the perspective of their consequences for the modern world. Formerly HU 360B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 914 - Holocaust

The Holocaust is a watershed event in modern history. This traumatic episode left indelible marks on Western society, probably for generations to come. It was caused by factors that still exist in the world. This course examines the history that led to the Holocaust, and will attempt to help students understand what happened and what meaning it has for us today. Formerly HU 464

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 922 - Politics and the Media

This course analyzes how political and social forces interact with the American community and how that interaction affects government structure and policy. Factors such as population profiles, "suburbanites," elite groups, public opinion, party organization, elections, and reform movements are studied. Formerly HU 359

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 923 - Sociology of Art

An examination of the relationships that exist between art and society. The course focuses on the social influences that shape the creation and reception of artistic works. Topics include the social role of the artist; art as a socially organized form of work; the social institutions of artistic production, transmission, and audience reception; and the understanding of art in terms of its social content. Formerly HU 364

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 924 - Sociology of Politics

This course studies the interaction of political, social, economic, technological, and cultural forces in American society with their resultant impact on the political system. A brief introduction to political science is incorporated early in the semester. Factors such as population profiles, "suburbanites," elite groups, party organization, elections and reform movements are considered. Formerly HU 368

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 925 - Mass Media and the Arts

The purpose of this course is to develop an understanding of mass media and popular culture, primarily in the United States since the 1890s. Various forms of mass media are defined and the shared techniques by which these forms seek to communicate are analyzed. Finally, the values, both aesthetic and social, embodied in both these media and popular culture are examined in relation to social and economic change. Formerly HU 390

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 931 - The City

A study of the city in history, the forces that shaped its development, and the impact the city has had on history. The American city from the 17th century to the present is used as the model for this study. Formerly HU 366

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 933 - American Social Values

This course attempts to understand the nature and meaning of American society at the highest level of generality through an examination of some of its central value orientations. These include individualism, equality, achievement, activism, practicality, progress, materialism, freedom, democracy, and secular rationalism. The origin and meaning of some of these orientations are developed as well as their consequences both for the quality of American society as a whole and for the character of individuals trying to live their lives in it today. Formerly HU 462

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 951 - Islam: Religion & Culture

This course examines Islamic culture as it is refracted in various religious and literary texts by Muslims from Arabia, Iran (Persia), India as well as North America. The course begins with discussion of the centrality of prophecy and scripture in Islam, followed by a perusal of Islamic theology and mysticism, and ends with a sampling of primarily literary prose and poetry pieces that provide insights into the multifarious facets of Islamic civilization. Formerly HU 361

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 952 - Afro-American Culture

A survey of some of the most important Afro-American contributions to American culture, with special attention to the 20th century and to the arts. Among those whose work is discussed are W. E. B. DuBois, Duke Ellington, Langston Hughes and Paul Robeson. Formerly HU 393

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 955 - Cultural Ecology

A review of the various cultural adaptations found in different environments such as deserts, grasslands, circumpolar regions, tropical and temperate forests, islands, and high-altitude and urban areas. These adaptations include hunting and gathering, fishing, and agriculture (shifting, irrigated, and industrial). The attitude toward the environment, population growth, and the use of labor, technology, energy, and other resources are considered. Formerly HU 369

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 972 - Personality & Adjustment

The study of personality, the patterns of behavior and predispositions that determine how a person perceives, thinks, feels, and acts. The inner life of men and women, the quality of their character, their adjustment to their social milieu, and their potentialities for self-fulfillment are all explored. Special attention is given to adjustment problems of artists in work and in love. Formerly HU 383

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 973 - Abnormal Psychology

Human development and abnormal psychology: ego defenses, emotional disorders, therapeutic theories, and treatment techniques. Clinical diagnosis and classification of mental disorders. Formerly HU 384

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 974 - Theories of Personality

Introduces the study of personality and how patterns of behavior, interaction, perception and response are understood by a broad variety of theorists. Questions of nature vs. nurture, whether the past impacts the present, and what defines mental health are discussed. Psychodynamic, cognitive, humanistic, and behavioral approaches are compared and contrasted. Formerly HU 483

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LASS 871 or LASS 872; and one additional course from: LASS 871, LASS 872, LASS 873, LASS 874, LASS 875, LASS 876, LASS 972, LASS 973, LASS 975, or MMDI 353 Priority enrollment to Art Therapy concentration.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 975 - Educational Psychology

An introduction to educational psychology for potential educators. The basic principles of learning theory and education are presented and critically examined. Using a psychosocial orientation, the developmental stages of the human life cycle are explored, as well as the needs of a variety of special populations, e.g., those with learning disabilities or physical disabilities. Considerable attention is given to increasing awareness and understanding of communication, group dynamics, and organizational behavior. Formerly HU 484

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871 or LASS 872

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 353 - Psychology of Human/Computer Interaction

Students explore the ways humans perceive interacting with computers. How do humans treat computers? Why? Should we interact with them the same way we do with other humans? The reasons behind why some computer interfaces work and some do not is discussed in depth. Should computers be able to perceive our emotions? Or should computers themselves have emotions? The final for this course allows students to take part in designing an original interface solution. Formerly MM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 354 - Game Play

A lecture-based focus on the human behavior in the how and why of play and creativity. Course material examines the relationship between creativity and play, the effects of reward and punishment, cultural notions of play, and the integration of play with design play. Students examine the differences between informed and uninformed play as well as the phenomenon of flow. Formerly MM 342

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

DACR 250 - Survey of Music

A survey of the history of music from ancient to modern including jazz. Formerly DA 117

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Dance.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 163 - Aural Concepts

For non-music majors. An introduction to the use of music and sound components of multimedia and their potential for enhancing communication. Recognizing the special background and needs of the non-music major student, the course examines the production of musical sound, basic notation and theory practices, and an in-depth overview of disparate musical styles illustrating the variety and depth of musical thought from around the world and its potential relationship to the visual image. Formerly MU 149A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the School of Music. Priority enrollment to Multimedia majors.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 102 - Motion Graphics Studio

Motion graphics can be found in a wide range of media: broadcast, Web, animation, and film to name a few. This course allows students to explore the elements of time and space to convey messages and meaning through type, image, and sound for the screen. Individual creativity is stressed as well as the understanding and use of an industry-standard software for developing motion graphics. Both collaborative and individual exercises and assignments are given. Formerly MM 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 101

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MUSC 460 - Introduction to MIDI and Electronic Technology

A detailed "hands-on" examination of the use of computers in the present-day composition environment. The course includes the uses of a computer, the language of MIDI, sequencing, audio sampling, analog, digital, and other forms of synthesis, and a survey of currently available music software. Strategies and technology of scoring and synchronizing to the visual image is emphasized through a final project. No prior computer or synthesis experience is needed. Formerly MU 415A

MMDI 220 - Documentation and Presentation

In this course, students learn how to document their work for professional presentation. It focuses on issues relating to digital documentation and includes skills such as saving projects, cross platform presentation, making digital skills, editing trailers of videos and using a copy stand. Students document previously completed multimedia work and then present that work. Guest speakers augment classroom lectures and activities. Formerly MM 250

Spring Credits: 13

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

MMDI 402 - Senior Studio II

Studio course that makes use of all the students' previous instruction. One self-directed project is completed each semester. Students are expected to be prepared on the first day of each semester with a proposal that includes, but is not limited to, a schedule, map, research, executive summary, and supporting documentation. Projects can be collaborative or individual. Students are encouraged to try both over the course of the year. Formerly MM 411

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 320

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 420 - Exhibition and Promotion

In this course, students continue to build necessary professional and business skills. Students learn about promoting their work, writing business plans, applying for grants, ownership and patent issues, writing press releases, printing promotional materials, and getting into art/design shown. Students promote and exhibit their senior project to be completed in MMDI 401 or MMDI 402. Formerly MM 450

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMAC Core/Discipline History

(must take all three)

CMMC 141 - Storytelling: Theory and Practice

This course introduces students to storytelling as a way of structuring communication. Course material ranges from annual reports to ad campaigns to greeting cards to rap music to political campaigns, offering students an introduction to the many ways narrative can be exploited for a powerful effect. Students learn to apply theory and to explore the relationship of different types of media to different narrative forms.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 353 - Media Industries

This course investigates the range of organizations and economic forces involved in media production. Includes diverse production models, from mainstream and corporate, to public sector, to alternative, and comparisons with media industries in other cultural settings. The course focuses on business and policy issues and considers examples of media practice from broadcast and cable news, advertising, Hollywood and independent cinema, public media, and new media industries. The course includes a final research project. Formerly CM 260

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Multimedia Core

(must take all three)

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 301 - Interactive Sound and Video

The course deals with the experience of producing complete multimedia installation works in a project-based environment – focussing on Interactive sound and video. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Authoring environments used include but are not limited to MAX MSP, Isadora, and Macromedia Director. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 310

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Studio Choice

(must take a minimum of two courses; 6 credits)

CMMC 102 - Video Production Workshop

Acquaints students with the fundamentals of visual storytelling by providing hands-on experience translating the written word into images and sounds. Areas of study include framing images, lighting, using off-screen space and sound, editing, and postproduction. Students integrate their own writing to produce some of these projects. Formerly CM 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Writing for Film and Television, Applied Theater majors; Web Drama minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

MAAN 232 - 2-D Computer Animation

Using both raster- and vector-based programs, students explore how to build 2D animation sequences in the computer and how to translate hand-drawn animation into digitally composited animated pieces. Traditional animation principles are expanded upon and reinforced using 2D computer graphics and editing programs. Digital imagery and sound are integrated in class assignments designed to explore a wide variety of 2D styles. Formerly PF 316

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Animation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAAN 331 - 3-D Computer Animation

Using industry-standard 3D computer software, students learn basic modeling, texturing, lighting, movement, and rendering techniques. This course prepares students for further 3D computer coursework and allow them to utilize 3D software in the development and creation of their Junior and Senior thesis work. Formerly PF 326

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAAN 231 or MMDI 102 Open to Animation majors and minors; and Film/Animation majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 201 - Visual Concepts Studio

Visual problem solving in a digital environment. A project-based visual art/design studio that builds on skills developed in Visual Concepts II. This course allows students the time to concentrate on and refine the visual communications aspects of their craft through three fully realized pieces. Projects are assigned by the instructor, and conceived of and developed by the students. Projects may include: titling design and animation, visual interface design, graphic design, CD packaging design, poster and postcard design, digital painting and drawing, etc. Formerly MM 210

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 102

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 405 - Innovative Interfaces

The notion of the digital environment transcends the concept of the computer as we know it. These addresses and environments, although supported by digital technology, are non-computer-like in many respects. Building them calls for changes in the choice of interaction devices (using touch, voice, gestures, and possibly just user's intent as a basis for interaction), shape and size of computers (no boxes, but interactive surfaces), their location (floor, wall, pocket), as well as change in content structure. Using cross-disciplinary data from cognitive and computer sciences and social psychology, the students in this research/studio course focus primarily on the design and development of innovative ways of interacting with digital technology. Formerly MM 440

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 111 - Dramatic Structure I

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act dramatic structure found in narrative screenplays. Topics of the course include sequences, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students are required to complete focused and specific creative written work on a weekly basis. Workshops are held on a weekly basis. Formerly WM 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television and Discovery Year majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Multimedia Seminars

(must take all five)

CMMC 204 - Writing for Media

A studio writing class developing skills in effective, clear, and persuasive writing in the areas of media and communication. Students work from a variety of source materials and write research papers, project proposals, project treatments, and a newspaper feature. Emphasis is on writing structure and style, editing and revising, suitability to specific audiences, and delivering material on time and at prescribed lengths. Formerly CM 211

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the College of Media and Communication.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 150 - Information Concepts

Emphasis is on the importance of organizing and communicating information in a digital world. Students acquire a basic understanding of how computers operate and communicate with each other, as well as an understanding of the evolution of the personal computer and the industries that have spun out of this technology. Student assignments include readings, database projects, and written analyses. Formerly MM 130

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 250 - Survey of Multimedia

Examines the chronological evolution of digital technology and its inevitable application by the aesthetic community. Beginning with the development of digital technology in the mid-1940s, the course discusses the convergence of the scientific, military, and political environments that spawned the employment of digital technology, including the path that led to the digital dominance over analog. Includes the enhancement, exploitation, and embracing of digital technology by the corporate and aesthetic communities, the invention of the personal computer and its ancillary products, and the application of digital technologies in fields as diverse as medicine, communications, manufacturing, cognitive psychology, and in particular, the arts. Pioneers in all fields are identified and examined. Formerly MM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 315 - Advanced Interface Seminar

A seminar course that builds on Introduction to Interface Design. Focuses on the issues involved in creating user interfaces in today's development platforms (hardware, software, input devices, cell phones, etc.). Lectures, discussions, readings, research, and writing constitute the body of this course. In addition to current interface trends, the process of developing the interfaces of tomorrow is addressed. Formerly MM 320

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 425 - Special Projects in Multimedia

This seminar is designed to give students direct contact with their soon-to-be peers in the various multimedia industries. The multimedia industries that may be covered include but are not limited to: fine art, interface design, installation art, game design, and electronic music. Timely and relevant issues concerning the craft, thought, and professional expectations of a multimedia artist/designer are the content of this course. Topics related to the multimedia industries in general and the instructor's specific industry experience are discussed. Readings, discussion, and a practical presentation or project make up the body of this course. Formerly MM 472

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the second semester of their Sophomore year (60 credits). May be taken three times for credit .

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Popular electives for Multimedia students include:

From the College of Media and Communication:

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 350 - Gender Images in Media

Explores representation of gender and sexuality in the media over the past century and how images of male and female both follow and create social change. Formerly CM 350

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 499 - Multimedia Internship

Students are placed with regional companies to expose them to a professional work environment in the fields of multimedia, Web design and information management. Formerly MM 499

Prerequisites & Notes

Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits). May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 253 - History of Television

Provides an overview of the medium of television. The impact of television since its inception has become increasingly pervasive and has influenced an entire society through its ability to educate and entertain. Video examples of the medium are supplemented by class discussion and reading assignments. Formerly WM 253

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

From the College of Performing Arts:

DAPF 830 - Modern Ensemble

Formerly DA 773

Prerequisites & Notes

Repeatable for credit. Open by audition.

Credits: 1-3 cr

MUNM 111 - Guitar Class for Non-Majors I

One-hour class of guitar instruction in contemporary guitar. Course covers basic technique including fingering, scales, chords, and chord melodies. Not open to music majors specializing in guitar. Formerly MU 123A

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUNM 131 - Composition for Non-Majors

Students develop basic skills in various aspects of composition, including form, melody, harmony, rhythm, color, texture, notation, improvisation, and orchestration. Formerly MU 111A

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Composition majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 1 hr

MUSC 461 - Recording I

A study of the recording process and the many facets of the recording studio. Designed to familiarize the student with conventional and creative recording techniques through practical experience in the studio. Formerly MU 413A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Music.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

THPD 123 - Scene and Lighting Technology

Introductory course in various phases of physical production dealing with the stage, house, backstage personnel and their duties, construction and painting of scenery, stage lighting, costumes, props, and makeup. Formerly TH 123

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: THPD 125 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

From the College of Art and Design:

FAPR 212 - Screenprinting

Introduction and investigation of stencil methods in screenprinting with water-based inks. Idea development and acquisition of visual skills in expression in color, line, and form through drawn, photographic, or computer-generated stencil processes. Formerly PR 202

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 212 - Typography Fundamentals

The course addresses the basic formal language of typography and the application of typographic principles to frame basic communication messages. Typographic investigations are achieved by both manual and digital means. Formerly GD 212

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

IDES 371 - Architectonics

An elective course intended as a multidisciplinary forum for the investigation, appreciation, and design of architectural space, structures, and systems. Using in-class exercises as a laboratory for creative and collaborative exchange, students learn alternative design processes, design vocabulary, user-centered experience and design. This course develops concepts and analytical studies of objects/spaces through various 2D and 3D drawing/modeling techniques and culminates in an actual built/alterd environment. Graduate students may register for this course under GRID 624. Formerly ID 312

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MACR 304 - Image and Performance

For artists and performers of all disciplines. An intensive cross-disciplinary workshop in which the students create their own short performance works using fusions of video, animation, dance, motion, and sound to explore the interactions between visual media and the performing arts. Formerly PF 331

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

From the Liberal Arts Department:

LAPR 951 - Art, Media and Society

A seminar exploring the identity crisis of the modern artist in the period since the industrial revolution and the rise of the middle class. Conflicts or collaborations between the fine arts and commercialism, including mass media and new technology, from Romanticism and the arts and crafts movement to Pop Art and the Web. Issues of authorship, production, quality, and permanence. Who determines taste, and why? Does high art have a future? Formerly HU 498

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 972 - Women and Sex Roles

An introduction to the history of women and to theories of gender. An interdisciplinary course combining history, literature, and the visual arts. Slide lectures on images of women in art, myth, and religions, from ancient times to modern. Economic and historical factors affecting how women have lived. Definitions of masculinity and femininity. The nature-nurture debate over hormonal differences. Formerly HU 497

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 876 - Psychology of Creativity

The course examines the problems involved in defining and attempting to measure creativity. The course is developmentally oriented, focusing on relationships between creativity and normal growth and development, and intelligence and personality. Problems that the artist encounters with productivity are explored, as well as the values of society toward creativity and the artist. Formerly HU 480

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LASS 871

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 931 - The City

A study of the city in history, the forces that shaped its development, and the impact the city has had on history. The American city from the 17th century to the present is used as the model for this study. Formerly HU 366

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Popular minors for Multimedia students include:

- E-music
- Game Design
- Narrative Video

- Photography
- Strategic Advertising
- Typography
- Web Design and Development

Multimedia Minor

The minor emphasizes the development of basic competencies in multimedia by offering students the ability to create media-rich, multisensorial, interactive experiences to complement their major course of study. The minor provides skills, concepts, and tools for students interested in multimedia as a creative and expressive art form. Majors in Multimedia and Communication may not declare a minor in Multimedia.

Requirements for the Minor

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 102 - Motion Graphics Studio

Motion graphics can be found in a wide range of media: broadcast, Web, animation, and film to name a few. This course allows students to explore the elements of time and space to convey messages and meaning through type, image, and sound for the screen. Individual creativity is stressed as well as the understanding and use of an industry-standard software for developing motion graphics. Both collaborative and individual exercises and assignments are given. Formerly MM 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 101

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 250 - Survey of Multimedia

Examines the chronological evolution of digital technology and its inevitable application by the aesthetic community. Beginning with the development of digital technology in the mid-1940s, the course discusses the convergence of the scientific, military, and political environments that spawned the employment of digital technology, including the path that led to the digital dominance over analog. Includes the enhancement, exploitation, and embracing of digital technology by the corporate and aesthetic communities, the invention of the personal computer and its ancillary products, and the application of digital technologies in fields as diverse as medicine, communications, manufacturing, cognitive psychology, and in particular, the arts. Pioneers in all fields are identified and examined. Formerly MM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 212 - Game Design Studio

This course focuses on creating interactive games and exploring the concepts and practical application of game design. Games are developed for the Web, computer, and nondigital mediums. Course activities include lectures and studio practice, including completion of assignments, exercises, and projects. Individual creativity is stressed, as well as collaborative game development skills. Students leave the course having produced several games. Formerly MM 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 301 - Interactive Sound and Video

The course deals with the experience of producing complete multimedia installation works in a project-based environment – focussing on Interactive sound and video. Lectures and meetings augment this studio course. Individual creativity is stressed as well as collaboration in the creation of works through individual and group projects. Assignments vary in scale, and focus on appropriate planning and information architecture, as well as acquisition and creation of content in various media. Authoring environments used include but are not limited to MAX MSP, Isadora, and Macromedia Director. Previously introduced concepts and technology are re-explored with an emphasis on integration and effectiveness in the communication of the concept of the piece. Formerly MM 310

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Museum Communication - Master of Arts

Program Total Credits: 45

Year One Credits: 30.0

Fall Credits: 15.0

GREM 601 - Electronic Media/Production I

Addresses the development of foundation computer skills in image scanning technology, desktop publishing, digital photographic technologies, and basic output procedures. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Meets with EMDI 201. In order to receive graduate credit, graduate students are expected to exceed undergraduate course expectations by applying the skills and competencies outlined in the syllabus to graduate-level concepts that typically relate to their major program of study. In this regard, graduate students taking this graduate elective are required to meet with the instructor prior to the start of class to determine and outline the nature of the requirements to be met. Formerly EM 601

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 600 - Museology

Introduction to the social and cultural theory underlying museum practice. The museum is studied as a dynamic institution. Its structure and functions are examined in the context of political, economic, and social change. A seminar/lecture course, students study the writings of the founders of modern museum theory focusing on the development of museums and their service to the public, learning as a central focus of contemporary museums, and the shift from private to public support and responsibility for museums. Formerly MS 600

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs. Priority enrollment to Museum Studies.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 601 - Museum Seminar: The Museum Society

Lecture/seminar course exploring the history, organization, and operation of the museum as a cultural/educational institution, an economic entity, and a management enterprise. Visiting lecturers bring a wide range of knowledge and practices from their respective institutions and consultancies to provide the student with insight into the differences between museums of different types, sizes, and missions. The course provides students with an overall understanding of the museum as an institution and an introduction to the many roles played by museum professionals. Offered in the evening. Formerly MS 501

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 603 - The Museum Audience

Lecture into practice course focusing on the visitor experience through museum communications and learning. Designed to identify the characteristics of the museum visitor, the ways in which visitors experience museum exhibitions, cognitive and affective behavior, the relationship of museum exhibitions and educational programming, and the impact of institutions and visitor studies on the planning and design of institutions, museum exhibitions, and environments. Formerly MS 508

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 614 - Museum Graphics

Writing, design, and production of museum graphic components. Graphic Design is defined as any visual information communicated through word and image. Formerly MS 620A

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: GREM 601 Open to Museum Studies majors only. Computer literacy required.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 780 - Thesis Research

Examines the principle approaches to research. The nature of appropriate research methods for selected thesis topics; the approaches and benefits of various methodologies; and the steps in research design. Students identify a research problem, design a study, collect and analyze data, compile, interpret and report results. Formerly MS 740

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15.0

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
- Elective Credits: 3 cr

GRAD 651 - University Seminar: Art and Society

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from all graduate programs examine theoretical issues relating to the place of art and design in society. Topics include the social role of the artist/designer, public policy and the arts, issues of post-modernism, and aesthetic and ethical implications of emerging arts communication technologies. (May be taken to satisfy Sociology/Anthropology corequisite for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 692

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 702 - Issues in Museums Seminar

Presents and discusses current political and social issues, which may unexpectedly, sometimes problematically, affect museum practice, particularly in the public areas of exhibition, programming, and publications. Recent examples would include controversial exhibits, legal, gender, race, cultural, and religious issues impacting museums; and the public right to participate in the museum experience as an active contributor. Museum scholars, specialists, and university faculty offer in-depth examination of current topics. Students complete projects designed to develop professional ability to deal with emerging debates in the museum profession and the knowledge of the impact of politics and the mass culture on museum policies and practices. Formerly MS 601

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 601 or MSEM 600 Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 783 - Thesis Development: Communication

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 780

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Year Two Credits: 15.0

Summer Credits: 3

MSEM 795 - Museum Internship

A supervised practicum in a cooperating museum, gallery, or design firm. The internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional. Provides practical on-site experience, in which the intern is integrated into the professional staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. Formerly MS 759

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fall Credits: 12.0

- Elective Credits: 3.0 cr

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. (May be taken to satisfy Aesthetics and Art Criticism co-requisites for the MAT program.) Formerly GR 691

Prerequisites & Notes

Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 641 - Museum Governance: Legal Issues, Ethics and Museums

Legal status of the museum and its obligations to the public, governance, staffing, and policy-making as a nonprofit organization. Establishing collections policies, laws, regulations, conventions, and codes that affect acquisitions, deaccessions, loans, and collections care. The case study method is used to examine the issues, the law, and the decisions that affect today's museums. State, federal, and international legislation, common law, and the applications of administrative law in museums are examined. Examines the complex relations of museums and museum professionals with trustees, collectors, donors, dealers, outside interest groups, and artists. Formerly MS 602

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 601 or MSEM 600 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 784 - Thesis: Communication

Independent research and design in an area supporting the student's career objectives and interests.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 783

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Note

Three credit hours of electives may be outside Museum Communication.

Museum Education - Master of Arts

Program Total Credits: 36

Year One Credits: 36

Fall Credits: 18

AEDU 501 - Creative and Cognitive Development

This course is designed to develop skills in recognizing the developmental stages of children, adolescents, and adults according to the theories of Jean Piaget, Lawrence Kohlberg, Viktor Lowenfeld, and Erick Erickson. In addition, the course explores the learning theories of Jerome Bruner, B.F. Skinner, Howard Gardner, Madeline Hunter, and Bernice McCarthy toward understanding individual differences in creative and cognitive development and learning styles. Formerly AE 550

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 606 - Research in Education: Methods and Trends

A graduate education seminar on principal approaches to research for art and museum education. The course examines types of research, applications and recent studies for their methodologies and findings, grant writing, and assessment techniques. Formerly AE 606

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate Art Education and Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

GRAD 650 - University Seminar: Structure and Metaphor

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from the several graduate programs examine theoretical issues of structure and metaphor in relation to art and design. Topics include cognition and perception, meaning and representation, and systems of organization and expression. Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 603 - The Museum Audience

Lecture into practice course focusing on the visitor experience through museum communications and learning. Designed to identify the characteristics of the museum visitor, the ways in which visitors experience museum exhibitions, cognitive and affective behavior, the relationship of museum exhibitions and educational programming, and the impact of institutions and visitor studies on the planning and design of institutions, museum exhibitions, and environments. Formerly MS 508

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Studies majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 630 - Museum Education Practicum

This course is designed to develop the practiced insight and skills needed as a professional in a museum environment working with all age groups. It provides opportunities for preliminary observations and experience with professional museum educators and directors led by a professor who conducts the seminar in conjunction with the museum visits and guest speakers. Through this process students develop dynamic teaching techniques that explore and interpret information, concepts, and cultural values that a museum collection communicates. Hands-on techniques and experiences with curriculum development and methodology help students prepare for their research and internship. Formerly MS 510

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Museum Education majors. Restricted to students enrolled in graduate programs.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 695 - Museum Internship: Museum Education

Taken in a cooperating museum, the internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional museum educator. It is intended to provide practical on-site experience in which the intern is integrated into the museum staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. A University professor also observes, advises, and assesses the student during the internship. Formerly MS 658

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Education majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 3-6 cr

Spring Credits: 18

GRAD 651 - University Seminar: Art and Society

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students from all graduate programs examine theoretical issues relating to the place of art and design in society. Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 621 - Media for Museum Communication

Computer literacy, familiarity with Macintosh operating system required. A laboratory/ workshop course on utilization of appropriate technological media, with emphasis on the creation of visitor interaction. Formerly MS 622

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MSEM 614 or GREM 610 Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 631 - Educational Programming for Museums and Alternative Sites

Prepares museum educators for the development of educational programs and plans for diverse types of museums and alternative learning sites. Exposes students to current issues and trends in museum education such as interdisciplinary and integrated learning, and issues of diversity. Methods of interpreting works of art, artifacts, and collections are studied. Extensive, "theory into practice" component provides students with the opportunity to apply theory to actual permanent collection and temporary exhibition projects at area museums. Formerly MS 615

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: MSEM 603, MSEM 630 Priority enrollment to Museum Education majors. Open to Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 690 - Graduate Museum Project

A culminating research project concerning museum studies, management, and education. The project is completed in one semester and includes the study of research in the field, a team project with the Museum Exhibition Planning and Design, and Museum Communication programs, and an individual project related to the student's main area of interest within the museum education profession. This course provides preparatory research for the culminating museum internship. Formerly MS 648

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Museum Education majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MSEM 695 - Museum Internship: Museum Education

Taken in a cooperating museum, the internship represents full-time employment equivalency under the mentorship of a professional museum educator. It is intended to provide practical on-site experience in which the intern is integrated into the museum staff, assuming professional-level responsibilities and experience. A University professor also observes, advises, and assesses the student during the internship. Formerly MS 658

Music Education - Master of Arts in Teaching

Program Total Credits: 36

The Master of Arts in Teaching Music Education is a 36-credit program designed for students who have completed bachelor's degrees in applied music, music theory/composition, music history/literature, or other non-education, music-related curricula. The MAT can be completed in one academic year provided corequisite requirements have been met and placement testing does not indicate the need for supplementary studies. Undergraduate students in music at the University may take the Music Education Minor, which satisfies all corequisites. The MAT in Music Education leads to teaching certification in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Music Education - Master of Arts in Teaching Credits: 36

The following listing represents the normal sequence of courses if completed within one year:

Fall Credits: 18

MUED 520 - Music Pedagogy III: Pre-K to Grade 4

Study of pedagogical issues and approaches for music instruction in classroom music settings for children from pre-kindergarten through grade 4. Topics include goal setting and lesson planning, selection of age-appropriate materials and methods, and assessment of learning.

Prerequisites & Notes

The course covers the development, writing, and evaluation of curriculum as a dynamic interactive process based on research. Students develop curriculum writing and evaluation skills through critical review of various curricula, analyses of curriculum models, and developing their own curricula. Measurement and assessment of learning, which is the crucial dynamic element in curricula, is covered in depth. Upon completion of the course, students should be able to critically analyze curricula, design curricula, and develop appropriate assessment tools for various music learning situations.

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Masters in Teaching in Music Education only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Music Education Minor

Professional musicians teach in various settings such as private lessons, classroom lectures, presentations at conferences, directing performing ensembles, and as artists in residence. The Music Education minor is open to all music majors desiring preparation for these roles.

The Music Education minor complements the degree studies of all music majors with two courses even counting within the liberal arts core of the student's bachelor degree. Coursework includes instruction in each of the instrument families, pedagogy of private instruction and improvisation, conducting, rehearsing jazz ensembles, the psychology of teaching and learning music, and the needs of special learners. Field experiences include working with ensembles in public and private schools.

Music Education minors will be able to complete the Master of Arts in Teaching degree (MAT) and receive teacher certification in one additional academic year. This "4 +1" option allows students to earn a MUED minor, bachelor's degree, master's degree, and teacher certification in only five years.

Music Education Minor Credits: 20

Musical Theater Minor

College of Performing Arts Sophomores including Voice, Acting, Applied Theater Arts, and Dance majors who have earned a 3.0 GPA in their major are eligible, by audition, to enroll in a range of courses (usually 15 credit hours) leading to the fulfillment of a minor in musical theater. The faculty in the Schools of Dance, Music, and Theater conduct auditions required for admission to the minor, which is to be restricted for only those students most apt to succeed in cross-disciplinary training. In order to continue through the sequence of courses in the minor, students are required to earn a grade of B or better in the initial cross-discipline courses in Voice, Dance and/or Acting normally taken in the minor during the Sophomore year.

This course of study is designed solely for students majoring in Voice, Acting, Applied Theater Arts and Dance since their success in the minor is due in part to their continuing, concentrated study and growth in their individual majors. In other words, ongoing development as a dancer, actor, or vocal major enhances students' ability to succeed in the minor.

Narrative Video Minor - CAD

The minor in Narrative Video explores digital video as a medium for storytelling. It introduces students to various aspects of video production, including scriptwriting, storyboarding, editing, sound design, directing, and producing. Students develop their skills as they advance from scene exercises through a short film to a final year-long project. This minor is open to all UArts majors, except those in Film/ Digital Video. As this minor is co-hosted by the College of Media and Communications, CMAC students should refer to the CMAC section of this catalog for additional regulations regarding this minor.

Requirements for the MinorCMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

Contour drawing, collage, Xerox transfer, book arts, and other experimental drawing and printing techniques are explored. Students are encouraged to combine media. Formerly FA

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors. Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 203 - Media/Techniques

A studio course of instruction and demonstration in the variety of traditional technical approaches to the handling of paint media, including the preparations of grounds and supports. Media options could include oil, acrylic, encaustic, casein, gouache, gold-leafing, fresco, and egg tempera. This course is unique in its focus solely on physical processes not concept or image development. Formerly FA 235

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPT 212 - Drawing Studies

A studio course advancing the objectives of Drawing: Form/Space. Emphasis is on two essential concerns: process and purpose. Students are expected to carry out sustained involvement in specific projects focused on method and content. Studio practices include both open-ended invention and closed-system approaches. This kind of sustained focus on a variety of techniques and themes culminates in a final term project. Formerly FA 234

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 203 - Introduction to Figure Modeling

Modeling from life for the beginner, stressing direct observation, eye-hand coordination, and depth discrimination. Both perceptual and conceptual skills are developed and fundamental studio practices are taught, such as armature construction, clay utilization, and modeling techniques. Works are fired in clay or cast in plaster. Formerly FA 223

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Choose one course from the following three:

Painting Majors must take one sculpture course and one printmaking course. These will be counted as electives outside of the Painting offerings.

FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 202 - Sculpture I

Emphasizes the fundamental and formal aspects of sculpture. Projects are assigned to help the student experience and understand the unique expressive values of mass, space, plane, line, balance, rhythm, scale, movement, and time transformation. This course also serves to introduce the student to a variety of materials and techniques. Assigned projects, group critiques, and slide lectures. Formerly SC 202

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Junior Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 16.5

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

FACR 301 - Attitudes & Strategies

A studio-criticism course that presents issues that cross over the unique domains of the sculptor, the printmaker, and the painter. Fine Arts students from all three majors work on projects designed to increase their awareness of the attitudes and strategies embodied in artworks. Concepts such as idealism, naturalism, and expressionism are explored in light of their implication for form-making methods and principles. Lectures, studio projects, and group critiques create a forum for advanced study of the purposes and contexts of the Fine Arts. Formerly FA 333A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPT 201 or FASC 201 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 301 - Junior Painting

Students maintain designated spaces in the Junior Studio where they can develop a more professional working routine. They are expected to show increasing personal initiative and direction. Regular critiques on both an individual and group basis connect the student to the values of the past and the present, stimulate interest in the major questions of our time, and provide resources for progress. This course embraces a plurality of ideas about painting and, linked with the goals of FACR 301, advocates a spirit of experimentation and research. Formerly PT 302A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 201 Priority enrollment to Painting majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 303 - Color Studies

Studio group projects and independent projects consider the purposes and effects of color organization, color perception, and color theory. Color is approached as emotive, symbolic, descriptive, and structural. Formerly PT 340

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 202 Priority enrollment to Painting majors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 13.5

- Liberal Arts Credits: 6 cr

FAPT 302 - Junior Painting

Students maintain designated spaces in the Junior Studio where they can develop a more professional working routine. They are expected to show increasing personal initiative and direction. Regular critiques on both an individual and group basis connect the student to the values of the past and the present, stimulate interest in the major questions of our time, and provide resources for progress. This course embraces a plurality of ideas about painting and, linked with the goals of FACR 301, advocates a spirit of experimentation and research. Formerly PT 302B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 201 Priority enrollment to Painting majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 304 - Junior Drawing

An advanced studio in drawing, extending knowledge, experience, and authority in drawing as a form-making act in the painting process and as a form of expression in its own right. Students are guided through various aspects of the uses of pictorial elements (line, tonality, surface, etc.) in the making of images that express content and meaning. References to contemporary and historical sources are investigated. Formerly PT 334

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPT 211, FAPT 212 or FAPT 205 Priority enrollment to Painting majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 306 - Junior Seminar

A discussion format aimed at investigating and understanding the content of, the motivations for, and the influences on contemporary painting. Emphasis is on exploring the theories, questions, and issues that create the intellectual content for contemporary artists. Students are given reading assignments as preparation for the seminar dialogue. Selected texts include artists' documents, critical writings, and classic essays covering such areas as aesthetic principles, political and cultural realities, and psychological perspectives. Class sessions emphasize group discussions based on viewing slides and other appropriate visual material, reading assignments, and various written and oral forms of student presentations. Formerly PT 360

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 202 Open to Painting majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 27

Fall Credits: 13.5

- Electives Credits: 3 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FACR 401 - Senior Fine Arts Seminar

The artist's role in historic and contemporary contexts. Issues surrounding the various purposes of art and how culture deals with artists are explored through discussion with visiting artists, alumni, and faculty. Students work toward the acquisition of a professional profile in resume, artist statement, and slide preparation. Discussion of gallery practices and portfolio presentations cultivate an awareness of professionalism and career opportunities in the fields of painting, printmaking, and sculpture. Formerly FA 460

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 301, FAPT 302 or FASC 302 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPT 401 - Senior Painting

Critical commentary centers on four areas of concern: 1. The character of the work – its formal properties, its physical properties, aspects of intelligibility. 2. Intention - the investigation of motives and choices. 3. Context – ways that a work relates to a larger body of work, both generic and stylistic. 4. Quality – approaches to questions of value. There are individual critiques each week and periodic group critiques involving the participation of a visiting artist. Formerly PT 402A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 302 Open to Painting majors only.

Credits: 4.5 cr, 9 hrs

FAPT 403 - Drawing References

Advanced drawing projects focusing on the relation between a given work and its references and resources. Emphasis is on understanding the nature of references or resource material and the manner in which references or resources influence the outcome of a work. This studio/critique course aims at enhancing students' ability to connect their personal and subjective interests to the larger context of nature, history, and culture. Formerly FA 425

Prerequisites & Notes

FAPT 304 or FAPR 301 or FASC 302

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPT 402 - Senior Painting

The Painting major formulates a senior thesis project. Working with senior faculty who read and critique early drafts, the student develops a formal written thesis and a body of artwork to be presented at the end of the term to a senior thesis panel. This panel is comprised of Studio faculty, Liberal Arts faculty, and student peers. Formerly PT 402B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPT 302 Open to Painting majors only.

Credits: 6 cr, 12 hrs

FAPT 404 - Drawing References

Advanced drawing projects focusing on the relation between a given work and its references and resources. Emphasis is on understanding the nature of references or resource material and the manner in which references or resources influence the outcome of a work. This studio/critique course aims at enhancing students' ability to connect their personal and subjective interests to the larger context of nature, history, and culture. Formerly FA 426

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. LAAH 855 - History of Photography

Objectives: to provide an introduction to the significant photographers and their work in the history of the medium, to describe technical developments and their impact, to discuss the major visual and aesthetic trends in the development of photography and their relationship to art in general, and to describe the larger social context in which photography has developed. Formerly HU 255

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Photography majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MAFL 201 - Introduction to Film I

A hands-on introduction to the principles and techniques of media production: shooting 16mm film, developing a sensitivity to the nuances of movement, understanding lighting and exposure, composition, and the logic of editing. We also survey the historical and aesthetic development of the medium in order to expand the students' sense of the possibilities of the medium. Formerly PF 210A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors, Film/Digital Video minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

MAPH 202 - Introduction to Photography II

While consolidating the student's control of the medium, this course introduces the student to a departure from normative photographic rendering, techniques, and modes of expression and form. Strong emphasis on manipulation of materials, including traditional photographic methods as well as an introduction to computer-manipulation. Formerly PF 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 282, MAPH 201 or MAPH 221 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 211 - Color Concepts

Introduction to methods of color shooting and printing, leading to an exploration of the technical and creative possibilities of color in photography. Processes covered include negative and transparency films, filtration, chemical printing, and digital color controls with Photoshop. Formerly PF 217

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Photography majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not open to Foundation majors.

MAPH 301 - Junior Photography Workshop

Exploration of photographic imagery through a series of problems aimed at personal vision and creative growth. Formerly PF 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 303 - Basic Photography Studio I

Familiarizes the student with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography. Entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. Deals exclusively with black-and-white materials, sheet film exposure, hand processing, and printing large-format negatives. Formerly PF 313A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. MAPH 320 - Selected Topics in Photography

Study of one or more various media, methods, or problems in still photography to be offered according to the instructor's interests and students' requests. Topics include: portraiture, documentary photography, digital imaging, color manipulation, photographic illustration, and photo-based mixed media. Formerly PF 323

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 321 - Surface Altered Photographs

A concentration on the fundamental ideas and techniques for altering the surface of photographic prints, the emphasis is on one-of-a-kind prints, mixed media, and nontraditional materials. Techniques and materials covered include: traditional hand-coloring (oil paint, watercolor, acrylic, pastel, pencil, liquid dyes), toning and bleaching, graphic arts film, Polaroid transfer, photocopier transfer lifts, liquid emulsion, tin-types, and the preparation and painting of digital prints. Assignments, a research paper, slide lectures, and critiques center on creative possibilities, technical proficiency, and the development of increasingly more personalized visual and photographic statements. Formerly PF 334

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 322 - Photojournalism

This course covers basic photojournalism with a focus on the picture story. Choice of subject depends on the students' individual style of photography and their point of view. The class is built on an intensive shooting schedule emphasizing photographic composition, regular feedback, and the use of appropriate equipment. The class covers selecting story ideas, picture editing, writing captions and preparing text-blocks to accompany photographs, and business aspects of the field such as how and where to sell or publish work. Formerly PF 335

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 201 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 323 - Fashion and Editorial Portrait Photography

This course explores the real world of fashion and editorial photography. Students learn to present both themselves and their work professionally. They visit professional studios and, on occasion, collaborate with art directors. They learn to interpret and execute assignments dealing with deadlines and other restrictions posed by commissions. Photographers, art directors, and studio assistants are invited into the class. Emphasis is placed on expanding and maintaining personal vision in a commercially oriented context. Formerly PF 336

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 460 - Professional Practices

Study of the practice of professional photography, with attention to various career opportunities, portfolio presentation, business practices, professional ethics, photographic law, and personal objectives. A variety of professional guests visit the course. Formerly PF 413

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Photography Minor

The Photography minor stresses a fine-art approach to photography. It provides the basics of black-and-white as well as color photography and digital imaging. The emphasis is placed on gaining experience in a wide range of pictorial photographic applications. Once a student has mastered basic photographic technique, materials and processes that are used to manipulate photographic imagery are explored. Creativity and personal expression are emphasized in all of these courses. Photography majors may not declare a Photography minor.

Requirements for the Minor

MAPH 202 - Introduction to Photography II

While consolidating the student's control of the medium, this course introduces the student to a departure from normative photographic rendering, techniques, and modes of expression and form. Strong emphasis on manipulation of materials, including traditional photographic methods as well as an introduction to computer-manipulation. Formerly PF 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 282, MAPH 201 or MAPH 221 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 211 - Color Concepts

Introduction to methods of color shooting and printing, leading to an exploration of the technical and creative possibilities of color in photography. Processes covered include negative and transparency films, filtration, chemical printing, and digital color controls with Photoshop. Formerly PF 217

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Photography majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not open to Foundation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 301 - Junior Photography Workshop

Exploration of photographic imagery through a series of problems aimed at personal vision and creative growth. Formerly PF 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. Formerly PF 315

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following two:

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 282 - Photography for Illustrators

This course introduces Illustration majors to the fundamental techniques used in black-and-white photography, including camera operation, developing, and printing, as well as photographic digital imaging. Emphasis is placed on film selection and lighting for both the studio and environmental shooting. The fundamentals of Photoshop are employed for digital image manipulation. Lectures and projects are designed to provide the tools necessary for illustrators who wish to use photography in their work. Formerly PF 209

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Photography majors. Priority enrollment to Illustration majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Crafts

Crafts Studio Certificate Program

A Post-Baccalaureate Portfolio Development Program

The University's 30-credit certificate program offers an intensely focused education in crafts. The program is designed for those students with bachelor's degrees who wish to become proficient artists in one or more of the following areas: ceramics, fibers, jewelry, metalsmithing, or wood. Courses dealing with technique, philosophy, and contemporary issues are aimed to develop an individual's portfolio for further graduate study or a career as an independent studio artist or design professional.

The Crafts Studio Program offers the studio component of the University's undergraduate crafts program in a focused one-and-one-half or two-year period. Students accepted to the program take a minimum of six credits to a maximum of 12 credits per semester.

Certificate students must take a minimum of 12 media-specific credits at the 300 level. The prerequisite for 300-level courses is two 200-level courses in that same medium. However, if an applicant's portfolio indicates enough experience in a particular medium, 200-level prerequisites may be waived at the time of acceptance. See the preceding section for a listing of media-specific courses.

Certificate students benefit from taking courses with degree candidates in a quality undergraduate program. In addition to technically oriented, media-specific courses, students take core courses involving design/theory issues, criticism, and professional/career practices.

Admission is by portfolio and interview. Students with little or no formal art training will be required to take Foundation courses. The program advisor (in consultation with the student) will set the number of required prerequisites. These credits must be taken in addition to the 30 required credits and can be completed in advance of or concurrently with the certificate program.

Fall Credits: 9

AEDU 200 - Presentation Skills

This course addresses effective speech and presentation skills for the teacher, artist, and administrator communicating with groups, classes, or clients. Formerly AE 200

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

AEDU 201 - Introduction to Visual Arts Education

A theoretical and practical introduction to the entire field of art education with an emphasis on studio processes. A survey of various aspects of teaching in a variety of situations and environments, through field observations and classroom lecture-discussions, including public and private schools K-12, as well as specialized and alternative settings in museum education, early childhood education, special education (for students with disabilities and gifted children), and adult education. Formerly AE 201

Credits: 2 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 501 - Creative and Cognitive Development

This course is designed to develop skills in recognizing the developmental stages of children, adolescents, and adults according to the theories of Jean Piaget, Lawrence Kohlberg, Viktor Lowenfeld, and Erick Erickson. In addition, the course explores the learning theories of Jerome Bruner, B.F. Skinner, Howard Gardner, Madeline Hunter, and Bernice McCarthy toward understanding individual differences in creative and cognitive development and learning styles. Formerly AE 550

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 541 - Program Design & Methods: Elementary

Through review of current literature, lectures, discussion, field observation, and miniteaching, students explore various educational philosophies and develop and implement effective classroom curricula based on prevailing theories of learning and child development. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 547

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 201 Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

This course has a required field placement

Spring Credits: 9

These courses has a required field placement.

AEDU 533 - Art and Inclusionary Education

This course is designed to provide the full scope of methodologies, techniques and innovative strategies needed to teach special education students effectively. Using the arts as a means for adapting to diverse learning methods, the K-12 classroom is regarded as a dynamic setting for inclusionary learning. The impact of special needs art education is further realized through direct school and community engagement: programs and national as well as local organizations are made available to assist in developing field placements. Arranged field placement opportunities include a broad range of community resources. Formerly AE 533

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

AEDU 542 - Program Design & Methods: Secondary

Continuation of AEDU 541, with emphasis on the development of age-appropriate curricula that addresses scope and sequence and state standards for middle and secondary school. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 548

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 541 or AEDU 560 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

AEDU 560 - Saturday Practicum

Students are involved in various aspects of the Saturday Arts Lab. They observe classroom instruction, plan and teach lessons, and exhibit student work under the supervision of cooperating master teachers and through the instruction of a professor in the seminar portion of the course. Formerly AE 559

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

Fall Credits: 12

AEDU 503 - The Art of Teaching

Teacher preparation and knowledge of instructional techniques will be addressed, including professional image, teachers' rights and responsibilities, and aspects of group process. The course explores cultural and family factors that influence learning expectations conveyed by teachers and peer behavior and techniques of instruction and creativity. A retrospective analysis of each student's individual education experience and perceptions of teaching is explored through interactive simulation of classroom situations and teaching styles. Formerly AE 552

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 541 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 561 - Student Teaching: Elementary

An intensive, elementary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 561 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. (If students elect to take AEDU 561 one semester and AEDU 562 another semester, AEDU 565 must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 660

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Corequisite: AEDU 565 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary, 7 weeks

AEDU 562 - Student Teaching: Secondary

An intensive, secondary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 562 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 201 - Sophomore Painting

Studio work introduces the student to the domain of painting through projects that cover not only the basic elements of form, color, and technique, but also the basic conceptual challenges unique to painting. Students are exposed to the origins and purposes of painting and the range of possibilities offered by both traditional and contemporary approaches. Formerly PT 202A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Printmaking majors take one sculpture course and one painting course, during the Sophomore year.

FAPT 211 - Drawing: Form and Space

An introduction to the issues of drawing, including perception, analysis, invention, and experimentation. A variety of thematic ideas, structural possibilities, and imaginative interpretations are explored. Students are exposed to a wide spectrum of precedents in the history of drawing and are encouraged to enlarge their working definitions of how form and space can be effectively expressed. Formerly FA 222

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Open to Fine Arts majors only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 205 - Concepts/Works on Paper

Offers an opportunity for idea development, visual perception, and the organization of experience into compositions. Primary emphasis is on developing visual expression, skill in using various materials, and growth of critical evaluative abilities through group discussions and critiques. Contour drawing, collage, Xerox transfer, book arts, and other experimental drawing and printing techniques are explored. Students are encouraged to combine media. Formerly FA 205

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors. Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 201 - Sculpture I

Emphasizes the fundamental and formal aspects of sculpture. Projects are assigned to help the student experience and understand the unique expressive values of mass, space, plane, line, balance, rhythm, scale, movement, and time transformation. This course also serves to introduce the student to a variety of materials and techniques. Assigned projects, group critiques and slide lectures. Formerly SC 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

FACR 301 - Attitudes & Strategies

A studio-criticism course that presents issues that cross over the unique domains of the sculptor, the printmaker, and the painter. Fine Arts students from all three majors work on projects designed to increase their awareness of the attitudes and strategies embodied in artworks. Concepts such as idealism, naturalism, and expressionism are explored in light of their implication for form-making methods and principles. Lectures, studio projects, and group critiques create a forum for advanced study of the purposes and contexts of the Fine Arts. Formerly FA 333A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPT 201 or FASC 201 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 303 - Print Study Seminar I

Students meet at the Philadelphia Museum of Art in the Print Study room to discuss and study original prints and rare books from the museum collection. Masters of the 15th through the 18th centuries are introduced and researched. Various print processes that parallel the material covered in the course will be researched in the printmaking studios. Formerly PR 306A

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Printmaking majors only. Student must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits).

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 305 - Lithography

All of the basic techniques of drawing, imagemaking and printing skills that are necessary to produce hand-pulled lithographs from stones and plates are taught. An emphasis is placed on visual expression and development of ideas through group discussions and critiques. Formerly PR 300

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors.

FAPR 301 - Attitudes and Strategies: Printmaking

The first semester of this course concentrates on general issues of contemporary artists' practice; the second semester continues with a focus on the printmaker's world. The student creates many prints, exploring a variety of printmaking methods. Drawings to clarify the direction that a possible later series of prints might take are another expectation as well as completed drawing projects. Students should take at least one area of printmaking and develop technical skills beyond elementary proficiency. All three mediums: relief, intaglio, and lithography are to be used in making prints this semester. Combining methods, particularly for the addition of color, is urged. Formerly PR 333

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPR 301 Open to Printmaking majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 302 - Printmaking Workshop

An investigation into the combination of previously studied printmaking media including, but not confined to: relief, intaglio, screenprinting, lithography and photo & digital imaging. Students are encouraged to investigate unorthodox uses of materials and techniques through the creation of two-dimensional and three-dimensional work. Formerly PR 301

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204 Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 304 - Book Arts: Concept and Structure

An opportunity to explore the integration of type and relief image in unique and editioned book structures. Hands-on experience in dealing with composition (metal) type and computer typesetting is on an intermediate level. Methods of relief printing are explored and cultivated. Wood engraving, photopolymer relief, color reduction printing, and related traditional and contemporary methods of multiple image making are pursued. Special emphasis on development of a personal visual language. Formerly PR 307

Prerequisites & Notes

Students must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits). Priority enrollment to Printmaking majors and minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Senior Year Credits: 27

FAPR 401 - Advanced Workshop

Students continue to develop their ideas, images, and technique while establishing their direction and personal original expression. The workshop atmosphere permits a comfortable handling of all procedures and printmaking processes. Students are encouraged to be involved with adjacent expressive means such as drawing, painting, sculpture, photography, and crafts in combination with printmaking. Formerly PR 400

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FAPR 305 Open to Printmaking majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 403 - Print Study Seminar II

The historical and conceptual context of prints, portfolios and book arts of the 19th and 20th centuries are studied at the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Written and printed expression of the ideas and processes involved are integrated into this course of study. Formerly PR 406

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Printmaking majors only. Students must have completed the first semester of their Sophomore year (45 credits).

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 13.5

- Electives Credits: 6 cr
- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FACR 401 - Senior Fine Arts Seminar

The artist's role in historic and contemporary contexts. Issues surrounding the various purposes of art and how culture deals with artists are explored through discussion with visiting artists, alumni, and faculty. Students work toward the acquisition of a professional profile in resume, artist statement, and slide preparation. Discussion of gallery practices and portfolio presentations cultivate an awareness of professionalism and career opportunities in the fields of painting, printmaking, and sculpture. Formerly FA 460

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 301, FAPT 302 or FASC 302 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FAPR 402 - Thesis Workshop

Offers the student the opportunity to develop a body of work in preparation for portfolio and exhibition presentation. An emphasis is placed on the development of ideas and content of individual student's work, which is supported by a series of individual and group critiques by faculty and visiting artists. The student is expected to participate in group exhibitions as well as a solo exhibition and to present a professional portfolio of work. Formerly PR 420

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPR 305 Open to Printmaking majors only.

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Note:

Electives must include at least nine studio credits outside the Printmaking/Book Arts offerings.

Screenwriting Minor

The minor in Screenwriting provides instruction and applied experience in the craft of scriptwriting for motion pictures and episodic television. Topics include story structure, character, plot, beats, dramatic conflict, dialogue, and industry script formats. Students advance from scene exercises through short scripts to major, professional-length portfolio pieces. Majors in Writing for Film & Television and Communication may not declare a screenwriting minor.

Requirements for the Minor

WRIT 212 - Screenwriting II

An intensive screenwriting workshop where, in the first semester, students study scene structure and dialogue, and write a series of outlines for an hour-long screenplay. In the second semester, students write an hour-long screenplay and revise the script. Formerly WM 215

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220 Priority enrollment to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 241 - Screenplay Analysis

A course devoted to the critical analysis of screenplays. Students are required to read numerous scripts and write critical papers on various dramatic structural principles highlighted. Formerly WM 243

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

One of the following sequences:

WRIT 311 - Advanced Screenwriting I

Studio writing course preparing the student for the entire process of crafting a full-length script for film. In the first semester, students develop a concept, pitch the project, prepare an outline/ treatment for a full-length work, and draft the first act. The second semester is devoted to the completion of the full-length work and the revision process. Formerly WM 321

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 212

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs
and

WRIT 312 - Advanced Screenwriting II

Studio writing course preparing the student for the entire process of crafting a full-length script for film. In the first semester, students develop a concept, pitch the project, prepare an outline/ treatment for a full-length work, and draft the first act. The second semester is devoted to the completion of the full-length work and the revision process. Formerly WM 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 311

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

or

WRIT 327 - Episodic Television Writing I

An intensive writing class that analyzes the specific genre of episodic television writing. Students view examples of various genres in the form, and work in teams to create original written work. Three major projects are completed over the course of the semester, including creating an original series pilot. Formerly WM 317

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: WRIT 212 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

and

WRIT 328 - Episodic Television Writing II

Advanced studio writing course in which students outline and draft two full-length scripts for episodic television series. Formerly WM 318

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 327

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Sculpture - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr

FASC 201 - Sculpture I

Emphasizes the fundamental and formal aspects of sculpture. Projects are assigned to help the student experience and understand the unique expressive values of mass, space, plane, line, balance, rhythm, scale, movement, and time transformation. This course also serves to introduce the student to a variety of materials and techniques. Assigned projects, group critiques and slide lectures. Formerly SC 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 203 - Introduction to Figure Modeling

Modeling from life for the beginner, stressing direct observation, eye-hand coordination, and depth discrimination. Both perceptual and conceptual skills are developed and fundamental studio practices are taught, such as armature construction, clay utilization, and modeling techniques. Works are fired in clay or cast in plaster. Formerly FA 223

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Choose one course from the following three:

FAPR 201 - Relief/Monotype

Introduction to the graphic and expressive qualities of woodcut, linoleum, and collograph processes printed in monochrome and color. Monoprinting ideas from direct drawing and painting on Plexiglass and metal plate are also explored. Formerly PR 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPR 204 - Screenprint/Etching

The graphic qualities of expression in screenprinting and etching/intaglio are presented through historic and contemporary examples and demonstration of the methods, which convey ideas in these two media. Various stencil processes from direct-drawn to photographic and computer-generated are explored in screenprinting with water-based opaque and transparent inks. Handwork on the metal plate includes drawn drypoint, etching, and tonal processes. Emphasis is placed on the understanding of the qualities of these methods and development of personal ideas through their combination. Formerly PR 204

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FNDP 111 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors. Student must have completed the first semester of their Freshman year (15 credits).

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FAPT 201 - Sophomore Painting

Studio work introduces the student to the domain of painting through projects that cover not only the basic elements of form, color, and technique, but also the basic conceptual challenges unique to painting. Students are exposed to the origins and purposes of painting and the range of possibilities offered by both traditional and contemporary approaches. Formerly PT 202A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FNDP 111, FNDP 121 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FACR 301 - Attitudes & Strategies

A studio-criticism course that presents issues that cross over the unique domains of the sculptor, the printmaker, and the painter. Fine Arts students from all three majors work on projects designed to increase their awareness of the attitudes and strategies embodied in artworks. Concepts such as idealism, naturalism, and expressionism are explored in light of their implication for form-making methods and principles. Lectures, studio projects, and group critiques create a forum for advanced study of the purposes and contexts of the Fine Arts. Formerly FA 333A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: FAPR 201, FAPR 204, FAPT 201 or FASC 201 Open to Fine Arts majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 440 - Sculpture Since 1945

Lectures, discussions, projects concerning various artists, movements, concepts, philosophies, and critical theories influencing contemporary art with an emphasis on sculpture. Focus on the currents since 1945. Formerly SC 251

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Sculpture Electives

Choose from:

FASC 211 - Structure of the Figure

Anatomic and morphological analysis of male and female bodies for artists through a three-dimensional constructional method. Proportions, anatomic structure, surface topology, morphological variation, and the body in movement are covered. Directed toward two-dimensional artists as well as sculptors. The means by which the body's salient features can be recognized from any viewpoint in any pose is stressed. Formerly SC 260A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 212 - Structure of the Figure

Anatomic and morphological analysis of male and female bodies for artists through a three-dimensional constructional method. Proportions, anatomic structure, surface topology, morphological variation, and the body in movement are covered. Directed toward two-dimensional artists as well as sculptors. The means by which the body's salient features can be recognized from any viewpoint in any pose is stressed. Formerly SC 260B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 221 - Introduction to Sculpture Projects

An open studio oriented toward helping the development of individual initiative. Stress on how ideas are transformed into sculptural statements through aesthetic reasoning and the internal logic of a sculpture's color, material, and physical construction. Formerly SC 241

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 222 - Introduction to Sculpture Projects

An open studio oriented toward helping the development of individual initiative. Stress on how ideas are transformed into sculptural statements through aesthetic reasoning and the internal logic of a sculpture's color, material, and physical construction. Formerly SC 242

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 231 - Molding and Casting

Covers processes and techniques utilizing plaster, rubber, plastics, clays, and wax for making hard and flexible molds and for casting sculpture in durable materials. Provides a thorough foundation in foundry practices, including wax preparation, investing, pouring bronze or aluminum, chasing, finishing, and patinating finished metal casts. Formerly SC 220A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation or FNDP 104 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 232 - Molding and Casting

Covers processes and techniques utilizing plaster, rubber, plastics, clays, and wax for making hard and flexible molds and for casting sculpture in durable materials. Provides a thorough foundation in foundry practices, including wax preparation, investing, pouring bronze or aluminum, chasing, finishing, and patinating finished metal casts. Formerly SC 220B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation or FNDP 104 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 331 - Carving

Introduces the student to carving, one of the basic methods of forming sculpture. Students learn to prepare, maintain, and use the tools of the carver. They are introduced to the characteristics of suitable carving materials. Emphasis is placed on the exploration of the formal and expressive potentials of carved sculpture. Formerly SC 321

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 363 - Medallic Sculpture

The Medallic Arts have a long history beginning with monetary coins in the ancient world, developing through Renaissance medals into a vital and international art form that now includes small free-standing sculpture. The link between all of these is not only size, but the need for the work to have a specific communicative function, while at the same time exploring the contemporary sculptural issues. This is a studio course with a lecture component to give the student a history of the discipline. Projects are designed to challenge the student conceptually and to introduce forms and techniques such as bas relief, carving, mold making casting and fabricating, all on a small scale. There will be annual opportunities to exhibit the finished sculpture internationally.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

FASC 364 - Installation and Performance

This course explores the concepts and practice of installation and performance art and their development during the past century. Four primary aspects of Installation are explored: the multisensory immersive environment; the site-specific work – work responsive to the history, usage, or natural aspects of a particular site or location; interactivity or installations in which the audience is encouraged to participate; and the performance art ranging from theatrical situations through the private acts of the artist that explore particular behavioral, experiential, or social issues and is documented through photos, videos, etc. The history of installation and performance work is discussed through a series of lectures and video presentations that examine the art historical, social, cultural, and psychological concerns from which these art forms are derived. Students are expected to be resourceful and inventive when realizing their work.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 411 - Advanced Figure Modeling

For students seriously involved with the figure, this course provides an atelier to continue figure modeling on increasingly advanced levels and a context to help formulate a personal figurative sculptural idiom. Works are sculptured at various scales, including life size, and independent projects are undertaken in consultation with the faculty. Critiques involving the meaning and sculptural significance of the works are an integral part of the ongoing class activity. Formerly SC 431

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 203, FASC 211 or FASC 212 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Critiques involving the meaning and sculptural significance of the works are an integral part of the ongoing class activity. Formerly SC 432

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 203, FASC 211 or FASC 212 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 413 - Projects in Figure Modeling

Allows the student to move beyond modeling the figure as an academic study. Exploration using the figure in expressive contexts is emphasized. Formerly SC 433

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 203, FASC 211 or FASC 212 Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken four times for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 421 - Advanced Projects

Provides a studio context where maturing self-initiated areas of concentration in sculpture can be developed to fruition on an advanced level. Whatever the direction, a critical emphasis is placed through both open and devised assignments on how materials and forms compatible to personal statements are found. Graduate students may register for this course under GRSC 621. Formerly SC 441

Prerequisites & Notes

Provides a studio context where maturing self-initiated areas of concentration in sculpture can be developed to fruition on an advanced level. Whatever the direction, a critical emphasis is placed through both open and devised assignments on how materials and forms compatible to personal statements are found. Graduate students may register for this course under GRSC 621. Formerly SC 442

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: FASC 221 or FASC 222 Priority enrollment to Fine Arts majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

FASC 433 - Metals

Forming metal sculpture has contributed much to the history of sculpture, particularly in the present, where the idiom has become as familiar as carving and modeling. Concurrently offering both basic and advanced technical instruction in welding and forging, using both ferrous and non-ferrous metals, this course is concerned with both the technical and aesthetic aspects of metal sculpture. Formerly SC 421

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: Completion of Foundation. Priority enrollment to Sculpture majors. May be taken three times for credit.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

Note

Electives must include at least nine studio credits outside the Sculpture offerings.

Strategic Advertising Minor

The minor in Advertising Strategy provides instruction in strategic thinking and creative execution required to design advertisements and ad campaigns in multiple formats (print, audio, video, and interactive). This minor offers tools and concepts to students interested in marketing and promoting any product, service, or artistic activity. It broadens the career options of students in any of the media and communication disciplines, and prepares them to work in both the profit and not-for-profit sectors of the media and communication industries. Communication majors may not declare a Strategic Advertising minor.

Requirements for the Minor

- Elective Credits: 3 cr
To be determined with minor advisor

CMMC 221 - Advertising: Creative Concepts I

Whether an advertisement appears in print, on television or radio, or on the Internet, it is built around an idea. Students learn to recognize and create strong advertising ideas that are relevant to the product and the audience, with an emphasis on print advertising. Students learn how to allow their creativity to be guided by strategy. Students are exposed to outstanding creative work and readings in their texts and from studying professional work. They then apply these principles as they create advertising of their own. Formerly CM 271

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

CMMC 321 - Advertising Strategy Development

The business side of creative advertising. Examines the functions of the various departments within an advertising agency, focusing on strategic development, and introduces the three key steps in that development-market segmentation, brand positioning, and research. Students learn a variety of qualitative and quantitative research methods and analytical methods and apply what they have learned by developing and presenting an advertising strategy for an actual product. Formerly CM 371

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 322 - Advertising: Creative Concepts II

Having learned how to create strong individual concepts, students create broader and deeper concepts that can form the basis for a number of ads and learn how to execute an idea in more than one medium. The course begins by examining award-winning print campaigns in order to recognize suitable ideas for multi-ad campaigns; to identify elements and themes and their grounding in research; and to understand the consumer. The course then examines how interactive media are being used to build customer relationships and brand identities, and explores the strategic functions of these new media. Students develop storyboards for a product or service that reinforces that product's existing brand personality. Formerly CM 372

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: CMMC 221 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

CMMC 204 - Writing for Media

A studio writing class developing skills in effective, clear, and persuasive writing in the areas of media and communication. Students work from a variety of source materials and write research papers, project proposals, project treatments, and a newspaper feature. Emphasis is on writing structure and style, editing and revising, suitability to specific audiences, and delivering material on time and at prescribed lengths. Formerly CM 211

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the College of Media and Communication.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

CMMC 324 - Introduction to Public Relations

The fundamentals of public relations, viewed as a marketing communications tool, with special attention to its role in the non-profit sphere. Reviews the functions of a wide range of marketing communications tools and explores how PR can be used in conjunction with them to achieve an organization's objectives, helping students to come to understand the role of public relations in the overall marketing communications plan. Students learn how to coordinate messages in order to allow the company to speak with one voice and reinforce one overall corporate identity, with special attention to social marketing and the public. A series of projects culminates in students developing a public relations proposal for a non-profit organization. Formerly CM 373

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors and Strategic Advertising minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Required for Multimedia majors

Studio Photography Minor

This minor is designed to give the student mastery of the full range of camera formats from a 35mm small format up to a 4x5 studio view camera. Technical training covers electronic strobe and tungsten studio lighting, as well as color transparency film and conventional black-and-white, and color photographic print materials and techniques. Advanced-level classes concentrate on design and creative approaches to staged and directed shooting. Photography majors may not declare a Studio Photography minor.

Requirements for the Minor

MAPH 211 - Color Concepts

Introduction to methods of color shooting and printing, leading to an exploration of the technical and creative possibilities of color in photography. Processes covered include negative and transparency films, filtration, chemical printing, and digital color controls with Photoshop. Formerly PF 217

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Photography majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not open to Foundation majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 303 - Basic Photography Studio I

Familiarizes the student with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography. Entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. Deals exclusively with black-and-white materials, sheet film exposure, hand processing, and printing large-format negatives. Formerly PF 313A

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 304 - Basic Photography Studio II

Continuation of MAPH 303. This course furthers the students' familiarization with the tools, techniques, and language of studio photography and entails extensive use of the 4" x 5" view camera. This semester covers the introduction of color transparency films and strobe lighting. Formerly PF 313B

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following two:

MAPH 201 - Introduction to Photography I

Introduction to basic concepts, processes, and techniques of black-and-white photography, including camera operation, exposure, darkroom procedures, lighting, and their controlled applications of these techniques. Emphasis is upon the normative standard of photographic rendering. Formerly PF 211A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite for all upper-level photography courses. Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 282 - Photography for Illustrators

This course introduces Illustration majors to the fundamental techniques used in black-and-white photography, including camera operation, developing, and printing, as well as photographic digital imaging. Emphasis is placed on film selection and lighting for both the studio and environmental shooting. The fundamentals of Photoshop are employed for digital image manipulation. Lectures and projects are designed to provide the tools necessary for illustrators who wish to use photography in their work. Formerly PF 209

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Photography majors. Priority enrollment to Illustration majors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following three:

GDES 331 - Photographics I

Develops a designer's methodology and viewpoint to achieve both structure and meaning in photography, and as a way to extend the range of how objects and nature can be seen and translated using photographic processes. Students use both traditional photography and digital software to create hybrid photographic images. Formerly GD 310A

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 202 - Introduction to Photography II

While consolidating the student's control of the medium, this course introduces the student to a departure from normative photographic rendering, techniques, and modes of expression and form. Strong emphasis on manipulation of materials, including traditional photographic methods as well as an introduction to computer-manipulation. Formerly PF 211B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MAPH 282, MAPH 201 or MAPH 221 Priority enrollment to Media Arts majors; Photo and Studio Photo minors. Not recommended for Foundation students.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MAPH 311 - Digital Photography Workshop

Concentrates on the production of creative digital photography; students are encouraged to experiment with new tools and techniques. Film and print scanners, CD-ROM discs, and digital cameras are used to produce images that are critiqued on the basis of both technical proficiency and aesthetic accomplishment. Portfolios are printed on digital output machines, silver-based photo materials, and four-color offset. Frequent readings, lectures, and site visits expand the ongoing studio experience. Formerly PF 315

Prerequisites & Notes

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Theater Design and Technology - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Freshman Year Credits: 33

Fall Credits: 16.5

FNDP 101 - Sketching and Drawing

This course provides individuals who are not majoring in the visual arts with the basic skills required to represent the form of simple objects and the presence of space on a two-dimensional surface. No prior drawing experience or portfolio of work is required to enroll in this course. The class includes instruction in the basics of linear perspective using both optical and diagrammatic methods. In-class projects focus on fundamental principles, while homework assignments support the students as they develop the ability to sketch and draw, and think and plan, using manual drawing tools and materials. Formerly FP 101

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors. Not open to majors in the College of Art and Design.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 111 - Art History Survey I

A survey of Western visual arts (including architecture) from the earliest extant examples (cave paintings) to the Renaissance. The focus is on ancient Greece and Rome and Medieval Europe. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140A

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 151 - Survey of Theater Arts

Designed to foster students' intellectual engagement with drama and theater, from classical to contemporary, by introducing them to the basic terminology and methodology used in understanding plays and performances. A range of critical perspectives are applied to a variety of plays from different periods and places; additionally, a number of contexts for theater study are introduced, including theater history and production elements. Formerly TH 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 123 - Scene and Lighting Technology

Introductory course in various phases of physical production dealing with the stage, house, backstage personnel and their duties, construction and painting of scenery, stage lighting, costumes, props, and makeup. Formerly TH 123

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: THPD 125 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

THPD 125 - Scene & Lighting Tech Lab

Supports Scene and Lighting Technology. Formerly TH 123L

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: THPD 123 Open to Applied Theater Arts and Theater Design and Technology majors only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

THST 131 - Theater Design I: Introduction to Design

The fundamentals of design for the theater including costume, lighting, and scenery. Review of the designer's role in the production process, design requirements, and aesthetics. Emphasis on the basic principles of two-dimensional art and graphic forms through various media and study of color and color theory. Formerly TH 139

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

FNDP 102 - Sketching the Human Figure

This course provides individuals who are not majoring in the visual arts with an introduction to some of the materials, methods, and processes useful when drawing the human figure. No prior experience with manual media or portfolio of work is required. The course introduces a basic series of drawing exercises using the figure as subject. Analytical and responsive approaches are compared and a range of materials including pencil, charcoal, and collage are used. The figure and the figurative volume in its immediate spatial environment are studied, and the ability to capture the gesture, appropriate scale, proportion, and mass of the figure are stressed. Homework assignments apply principles learned in class. Formerly FP 102

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors. Not open to majors in the College of Art and Design.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

LAAH 112 - Art History Survey II

A continuation, from the Renaissance onward to the present day, of the survey of Western visual arts begun in LAAH 111. Major styles and periods: baroque, romanticism, realism, modernism. The arts are presented in cultural and historical context. Formerly HU 140B

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 152 - Script Analysis

Introduces the student to practical analysis of texts/scripts. The course explores the concepts of conflict, human action, character, action/ reaction cycle, dramatic structure, translations and resources external to the script (historical perspective). At the course's end, the student should possess a firm understanding of the process involved in script analysis, be thoroughly familiar with the composite types of dramatic literature, begin to understand the nature of an informed aesthetic and understand the consequences of each element of a performance on its audience. Formerly TH 213

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 151 or LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 124 - Costume & Property Technology

Introductory course in various phases of physical production dealing with the stage, house, backstage personnel and their duties, construction and painting of scenery, stage lighting, costumes, props, and makeup. Formerly TH 124

Prerequisites & Notes

Corequisite: THPD 126 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

THPD 126 - Costume & Property Tech Lab

Laboratory experience for students in SOTA's Applied Theater Arts and Design-Tech program. Students receive foundation training in scenery construction and rigging, lighting and electrical production, costume and property construction, and provide production support serving as primary assistants to professional designers working on SOTA shows. Weekly hours may vary depending upon assignment. Formerly TH 124L

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Applied Theater Arts and Theater Design and Technology majors only.

Credits: 1 cr, 1.5 hrs

THST 132 - Theater Design II: Scene Design

An exploration of and instruction in techniques for theatrical scenic design. This class would include lectures, individual guidance, discussions and projects investigating the aesthetic, technical, and practical problems of designing scenery for the stage. Formerly TH 239

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: THST 131, FNDP 112, FNDP 122 or FNDP 132 Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Sophomore Year Credits: 32

Fall Credits: 15.5

FNDP 103 - Color Basics

This course provides individuals who are not majoring in the visual arts with the basic skills required to work with some of the fundamental properties of color and use them for representational purposes. No prior experience with manual media or portfolio of work is required. The course introduces the basic color vocabulary and begins training the eye to perceive and apply the distinctions of hue, value, tone and temperature. Methods of color classification set the stage for a sequence of projects designed to help students develop the ability to begin working with color formally and descriptively. Homework assignments apply principles learned in class. Formerly FP 103

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the College of Art and Design. Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

LAPR 850 - Introduction to Aesthetics

An introduction to the philosophy of art. After a brief examination of analytic philosophical methods and the history of aesthetics, we consider some of the fundamental problems in aesthetics, such as the intention of the artist, the physical object/aesthetic object distinction, and the nature and comparison of different kinds of media. The relationship between language and art are central to the course. Formerly HU 270

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 351 - Theater History I

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions and lectures. The course explores the history of theater through its artistic, spiritual, political, and cultural sources of empowerment. Students are provided with the historical background to apply acting, directing, and designing techniques to the theater of other periods of history. Formerly TH 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 152 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 120 - Crew

Four different production assignments for School of Theater productions. Continues the classroom instruction in theater tech skills, providing an increased understanding of Technical Production. Formerly TH 103L

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 0 cr, hrs vary

THST 181 - Acting for Non-Majors I

This course introduces the non-actor to improvisation, character development, and the basic idea of action and objective in performance. The first four weeks acclimate the new actor to being expressive in a group using body and voice through improvisation, theater games, movement; breathing and relaxation techniques are also taught. The student is introduced to script analysis and asked to write and develop monologues to create dramatic characters for performance. Grading is based on class participation and progress with the work on monologues. Formerly TH 100A

THST 231 - Theater Design III: Lighting Design

Fundamental procedures for lighting, with emphasis on the functions of theatrical stage lighting. Discussions and projects investigating the problems of lighting design, including electrical principles, instrumentation, color, media, equipment control, planning, and rigging. Formerly TH 339

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 132 Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Select one course from the following two:

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 16.5

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

FNDP 104 - Materials, Tools and Form

This course instructs students in those basic manual skills that help them build three-dimensional objects and spatial works. No prior experience with manual media or a portfolio of work is required. Paper and wood are the primary materials that are used to execute freestanding objects of various sizes, and all assignments include instruction on how to best use and extend the physical properties of these materials. Students are challenged to fabricate works with multiple parts as well as works that include some formal and mechanical complexity. Assignments that focus on the design of spaces and the modeling of environments are included. Instruction is conducted in the Foundation studio and wood shop, and all students are given an orientation to the safe use of that facility and all its power tools. Formerly FP 104

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to majors in the College of Art and Design. Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 352 - Theater History II

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions, and lectures. Credits: 0 cr, hrs vary

THPD 261 - Fundamentals of Stage Management I

An examination of the role of the stage manager in theatrical production. Practice in the techniques of pre-production activity, coordinating and maintaining rehearsal discipline, developing a prompt script and calling a show. Formerly TH 227

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THPD 124 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only. Priority enrollment to Applied Theater

Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 232 - Theater Design IV: Costume Design

Further study of materials and principles, tools, supplies and techniques of costume design and construction, with emphasis on pattern drafting, cutting and draping. Formerly TH 439

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 132 Open to Theater Design Technology majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 264 - Fundamentals of Technical Direction

Foundation training in the role of a technical director, including production scheduling, coordinating, planning, budgeting, familiarity with materials, equipment and purchasing procedures. Formerly TH 237

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THST 132 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only. Priority enrollment to Theater Design and Technology majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THPD 320 - Production Practicum

Practical application of training to experiences in a wide range of production areas: dramaturgy, design, technology, theater management, etc. May include realized studio, workshop or project assignments. Formerly TH 349

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THPD 120 or THPD 261 Open to Applied Theater Arts and Theater Design and Technology majors only. Repeatable for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, hrs vary

THST 331 - Theater Design V: Sound Design

Fundamental procedures for sound creation and reproduction, with emphasis on the function and practice of theatrical sound design. Lectures, discussions, demonstrations, and projects investigating the problems of sound design for the stage, including sound production, modification, amplification, balance, instrumentation, character of sound, media, equipment control, planning and rigging in stage space, and working with stage management to set cues for the live performances.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THST 361 - Fundamentals of Directing

An overview of the directorial process. Discusses the various facets of a director's job, especially in the early phases of a production, e.g. working with the actor, casting, table work and rehearsal, and culminates with each student directing a scene of his/her own. The emphasis is on empowering the students as theater practitioners, within the rehearsal process, by introducing them to the basic problems encountered by the stage director, with whom all theater participants work. Formerly TH 317

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 8XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - Pre-20th Century

Period Interpretations are an array of interdisciplinary courses that explore the process by which we understand cultural areas. Students consider both conventional and innovative interpretations of cultural history. All students are required to take two Period Interpretation courses, one 20th Century, and one pre-20th Century. Ideally, the 20th century course is completed in the Junior year.

Prerequisites & Notes

Please note that a wide variety of Period Interpretations will be phased into the new Liberal Arts curriculum beginning in the Fall of 2007.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LAPI 9XX - Liberal Arts Period Interpretation - 20th Century

LAPR 850 - Introduction to Aesthetics

An introduction to the philosophy of art. After a brief examination of analytic philosophical methods and the history of aesthetics, we consider some of the fundamental problems in aesthetics, such as the intention of the artist, the physical object/aesthetic object distinction, and the nature and comparison of different kinds of media. The relationship between language and art are central to the course. Formerly HU 270

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 152 - Script Analysis

Introduces the student to practical analysis of texts/scripts. The course explores the concepts of conflict, human action, character, action/ reaction cycle, dramatic structure, translations and resources external to the script (historical perspective). At the course's end, the student should possess a firm understanding of the process involved in script analysis, be thoroughly familiar with the composite types of dramatic literature, begin to understand the nature of an informed aesthetic and understand the consequences of each element of a performance on its audience. Formerly TH 213

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 151 or LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the School of Theater Arts.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 351 - Theater History I

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions and lectures. The course explores the history of theater through its artistic, spiritual, political, and cultural sources of empowerment. Students are provided with the historical background to apply acting, directing, and designing techniques to the theater of other periods of history. Formerly TH 311A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 152 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

THEA 352 - Theater History II

Two-semester survey of the history of theater: its dramatic literature, theater structures and production methods, styles of acting, and historical trends, through readings, discussions, and lectures. The course explores the history of theater through its artistic, spiritual, political, and cultural sources of empowerment. Students are provided with the historical background to apply acting, directing, and designing techniques to the theater of other periods of history. Formerly TH 311B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: THEA 351 Open to majors in the School of Theater Arts only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Typography Minor

The student learns the basic visual grammar of typography, incorporating this knowledge into information-based interpretations. Intermediate studies are concerned with the informational and editorial uses of typography, as well as multi-page formats. The advanced level develops a sophisticated expertise in solving complex messages through typographic expression. Graphic Design majors may not declare a Typography minor.

Requirements for the Minor

It is recommended that EMDI 201 and GDES 311 be taken concurrently, when possible.

It is recommended that EMDI 202 and GDES 312 be taken concurrently, when possible.

EMDI 201 - Electronic Media/Production I

Addresses the development of foundation computer skills in image scanning technology, desktop publishing, digital photographic technologies, and basic output procedures. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Graduate students may register for this course under GREM 601. Formerly EM 201

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

EMDI 202 - Electronic Media/Production II

An extension of EMDI 201. Addresses the development of advanced computer skills in image scanning, technology, desktop publishing, pre-press production, color, output technology, and digital photographic technologies. Special attention is given to comparative study of output technologies and the translation of the on-screen image to offset lithography. Technical expertise and efficient working methodologies are applied to problems that are brought into the class from other design courses as well as from both individual and group-assigned projects. All software is standard to current graphic design industry practices. Formerly EM 202

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: EMDI 201 Open to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors only.

Credits: 1.5 cr, 3 hrs

GDES 212 - Typography Fundamentals

The course addresses the basic formal language of typography and the application of typographic principles to frame basic communication messages. Typographic investigations are achieved by both manual and digital means. Formerly GD 212

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: Completion of Foundation or MMDI 101, MMDI 102 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 311 - Typographic Systems

This course investigates and defines the principles of typography in a communication context. Directed research based upon typographic norms addresses the issues of informational hierarchies achievable through visual form and structure as well as the editorial and expressive potentials of typography. Coursework is completed both using traditional and computer technologies. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign and basic Macintosh operation or be concurrently enrolled in EMDI 202. Working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306A

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: EMDI 201, GDES 212

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 312 - Typographic Systems

This course is an extension and continuation of Typographic Systems GDES 311. The course addresses the typographic principles of the grid, text typography, text hierarchies, and image integration, all within the context of a multipage format. Students must have working knowledge of Adobe InDesign, image scanning, and basic knowledge of Photoshop or be concurrently enrolled in Electronic Media/Production II EMDI 312 to gain admission to this course. Additional working knowledge of Adobe Illustrator is preferred. Formerly GD 306B

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: GDES 311, EMDI 202

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

GDES 411 - Advanced Typography

This elective course addresses typography as a primary vehicle to communicate information and as a support to images. Assignments range from informational design to expressive, content-based problems, to intuitive investigations and formal experiments. Although traditional methods of conceptualizing are used within a thorough visual process, extensive computer work is involved. Students should have expertise in Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator, and Adobe Photoshop. Formerly GD 426

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: GDES 312 Priority enrollment to Graphic Design majors and Typography minors. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Visual Arts - Master of Arts in Teaching

Program Total Credits: 42

Visual Arts - Master of Arts in Teaching Credits: 42

Fall Credits: 15

AEDU 509 is required of all students who do not pass the Art Education Department Writing Proficiency Exam with a score of 80% or higher. It must be taken and passed in the first semester of full-time enrollment, and it does not fulfill any credit requirements for the MAT program. (See course description for additional information.) Those who score below 70 percent on the Professional Writing Proficiency Exam after completing the Professional Writing course may not continue in the MAT program. Students enrolled in AEDU 509 must either pay a per-credit charge for all credits exceeding the 18-credit allotment, or must delay two credits of electives to a future semester. Students who have successfully taken the Instructional I Praxis Tests, Reading and Writing, prior to entry into the MAT program are exempt from the department's Writing Proficiency Exam and AEDU 509 Professional Writing Intensive.

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

AEDU 501 - Creative and Cognitive Development

This course is designed to develop skills in recognizing the developmental stages of children, adolescents, and adults according to the theories of Jean Piaget, Lawrence Kohlberg, Viktor Lowenfeld, and Erick Erickson. In addition, the course explores the learning theories of Jerome Bruner, B.F. Skinner, Howard Gardner, Madeline Hunter, and Bernice McCarthy toward understanding individual differences in creative and cognitive development and learning styles.

Formerly AE 550

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

May be taken during either the summer or fall semester

AEDU 509 - Professional Writing Intensive

This course is required for students entering all art education programs (pre-certification, MAT, MA, MA+EM) who have not passed the Art Education Department writing proficiency exam. It addresses the use of effective and cogent written communication for the teacher, artist, and administrator to classes, groups, or clients. Formerly AE 599

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 2 cr, 2 hrs

AEDU 533 - Art and Inclusionary Education

This course is designed to provide the full scope of methodologies, techniques and innovative strategies needed to teach special education students effectively. Using the arts as a means for adapting to diverse learning methods, the K-12 classroom is regarded as a dynamic setting for inclusionary learning. The impact of special needs art education is further realized through direct school and community engagement: programs and national as well as local organizations are made available to assist in developing field placements. Arranged field placement opportunities include a broad range of community resources. Formerly AE 533

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

This course has a required field placement, and may be taken in either fall or spring semester.

AEDU 541 - Program Design & Methods: Elementary

Through review of current literature, lectures, discussion, field observation, and miniteaching, students explore various educational philosophies and develop and implement effective classroom curricula based on prevailing theories of learning and child development. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 547

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 201 Priority enrollment to Art Education majors and concentrations.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs; 3 hrs field work (8 weeks)

This course has a required field placement, and may be taken in either fall or spring semester.

AEDU 606 - Research in Education: Methods and Trends

A graduate education seminar on principal approaches to research for art and museum education. The course examines types of research, applications and recent studies for their methodologies and findings, grant writing, and assessment techniques. Formerly AE 606

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate Art Education and Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

AEDU 542 - Program Design & Methods: Secondary

Continuation of AEDU 541, with emphasis on the development of age-appropriate curricula that addresses scope and sequence and state standards for middle and secondary school. Topics include management issues, interdisciplinary content and teaching of art, evaluation and assessment of teaching and learning, and the integration of digital technology. Formerly AE 548

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 541 or AEDU 560 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

These courses have a required field placement, and may be taken in either the fall or spring semester

AEDU 560 - Saturday Practicum

Students are involved in various aspects of the Saturday Arts Lab. They observe classroom instruction, plan and teach lessons, and exhibit student work under the supervision of cooperating master teachers and through the instruction of a professor in the seminar portion of the course. Formerly AE 559

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs field wrk

These courses have a required field placement, and may be taken in either the fall or spring semester

AEDU 602 - History of Ideas in Art and Museum Education

Seminar on major issues and trends in the history of art and museum education, with an emphasis on child-centered and content-centered theories and the theoretical antecedents of Discipline-Based Art Education, the Visual Culture movement, and standards-based education. Formerly AE 602

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to graduate Art Education and Museum Studies majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

May be taken during either the summer or spring semester

PRAXIS

The Instructional I PRAXIS tests must be successfully completed by the end of the first full-time semester.

Fall Credits: 12

AEDU 503 - The Art of Teaching

Teacher preparation and knowledge of instructional techniques will be addressed, including professional image, teachers' rights and responsibilities, and aspects of group process. The course explores cultural and family factors that influence learning expectations conveyed by teachers and peer behavior and techniques of instruction and creativity. A retrospective analysis of each student's individual education experience and perceptions of teaching is explored through interactive simulation of classroom situations and teaching styles. Formerly AE 552

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: AEDU 541 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

AEDU 561 - Student Teaching: Elementary

An intensive, elementary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 561 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. (If students elect to take AEDU 561 one semester and AEDU 562 another semester, AEDU 565 must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 660

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Corequisite: AEDU 565 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary, 7 weeks

The two field placements may be taken over two semesters. If this option is elected, the full 15-week seminar that accompanies the field placement must be taken in both semesters.

AEDU 562 - Student Teaching: Secondary

An intensive, secondary-level field experience built around a seven-week student teaching internship, under the guidance and supervision of a highly qualified art teacher/mentor. It is intended to provide practical experience in which the intern assumes professional-level responsibilities and experiences in teaching art at the elementary level. A University supervisor observes, advises, facilitates the relationship between the mentor and intern, and assesses the student during the internship. AEDU 562 is taken concurrently with AEDU 565. (If students elect to take AEDU 562 one semester and AEDU 561 another semester, AEDU 565 must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 662

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Corequisite: AEDU 565 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 4 cr, hrs vary, 7 weeks

The two field placements may be taken over two semesters. If this option is elected, the full 15-week seminar that accompanies the field placement must be taken in both semesters.

AEDU 565 - Student Teaching Seminar: Elementary/Secondary

Discussion and analysis of: field experiences;special workshops; Literacy: Reading and Writing Across the Curriculum: Professional Teaching Portfolios; 1-Year Curriculums for an Elementary and a Secondary Grade. Continuing development and refinement of skills in reflective practice is emphasized as well as the needs of special learners. AEDU 565 is taken concurrently with AEDU 561 and AEDU 562. (If students elect to take AEDU 561 and AEDU 562 over two semesters, AEDU 565 Student Teaching Seminar must be taken both semesters.) Formerly AE 661

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: AEDU 533, AEDU 541, AEDU 542, AEDU 560 Open to Art Education majors and concentrations only. May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 1 cr, 2 hrs

Notes:

Note: Courses to satisfy requirements for the MAT are offered at varying times, allowing graduate students' programs to be customized to their needs.

Web Design and Development Minor

The minor in Web Design and Development provides the skills, concepts, and tools for students interested in acquiring the knowledge required of today's Web 2.0 processes and technologies. The skills learned enhance the preparedness of students wishing to create dynamic Web applications. This minor is only available to students majoring in Multimedia or students enrolled in Web Design minors.

Minor Requirements

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

CMMC 301 - Communication Production Workshop

This production course offers students an opportunity to work on a project in a specific communication medium or genre otherwise unavailable. Students work collaboratively on projects in this medium and present their work to an audience of peers and/or professionals. Topics include: Web radio/streaming audio sites, producing television commercials, producing advanced audio projects, or developing online publications. Formerly CM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 231 - Dynamic Web Development

Creating dynamic Web solutions is an essential aspect of Web development today. In this course, students build upon existing concepts learned in Intro to Interactive Programming. The focus is on client and server side programming and relational database design for the Web. Examples of dynamic Web applications include context management systems, custom audio and video players, and e-commerce solutions.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 131

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

CMMC 102 - Video Production Workshop

Acquaints students with the fundamentals of visual storytelling by providing hands-on experience translating the written word into images and sounds. Areas of study include framing images, lighting, using off-screen space and sound, editing, and postproduction. Students integrate their own writing to produce some of these projects. Formerly CM 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Writing for Film and Television, Applied Theater majors; Web Drama minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

can be used for minor or studio choice; not for both

Web Design Minor

The minor in Web Design provides skills, concepts, and tools for students interested in Web design as a creative medium of expression, as a form of communication, or as a profession. The skills learned enhance the preparedness of students wishing to enter the design, communication, and media industries. Fine artists interested in the role that Internet-based technologies and interactivity play in their work will also find this minor to be broadening. Multimedia and Communication majors may not declare a Web Design minor.

Requirements for the Minor

CMMC 301 - Communication Production Workshop

This production course offers students an opportunity to work on a project in a specific communication medium or genre otherwise unavailable. Students work collaboratively on projects in this medium and present their work to an audience of peers and/or professionals. Topics include: Web radio/streaming audio sites, producing television commercials, producing advanced audio projects, or developing online publications. Formerly CM 360

Prerequisites & Notes

May be taken twice for credit.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 101 - Visual Communication Studio

All communication takes place through language. However, not all language uses words. This course allows students to harness the power of visual language in order to convey messages and meaning. The elements of drawing and two-dimensional design that are covered include point, line, shape, composition, texture, color, type, and image. Although non-digital mediums are addressed, the exploration of digital tools for the screen is a primary goal. Individual creativity is stressed. Formerly MM 110

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 111 - Introduction to Interface Design

The software interface represents the focal point of user interaction with the various modes of multimedia communication. Readings by interface theorists inform discussions on the evolution of the software interface, conceptual models, prototypes, interaction design, deliverables and basic concepts of human-computer interaction. Avenues for pursuing interactive media design in entertainment, publishing, and education are also addressed. Current technologies, including the trend from soft to hard interfaces are studied, in terms of their potential short- and long-term influence on communication and multimedia. Basic methods for rapid prototyping and testing are considered. Formerly MM 121

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 102 - Motion Graphics Studio

Motion graphics can be found in a wide range of media: broadcast, Web, animation, and film to name a few. This course allows students to explore the elements of time and space to convey messages and meaning through type, image, and sound for the screen. Individual creativity is stressed as well as the understanding and use of an industry-standard software for developing motion graphics. Both collaborative and individual exercises and assignments are given. Formerly MM 111

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 101

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

MMDI 131 - Introduction to Interactive Programming

This course is an introductory programming class, appropriate for students with no prior programming experience. Traditionally, introductory programming teaches algorithmic problem-solving, where a sequence of instructions describe the steps necessary to achieve a desired result. In this course, students are trained to go beyond this sequential thinking – to think concurrently and modularly. By its end, students are empowered to write and read code for event-driven graphical user interfaces, client server chat programs, networked video games, and user interfaces. Formerly MM 101

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Web Drama Minor

The minor in Web Drama allows students to learn and apply dramatic storytelling techniques to the Web. It focuses on the fundamentals of scriptwriting and interactivity, the acquisition of basic video and animation techniques, and the overall adaptation of these elements to the Internet. The minor allows students to combine the principles necessary to write for television, film, or video with those of interactivity required for Web production. Upon completion of this minor, students will have written and produced a dramatic story that is suitable for Web distribution. Because of the structure of their major, Communication majors may not declare a minor within CMAC.

Requirements for the Minor

WRIT 225 - Interactive Writing I

The first semester of a year-long studio course that builds upon the basic principles of dramatic writing by identifying and utilizing the Web environment as a unique medium for narrative storytelling. Through analysis and written exercises, students learn how multiple story and character arcs are designed and supported by specific interactive storytelling models. Formerly WM 225

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211, WRIT 220 or MMDI 202.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 226 - Interactive Writing II

The second semester of a year-long studio course that extends the interactive storytelling knowledge gained in Interactive Writing I to a project-based and dialogue-driven narrative. Working in writing teams, students create and write two short Web drama scripts based on models studied in Interactive Writing I. As a final project, each student completes a formal Web drama proposal, outline, and script for a potential production in the culminating course, Web Drama Studio. Formerly WM 226

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 225

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 360 - Web Drama Studio

A capstone course in which students are required to begin with an already-completed and approved Web drama proposal and script. Each student then works to produce his or her own Web drama script online, while collaboratively supporting other writer/producers on their projects. Formerly WM 330

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 226

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

One of the following:

MMDI 202 - Web Design Studio

The World Wide Web is a medium where anyone with an Internet connection can view and interact with Websites. This course focuses on the creation of such sites through concepts and practical application of interactivity. Comprised of both lecture and practical exercises. Individual creativity is stressed as well as understanding and use of interactive devices in the communication of ideas. Both collaborative and individual exercises are assigned. Formerly MM 221

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: MMDI 111

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 220 - Writing for Film

A writing class introducing students to the basic elements of screenwriting. These include three act structure, creating a character, act design, and scene structure. Students complete a short screenplay by the end of the semester. Formerly WM 219

Prerequisites & Notes

Not open to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Writing for Film and Television majors. Required for Multimedia majors.

One of the following:

CMMC 103 - Sound Communication

This introduction to the field of sound communication enables students to conceptualize the importance of sound in cultural life and prepares them in practical approaches to field recording and working with various types of sound. A survey of approaches to sound as a social communication through readings and a broad range of audio examples, including documentary, journalistic, theatrical, and experimental approaches. Training in digital and audio field and post-production equipment and complete practical field exercises and an intensive sound project. Formerly CM 120

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Film/Digital Video majors; and Narrative Video, Documentary Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 5 hrs

CMMC 311 - Narrative Video Production Workshop

An opportunity to develop an understanding of and experience in producing narrative-based video projects. Students begin by reading essays and articles, screening scenes from films and television shows, and reviewing technical language and concepts. They learn to translate script ideas into production proposals, making clear how story ideas, characters, action, and point of view will be rendered in sound and image. Working both on their own projects and as team members, they plan production specifics and shoot/record and edit short narrative pieces in their medium and style of choice. Students present stages of production work, from planning to script to rushes to stages of edited material. Formerly CM 295

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: CMMC 101 or CMMC 102 Priority enrollment to Communication majors, Narrative Video minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Writing for Film and Television majors

MMDI 241 - Interactive Narrative

Introduces students to new ways of thinking about interactivity and storytelling. Students analyze how the interactive structure of an experience creates narrative. Short readings discussed in class range from Surrealist Dada and Fluxus language games to the experimental literature of Joyce and Burroughs to the literary theory of Barthes and Eco. Students examine contemporary examples of interactive media such as CD-ROMs, role-playing games and Internet sites. Formerly MM 223

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Not applicable as minor credit for Multimedia majors

Writing for Film and Television - Bachelor of Fine Arts

Program Total Credits: 123

Freshman Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

CMMC 141 - Storytelling: Theory and Practice

This course introduces students to storytelling as a way of structuring communication. Course material ranges from annual reports to ad campaigns to greeting cards to rap music to political campaigns, offering students an introduction to the many ways narrative can be exploited for a powerful effect. Students learn to apply theory and to explore the relationship of different types of media to different narrative forms.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fulfills three credits of the discipline history requirement.

LACR 101 - First-Year Writing I

First part of a year-long writing, reading and research course that teaches the fundamental skills of the responsible student-scholar. Students practice the kinds of academic writing, textual analysis, and library and Internet research required of university students and curious learners of any age. The first term explores writing from literature, philosophy, and art.

Prerequisites & Notes

Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fulfills three credits of the discipline history requirement.

WRIT 111 - Dramatic Structure I

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act dramatic structure found in narrative screenplays. Topics of the course include sequences, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students are required to complete focused and specific creative written work on a weekly basis. Workshops are held on a weekly basis. Formerly WM 113

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television and Discovery Year majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 251 - Narrative Cinema I

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 251

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

LACR 102 - First-Year Writing II

Continuation of LACR 101. During this term an inquiry-based research paper is the focus. A similar curriculum is examined in the context of history, literature, theory, philosophy, and art from a chosen period.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 101 or LACR 009

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LACR 22X - Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT)

The Scientific Inquiry Foundation Track (SIFT) serves as a foundation for future studies in the natural and social sciences and in mathematics and for life-long learning. Scholarship in these scientific disciplines has influenced our culture in significant ways — both directly as a result of ongoing research and indirectly as new scientific ideas and theories are developed and applied within the context of important issues and concerns in the larger society.

Prerequisites & Notes

For all SIFT courses, student must have entered after Fall 2005. Successful completion of LACR 009 or LACR 100 where required as a result of English placement exam. Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required. This is a description of the SIFT course category. Any course numbered LACR 22- will meet this requirement. For example:

- LACR 221 SIFT:Brainstorming

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 112 - Dramatic Structure II

An intensive year-long writing course that introduces students to major principles of the three-act structure found in narrative screenplays. Focus on such topics as act design, creation of character, conflict, and setting. Students will be required to complete major written work and participate in workshops of written material. Formerly WM 114

Prerequisites & Notes

Open to Writing for Film and Television majors only.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 252 - Narrative Cinema II

A two-part chronological film history course of various schools of film, styles, and genres from both the domestic and international film community that are studied chronologically, emphasizing the influence and integration of the various forms with one another. The course requires bi-weekly screenings of the work being studied. Formerly WM 252

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 253 - History of Television

Provides an overview of the medium of television. The impact of television since its inception has become increasingly pervasive and has influenced an entire society through its ability to educate and entertain. Video examples of the medium are supplemented by class discussion and reading assignments. Formerly WM 253

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Sophomore Year Credits: 30

Fall Credits: 15

- Liberal Arts Credits: 3 cr
- Elective Credits: 3 cr

CMMC 102 - Video Production Workshop

Acquaints students with the fundamentals of visual storytelling by providing hands-on experience translating the written word into images and sounds. Areas of study include framing images, lighting, using off-screen space and sound, editing, and postproduction. Students integrate their own writing to produce some of these projects. Formerly CM 290

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication, Writing for Film and Television, Applied Theater majors; Web Drama minors.

Credits: 3 cr, 6 hrs

WRIT 211 - Screenwriting I

An intensive screenwriting workshop where, in the first semester, students study scene structure and dialogue, and write a series of outlines for an hour-long screenplay. In the second semester, students write an hour-long screenplay and revise the script. Formerly WM 214

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 or WRIT 112

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 242 - Film Story Analysis

The course examines various narrative film genres, identifying the unique and distinctive qualities of screenwriting conventions utilized. Screenings and analysis highlight the devices employed by screenwriters to tell a good story. Weekly screenings followed by critical papers of each screening. Formerly WM 343

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Elective Credits: 3 cr

LACR 210 - Texts & Contexts: Perspectives on the Humanities

Perspectives on the Humanities addresses significant works from the ancient world, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and Romantic periods, and the present day. The course serves five functions: to help students develop their skills in critical reading and writing; to introduce study of traditionally defined periods in the history of culture; to introduce a thematic approach to Humanities topics; to examine key primary texts from various periods and consider them alongside comparable art works; to explore the possibility that conventional ideas of period studies are open to challenge and reinterpretation.

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Enrollment in BS, BFA, or BM degree program required.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LASS 810 - Modern American History

A study of contemporary developments, values, and issues as a product of 20th century phenomena. The course seeks to understand the dramatic changes that have occurred in American society over the last 50 years. Formerly HU 264

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisites: LACR 102 or WRIT 111

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fulfills three credits of the Liberal Arts Elective requirement.

WRIT 212 - Screenwriting II

An intensive screenwriting workshop where, in the first semester, students study scene structure and dialogue, and write a series of outlines for an hour-long screenplay. In the second semester, students write an hour-long screenplay and revise the script. Formerly WM 215

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220 Priority enrollment to Writing for Film and Television majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 241 - Screenplay Analysis

A course devoted to the critical analysis of screenplays. Students are required to read numerous scripts and write critical papers on various dramatic structural principles highlighted. Formerly WM 243

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 211 or WRIT 220

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

LALL 930 - Shakespeare

The dramatic works of the supreme writer of the English Renaissance: Shakespeare. A selection of his comedies, histories, tragedies, and romances are read. Focuses on the plays not only as literary accomplishments but also as theatrical performances existing in three-dimensional space. Concerned with both the parameters of the original Renaissance stage and with modern translations and transformations of the plays. Formerly HU 411

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fulfills three credits of the liberal arts elective requirement

WRIT 261 - Cinema Arts

Introduction to the various cinematic production values, which directly influence the character of the dramatic product. Topics of study include cinematography, art and production design, editing and sound as they relate to the writer's intention, and the quality of the final product. Formerly WM 241

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

WRIT 311 - Advanced Screenwriting I

Studio writing course preparing the student for the entire process of crafting a full-length script for film. In the first semester, students develop a concept, pitch the project, prepare an outline/ treatment for a full-length work, and draft the first act. The second semester is devoted to the completion of the full-length work and the revision process. Formerly WM 321

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 212

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

Spring Credits: 15

- Electives Credits: 3 cr

CMMC 204 - Writing for Media

A studio writing class developing skills in effective, clear, and persuasive writing in the areas of media and communication. Students work from a variety of source materials and write research papers, project proposals, project treatments, and a newspaper feature. Emphasis is on writing structure and style, editing and revising, suitability to specific audiences, and delivering material on time and at prescribed lengths. Formerly CM 211

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: LACR 102 Priority enrollment to majors in the College of Media and Communication.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

CMMC 353 - Media Industries

This course investigates the range of organizations and economic forces involved in media production. Includes diverse production models, from mainstream and corporate, to public sector, to alternative, and comparisons with media industries in other cultural settings. The course focuses on business and policy issues and considers examples of media practice from broadcast and cable news, advertising, Hollywood and independent cinema, public media, and new media industries. The course includes a final research project. Formerly CM 260

Prerequisites & Notes

Priority enrollment to Communication majors.

Credits: 3 cr, 3 hrs

Fulfills three credits of the discipline history requirement.

WRIT 312 - Advanced Screenwriting II

Studio writing course preparing the student for the entire process of crafting a full-length script for film. In the first semester, students develop a concept, pitch the project, prepare an outline/ treatment for a full-length work, and draft the first act. The second semester is devoted to the completion of the full-length work and the revision process. Formerly WM 322

Prerequisites & Notes

Prerequisite: WRIT 311

Credits: 3 cr, 4 hrs

WRIT 324 - Screenplay Adaptation

The vast number of theatrical and television films adapted from fictional and nonfiction sources make it essential that emerging screenwriters understand the art of adaptation. Following an introduction to the basics of adaptation, this course analyzes three movies adapted from fictional sources (novels, short stories, etc.) and three from nonfiction sources (e.g. books and magazine journalism.) Creative written work from both is integrated into the course. Formerly WM 314

Prerequisites & Notes

MMDI 141 - Collaboration and Spontaneity

Through a series of exercises, class discussions and readings, students explore what it means to work as part of a team. Students learn to develop environments in which the creative process is encouraged to unfold. The basic assumptions that affect the formation of collaborative groups, such as personal responsibility, authority relations, leadership issues, individual differences, competition, the development of norms, and the generation and uses of power, are experienced, explicated, and examined. Students work within this collaborative environment to explore the connections between spontaneous verbal and nonverbal communication. Formerly MM 150

Independent Study

^ TOP

Independent Study offers a matriculated student the opportunity to initiate individual research or advanced projects that are beyond the limits of the standard curriculum, with limited supervision. Independent Study is available to Junior and Senior undergraduate students who have a minimum 2.5 GPA and to graduate students in good standing. To enroll in an Independent Study, the student must follow these guidelines:

1. Obtain an Independent Study Form from the Office of the Registrar.
2. Prepare a proposal and identify a University of the Arts faculty member having expertise in the area of investigation who is willing to serve as the course advisor. With the consultation of the course advisor, complete the Independent Study Form, which must include a semester plan for the course of study, indicating the number of credits being taken and the evaluation criteria. The form must be signed by the course advisor and the student's department chair/school director.
3. Present the approved Independent Study Form at registration or within the Drop/Add period, along with your registration or Drop/Add form. The course number for an independent study is the department code (the course advisor's department) and course number "999" (Example: FAPR 999).
4. Each Independent Study may be taken for one to three credits in Liberal Arts, 1.5 to six credits in CAD, and one to six credits in CPA and CMAC.
5. The student is responsible for documenting the content of the Independent Study work to other institutions or outside agencies.

6. Students cannot elect the Pass/Fail or Audit options for Independent Study.

Independent Study cannot fulfill major requirements. Independent Study may serve as free, studio, and liberal arts electives, depending on the topic of investigation. Students cannot apply more than 12 total credits of independent study towards their degree requirements.

Credit for an Independent Study cannot be reduced or increased after the student has registered.

Graduate Independent Study

^ TOP

Independent study by graduate students is governed by the policies listed above with the following exception:

The course number for graduate independent study is the department code (the course advisor's department) and course number, e.g., GRPR 690.

Internships

^ TOP

Internships allow matriculated undergraduate students in their Junior or Senior year to earn academic credit while working in their chosen field. Internship courses are scheduled during the fall and spring semesters and, with special permission from their dean and department chair/director, during the summer. To register for an internship, see the course bulletin and the appropriate department for current offerings. Internship courses are graded on a Pass/Fail basis.

Students who intend to enroll in Summer Internships and receive academic credit for the experience must pre-register in the spring if the internship is to be included on the fall schedule and transcript. (Such courses will be calculated as part of the fall credit load for billing purposes.) It is the responsibility of students wishing to take summer internships to identify faculty who are willing to sponsor and are able to supervise their work. Summer internships cannot be added to the schedule once the internship has begun.

Students may not apply more than six internship credits toward their degree requirements, with the exception of students who major in Dance or Theater. For detailed information please see the Internship section of the Art and Design section of this Catalog, and the course descriptions in the back of this catalog.

Undergraduate Minors/Concentrations

^ TOP

The University offers minors and concentrations for undergraduate degree candidates who wish to focus on a specific discipline through organized electives. Please refer to the college sections of this catalog for information about offerings, eligibility, prerequisites, and course requirements. You may also contact the departments directly for additional information.

Students wishing to include a minor as part of their undergraduate program should be advised that some major/minor combinations may not be completed, thus it is not always possible to complete a minor, and there are no penalties for starting a minor and not completing it. Students are not permitted to continue pursuit of the minor once all degree requirements have been met. All University minors are governed by the following guidelines:

1. Students must meet eligibility requirements, which may include a satisfactory grade-point average, prerequisites, and departmental portfolio review.
2. An intent to complete a minor is declared by filing the completed Minor Declaration Form with the Office of the Registrar. The forms are available in the Office of the Registrar.
3. A student may not major and minor in the same program, except where indicated.
4. Courses applied to the minor may only be applied towards elective requirements.
5. All minors require a minimum of 15 credits, with the exception of E-Music for Music majors. Generally, no substitutions to the minor requirements are allowed. In exceptional situations where substitutions are granted, they must have the approval of both the major and minor program advisors.
6. The requirements of the minor must be completed prior to graduation.
7. A student pursuing a minor may be required to complete more than the minimum number of credits required to complete the undergraduate degree in order to also complete the minor.

8. Minors are available only to undergraduate students.

Cross-College Elective Options and Prerequisites

^ TOP

The University encourages students to take courses outside their major department and college. To facilitate this goal, the University offers a wide selection of courses that are open without prerequisites. Students may select from introductory electives and non-major courses. In general, upper-level courses will have specific prerequisites, which must be satisfied prior to registration. Students interested in these areas are advised to contact the department chairperson or school director regarding specific course offerings and prerequisite requirements.

Private Lessons

^ TOP

Private instrumental/vocal lessons for non-majors may be taken for elective credit (1.5 credits, seven hours of instruction per semester) with permission of the Director of the School of Music. An additional fee is required.

Credit Duplication

^ TOP

No course, including graduate courses, that has satisfied undergraduate degree requirements may be counted again for graduate credit.

Auditing a Course

^ TOP

Audited courses are an excellent mechanism for students to refresh their skills and/or understanding of a topic without the pressure of pursuing a grade. Audited courses carry no credit and do not satisfy degree requirements. An audited course may not be repeated for credit. Therefore, students may not audit a required course unless the course requirement has already been satisfactorily met as dictated by their degree requirements. Regular tuition rates are charged for audited courses, and they are included in the full-time tuition charge. Audited courses will be indicated on the transcript with a grade of "AU" and may be registered for until the end of the Drop/Add period.

Study Abroad and Off-Campus Study

^ TOP

Foreign and summer study opportunities are available through programs hosted by other regionally accredited U.S. institutions. Students who wish to study abroad or at another U.S. school for one or two semesters and earn credit towards the UArts degree requirements will need the advice and approval of their department chair/director and a written agreement prior to participation in the desired program of study.

Interested students should meet with the Director of International Student Services to discuss issues such as program selection, timing, and feasibility, and to receive guidance on the necessary processes. Those who choose to participate must complete the Petition for Approval of Off-Campus Study, available through the Office of the Registrar. This Petition process serves several purposes: it maintains the student's status at UArts as an active degree candidate; it documents the approval of off-campus coursework for transfer credits; and, when applicable, registers the student for the place-holder credits necessary to the financial aid allocation process.

In order to complete the form, each student must meet with his/her department chairperson/director to review transfer credit options and their effect on the student's progress towards degree completion. Students seeking credit to be applied to Liberal Arts degree requirements must also have approval from the Dean of Liberal Arts. Students who have submitted an approved Petition for Off-Campus Study remain active degree candidates at UArts. In some cases, the student may register and pay tuition at the host institution. In other cases, it may be to the student's advantage to register and pay tuition at UArts. Each student must consult the Office of Financial Aid to review possible financing options and implications. This should be done at least six months before the program begins.

While away, the student should also keep the Office of Financial Aid informed of any changes in status. More information regarding financial aid can be found in the Financial Aid section of this catalog. To finalize credits earned while off-campus, the student must send a transcript to the Office of the Registrar. Students must receive a grade of "B" or better in order to receive transfer credit. Upon his/her return, the student should review the degree audit to confirm whether the transfer of credits has been posted to the transcript, and meet with his/her advisor to develop a plan for completion of any remaining degree requirements.

Students must attend a program sponsored by a regionally accredited U.S. institution in order to petition for approval of off-campus study. Students who elect to attend a non-accredited or foreign institution must petition for a Personal Leave of Absence, may not be eligible for Financial Aid, and have no guarantee that any coursework completed will be eligible for transfer to their degree program. For more information on petitioning for evaluation of foreign transcripts, please see the Office of the Registrar.

UArts and University of the Sciences Exchange Program

^ TOP

The University of the Arts and University of the Sciences in Philadelphia (USP) have an exchange program that allows students from both universities to take advantage of their courses and special facilities. The agreement allows ten students from the College of Media & Communication and the School of Music to take one course a semester at the University of the Sciences. Paying regular UArts tuition, students may take up to 18 credits of course work at the University of the Sciences over six semesters, which count in all regards as UArts courses.

The USP courses that are available cover a broad range of subjects – the sciences, foreign languages, the social sciences, history and political sciences, computer science and mathematics, and business and marketing. In addition, exchange students have full access to the USP library, an athletic center with gym, strength training equipment and a three-lane 25-yard pool.

For more information, contact the dean of the College of Media & Communication.

Undergraduates Enrolled for Graduate Credit

^ TOP

A student in the final year of the bachelor's degree program may take a maximum of six credits of graduate courses toward a master's degree, subject to all of the following conditions:

1. The student must have completed the Junior level of the major.
2. The graduate credits must be over and above the credits required for the bachelor's degree and may not be applied to that degree.
3. The student must have a cumulative GPA of 3.00 or better.
4. Permission is granted by the department chairperson/director and dean of the college.
5. No more than a total of six credits, taken either as a UArts undergraduate or non-matriculated student, or taken at another college or university, may be applied to the graduate program.

Registration occurs prior to each semester, for the Fall semester in April, and for the Spring semester in November. In preparing for registration, students consult with their faculty advisors, who help them assemble schedules for the semester and who give final approval to all course selections. The meeting with the faculty advisor does not constitute registration. Instead, it is the student's responsibility to register either online or in person for the course selections listed on their advising form.

Late Registration

A late-registration fee of $35 will be charged to any student who has not completed registration by the first day of term. Late registration may jeopardize a student's chance of obtaining his/her desired course schedule.

Place Holders

During registration some students have trouble finding courses that fit in their schedules. As a result, they may not be able to register for the 12-credit minimum (nine credits for graduate students) necessary to maintain full-time status. In order to allow such students to pick up a course(s) during the Drop/Add period and thereby maintain their full time status for Financial Aid purposes, a "place holder" is added to the student's registration. It is presumed that the student will find an additional course during the Drop/Add period that takes place during the first 10 days of the semester. Prior to the beginning of the Drop/Add period, each student who has a place holder will be reminded, via email, to register for the additional course(s). If the student does not register for additional coursework by the end of Drop/Add, the place holder will be deleted. At that time, a list of non-full-time students in this status will be generated for the Student Billing Office and Financial Aid Offices for review. This may cause changes in status of the financial aid award and student bill. Under no circumstances will a place holder remain on the registration form after the Drop/Add period ends.

Graduation Petition

^ TOP

Meeting requirements for graduation is the student's responsibility and each student is encouraged upon entering the final year of the degree program to consult with the Registrar to ensure that all major requirements will be completed on schedule for graduation by submitting a formal "Petition to Graduate."

Student Email

^ TOP

Students are responsible for regularly reading and responding to email sent by the University faculty, staff, and administration to the students' UArts email account for the entirety of the time they are enrolled at the University. Students are also required to use their UArts email account for all email correspondence with the University's faculty, staff and administration.

Therefore, the University's offices and faculty will only accept email when sent via the student's UArts email account."

The rest of the section is unchanged: Each student is assigned an email account upon enrolling, and is responsible for activating their account by the first day of classes of their first semester of attendance. Students can activate their email account online through the University portal. A letter containing the user account and pin number will be mailed to the student's home residence before the start of classes. The portal url address is <https://myuarts.uarts.edu>. Email and Portal support can be obtained by visiting Network Services in Room 250 in Hamilton Hall, via telephone at 215-717-6997, or by emailing portalsupport@uarts.edu.

Students are also expected to regularly check the My UArts Portal for University-related announcements and notifications. The portal is the primary source for student information, which includes grades, class schedules, transcripts, degree audits, and GPAs. Please note that information such as this is no longer mailed to students via U.S. mail, except upon request. Access to the portal, including student email, is available in the open computer labs on campus.

Email and portal accounts remain active for enrolled students and students on approved hiatus and will not be terminated unless the student is withdrawn from the University. The accounts for students who graduate from the University will remain active for one year from the graduation date, however, those interested in keeping their accounts beyond this time period can call the Development office at 215-717-6140 to make appropriate arrangements.

MyUArts Portal/My UArts Record

^ TOP

Students are also expected to regularly check the MyUArts portal for University-related announcements and notifications. The portal is the primary source for student information, as well as access to the student's academic record. Through the MyUArts portal students can register online, change their address, request an official transcript or enrollment verification, review their grades, class schedules, transcripts, degree audits, and GPAs. Because this information is readily available through the portal, information such as this is no longer mailed to students via U.S. mail, except upon request.

Change of Address

^ TOP

It is essential that students keep the Office of the Registrar informed of all current addresses. A change of address can be completed through the MyUArts portal or by obtaining a form from the Office of the Registrar. All information sent via U.S. mail is mailed to the addresses provided by the student and cannot be changed by anyone other than the student.

Change of Name

^ TOP

Students must notify the Office of the Registrar of any change of name (through marriage, divorce, etc.) by bringing to the office an original legal document showing the change, which may be photocopied by the Registrar and kept on file.

Matriculated Students

^ TOP

Matriculated students are those who have applied, been accepted, and enrolled in a degree program at The University of the Arts during the semester for which they were admitted. Course credits completed prior to matriculation at the University will not necessarily be accepted into the degree programs. In no case will more than six credits taken as a non-matriculated student at The University of the Arts be accepted into the degree program. Students seeking degrees may enroll for part-time or full-time study.

Non-Matriculated Students

^ TOP

A student who takes classes in a major department but is not enrolled in a degree program at The University of the Arts and has not submitted an application to the Office of Admission qualifies as a non-matriculated student.

Non-matriculated status provides opportunity to study with a specific professor, or pursue additional college-level instruction for those who already hold a bachelor's degree.

Non-matriculated students may enroll for a maximum of 11.5 credits per semester and may not audit any classes.

Students who subsequently enroll in a University of the Arts degree program may apply a maximum of six credits taken as a nonmatriculated student to their degree at the discretion of the department director/chair. Non-matriculating students who are simultaneously enrolled or have plans to enroll at another institution may transfer credits to that institution if they have received prior approval in writing from that institution.

To enroll as a non-matriculated student, please contact the Office of the Registrar. Non-matriculated students must request permission from the department chairperson or director for each course in which they wish to enroll. Please be advised that there are no payment plans or financial aid opportunities for non-matriculated students, and access is dependent upon the availability of space in their desired program. Non-matriculated students are otherwise governed by all the rules and regulations that apply to matriculated students, including submission of proof of high school graduation prior to enrollment.

Full-Time Credit Load/Overloads

^ TOP

Full-time undergraduate students are defined as those who are enrolled in at least 12 credits a semester. Students wishing to take more than 18 credits in a semester must obtain permission from the dean of their college. Factors such as grade-point average and progress in meeting degree requirements will be considered in giving permission for an overload; students are expected to be in good standing and have a 3.0 GPA. Students seeking approval to register for an excess of 18 credits must complete the Request for Overload Approval form and submit it to the Office of the Dean, of their college, for approval. Please note that excess credits are subject to additional charges at the standard credit rate. Registration as Audit or Pass/Fail is counted the same as all other academic credit for the purpose of determining tuition.

Graduate students are considered full-time if enrolled in at least nine credits per term.

International students must maintain full-time status.

Student Classification

^ TOP

A student's class status is determined by the number of credits earned, regardless of the number of semesters of enrollment or the student's standing in his or her major program. Class status is a factor in determining financial aid eligibility and is one indicator of academic progress. Class standing is also used to prioritize scheduling during registration.

Undergraduate class status is determined as follows:

U1	up to 29.5 credits
U2	30 - 59.5 credits
U3	60 - 89.5 credits
U4	90 - 123 credits
U5	more than 123 credits

Graduate status is determined as follows:

G1 up to 17.5 credits

G2 18 or more credits

Transfer of Credit

^ TOP

Students may receive credit for courses taken at other regionally accredited institutions that are similar in content, purpose, and standards to those offered at The University of the Arts. A minimum grade of “C” in a course is required for consideration for transfer credit. Only credits are transferable, not grades.

Candidates are given a preliminary transfer credit evaluation at the time of admission; final award of transfer credit and placement level are subject to receipt of final official transcripts and verification by the registrar at the time of enrollment.

Credit from Nonaccredited Institutions

^ TOP

Based on the applicant’s portfolio or audition, credit may be awarded at the time of admission by the department chairperson/director of the intended major. The maximum number of credits awarded may not exceed the number of credits earned at the nonaccredited institution (as adjusted to conform with the University’s credit evaluation policies). These credits may be assigned to fulfill specific requirements of The University of the Arts degree as agreed upon by the department chair/director and the Registrar.

Credit by Portfolio/Audition

^ TOP

A maximum of 18 credits may be granted to applicants by portfolio review or audition for artistic experience independent of any coursework. Credit by portfolio or audition is granted only for work done prior to matriculation at The University of the Arts.

- Academic standing and course credit based on portfolio review are determined by the appropriate department chairperson/director during the admission process. This portfolio work cannot have been part of the assigned work for a secondary or post-secondary course.
- Audition credit requires the approval of the Audition Committee and the school director. Academic standing and course credit based on the audition are determined during the admission process.

Additional Policies

^ TOP

1. A student who has completed one degree and wishes to matriculate in another does so by applying to the new program through the Office of Admission.
2. A student may be awarded a particular degree from the University only once; i.e., once the student has earned an MA, he or she may not be awarded another MA.
3. A student may not receive two different master’s degrees from the same program; i.e., he or she cannot pursue both the MA in Art Education and MAT in Visual Arts.
4. A student may earn up to two master’s degrees at the University, either simultaneously or sequentially.
5. If a student is approved for a double degree, and six credits are shared between the two programs, the student may transfer a maximum of six additional credits from an accredited institution.
6. Students in the Summer MFA program who wish to pursue a second graduate degree will be charged the regular graduate tuition rate in the semesters in which they are pursuing two degrees.

Change of Major/Degree Program/College

^ TOP

Students may request a change of major through the Office of the Registrar. Students are advised to initiate the Change of Major Petition prior to registration for the upcoming semester. The petition requires the approval of the appropriate chairpersons or directors of both the former and the intended new department or school. The student will be required either to present a portfolio or to audition as part of the transfer review process. Please note that acceptance into a new major program within the University may be contingent upon the successful completion of the courses in which the student was enrolled at the time the application to make the change was submitted. Therefore, approval to change majors may be rescinded based on the result of that semester's coursework.

After completion of a change of major, students are advised to review their degree program requirements with their new academic advisor, the department chair or school director, and the dean of the appropriate college.

Change in Degree Requirements

^ TOP

Students who have not completed degree requirements at the end of seven years from the date of initial matriculation may be subject to new degree requirements, which will be determined by the department chairperson and the Office of the Registrar on a case-by-case basis.

Course Substitutions

^ TOP

Occasionally a student may not be able to enroll in the exact course required for the degree program, or the department may recommend an alternate course to better suit a specific academic goal. In these cases, the student is to request an approval for a course substitution from the department chairperson or program director. The director/chair lists the required course and the approved substitution on the form. After completion the department chairperson or program director submits the form to the Office of the Registrar for processing.

Schedule Revision—Drop/Add

^ TOP

Beginning with the first week of the semester, students who have obtained Student Billing Office clearance may revise their schedules without academic penalty until the end of the Drop/Add period. The Drop/Add period takes place during the first 10 days of classes each semester in accordance with the Academic Calendar.

Withdrawal from a Course

^ TOP

A student may withdraw from a course with a "W" (Withdrawal) grade from the last day of the Drop/Add period through the last day of the seventh week of the semester. The withdrawal form must be signed by the course instructor and the student's advisor and submitted to the Office of the Registrar prior to the deadline.

After the end of the seventh week, a "W" grade is possible only under unusual circumstances such as an accident or severe illness, which must be documented. Permission for an exceptional withdrawal must be given by the instructor and the Dean/Assistant Dean of the college or the Dean of Students.

A student who wishes to withdraw from all classes must initiate an official Withdrawal or Leave of Absence from the University as outlined in this catalog. If a student withdraws from all classes and does not officially withdraw from the University or take a leave of absence, he/she may be administratively withdrawn from the University or dismissed in accordance with Academic Review policies.

Leave of Absence

^ TOP

There are two types of Leave of Absence, medical and general.

Medical Leave of Absence

A Medical Leave of Absence is granted to students who wish to apply for a leave due to a medical condition. A Medical Leave must be approved by the Dean of Students. An approved Medical Leave of Absence indicates that a student may return to classes at the end of his/her leave once appropriate medical documentation has been received and verified by the Dean of Students.

General Leave of Absence

A General Leave of Absence is granted to students who wish to take time away from school for personal reasons of a non-medical nature.

For both leaves the date effective is the date of separation from the University that will be noted on the transcript.

Date Effective is determined by the Dean of Students for all Medical Leaves of Absence, and by the date that the Request for Leave of Absence Form is issued, as indicated by the Office of the Registrar.

The effective date for the Leave of Absence is the date the form is obtained from the Office of the Registrar. The Dean of Students may override this date based on medical conditions for a medical leave of absence, when deemed appropriate.

A student may request either type of Leave of Absence by obtaining a Leave of Absence Form, available in the Office of the Registrar. Only students in good academic standing may request a Leave of Absence. Undergraduate students who maintain a minimum 2.0 cumulative and semester grade-point average (GPA) are considered to be in good standing. A Leave may be granted for one or two semesters, with approval granted by the Dean of the appropriate college, for a general leave, and by the Dean of Students for a Medical Leave. If a student plans to be away for more than two semesters a Leave cannot be granted and the student must withdraw and then apply for readmission at the time they wish to return.

A Leave of Absence for a semester already in progress will not be granted after the seventh week of the semester. If a student wishes to leave prior to the end of the seventh week and the request is approved, he/she may withdraw from the current semester courses, with the leave taking effect in the current and subsequent semester. In this instance, the student will be subject to the grading, withdrawal periods, and withdrawal refund policies listed elsewhere in this catalog. If a student wishes to depart after the seventh week of the semester, he/she must withdraw from the University.

A student may return before the expiration of the Leave by indicating his/her intention to do so in writing to the Office of the Registrar.

If the student does not register for the term following the Leave's expiration, but wishes to resume his/her studies at a later date, the student must apply for readmission following the reapplication guidelines in this catalog.

If a student is granted a Leave of Absence for a future semester, but is subsequently placed on probation for the current semester, the Leave of Absence will be converted to a withdrawal. Notification of a conversion to "withdrawn" status will be provided in writing by the Office of the Registrar. Students who are converted to a "withdrawn" status must apply for readmission through the Office of the Registrar in accordance with the policies described in this catalog.

The following is required to obtain a Leave of Absence:

1. The student obtains a Request for Leave of Absence Form from the Office of the Registrar.
2. The student obtains approval from his/her department chair/director.
3. The Student submits the form to the college dean to request a General Leave of Absence and to the Dean of Students for a Medical Leave of Absence for approval.
4. After the Leave of Absence approvals are obtained, the student submits the completed form to the Office of the Registrar for processing and coding. A copy of the form will then be distributed to the student and the Deans.

Graduate Leave of Absence

^ TOP

A graduate student may take a Leave of Absence prior to the completion of all coursework, subject to approval by his/her program director, and in accordance with the policy described above. Graduate students may take a maximum of two one-semester Leaves of Absence throughout their course of study, whether in sequence or as needed. Once the thesis or Master of Music graduate project has begun and all coursework has been completed, graduate students are not eligible for a Leave of Absence. Students must register and pay for the thesis continuation fee for successive semesters and are not eligible for a Leave of Absence.

Withdrawal from the University

^ TOP

A student may withdraw from the University by initiating an official Withdrawal process with the Office of the Registrar. Students who withdraw prior to the beginning of the fall, spring or summer semesters, or prior to the end of the Drop/Add period, do so without academic penalty.

Official Withdrawals after the Drop/Add period, but prior to the end of the seventh week of the respective fall or spring semester or second week of the respective summer session, will result in the notation of the grade “W” (Withdrawal) for all courses.

Students are not permitted to withdraw without academic penalty from the University after the end of the seventh week of a fall or spring semester or second week of a summer session, except when non-academic extenuating circumstances exist, in which case documentation (by a physician or a counseling professional) must be presented and approval of the appropriate Dean must be obtained.

Students who have withdrawn and who wish to resume their studies at a later date must submit a Reapplication Form to the Office of the Registrar, in accordance with application deadlines, and pay the readmission fee.

The following procedure should be followed to obtain official Withdrawal from the University:

1. The student obtains a Withdrawal from the University Form from the Office of the Registrar.
2. If the student does so in person, the Office of the Registrar will advise the student to visit the Dean of Students.

If the student withdrawing from the University is not physically on campus, the Office of the Registrar will accept a letter signed by the student or an email from the student’s UArts email account. After processing the withdrawal, appropriate departments will be notified.

Non-attendance in classes or non-payment of tuition does not constitute grounds for withdrawal. The University does not recognize non-attendance in classes or non-payment of tuition as the equivalent of withdrawal. If the student has not officially withdrawn, and does not attend classes, he/she will be administratively withdrawn prior to the next semester.

Readmission

^ TOP

Written appeal for reinstatement as a degree candidate requires submission of a completed Reapplication form (see above), available in the Office of the Registrar, and a payment of a $50.00 reapplication fee by June 1 for the fall semester and November 1 for the spring semester. Appropriate deans, departmental chairpersons/directors, and the Student Billing Office must endorse the readmission prior to registration. The major department reserves the right to require transcripts, letters of recommendation, an additional portfolio review, or audition. Credit for courses taken seven or more years prior to the date of readmission will be re-evaluated in conjunction with degree programs currently offered. Academic units may choose not to accept courses regardless of when they were completed for credit toward the degree. Final determination on the reapplication will be made by the dean of the college. A decision on readmission applies only to the semester listed on the reapplication. If the student is accepted and does not return for that semester, the student must reapply.

In the event of dismissal, an application for readmission will not be entertained until a full academic year has elapsed. Readmitted students will carry the cumulative GPA that was in place at the completion of the last semester attended at UArts. Please also note that previous censure from the Academic Review Committee will apply to all readmitted students.

Student Judicial System

^ TOP

The principal responsibility for proper conduct rests with each student, and as much as possible, each is encouraged to resolve conflicts of individual rights and responsibilities him/herself. The University will become involved, however, when a student cannot resolve a conflict him/herself; when there exists a reasonable basis to believe that laws have been broken; when there could be or is a potential for personal harm or property damage; or when there exists a reasonable basis to believe that University regulations have been violated. No sanction shall be brought against a student accused of a violation of the Student Code of Conduct until a judicial body has reviewed the complaint, made a decision and issued a disciplinary sanction, except in those matters handled directly by the dean of students or instances of academic dishonesty handled by faculty members in accordance with policies set forth in their syllabi and the Academic Dishonesty policy in the Course Catalog. Students wishing to appeal academic decisions made by faculty members should consult the Academic Grievance Procedure section of the Course Catalog for guidelines. Should a student's presence on campus create a threat to the safety or well being of other members of The University of the Arts community, the University reserves the right to immediately suspend that student from campus until the time of a hearing. Additionally, the University reserves the right to resolve a case and sanction a student, including suspension, without a hearing where such action is deemed necessary or appropriate by the President of the University.

Definitions

^ TOP

The following definitions refer to The University of the Arts judicial procedures and processes only:

1. The term "University" means The University of the Arts;
2. The term "student" includes both full-time and part-time, pursuing undergraduate or graduate studies. Persons who are not officially enrolled for a particular term but who have a continuing relationship with the University are considered "students";
3. The term "University official" includes any person employed by the University or an out-sourced auxiliary service who performs assigned administrative or professional responsibilities, including conducting classroom activities;
4. The term "Residential Life staff" includes resident assistants, area coordinators, and the director of residential life;
5. The term "member of the University community" includes any person who is a student, faculty member, University official or any other person employed by the University, including any University auxiliary service employee and vendors;
6. The term "University premises" includes all land, buildings, facilities, and other property in the possession of, owned, used, or controlled by the University;

7. The term “University organization” means any number of persons who have complied with the formal requirements for University recognition/registration;
8. The term “judicial body” means any person or persons authorized to determine whether a student has violated the Student Code of Conduct and to recommend imposition of sanctions; exercise disciplinary action following a proper hearing. The University will exercise this right in cases where its reputation or orderly functions as an academic community are involved.
9. The term “appellate body” means any person or persons authorized to consider the appeal of a judicial body’s determination that a student has violated the Student Code of Conduct or the sanctions imposed by the judicial body.
10. The term “University policy” is defined as the written regulations of the University as found in, but not limited to, the Student Handbook, and the Course Catalog;
11. The term “hearing officer” means the person present during judicial hearings responsible for ensuring that due process, as defined by the Student Handbook, is followed. The hearing officer in Campus Standards Committee hearings is the chair.
12. In all other hearings, one individual serves as both the hearing officer and the “judicial body.”

Jurisdiction of the University Judicial System

^ TOP

The University Judicial System will hear complaints concerning violations of University policy or regulations whenever the conduct in question occurs in any of the following circumstances:

1. If it occurs on the campus or in any University facility;
2. If it occurs while the student who is charged was attending or participating in any University-related activity, i.e., study abroad, field trip, social event, activity sponsored by a recognized student organization; or
3. If the conduct, whenever and wherever it occurs, calls into question the student’s suitability as a member of the University community. Unlawful acts of violence, violations of another’s civil rights, hazing, the unlawful sale or possession of drugs, the unlawful use of alcoholic beverages and crimes against persons or property are examples of conduct that will subject a student to the judicial system regardless of where the conduct occurs. In cases involving student behavioral problems that occur off campus, the University reserves the right to exercise disciplinary action following a proper hearing in cases where its reputation or orderly functioning are in question. The fact that a student’s conduct may also constitute a crime in violation of local, state, or federal law does not limit the ability of the University to discipline the student for that conduct. The University, therefore, reserves the right to submit a complaint to the judicial system even if the same conduct is or may become the subject of a criminal case.

Student Code of Conduct

^ TOP

Prohibited behavior at the University of the Arts includes, but is not limited to the following:

1. Academic dishonesty or misconduct including, but not limited to, cheating and plagiarism;
2. Non-academic dishonesty, including, but not limited to, theft, attempted theft, possession of stolen property, forgery, and falsification of information provided to any University official;
3. Conduct which threatens the physical or psychological health and/or safety of any person (including the person committing the act) or the sanctity of the campus, including, but not limited to physical or sexual assault;
4. Damage to public, private, personal or University property;
5. Violation of policies as described in the Student Handbook, the Course Catalog, the UArts Housing Contract and all other rules governing University facilities, programs and services;
6. Intentional obstruction or disruption of teaching, research, administration, disciplinary procedures, other University activities or activities authorized to take place on University property;
7. Disorderly conduct including acts which breach the peace;
8. Non-compliance with the directions of University or civil authorities performing official duties, including failure to give proper identification when requested and repeated unexcused non-attendance of classes;
9. Violation of a student’s rights or privileges and verbal or written harassment, discrimination, abuse and/or disrespect of any person; and

10. Violation of statutes, laws, ordinances and/or regulations of the City of Philadelphia, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (or other states, when applicable) and the United States of America.

Judicial Process

^ TOP

Any member of the University community may initiate the judicial process against any student for alleged violations of the Student Code of Conduct generally within two to three months of the alleged violation(s) by submitting a complaint in written form to the dean of students. Resident assistants and resident coordinators initiate charges in writing through their supervisor. Charges filed by all other members of the community must be prepared in writing and directed to the dean of students. Alleged violations of the Student Code of Conduct generally may be adjudicated by one of three types of judicial body on campus, depending upon the nature and seriousness of the charges (see below for levels of violations), the location of the event and/or the number of students involved:

1. Area coordinators for Residential Life generally address lower-level violations by residents living within their respective residence areas;
2. Professional staff members of the Division of Student Services generally address intermediate level violations and cases involving commuter students or multiple residents from different living areas;
3. The Campus Standards Committee, consisting of students and faculty, generally conducts hearings to address violations of the most serious nature that have the potential to result in University suspension or expulsion. The Committee is advised by the Dean of Students who serves as the chair.

There are two exceptions to the above-stated procedures. With respect to non-academic matters, exceptions to this policy may be made by the Dean of Students, at his or her discretion. With respect to academic dishonesty, faculty may choose to follow policies and procedures described in their course syllabi. Anyone with questions about the judicial process should contact the Dean of Students at 215 -717-6617 during regular business hours.

General Judicial Procedures

^ TOP

The University judicial process shall be conducted by a judicial body according to the following guidelines:

1. All charges of misconduct shall be presented to the accused student in written form generally between two and 15 business days after the student has been notified.
2. Hearings shall be conducted in private. Admission of any person to the hearing shall be at the discretion of the hearing officer;
3. The respondent and the complainant have the right to be accompanied throughout the hearing by advisors of their choice selected from among members of the University community. Only when the student is exposed to concurrent criminal charges or civil liability may a respondent have legal counsel as an advisor. An advisor, including legal counsel, may not speak on behalf of the respondent or address the judicial body. The names of the advisors must be provided to the hearing officer at least two working days prior to the hearing;
4. The respondent and the complainant may present as witnesses only those persons with first-hand knowledge of the alleged incident or violation or others having information which can otherwise be shown to be credible. The decision to hear testimony from witnesses having information other than first-hand shall be made by the judicial body;
5. In hearings involving more than one accused student, the hearing officer, at his/her discretion, may permit the hearings concerning each student to be conducted separately;
6. All procedural questions are subject to the final decision of the hearing officer. Technical rules of evidence and other "due process" rights associated with courts are not applicable to the University judicial process;
7. Pertinent records, exhibits, and written statements may be accepted as evidence for consideration by a judicial body at the discretion of the hearing officer. Assumptions, speculations, or references to prior, unreported incidents will not normally be permitted;
8. After the hearing, the judicial body shall determine (by majority vote in Campus Standards Committee hearings) whether the student has violated each section of the Student Code that the student is charged with violating. The judicial body's decision shall be made on the basis of whether it is more likely than not that the accused student violated the Student Code of Conduct (preponderance of evidence);
9. There shall be a written record of all hearings before a judicial body for use by the appellate body; a copy of this is not available to the accused or the complainant. The record shall cite the violation(s), the decision (responsible or not responsible), a brief statement of the facts upon which the finding is based, and the

- sanction(s). Generally, there shall be no audio/visual recordings of hearings other than those conducted by the Campus Standards Committee;
10. Failure to obey the summons of a hearing officer or failure to attend one's own hearing does not preclude the case from still being heard and a decision being rendered; and
 11. Decisions made by a judicial body shall be final, pending the normal appeal process. Following a hearing, the hearing officer shall advise the accused and the complainant in writing of the decision of the hearing and of the sanction(s) imposed, if any, within three business days whenever possible.

Campus Standards Committee Hearing Procedures ^{^ TOP}

1. The chair shall open the hearing by introducing all parties involved and the chair will read the complaint form;
2. The complainant shall present his/her opening statement, present his/her complaint, and call witnesses. The respondent may question the complainant and witnesses as they appear;
3. The complainant shall at all times have the burden of proof, upon preponderance of the evidence, that the respondent has violated the Student Code of Conduct;
4. The respondent shall present his/her opening statement, present his/her response and call witnesses. The complainant may question the respondent and witnesses as they appear;
5. Members of the Campus Standards Committee may ask questions of the complainant, respondent and all witnesses for the purpose of fact finding and clarification;
6. Campus Standards Committee members may call back witnesses from either side after all original testimony has been heard for the purpose of fact finding and clarification;
7. The complainant may present a closing statement;
8. The respondent may present a closing statement;
9. All parties except Campus Standards Committee members shall be excused from the hearing room while the Campus Standards Committee discusses the case to determine their decision and appropriate sanction(s). Their decision will be made at the time of the hearing unless unusual circumstances make deferment necessary; and a majority vote of Campus Standards Committee members present is sufficient to declare a decision and sanction(s).
10. The complainant and respondent will remain in the vicinity of the hearing during the committee's deliberation, unless excused by the committee;
11. The complainant and respondent shall be called back to the hearing room to be verbally informed of the decision and sanction(s), if rendered at the time of the hearing. Any sanctions imposed are effective immediately;
12. A transcript of the hearing is made by audio tape recording. Transcripts may not be shared with any persons not directly involved in the hearing;
13. In case of an appeal, a copy of the transcript is available to either party upon request at cost for the transcription service.

Sanctions ^{^ TOP}

The following sanctions, among others, may be imposed upon any student found to have violated the Student Code of Conduct:

1. Warning - A written notice to the student that he or she is violating or has violated the Student Code of Conduct;
2. Loss of Privileges - Denial or restriction of specified privileges or use of specified facilities for a designated period of time;
3. Fines;
4. Conflict Mediation;
5. Restitution - Compensation for loss, damage or injury through the payment of money or through appropriate work requirement related to the offense;
6. Referral to Support Services/Educational Programs;
7. Service-work assignments - Service to the University or other related discretionary assignments;

8. Probation - Defined as the middle status between good standing and suspension. Probation is for a designated period of time and includes the probability of more severe disciplinary sanctions if the student is found to be violating the Student Code of Conduct during the probationary period;
9. Mandated room reassignment - Behavior merits immediate relocation of the student to another campus residence;
10. Living/learning contract - Disciplinary letter placing the student on probation; this letter is signed by the student requiring him/her to satisfy certain sanctions within a period of time;
11. Failing assignment or course grade (in cases of academic dishonesty only). If the sanction is failure of the course, an "F" will be given and will appear on the transcript, the student will not be allowed to drop the course, even within the drop period. A reason for the "F" will not appear on the student's transcript, except in the case of suspension or expulsion due to academic dishonesty;
12. Persona non grata - Prohibition from a specific or all campus property and/or activities. Violation of a persona non-grata sanction may subject the violator to arrest for trespass;
13. Suspension - Removal from classes and other privileges or activities as a student for a designated period of time. Suspension from the university will result in automatic "w" grades in all classes in the semester of the suspension. A suspended individual must turn in campus photo identification, University keys and all other University property at the time the suspension goes into effect and are considered persona non-grata. Conditions for readmission may be specified;
14. Expulsion - Permanent removal from classes and other privileges or activities as a student. Expelled individuals must turn in campus card photo ID, University keys and all other University property at the time expulsion goes into effect

More than one of the above sanctions listed may be imposed for any single violation. Other than University expulsion, disciplinary sanctions shall not be made part of the student's academic transcript but shall become part of the student's permanent record. A student's record is, therefore, subject to review by those authorized to request it, such as transfer higher-education institutions and future employers and in other cases when the student initiates the disclosure.

The following sanctions, among others, may be imposed upon student groups or organizations:

1. "1" through "8" sanctions listed above;
2. Deactivation - Loss of privileges, including University recognition, for a specified period of time. When a student organization engages in some act of misconduct, the University may take action not only against the student(s) involved, but also against the organization itself.

Interim Sanctions

^ TOP

In certain circumstances, the Dean of Students (or his/her designee) may impose a University or residence-area suspension pending an assessment and/or a hearing before a judicial body. Interim suspension may be imposed to:

1. help ensure the safety and well-being of members of the University community or preservation of University property;
 2. help ensure the student's own physical or emotional safety and/or well-being;
 3. help prevent disruption or interference with the normal operations of the University.
- During interim suspension, students may be denied access to the residence area and/or to the campus (including classes) and/or all other University activities or privileges for which the student might otherwise be eligible, as the dean of students (or his/her designee) may determine to be appropriate.

In certain circumstances, the Dean of Students (or his/her designee) may impose an interim residence suspension, mandated room reassignment or other restrictions prior to a hearing before a judicial body. Whenever interim sanctions are imposed, a hearing convenes at the earliest possible time. The interim sanction(s) may remain in effect until a final decision has been reached, including any appropriate appeals process.

Appeals

^ TOP

The accused student(s) or the complainant(s) may appeal a decision made by a judicial body. A request for an appeal must be submitted in writing to the Dean of Students (or his/her designee) within two business days of the decision. Generally, the Dean of Students will direct an appeal to the supervisor of the hearing officer, who will make a final decision in the case. The Dean of Students will generally hear appeals of residential suspensions; the President of the University (or his/her designee) will hear the appeal of University suspensions or expulsions. The written request for any appeal must be based upon one or more of the following reasons, which must be specifically specified in the appeal:

1. Violation of University judicial procedures;
2. Misinterpretation of the policies alleged to be violated;
3. New evidence not reasonably available at the time of the hearing;
4. Improper or excessive sanction(s);
5. Decision not supported by a preponderance of evidence.

Upon receipt of the appeal, the appellate body will do one of the following:

1. Accept to hear the case at his/her discretion;
2. Refuse to hear the case for lack of sufficient reason for appeal;
3. Request that another hearing be conducted;
4. Investigate and amend the decision and/or sanction.

Appeals of decisions made by the Campus Standards Committee are handled as follows:

1. The Dean of Students hears appeals of nonacademic decisions made by the Campus Standards Committee, except in cases where the Dean is the complainant or a witness in the matter. (In such instances, appeals will go to the President);
2. The Provost (or his/her designee) hears appeals of academic decisions made by the Campus Standards Committee.

In appeals by the accused involving claims of improper or excessive sanctions, decisions following appeal cannot result in more severe sanctions for the accused student. Review of the audio transcript or other supporting materials will be available to the appellate officer at his/her request. The decision and sanction(s) resulting from any appeal will be sent to the respondent, complainant, president of the University and/or persons and offices notified of the original sanction(s).

The University of the Arts reserves the right to change and/or add to the policies, procedures and programs described in the student handbook and will make reasonable efforts to inform students of such changes and/or additions as they become necessary.

Academic Dishonesty

^ TOP

The University of the Arts does not condone any form of academic dishonesty, including cheating on exams, plagiarism, or similar types of behavior. Lack of knowledge of citation procedures, for example, is an unacceptable explanation for plagiarism, as is having studied together for remarkably similar papers submitted by two students. Penalties for any form of academic dishonesty may include a reprimand, a failing grade or non-credit for a particular assignment, a failing grade in the course, disciplinary probation, suspension, dismissal, and/or expulsion.

If an instructor suspects a student of any form of plagiarism or academic dishonesty, the instructor may address the issue directly with the student. The instructor shall determine an appropriate course of action after meeting with the student and may impose penalties, which include repeating the project, resubmitting the paper, failing the project or paper, or failing the course. The department chair or director must be notified in writing when the student receives a failing grade in the course as a result of academic dishonesty on the student's part.

Both the instructor and the student have the right to forward the case, in the form of a written complaint, to the chair or director of the department. (If the instructor is also the chair or director of the department, the case goes directly to the Office of the Dean, and to the Provost if the instructor is one of the academic deans.) If the instructor considers the act of dishonesty serious enough to warrant a more serious penalty, he/she must forward the case to the next level, i.e., the department chair or director, or the Dean of the College or the Provost.

If the student or instructor chooses to appeal the decision made by the chair or director, the student or instructor may forward the case to the Dean of the College. A request for such an appeal must be submitted in writing. The Dean has the right to assemble a committee to address the case, or when suspension or expulsion may result, to forward the case to the Dean of Students.

If the student seeks a further appeal, the case may be brought to the Provost, who has the right to assemble a committee to review the case. Please note that the Provost's decision is the final and binding decision in such cases and no further appeal will be entertained.

Undergraduate Degree Requirements

Click on a link to be taken to the entry below.

- Liberal Arts \(42 credits\)
- Major \(varies by program\)
- Free Electives \(9 credits\)

Understanding the degree requirements is crucial to the smooth progression to graduation. Students, both new freshman and transfers, are encouraged to consult with their academic advisors regularly to ensure that they are making appropriate progress toward their degree and to consult their advisor and the Office of the Registrar for assistance and clarification of degree requirements. An overview of the degree requirements for the baccalaureate follows. Please refer to the section of the catalog that describes the major programs and to the Division of Liberal Arts section for specific course requirements. Students should also keep in close contact with their academic advisors regarding official departmental and major-specific requirements.

Most UArts undergraduate degrees require from 123 to 129 credits. A full-time student, however, may enroll for as many as 18 credits per semester, resulting in a possible 144 credits over four years. Students who are interested in additional electives, or who wish to fulfill a minor by taking additional electives, are strongly encouraged to consult with their advisor to develop an effective plan for completion of their degree requirements and fulfillment of their personal educational goals.

Liberal Arts (42 credits)

Art both shapes and is shaped by its society. It lasts; it holds the public mind and imagination, sometimes for generations. Thus, the University holds that student artists must be well educated in the Liberal Arts so that they better understand the world their art serves. UArts students will therefore spend a third of their coursework in Liberal Arts classes developing the skills and intellectual curiosity that will make them active, life-long learners.

Major (varies by program)

Major requirements have been carefully designed by the faculty to provide the student a professional education in his or her chosen field of study. Refer to the appropriate section of the catalog for specific major and departmental requirements.

Free Electives (9 credits)

Free electives play an important role in the University's mission of providing a dynamic milieu for creative exploration, innovation, and intellectual investigation, extending the practice and understanding of the arts and the arts professions. They give the student the opportunity to explore subjects beyond those offered or required by the major department and encourage educational autonomy on the student's part.

An elective is defined as any studio or liberal arts course that is neither a requirement for the student's major nor a requirement for the University's liberal arts core. Electives are courses that a student can choose freely without restriction. While advisors may make recommendations regarding electives, the final choice for elective courses must rest with the student. Obviously, prerequisites and corequisites apply to any course that a student may elect to take.

Every major undergraduate program at the University contains at least nine credits of free electives. Please refer to the program requirements for further information on specific department requirements; some programs have as many as 21 credits of electives built into the degree requirements.
